STATE OF MAINE.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, }
Augusta, Dec. 31, 1881. }

To His Excellency HARRIS M. PLAISTED,

Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

SIR: I have the honor to herewith transmit my report as Adjutant General, Acting Quartermaster and Paymaster General, for the year ending December 31st, 1881.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

GEORGE L. BEAL,

Adjutant General.

REPORT.

The Enrolled Militia, consisting of all able-bodied male citizens between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, as returned by the clerks of the cities, towns and plantations, on the tenth of May last, numbers ninety-seven thousand three hundred and twenty (97,320), a gain of seventeen thousand, nine hundred and thirty-two (17,932) over the last enrollment, made in 1873.

No change has been made in the organization of the Volunteer Militia since my last annual report, and it consists of seventy-one officers and nine hundred and thirteen enlisted men, organized as follows: two regiments of eight companies each, and one company of infantry, and one battery of light artillery.

The organization of the Reserve Militia, with a few exceptions, is the same as at the date of my last report. A company has been organized at Harmony, and designated Co. "A," 2d Battalion, in place of "Coburn Guards," Skowhegan, disbanded. Five companies have been disbanded, upon their own request, as follows: Co. "B," 1st Regiment, Corinna; Co. "A," 2d Battalion, Skowhegan; Co. "B," 2d Battalion, Smithfield; Paris Veterans, and the Bryant's Pond Light Infantry. The Reserve Militia, as now organized, comprises fifty-eight officers and six hundred and six enlisted men, making the total force of organized militia one hundred and twenty-nine officers and fifteen hundred and nineteen enlisted men.

ENCAMPMENT.

The Volunteer Militia went into camp at Augusta, on the Capitol grounds and the adjoining field, for four days, commencing Tuesday, September 13th, under command of Major General Joshua L. Chamberlain, commanding First Division of Maine Militia.

The encampment was in most respects very successful, and it gives me much pleasure to bear testimony to the uniform good conduct of the troops while in camp, as well as in coming to and returning from the same. The weather was all that could be desired, and full time was devoted to battalion drill and inspections.

I would most respectfully recommend that future encampments be held five days instead of four; also the purchase of thirty wall tents, as the present number is insufficient for the accommodation of the troops, and necessitates the leasing of the above number of tents at a large expense each year. Floors should be provided for each tent, and bed-sacks of the army pattern, filled with straw.

General Chamberlain and Staff are to be congratulated for the very able and successful manner in which the encampment was conducted, and too much praise cannot be bestowed upon Col. John Marshall Brown of the First and Col. Daniel White of the Second Regiment, for their untiring exertions and hearty co-operation in making the encampment a success.

For the amount and kind of duty performed, and the condition of the troops while in camp, I most respectfully refer you to the report of General John J. Lynch, Inspector General, and also to that of Lieut. Medorem Crawford, Jr., 2d U. S. Artillery, who made an inspection at the request of the Major General commanding.

The following table shows, in detail, the attendance from each organization :

Organizations.	Present.	Absent.	Percentage Present.
Major General and Staff.....	8	1	87.50
First Regiment Infantry.....	363	124	74.54
Second Regiment Infantry.....	365	87	80.75

Total.....	824	247	76.94

VOLUNTEER MILITIA.

The past year has been one of much labor for the officers and men, and great credit is due them for the alacrity with which they have performed the duties required. The sacrifice of time and money required to properly learn and perform their duties is by no means inconsiderable, and the cost to each man is far greater than the amount they receive from the State, and the citizen soldier is entitled to the gratitude of his fellow citizens, even though he should never be called upon for active service.

There has been a marked improvement in the drill and discipline of the troops during the year, and if well treated and fostered by the State, will continue to improve, and cannot fail to place itself in the front ranks of the citizen soldiery of the country.

The Volunteer Militia is yearly becoming of material importance, and the improvement which is being made by the various states in this organization has caused the question of increasing the amount of money appropriated by Congress annually for distribution to the States, to be agitated.

The following memorial has been presented to Congress, and it is hoped it will receive favorable consideration.

ADDRESS TO CONGRESS.

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives :

The National Guard Association of the United States, composed of delegates from the active militia of the various States, respectfully represents :

That the existing militia law has for many years been inoperative, for the reason that changes of circumstance and condition since its original enactment in 1792 would make any attempt to enforce its provisions now both absurd and impracticable. The law requires military duty from every citizen between 18 and 45 years of age, and requires each individual to provide himself with arms, ammunition and knapsack. If the law should be enforced, the armed militia force of the country would amount to nearly seven million men. In place of the militia required by this law, the States have fostered volunteer militia organizations, which have gradually increased, until now they constitute the only actual militia force. Several causes operate to hinder the efforts of the volunteer militia to perfect their organization, among which we would designate :

First—The fact that they are not recognized by Federal laws.

Second—That the annual appropriation of $200,000 for the militia, originally enacted in 1808, is entirely inadequate to properly equip the existing volunteer force.

Third—That, owing to the phraseology of the law, the purpose of the annual appropriation is limited to supplying arms and equipments, and that camp equipage, clothing, blankets and other articles absolutely needed by the militia cannot be procured by them, except in those States that make State appropriation to supply them.

We deem it unnecessary to present any argument as to the absolute necessity, under our form of government, of a well organized, well instructed militia thoroughly equipped and ready for instant use. Hitherto such militia has only existed through the necessities of some of the individual States, or the voluntary exertions of a few individuals. We believe that the militia law requires thorough revision to adapt it to the militia organizations that time has demonstrated to be the only practicable ones.

