JOURNAL OF THE SENATE

In Senate Chamber
Thursday
February 15, 2024

Senate called to order by President Troy D. Jackson of Aroostook County.

Prayer by Reverend Amanda Gerken-Nelson of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church in Yarmouth.

REVEREND AMANDA GERKEN-NELSON: Good morning. Let us pray. Oh, holy mystery, throughout the ages you have provided leaders for your people; servants who offer their time and their gifts, their hearts and their minds to the betterment and safety of our communities. Bless those leaders who have this sense of calling in their lives and who are gathered here this morning. May the inspiration of your love and justice be the motivation of their actions and the spirit of their speeches. We remember the Wabanaki leaders and people on whose territory we now gather, and we offer our greeting and gratitude to the sacred creation on which we all reside. May peace be our purpose and may patience and forgiveness be our guides. In your holy name, we pray. Amen.

JOINT RESOLUTION

EXPRESSING THE SUPPORT OF THE MAINE LEGISLATURE FOR KEEPING MAIL PROCESSING AT THE EASTERN MAINE PROCESSING AND DISTRIBUTION FACILITY

WHEREAS, the United States Postal Service is an essential service to the American public; and

WHEREAS, the United States Postal Service's report dated January 30th, 2024 recommends consolidating outgoing mail processing at the Eastern Maine Processing and Distribution Facility with the Southern Maine Processing and Distribution Center; and

WHEREAS, the Delivering For America plan devised by United States Postmaster General Louis DeJoy has already caused delays in mail delivery, lower service standards, reductions in workforce and lowered confidence in the United States Postal Service in general; and

WHEREAS, Maine, being a predominantly rural state, is reliant on the United States Postal Service for prompt and efficient delivery of the mail; and

WHEREAS, Maine has unique geographical and environmental challenges affecting transportation; and

WHEREAS, the shifting of mail processing operations currently proposed by the United States Postal Service away from the Eastern Maine Processing and Distribution Facility may further delay delivery service to the people of Maine; and

WHEREAS, the United States Postal Service has failed to address how these proposed changes may affect staffing and service standards for post offices served by the Eastern Maine Processing and Distribution Facility; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED: That We, the Members of the One Hundred and Thirty-first Legislature now assembled in the Second Regular Session, on behalf of the people we represent, take this opportunity to express our support for keeping mail processing at the Eastern Maine Processing and Distribution Facility at its current status and express our belief that the proposed consolidation is not in the best interests of Maine people, that processing and transportation methods developed in other parts of the country are insufficient to address Maine's unique geography and climate and that the United States Postal Service should reverse its decision on consolidation of services at the Eastern Maine Processing and Distribution Facility; and be it further

RESOLVED: That suitable copies of this resolution, duly authenticated by the Secretary of State, be transmitted to Postmaster General Louis DeJoy, the Board of Governors of the United States Postal Service and all members of Maine's Congressional Delegation.

READ and ADOPTED.

The PRESIDENT: The Chair recognizes the Senator from Cumberland, Senator Duson.

Senator DUSON: Today's black history spotlight is on David Driskell. David Driskell was a renowned artist and creative, an art historian, a scholar, a teacher, and a mentor, and an unparalleled curator of black American art, whose relationship with Maine began with a summer residency at the Skowhegan School of Arts in 1953 - my year of birth. He fell in love with summers in Maine. He and his wife purchased a home in Falmouth in the early 60s. He returned to the Skowhegan School many summers, both as an artist, as an instructor, and he developed an incredible home studio in Falmouth where he created and collected art over decades. Some of Mr. Driskell's most iconic paintings were composed from the trees and the natural landscape surrounding his home in Falmouth. I first became aware of David Driskell nearly 50 years ago, in 1976, when the groundbreaking exhibit Two Centuries of Black American Art opened at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art. The exhibit both focused attention on African-American art and created a stir that was felt across the country, even at Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio, where I was finishing up my senior year. While I never saw that curated display, I later found a copy of the catalog and narrative about the exhibit written by Mr. Driskell. Show and tell. I've read through it countless times, and the catalog came along when I relocated to Maine in 1983. It was some years later that I learned of Mr. Driskell's connection to my adopted state. In the years since then, I regularly visited several of his pieces on display and for sale at Greenhut Galleries in Portland. I have a quote from Mr. Driskell. When the indomitable human spirit rises above the chaos of violence, hunger, and pain, and soars to a heightened relief through the making of art, we are classless and raceless so long as we create the spiritual vision. As an artist of African ancestry, I have had to learn to live with racism, sexism, and all of the prejudices. I often find refuge and indeed solace in the creative process, in the quiet of my small studio, nestled in the majestic pines and white birches in Maine. Two worlds merge in my art, one of sight, the other of vision. The beauty of nature and the creative world of the imaginations together express the joyous vision I have as an artist, responding to the spiritual urge within to fulfill my earthly task of making and creating my own beautiful world. David Driskell. These are the words of David Driskell quoted in the catalog for a recent exhibit of his art at the Portland Museum of Art. The exhibit, Icons of Nature and History, was created in consultation with Mr. Driskell, debuting in the High Museum in Atlanta in February of 2021 and on view at the PMA June 19th through September 12th in 1921. The exhibition included 60 selected works spanning Mr. Driskell's career from the 1950s through the 2010s. I visited with the Driskell works at PMA many, many times in the summer of 1921 -- excuse me, 2021 - that must've been my former life - and also brought home a copy of the exhibit catalog. I hope this spotlight will inspire your curiosity. Mr. Driskell, a part-time Mainer for over half a century, passed away in April of 2020, before the Icons exhibit was completed. He and his art live on in the hearts of many people whom he inspired. I do have the two catalogs from the exhibits, and I'll maybe drop them in the Senate President's office, where if you want to peruse and see some of the pieces that were featured, I'm happy to share it with you. So, thank you for listening, and thank you, Mr. President. Oh, I'm sorry. I did distribute to your desk an article - I think I selected the one -- I'm not sure which one I selected, but an article with great pictures from the -- about Mr. Driskell and his life. Thank you.
