REPORT.

To the Legislature of Maine:

In accordance with the provisions of law, I have the honor to submit the following report with lists of additions made to the Maine State Library during the year ending December 31, 1871:

The amount appropriated at the last session of the Legislature for the purchase of books and incidental expenses was ($1,000) one thousand dollars. This sum, with a balance of $82.85 retained from the funds of the previous year to meet such necessities as might arise before another appropriation should be made, with (40.52) forty dollars and fifty-two cents for waste paper collected and sold amounting in all to ($1,123.37) eleven hundred and twenty-three dollars and thirty-seven cents, constituted the entire resources of the library for the year.

The expenditure during the year has been ($1,005.73) ten hundred and five dollars seventy-three cents, leaving a balance on hand for such payments as should soon be made for books and incidental expenses of ($117.64) one hundred and seventeen dollars and sixty-four cents.

The library has been increased during the year by the purchase and addition of (458) four hundred and fifty-eight volumes, consisting of law books (77) seventy-seven volumes, miscellaneous books, (349) three hundred and forty-nine volumes and periodicals (32) thirty-two volumes. By donation (158) one hundred and fifty-eight volumes have been received and by exchange the increase has been (277) two hundred and seventy-seven volumes within the year, making an increase from all sources since the last report, of (893) eight hundred and ninety-three volumes.

The general plan of completing imperfect sets of books as far as consistent with a sound economy in expenditure, has been successful, and while existing deficiencies are in most cases quite difficult to fill, a steady progress in this direction has been made.

The exchanges have continued with the several States and institutions as heretofore, and their valuable publications have thus been added to our shelves without the necessity for purchase, and at the same time reliable information of the resources, condition, and progress of our State, has been rendered easy of access at the State libraries of many States and the Laws and Reports at these depositories in each State, and at many public libraries in different sections of our country. A general interest in a custom so long established and so especially useful, causes a very gratifying promptness and continued courtesies from the officers of the several States in carrying on the regular exchanges of the various public documents and reports for the year, as well as such special exchanges as are in progress to complete as far as may be the sets of State documents upon our shelves. The Librarian of the Dominion of Canada has manifested much interest in this matter and has forwarded with great liberality the valuable publications of the Dominion. The reservation and deposit of fifty copies of each official report printed by the State in pamphlet form by the Secretary of State in the State Library for purposes of exchange, would it is believed, secure in return many valuable reports and much statistical matter from other States as soon as issued, which may not otherwise be secured especially from the more distant States.

The losses during the year have been twelve volumes, which does not vary from the usual number, and in consideration of the large number of visitors and the use of the library as a public reading room, this may not seem unreasonably large.

A classification of pamphlets in progress at the close of the previous year has been this year completed, suitable indices prepared, and they have been bound in a serviceable manner and placed upon the shelves where they are now in permanent form and readily accessible. The special value of pamphlets, which in many cases contain important information and the general difficulty of preserving them, renders a particular attention necessary to a proper classification that they may be readily found and conveniently examined whenever it is desirable.

His Excellency the Governor, and his Council, who are trustees of the Library, have given such careful attention to its wants as indicates their full appreciation of its importance to the friends of learning, and its value as a depository of necessary information for the State.

The value of libraries is now so well known and so fully admitted, that no suggestions are necessary to secure an assent to their claims for maintenance or acknowledgement of their usefulness to society and to the State, and it seems only to remain necessary while private libraries are more generally confined to such books as are specially necessary for constant use, and the more complete treatises and ponderous works of reference are being collected in the public libraries, that such care and attention should be given to their growth, and such reasonable outlays made in their behalf, as shall secure the most complete selection possible of all standard works in the various departments of literature; at least, so far as the same are issued in our own language.

To an institution permanently established, and especially to a State library, such an appropriation as shall secure a completion of all imperfect sets, and at the same time permit the purchase of the standard works of the day as issued from the press, is true economy, as by delay the first use is lost, and at the same time from scarcity the books which are indispensable become very considerably increased in price.

A very tempting inducement presents itself to all purchasers of books in the very small prices at which the lighter kinds of literature are afforded, so that a large number of volumes of books not specially objectionable may be secured in bindings that will adorn the shelves of a library at the same rate of some single work of permanent value and less prepossessing exterior. If such considerations are allowed to govern in the selection of books, the results of the addition of a large number of volumes each year may often prove if not a positive injury, at least of very little value.

The amount of appropriation which is necessary and suitable to be expended for the State Library, will I doubt not, readily appear to you, and I am well assured that the consideration which this department has hitherto received from the Legislature of the State will be cheerfully continued, that at the capitol, always accessible to yourselves and your successors, the State Library may grow steadily upon a foundation which has been laid with no little care in such manner as will comport with the enterprise and learning of our State.

JOS. T. WOODWARD, State Librarian.