We are opposed to any change in the relations between the Federal Government and the militia that have now become well established by long custom. We are opposed to any change in the relative authority now exercised by the Federal and State Governments over the militia, and we are opposed to any interference in the existing militia organizations of the States or the creation of a new force. But we do most earnestly recommend and urge that the law should be adapted to the changes that have occurred in the organization of the militia, and make a necessary provision for them.

We therefore recommend and ask that the existing militia law be amended as follows:

1st. To divide the enrolled militia into two classes, the active and inactive.

2d. To recognize the volunteer militia organizations of the respective States as the "active militia."

3d. To increase the annual appropriation for the militia to $1,000,000.

4th. To provide that the annual appropriation be applied to furnishing clothing and camp equipage as well as arms and equipments, or, when desired by any State, may be applied to the payments of its militia for duty in annual camp of instruction.

SEMI-MONTHLY DRILLS.

Under the provisions of General Orders No. 3 and 10 current series, semi-monthly drills have been held by each company of the Volunteer Militia, and reports forwarded to this office, commencing with the month of April. The following is the percentage of attendance :

First Regiment Infantry.....	56.53
Second Regiment Infantry.....	60.76
Frontier Guards, Eastport.....	67.57
First Maine Battery	71.61

RIFLE PRACTICE.

Two thousand rounds of ball cartridges have been issued to each company during the year, and have been very judiciously expended under the direction of Colonel E. C. Farrington, Inspector of Rifle Practice.

By your direction liberal prizes were offered in May last, and were contested for at the annual encampment, stimulating the men to greater efforts than heretofore to perfect themselves in this important portion of a soldier's duty, and at the close of the season great improvement was shown over last year.

For the number of marksmen qualifying, and the result of the year's practice, your attention is called to the report of Colonel Farrington.

RESERVE MILITIA.

No duty, excepting Company drills, has been performed by this organization during the year. I think it would be well to use a small part of the militia fund towards paying the expenses of an annual encampment, and of an inspection by the Inspector General. Such encouragement by the State would improve the organization in many respects.

EXPENSES OF THE MILITIA.

The following is believed to be a full and correct statement of the expenses of the Militia for 1881 :

For rent of armories (including an item of $250 for rent of armory at Belfast for 2½ years prior to 1881.).....	$1,940 00
For expenses of inspections.....	391 42

For salaries of Ass't Adj't Gen'l and regimental adjutants, stationery, printing and postage, at Division and Regimental headquarters.....	$327 23
For ammunition for Battery.....	131 25
For Military Store-house on Capitol grounds....	321 85
For pay rolls of troops and allowance for horses.	5,953 95
For transportation of troops.....	1,374 65
For transportation of arms, equipments, camp equipage, &c., (including freight and trucking paid by company commanders).....	555 76
For Quartermaster General's department, uniforms, flags, drums, tactics, camp-equipage, labor on State lot, &c.....	1,564 42
For repairs on State military property at Arsenal, and painting of battery, wagons and caissons in possession of battery.....	273 17
For expenses of elections of officers.....	161 65
For rations for troops.....	1,004 22

For marksmen's badges.....	330 00
For miscellaneous expenses.....	710 64
Total	$15,896 78

WAR RECORDS.

Your attention is called to the condition of the valuable war records on file in this office. The importance of their preservation cannot be overestimated, as they furnish information which our ex-soldiers having claims against the Government cannot obtain elsewhere. Although carefully handled, many of these records, especially the muster-out rolls, which are in constant use for reference, have become badly worn and faded, in fact, so much so that some names and dates are illegible.

These records should be carefully copied into books, and the originals placed in fire-proof vaults for safe keeping, as loss by fire or otherwise would be a great and irreparable calamity, and in justice to the good name of our State and in behalf of her brave soldiers and their widows and orphans they should be carefully preserved. For if the soldiers of Maine could spend years of hardships in camp, prison and on the battlefield to make these records, surely the State can well afford the expense of keeping them written down and preserved.

CONCLUSION.

I think it is safe to say that the Militia of Maine was never in better condition than at the present time, and I cannot close this report without speaking of the pleasure I have derived, and the encouragement I have received from the members of the militia with whom I have come in contact; and for the improvement that has been made they are entitled to great credit, as the same is largely due to their hearty co-operation.

I take pleasure in acknowledging the very able services of Lieut. Colonel Henry M. Sprague, who has with fidelity and intelligence performed the clerical duties of this office. For the extra hours of work done, and the faithful performance of all duties, he merits the highest praise.

I should do great injustice to my own feelings were I not to express to you my thanks for the interest you have manifested in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the militia. Your past experience and good judgment in military matters have been of great service to this department.

QUARTERMASTER GENERAL'S REPORT.

A store-house has been erected upon the Capitol grounds 20 x 70 feet, at an expense of $321.85, to be used for the storage of camp and garrison equipage, and all other military property requiring frequent use. It was thought such a building would be of great convenience, in keeping safely the large amount of material required for the annual encampments, and save a large sum in transportation, which in a short time would pay the cost of the building.

From the exchange of worthless material condemned in 1880, I have been enabled to secure for the use of the troops, while in camp, three hundred and eighty-two new military overcoats.

To fully supply the wants of the Volunteer Militia, and complete their outfit, would require knapsacks, blouses, blankets and four hundred more overcoats.

MILITARY PROPERTY.

The following tables show the amount of military property in the hands of municipal officers and individuals; also the amount in possession of the militia, in the arsenal at Bangor, and at this office :

PAYMASTER GENERAL'S REPORT.

No money has been received or paid out by me, as Acting Paymaster General, for the present year.

