If a license that is allocated for an island community goes unissued for 3 consecutive years, the commissioner may reallocate that license to another community listed under this subsection.

The commissioner shall work with the municipal officers of the island communities listed under this subsection and with relevant local organizations within those communities to implement and administer this subsection, including verifying applicant residency, facilitating the allocation of licenses and identifying the need for additional licenses to be issued as incentives to attract year-round residents.

SUMMARY

This bill directs the Commissioner of Marine Resources to allocate one scallop dragging license each for certain island communities to be issued to an applicant who is a resident of each community. The bill prohibits a license issued to a resident of an island community from being transferred to a resident of a community other than the community to which the commissioner allocated the license. The bill also allows the commissioner to reallocate a license that goes unissued for 3 consecutive years to another island community and directs the commissioner to work with the municipal officers of the island communities and relevant organizations within the communities to implement and administer the provisions of the bill.
