LEGISLATIVE RESEARCH COMMITTEE HISTORY

A BRIEF HISTORICAL SKETCH of the
LEGISLATIVE RESEARCH COMMITTEE

The Legislative Research Committee is a bipartisan agency of the Maine State Legislature created by statute, with a membership from both branches. The Committee was established as a means of providing assistance to the Legislature so that it could more efficiently discharge its constitutional responsibilities as the law making branch of State Government.

The Legislative Research Committee was created by the Eighty-Ninth Legislature during the Special Session of October 21-24, 1940. The Bill creating the Committee (AN ACT to Create a Legislative Research Committee, S.P. 788, L.D. 1265), which followed up earlier efforts at legislation, was passed over Governor Barrows' veto on October 23, 1940, as P.L., 1939, c. 315 (R.S., 1944, c. 9, §§23-33).

The principal objection (Veto Message, L.R., Sp. Sess., 1940, pp. 194-195) was the belief that much of the activity of the Committee would duplicate the functions of the State Auditor whose staff and appropriation had been already enlarged as "a constant and complete safeguard against any reoccurrence of that which had been going on for the past ten years." The fact that the Committee was proposed as a means of "eliminating legislative congestion" was adjudged by the Governor to be "commendable," but that it was "wholly inconceivable . . . that any administrative (Executive, Legislative, or Judicial), such as this State would ever have . . . (would) lack either the machinery or the determination to meet the issue squarely and quickly."

The present law provides (R.S., 1964, T. 3, §§161-164), with respect to the activities of the Legislative Research Committee, that the Committee shall collect and provide impartial and accurate information concerning the legislative problems which come before it. The Committee has the authority to investigate and examine into the costs of State governmental activities, and may examine and inspect the records of any agency of the State of Maine. The Committee also has the authority to hold hearings, administer oaths, issue subpoenas, compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, papers and documents and take testimony.

As presently constituted, the Committee consists of 7 Senators and 10 Representatives, appointed by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House from the majority and minority parties in their separate branches approximately in proportion to their respective membership (P.L., 1965, c. 425, section 2-B). The President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives also serve the Committee in an ex officio capacity bringing the total membership to 19. The officers of the Committee, which are elected from its membership, include a Chairman and Vice Chairman who serve at the pleasure of the Committee.

By statute the Legislative Research Committee is required to make or cause to be made such studies and investigations as the Legislature directs. In addition, the Committee is empowered to and has liberally exercised its own initiative by undertaking studies of matters pertaining to important issues of public policy and questions of state-wide interest. The Committee's ultimate objective is to assist the Legislature by submitting factual information pertinent to the questions involved, along with such findings and recommendations for action or nonaction as the Committee deems desirable. Among various rules adopted for conduct of Committee affairs is a provision for regular meetings of the Committee on the third Wednesday of each calendar month unless otherwise ordered by the Chairman.

In addition to serving as a policy making body, the Legislative Research Committee also exercises general supervision over two permanent legislative offices:

The Office of Legislative Research, consisting of a Director, his Assistant and 4 Legislative Technicians.

The Office of Legislative Finance, consisting of the Legislative Finance Officer, his Assistant and 2 Secretaries.

The Office of Legislative Research was created in 1947 when the 93rd Legislature combined the then existing Office of Revisor of Statutes with the Legislative Research Committee.

The 3 main functions of the Office of Legislative Research are:

1. To assist the Legislative Research Committee in the various research projects which it undertakes, by providing staff assistance.
2. To continuously revise the Maine Statutes for the purpose of preparing a basis for bulk revisions of the statutes and to prepare and index for printing after adjournment of each session of the Legislature the session laws thereof.
3. To aid the members of the Legislature in the preparation of bills and resolves for introduction into the Legislature and to place such legislation in its final form.

The Office of Legislative Finance was created as an agency of the Legislative Research Committee in 1961 primarily to assist the Committee and the Legislature "in forming an independent judgment in the determination of any fiscal matters."

To this end, the Legislative Finance Office collects and makes factual information available concerning the fiscal affairs of the State for the use of members of the Legislature and the Committee. The Legislative Finance Office for the past several years has also provided staff assistance to the Governmental Operations Subcommittee and served as secretariat for various Joint Interim Committees created by the Legislature.

The work of the Committee is conducted by committees and subcommittees utilizing the staff assistance of both offices. Its studies, which incidentally have taken on greater significance in recent years, are indexed and in most instances are readily available through the facilities of the Law and Reference section of the Maine State Library.

Along with a number of major studies, the Committee has dealt with numerous State and local problems and subjects. Each of the studies undertaken by the Committee goes through a process of intensive research by the full Committee or a Subcommittee and the staff which in turn is augmented by public hearings, conferences and executive sessions held by the members of the Committee with the public, interested persons and officials of the various State and local agencies. Studies begun by the Committee, as a result of legislative assignment, are normally completed prior to the convening of the next regular session of the Legislature to which a report is made.

Since recent legislative sessions have become more and more involved in complex problems, the number of legislative assignments for consideration by the Committee has shown a marked increase due to the efforts of the Legislature to deal with the expansion of existing services and addition of new governmental programs. The number of studies which once were comparatively few in number has now developed into an impressive list of subjects, many of which would not be practical to report.