GEORGE L. BEAL,
Acting Paymaster General.

INSPECTOR GENERAL'S REPORT.

PORTLAND, December 1, 1881.

Brig. Gen. GEORGE L. BEAL,
Adjutant General of Maine:

SIR: I have the honor to report the result of my armory and encampment inspections for this year.

In compliance with sec. 1, G. O. No. 6, dated Adjutant General's Office, Augusta, April 22, 1881, I visited the armories of the volunteer companies and the two platoons of battery. I was much gratified with the manner in which I was received. The officers and men were very courteous, and showed a strong disposition to make my visits agreeable and the ceremonies a success. Except in a few instances, the commands were in very good condition; but the difference in drill between the best and the poorest company was too apparent.

One reason I would give for the low standing of a few of the companies is that the officers having poor taste for military matters and little or no training, do not possess the faculty of properly interpreting the tactics. Another is the impossibility, or rather the unwillingness of old army men to drop Hardee and Casey. I must confess that the poorest companies in inspection and drill were those commanded by officers who served in the late war.

To have good companies there must be experienced officers, and to ascertain the qualities of the latter, I would urge the necessity of the candidates appearing before the board of examination.

The inspection ceremonies were quite well performed, but many of the details, the proper observance of which shows the good soldier, were overlooked. Bringing the piece to the position of inspection was variously done. This is a very pretty movement when correctly executed, but needs considerable practice. Some of the pieces were carried at half-cock, and some at the safety notch. The latter was introduced since the adoption of Upton's tactics, which prescribes the carrying of the piece at half-cock. In order to bring about uniformity on this point, I would respectfully suggest that General Orders No. 49, issued May 21, 1881, by General Sherman, be brought to the notice of the troops. This order makes a change in paragraphs 72 and 113 of Upton's infantry tactics.

With few exceptions, the arms and equipments were well taken care of. As the troops indulge extensively in rifle practice, the pieces very frequently get out of order, and are left in this condition through negligence. To prevent the continuance of the same, the constant attention of commanding officers is called to this subject.

The uniforms are of good material and well made, but fitted many of the men poorly, consequently the latter presented a very unsoldierly appearance.

Too much attention cannot be bestowed by officers upon the appearance of the men under their control.

A few of the companies are in need of drill-halls large enough to drill the school of the company. Elaborate apartments cannot be expected, yet the rooms should be such as to afford protection to State property, and give ample opportunity to properly transact all military business. One company occupies the town-hall containing a double row of pillars, which render it totally unfit for military purposes. The drill halls of two other companies are so small, that the inspection ceremonies could with difficulty be conducted.

The books, as a rule, were neatly and correctly kept, a circumstance reflecting credit upon the commanding officers.

The selection of competent clerks is very essential to the welfare of the companies.

The conduct of the officers and men both in and out of ranks was admirable, though strict military courtesy was not in all cases observed. For instance, I could not fail to notice a total disregard, in a few companies, of paragraph 803 of the tactics, which relates to the duties of soldiers to an officer when he enters a room. Again, the salutes of officers were not always proper. Doubtless, such errors were due more to carelessness than want of knowledge. A statement of the errors committed will be found in the detailed report of each company.

The two regiments of volunteer militia, the unattached company at Eastport, and the battery of light artillery, assembled for camp duty at Augusta, September 13, and remained four days, under command of Major Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain. The grounds in front of the Capitol were selected for the camp, and were well adapted for the purpose. Quarters were established and tents pitched the 12th by squads picked from the several companies, so that everything was in readiness when the troops arrived on the ground. The sinks were placed at a convenient distance, water was abundant, rations were well supplied, and the weather, except the last day, which was somewhat unpleasant, was all that could be desired.

No time was lost in assembling for duty. The two regiments, the Frontier Guards attached to the second, appeared on their parade grounds. Officers and men were in good spirits, and evidently anxious to make the few days in camp profitable. The guns of the battery were soon in position, and work commenced in earnest. The duties performed the first day were almost equal to those of each succeeding day.

Regimental formations for guard were very creditable. Guard mounting was well performed, particularly in the first regiment, whose adjutant and sergeant-major, previous to encampment, visited each company and instructed the officers and men in this ceremony. Hence the first regiment guard mountings were very smooth and free from mistakes. The Adjutant of the second regiment received his appointment but a short time before going into camp, and of course was not expected to be familiar with all the details. However, before the close, he proved himself a very efficient officer. The sentinels seemed well instructed and zealous in the discharge of their duties. There were no brigade guard-mounts.

Battalion drills were ordered every day. Taking into consideration the fact that the first regiment was three years without drill, and the second never assembled before as a body, the evolutions were worthy of a high degree of praise. Brigade drills were not indulged in, even as an experiment. A great deal of the time which should have been devoted to drill was consumed in rifle practice. The importance of the latter commands recognition, but it should not be allowed to encroach upon other necessary exercises. At the next encampment a day should be set apart wholly for rifle practice, and the troops should be in camp at least a week. The drill of the battery was very good, considering the horses were green and unaccustomed to such training. The material of the battery is all that could be desired, the men being well instructed and willing to perform their duties.

I accompanied Lieutenant M. Crawford, 2d U. S. Artillery, during the inspection. The latter was very unsatisfactory, in consequence of the little time allowed. However, I noticed an improvement on the armory inspections. The officers were better informed and the men more careful and steady. The arms and equipments were in good condition; the clothing was neat, and the display of watch chains and trinkets not so extensive. The camps were neatly kept, and the police of the streets, on the whole, was good. The State should furnish army pattern bedsacks. I would recommend the cutting down of the two trees which stand in the middle of the parade ground and interfere with battalion drills.

