regulated PFAS contaminants, measured in parts per trillion, that are in effect at the time the information is posted and update the information whenever a maximum contaminant level is changed.

3. Provision of information to owner of private drinking water well tested for PFAS contamination. If the department conducts or facilitates the testing of a private drinking water well for potential PFAS contamination, it shall provide to the owner of the well, by mail and, if possible, by e-mail, the following information at the time that it provides the owner with the results of that testing:

A. Information regarding the most stringent maximum contaminant levels adopted by a federal agency or the State for regulated PFAS contaminants, measured in parts per trillion, that are in effect at the time of the testing;

B. A comparison of the testing results to the most stringent maximum contaminant levels adopted by a federal agency or the State for regulated PFAS contaminants, measured in parts per trillion, that are in effect at the time of the testing; and

C. Information regarding resources available to owners of private drinking water wells affected by PFAS contamination, including information regarding available mitigation strategies for PFAS in private drinking water wells, information regarding entities that test for PFAS in private drinking water wells and information regarding financial assistance, if available, from state, federal and local governments and other sources to support testing and mitigation of PFAS in private drinking water wells.

4. Provision of information to other private drinking water well owners. If the department has not conducted or facilitated the testing of a private drinking water well for potential PFAS contamination, the department shall provide to the owner of the private drinking water well, by mail and, if possible, by e-mail, the information under subsection 3, paragraphs A and C if the department has knowledge that the well may be contaminated by PFAS or if the owner requests such information by telephone, in writing or by e-mail.'

Amend the bill by relettering or renumbering any nonconsecutive Part letter or section number to read consecutively.

SUMMARY

30 This amendment replaces the bill. The amendment requires the Department of 31 Environmental Protection to post on its publicly accessible website information regarding 32 the current most stringent maximum contaminant levels adopted by a federal agency or the 33 State for regulated PFAS contaminants, measured in parts per trillion. The amendment 34 also requires that, if the department conducts or facilitates the testing of a private drinking 35 water well for potential PFAS contamination, it must provide to the owner of the well, by 36 mail and, if possible, by e-mail, at the time that it provides the owner with the results of 37 that testing, information regarding maximum contaminant levels for regulated PFAS 38 contaminants, a comparison of the testing results to those levels and information regarding 39 resources available to owners of private drinking water wells affected by PFAS. The 40 department is directed to provide similar information to other owners of private drinking