The dress parades every evening were very creditably performed. Lines were quickly formed, ranks were full and steady, and the movements of the pieces uniform. There was no looking about, no apparent neglect of duty.

The reviews by Major General Chamberlain and His Excellency, the Governor and Commander-in-Chief, were of the highest order of merit. Steadiness characterized the officers and men during the passage around the brigade, while in the march in review, distances were well kept, alignments and steps excellent, and officers observed the strictest military rules when looking towards the reviewing officer and saluting.

I respectfully refer you to the report of Lieut. Crawford, and heartily endorse all recommendations therein contained.

Previous to this year very little assistance was given to the militia by the State, and the wonder is that the several organizations were so well held together. Were it not for the natural pride and military ardor of the officers and men, and their willingness to live upon hope, we would to-day have a very inferior body of troops, or none at all. The recent appropriation, small though it be, for military purposes, and the activity and interest of the heads of the various departments, quickly raised the expectations and confidence of all concerned. As a result, our force, though small, is very efficient, and the material equal to that of any other State. Strict attention to every detail, a more thorough study of the tactics and an endeavor to make practical the information gained, are the necessary requirements of every officer.

Respectfully,

J. J. LYNCH,
Inspector General.

Report of Inspection of the Volunteer Militia, made under General Orders No. 6, A. G. O., dated April 22, 1881.

INSPECTOR GENERAL'S REPORT.

INSPECTOR GENERAL'S DETAILED REMARKS.

Co. "A," FIRST REGIMENT, (Portland Light Infantry.)

Inspected June 2, 1881. Inspector received on time. First Sergeant called roll without piece, the Company with bayonets fixed. Steadiness of men excellent. One man without gloves. Pieces, clothing and equipments in good condition. Butts of pieces protruded. Sizing poor. Set-up good. In opening ranks, men did not turn head and eyes to right, and the Lieutenants placed themselves too far from the right and left of the front rank. Officers did not address each other by military titles. Discipline good. Salutes fair, and generally recognized. Time in manual poor and men unsteady. At fix and unfix bayonets, men looked towards scabbards. Carry arms in three motions from order. Position of pieces not vertical in many of the movements. Shoulders drooped at support. Loading and firing poor. "Backward in line, march." "Right by flank, march." "Company right wheel, march." During the obliques the fours did not preserve their parallelism. Officers halted before turning. Guides stepped backward during the wheel. Right by twos, march—rear rank did not close to facing distance at first command. Forming single rank from double, company marked time. Guide too far from head of column. "Aim," rear rank did not move feet. "Right forward fours right, march," the right guide placed himself in front of the left file of the right four at the first command. Company slow to dress. In fixing and unfixing bayonets from carry, pieces were carried to left side with right hand. "Charge bayonets," executed by company in two motions. "Right forward fours right, march," right four did not shorten step. "Forward" after wheeling by fours. At parade rest, bodies turned partly around. "Halt," without preparatory command. Side step at right shoulder. Line poorly formed from column.

This company has a pleasantly located armory, fitted up in neat style, and well arranged for the security of property. The conduct of the men was admirable, both in and out of ranks, showing perfect discipline, while their steadiness during the long and trying inspection of fifty minutes, was not excelled by that of any company in the State. Not a man was observed to move. The company should spend more time at drill. The books are neatly kept. Time occupied in inspection and drill, two hours and twenty minutes.

Co. "B," FIRST REGIMENT, (Portland Mechanic Blues)

Inspected June 1, 1881. Inspector received on time. Sergeant called roll without piece, and out of place; reported poorly to Captain. Company poorly sized. A few men failed to come to order after roll-call. Coats unbuttoned. Men turned partly around and dropped heads at fix and unfix bayonets. Butts not on a line. Back of hands to front. Some men without collars. Shoes unclean. Talking in ranks, and leaving without permission. Men unsteady. Lieutenant wore hat on side of head. Watch chains exposed on clothing. Set-up poor. Books not sufficiently neat. Condition of armory, excellent. "Side step" in double time; men stepped off before the command "march." Extra step in halt. Guides, acting as pivots, backed into line on the wheel. Obliquing poor, and men lost distance. After halting at an oblique, a few men did not face to front. "Back step" executed in common time. "Halt," without preparatory command. One command given by an officer with sword in scabbard. "Left dress" given after "right dress," before the command "front." Salutes by Lieutenants, poor. Feet shuffled on floor. First Lieutenant held head down while marching. "Forward" given in wheeling by fours. "By the right flank, march;" command of execution given as left foot struck the floor. Very heavy stamp at mark time. "Column, forward." "On the right into line." Distances in column of twos, poor. "Column to the right." Line poorly formed from column. Pivots bad. At "company, halt," several partially halted at the preparatory command. Carry from an order in three motions. Present very heavy. At support, shoulders and left hands drooped. At trail, pieces almost parallel to floor. Stacks well made, but men did not take position of soldier. At "Take, arms," many pieces not brought to the order. No loading and firing, for want of practice. Manual poor.

The armory of this company is one of the finest in the State, and perhaps for neatness cannot be excelled. The drill hall is used in common with Co. "A," and is large and airy and well adapted to the execution of all movements. The books were not sufficiently neat, having the appearance of carelessness on the part of the clerk: the property is well cared for. The inspection and drill were not such as the time bestowed by the officers and men would warrant, many of the men being careless and slow to execute the commands, while the discipline of the company could have been better. I was pleased with the material composing this command, the officers being well instructed; but improvement can be brought about only by persistent labor. Time occupied in inspection and drill, two hours and twenty minutes.

Co. "C," FIRST REGIMENT, (Auburn Light Infantry.)

Inspected May 16, 1881. Inspector properly received, and on time. Roll-call correct. Men steady, but became uneasy before inspection closed. Men talked aloud with each other. Pieces properly brought to position of inspection. Company poorly sized. Set-up, good. Uniforms new and in good condition. Equipments well adjusted and clean. Rifles somewhat soiled. Salutes poor. At fix and unfix bayonets, men turned partly around, dropping the head. During inspection the Lieutenants took position of parade rest. Men fell out without permission. Discipline poor. Drill-hall too small. Armory could have been brighter. Books excellently kept. Manual fair. In the backward step, men held heads down; feet shuffled on floor. Side step executed in common time. "Mark time, march," from a halt. "Halt" without preparatory command. "Attention" without preparatory command. Pivots careless. In forming single from double rank, company marked time. Distances poor. In the side step, lines broke. Manual of non-commissioned officers fair. More attention should be given to individual drill.

This company is compelled to labor under the disadvantage of having a drill-hall too small for the execution of many movements. The formation and dismissal of the company was very good, with the exception, perhaps, of a little carelessness on the part of a few of the men. The officers and men were well instructed, evincing due appreciation of the duties to be performed. A few of the rifles were apparently neglected. The clothing was well fitting. I am sorry to state that the discipline of this company is somewhat lax. Men should not be allowed to leave the ranks without the permission of the commanding officer, and talking while on duty should never be tolerated. The books are excellently kept.

Time occupied in inspection and drill, two hours and thirty minutes.

Co. "D," FIRST REGIMENT, (Norway Light Infantry.)

Inspected May 27, 1881. Inspector received ten minutes after time. First Sergeant called the roll without piece. Hall too small for proper performance of inspection and drill. Company divided into platoons and each separately inspected. Bayonets not fixed till instructed by the Inspector. At fix and unfix bayonets, some pieces between the feet, and almost all too far in rear of left toe. Pieces fairly brought to position of inspection. "Rear open order, march," front rank men did not dress to the right. Rifles well kept. Clothing clean and well fitting. Equipments properly adjusted. Men unsteady and talked during inspection. Many without collars. Military courtesy poor. Books well kept. Company orders copied. All original orders carefully filed. No time kept in manual. Pieces at all possible inclinations. No loading and firing, because of no practice. Manual poor. "Attention" without preparatory command. "Backward, march," men stamped with left foot and held heads down. "Halt" without preparatory command. "Rear rank, close order, march;" "forward in line, guide right;" "backward in line, guide right," by Captain. Second Lieutenant's commands poor. No salutes by the commissioned officers. One Sergeant saluted Inspector with piece at an order; another by removing his cap with left hand while at a carry. No room to drill school of the company. Non-commissioned officers poorly drilled in manual.

This company, owing to the destruction of a portion of the drill hall, has no place in which to practice the school of the company; consequently upon this particular branch no opinion should be given. The manual was not what I would wish to have seen, and the non-commissioned officers need better instruction. There appeared in the movement of the men and in the commands of the officers, a too familiar acquaintance with tactics long since out of use. No tactics conflicting with Upton's should be taught. The clothing of this company is neat and clean, and the men seemingly pay considerable attention to personal appearance. The arms and equipments are in good condition, and the books properly kept. The armory is sufficiently safe for the storage of property. The men behaved well both in and out of ranks, but they should be instructed to pay strict attention while actually engaged in the performance of military duty.

Time occupied in inspection and drill, two hours and fifteen minutes.

Co. "E," FIRST REGIMENT, (Portland Montgomery Guards.)

Inspected June 3, 1881. Inspector received one-half hour after time. Roll properly called. Inspection ceremonies excellent. Men very steady. Set up and sizing good. Clothing well fitting. Arms and equipments in good condition. Two men without collars. Two men talked in ranks. Books very neat and properly kept. Discipline good. Feet shuffled in backward march. Distances in column of fours sometimes increased. "Mark time, march," from a halt. In wheeling, guides acted as pivots, and backed into line, the marching flank quickening the step. Halt too heavy. "To the rear, march," guide omitted. "Forward" after wheeling by fours. In forming line from column of fours, file closers passed around flanks of company. "Halt" without preparatory command. At the completion of the wheel, the line was broken into column of fours, before "forward march," was given. "Right wheel, march" from "backward march." Salutes very good. "Left oblique, march," while company was at right oblique. Too much distance in column of twos. Corporal saluted by touching his cap while at a carry. "Company, halt," one piece brought to carry before halting, and one man moved after completion of the movement. First Lieutenant held head down while passing around the flank. In reverse arms, three pieces raised too high. Men moved head at right shoulder. Manual good; loading and firing excellent.

The armory of this company is centrally located, and well arranged and adapted to the security of property. There are two rooms. One contains convenient closets in which the uniforms are stored. The other, which is devoted to meetings and company business, is tastily fitted up and carpeted. Over these rooms is the drill hall, large and well lighted. The books are excellently kept, and may be taken as models of neatness and clerkship. The arms and uniforms are in good condition.

The formation and dismissal of the company were excellent, the men being quick to execute commands. Time occupied in inspection and drill, two hours and thirty minutes.

Co. "F," FIRST REGIMENT, (Capital Guards.)

Inspected June 21, 1881. Inspector received on time. Ceremonies poorly performed. First Lieutenant in command. Men without collars. Set up good. Sizing poor. Men unsteady; looked around room, and talked with one another. Butts protruded. Backs of hands to front. Caps on side of head. Discipline fair. Armory neat; drill hall convenient and large. Arms and equipments in good condition. Clothing well cared for, but not close fitting. Books properly kept, except roll book, which is not complete. Salutes overlooked. The use of tobacco should not be allowed during drill. "Forward," after wheeling by fours. Backward march too slow, feet shuffled on floor. Fours left and right about, bad. Men stamped with left foot on the march. Column to line poor. Fours lost distance. Files not covered. Step slower than common time. First Sergeant took too much distance. "Right by twos, march," rear ranks did not close to facing distance at the first command. Forming column of fours from column of twos, the leading two of each four did not take short step. "Halt" without preparatory command. "Attention" without preparatory command. Side step in double time. Too much distance between front and rear rank. No loading and firing for want of practice. Some movements in the school of the company not practiced.

The material of this company is good, the men possessing a fine, soldierly appearance, but insufficiently instructed in inspection ceremonies and drill. The armory is one of the best in the State. The discipline shown during the inspection and drill was not what one would like to see. I would recommend for this company a closer adherence to Upton, and a more frequent practice of all the company movements. The property is well cared for. Time occupied in inspection and drill, two hours and fifteen minutes.

Co. "G," FIRST REGIMENT, (Biddeford Light Infantry.)

Inspected May 25, 1881. Inspector received thirty minutes after time. First Sergeant called roll without piece. Lieutenants during inspection remained facing to front. Bayonets unfixed during inspection. Clothing in good condition. Equipments clean. Pieces well cared for. Men unsteady. Each man, after being inspected, assumed whatever position he desired. Many without collars. Some with shoes muddy. Some without gloves. Set-up of men poor. Company improperly sized. Many of the men opened boxes with left hand. First Sergeant commanded, "Count fours, count." Discipline poor. Armory neat and clean, affording complete protection to property. Orders not copied; originals filed; records of business meetings kept in order book—otherwise, books well kept. "Right by twos, march," rear ranks did not close to facing distance at first command. Forming column of fours from column of twos, the leading two of each four did not take the short step. Lieutenants repeated commands of Captain. Manual of arms very bad. "Company, halt," pieces brought to carry before halting. Swords awkwardly carried by officers. Men held heads down on the march. Captain commanded "Mark time" from a halt. Extra step, on halting. Back step executed in common time, feet shuffled on floor, men turned heads to the right and left and broke the line. In wheeling, men turned heads towards the pivot, and the guide of the marching flank did not halt with the company three yards from the perpendicular, but continued his advance. "Right forward, fours right, march," right four did not shorten step. Pivots poor—marked time in changing direction of column on the march. On right or left front into line, the right or left dress was not given after the halt. Company stepped off with a stamp. "Close order, march," the Lieutenants faced about at the first command. Officers saluted with sword, the right hand a little above the belt in first motion. First Lieutenant's voice too loud for armory; that of the Second Lieutenant not sufficiently distinct. Side step executed in double time. In the wheelings by fours, the command "forward" was given on the completion of the movement. Men sometimes executed movements on the preparatory command. The command "Form fours, by the left oblique, march," was given. Distances poor. "Halt" without the preparatory command. "Attention, company," was given. "Forward in line, guide right, march," and "Backward into line, guide left, march." "Forward, march," given while the company was marching backward. "Form fours, right oblique, march," the right of the column being in front. Marching in column of fours, the command "form single rank, march" being given, all the ranks, except the front rank of the leading four, marked time. Manual of the non-commissioned officers very poor. In the different firings the guides remained on flanks and the Captain in front of company.

This company has one of the best armories in the State, fitted up in a neat and tasteful manner. For convenience it cannot be excelled. The property is well cared for, the condition of the clothing, pieces and equipments being satisfactory. The drill hall is large and affords ample opportunity for the execution of any movement laid down in the school of the company. I am very sorry to state, however, that this fact is not sufficiently recognized, inasmuch as the company is very deficient in drill. There is much to be learned. The formation and dismissal of the company were not strictly military, and the company showed a lack of discipline. The company's private records should not be entered in the orderly book; otherwise the books are neatly kept.

Time occupied in inspection and drill, two hours and fifteen minutes.

Co. "H," FIRST REGIMENT, (Richards Light Infantry.)

Inspected June 20, 1881. Inspector received ten minutes after time. Company fairly presented. Pieces poorly brought to position of inspection. Lieutenants took position of parade rest during inspection. Men well sized. Officers and men without collars. Captain and a few men wore caps on back of the head. Watch chains appeared on the clothing. Butts of pieces protruded. Salutes few and poor. Men talked in ranks. Armory neat and in good condition, but poorly lighted. Books well kept. Orders properly filed. Carry from order, in three motions. In the manual fingers open. Loading and firing poor, and Captain remained in front of his company. Pieces brought to position of ready at command "recover." At command "left oblique," rear rank did not raise pieces to vertical position. At fix and unfix bayonets, men looked towards scabbards. Men dropped heads towards chamber at first motion of load.

At charge bayonets, hands below the hips and points of the bayonets as high as the breast. Muzzles towards left shoulder at parade rest. "Attention" without preparatory command. Captain repeated "Company" in manual. In opening ranks, front rank men did not dress to the right. "Eyes to the right" was given "Close order, march," Lieutenants faced about at preparatory command. Captain dressed Company at support arms. Side step done in double time. Marching in column of fours in double rank, all the ranks except the front, while forming single rank, marked time. Men moved before command of execution. Feet shuffled on floor in the back step. In wheelings, head and eyes not turned towards marching flank. "Close singly up" was given. Distances poor. "File right" for "column right," was given. On the march hands swung. After completing "on right into line," company not dressed. Heads down on the march. Company stepped off with stamp. Forming line from column of fours towards side of file closers, the latter passed around flanks. "Form fours, right oblique" the right being in front. "Rear rank, backward guide right, march," given to open ranks. "To the rear, march," given as left foot struck the floor, and several faced to the left about.

This company has a suitable drill hall in which to practice the various movements in the school of the company. Everything presented a neat appearance, but the hall should be better lighted. Although many errors were noticed in the inspection and drill, still, the general bearing of the officers and men was good, and with a little trimming here and there, the company could be made one of the best in the State. The property is well protected and accounted for. The books are neatly and correctly kept. I was much pleased with the conduct of the men, both in and out of ranks. The company was well formed and dismissed. Time occupied in inspection and drill, two hours and forty-five minutes.

Co. "A," SECOND REGIMENT, (Crosby Guards.)

Inspected June 27, 1881. Inspector received fifteen minutes after time. Poor inspection. Pieces in fair condition. Equipments and clothing neat. Sizing fair. Men unsteady—looked about and talked. Without collars and gloves. Butts too far to front. Pillars in drill hall. Discipline fair. Books neatly kept. Manual very poor. Heads towards scabbards in fix and unfix bayonets. Some men no knowledge of manual. "Side step to left, in double time, march." "Forward, head of the column to the left, march." Distance bad. "Forward," after wheeling by fours. "Right forward, fours right, march," the guide placed himself in front of the left file before the command march. Heads down on the march. No correct time in the step. "Company, halt," pieces brought to carry before halting. In opening ranks, front rank men did not dress to right. "Form the double rank, march." Charge bayonets was done in two motions; Captain in front of company during the firing. "Fire kneeling down, kneel down." "Attention, company." "Forward, column to the left, march."

There is very good material in this company, if properly managed. One noticeable fault is a too close observance of old style tactics, in consequence of which the company did not do so well as commands instructed by officers who know nothing of Hardee. The arms and equipments are very well taken care of, and the clothing is neat and clean. Owing to the many pillars in the drill hall, which is also the town hall, several movements in the school of the company could not be attempted. The company, I was informed, drills out doors in good weather. I was pleased with the appearance of the books.

Time occupied in inspection and drill, two hours and thirty-five minutes.

Co. "B." SECOND REGIMENT, (Hersey Light Infantry.)

Inspected June 28, 1881. Inspection ceremonies poorly performed. Pieces improperly brought to position of inspection. Lieutenants took position of parade rest during inspection. Men appeared without gloves and collars; officers without collars. Sizing poor. Vests and watch chains protruded. Clothing poorly fitting. Butts too far to front; many turned in towards knee. Backs of hands to front. Men very steady. No moving or looking about. Second Lieutenant wore hat on side of head. Company needs much training in set-up drill, and Upton is recommended to the officers. Books properly kept. Drill hall too small. Armory neat. "Order arms," very heavy. "Attention," without preparatory command. "Fours right, march," men started off before command of execution. "Company, halt," men halted at preparatory command. Heads down while marching. "Halt," without preparatory command. Forming line from column of fours, the rear rank of each four closed up before the command march. First Lieutenant saluted with left hand while holding sword in the right. Line broke at side step. "Forward" given after wheeling by fours. Men swung hands on the march. Corporal saluted with left hand touching hat while carrying his piece. "Eyes right," given for "right dress." Non-commissioned officers badly drilled in manual, one not knowing how to perform the simplest movements. Many movements in school of the company omitted for want of training. The company is very poorly drilled, both in the manual and school of the company. Salutes few and improperly given. In all wheelings by fours the company halted on the completion of the movement, without the necessary command.

This company needs a larger drill hall. There is hardly space in the one now occupied to break from line to column and change direction of march. Its small size will not admit of single rank movements, and renders wheeling impossible. I was informed by the Captain that out door drill was much practiced, and that many movements were executed which could not be done in the hall. If the out door drill is not superior to that witnessed on the night of the inspection, the company is really in want of thorough training. The non-commissioned officers are not capable of taking command of squads. Their manual was bad, and on the whole showed poor knowledge of duties. Military courtesy was overlooked. The armory presented a neat appearance, and the property is well cared for. The books are correct. Some alterations should be made in the clothing of this company. Many uniforms are too large. The company is composed of good material, but its low standing in drill and military courtesy may be attributed to the officers, who are not sufficiently practical. The company behaved well.

Time occupied in inspection and drill, one hour and forty-five minutes.

Co. "C," SECOND REGIMENT, (Dexter Light Infantry.)

Inspected June 30, 1881. Inspector received on time. Ceremonies poorly performed. Men without collars and gloves. Watch chains on clothing. Men unsteady. Heads turned in counting fours, and bodies out of position. One man wore citizen's hat. Butts protruded. Discipline fair. Clothing in good condition. Arms and equipments clean. Armory neat. Drill hall large. Books not very neat. No short step by first four in "right forward fours right, march" Single rank distances for double. Fours from twos very poor. Heads down on the march. Talking in ranks. "Halt," without preparatory command. Manual bad. No salutes. "Attention" without preparatory command. Very few company movements practiced. No loading and firing. The inspection and drill of this company could have been better, but the condition in which the command was found, was due, I imagine, to the continued absence of the two senior officers. I am happy to state, however, that there was a disposition on the part of the men to improve.

This company has a fine drill hall, easy of access and affording ample opportunity for practice. The arms and equipments are well taken care of. The uniforms, though not very well fitting, appeared new and clean. The armory is properly arranged for the security of property. More attention should be given to the books.

Time occupied in inspection and drill, two hours and fifty minutes.

Co. "D," SECOND REGIMENT, (Tillson Light Infantry.)

Inspected July 5, 1881. Inspection ceremonies commenced twenty minutes after time. Well performed. Company properly sized. Set-up good. Men steady. Discipline good. A few men without collars and gloves. Drill hall of good size and neat. Books very well kept. "Halt" without preparatory command. "File left, march." No time in manual on march. Distances good. "Count off in fours." Hands closed and too stiff. Butts protruded. Feet shuffled on floor. Line from column poorly formed. "Forward" while company marched backward. Line broken in backward march. "Forward" after wheeling by fours. Lieutenant pushed man into position with sword. Carry in three motions from an order. Extra step in halt. Men stepped off before command march. Salutes incorrect. "Shoulder, arms." Many movements omitted because of no practice. In consequence of the short time during which the company was organized, much could not be expected, but I was much pleased with the inspection and drill. Of course many mistakes occurred, still, the condition of the company was admirable. It has a fine drill hall and well cared for armory. The arms and equipments are in excellent condition, and the uniforms well fitting, giving the men a neat appearance. The discipline was very good, and ranks were formed and broken with promptness. The books are neatly and systematically kept. Time occupied in inspection and drill, two hours and twenty-five minutes.

Co. "E," SECOND REGIMENT, (Skowhegan Light Infantry.)

Inspected July 1, 1881. Inspector received one-half hour after time. Ceremonies poorly performed. Pieces in good condition except two broken stocks. A few men without gloves, almost all without collars. Set-up poor. Sizing bad. Discipline fair. Backs of hands to front. Heels not together. Salutes not practiced. Drill hall large and convenient. Armory neat. Property well cared for. Books well kept except roll book. Men unsteady in manual, which was very poor. "Right backward, march." "Forward, file left, march." Heads down on the march. Hands swinging, with backs to front. Distances poor. "Halt" without preparatory command. Men stepped off from a halt before command march. "Right of the column to the left, march." In doing flank movements, company halted at command march, and then stepped off. Twos from fours and fours from twos poorly done. "By company left wheel, march." "Forward," after wheeling by fours. "Attention" without preparatory command. In counting off men moved bodies. Loading and firing and many company movements not practiced.

The town hall is used by this company as a drill hall. It is large and commodious. Over the hall is the armory, which is easy of access and well adapted for the security of property. The arms and equipments are in good condition. The clothing, though not perfect in fit, is well cared for. The books are well kept. One noticeable fault in the drill of this company was the introduction of tactics now obsolete. Hence many errors were committed. A more thorough discipline is needed in this organization. Time occupied in inspection and drill, two hours.

Co. "F," SECOND REGIMENT, (Douty Guards.)

Inspected June 29, 1881. Inspector received on time. Lieutenants took position of parade rest during inspection. A few men without collars. Caps on side of head. Watch chains appeared on clothing. Heads down. Men very steady. Sizing and set-up excellent. Discipline good. Books properly kept. Drill hall too small for large company. Mark time from a halt. "Rear rank, close up." "Forward," after wheeling by fours. Order very heavy. "Attention," without preparatory command. "Halt," without preparatory command. Feet shuffled on floor. Heads and eyes not turned towards marching flank in wheeling. "Company, halt," pieces brought to a carry before halting. Heads moved during manual. At fix and unfix bayonets, butts too far to rear, and men looked at scabbards. Did not take correct position of the soldier after stacking arms. Some men failed to turn heads at right and left dress. Stamped feet while marching.

This company is one of the best in the State. Although not long attached to the Volunteer Militia, it showed thorough training in drill, while its inspection was as good as one could desire. The drill hall is of fair size, but not sufficiently large for the execution of many movements, especially single rank. One could not but be pleased with the discipline of this command, both in and out of ranks. The books are neatly and correctly kept, showing much attention on the part of the clerk.

Time occupied in inspection and drill, two hours.

Co. "G," SECOND REGIMENT, (Jameson Guards.)

Inspected June 25, 1881. Inspector received fifteen minutes after time, and improperly. Roll poorly called and result reported to First Lieutenant, commanding, with company at order arms. Captain present as a spectator. Pieces poorly brought to position of inspection. Barrels unclean, bayonet shanks rusty and ramrods filthy. Clothing in good condition, but poorly fitting. Equipments clean. Men badly sized and unsteady. Hats on side of head, no gloves, and but few collars. Neckties of many colors. Backs of hands to front. Butts of pieces protruded. Shoes filthy. One man wore base-ball shoes. Lieutenant commanded "Open boxes," with sword in scabbard. Men opened boxes with left hands. Order book neat, but orders not properly endorsed. Drill book and roll book neat. Description book correct. In the manual, Lieutenant repeated "company." Time bad. Loading and firing fair. "Count fours," men changed position of bodies. "Trail, arms," pieces held almost parallel to floor. In the forward and backward march, feet shuffled on floor. Heads down. "Company, halt," pieces brought to carry before halting. Carry in three motions from order. Forming twos from fours, rear ranks did not close to facing distance. "Column left," pivot men marked time. Fours from twos, leading two marked time. Step slower than common time. Distances too great. Flank movements not practiced. Non-commissioned officers poorly drilled in manual. Salutes few and badly executed. Drill hall rather small. Armory dirty. Manual and school of the company poor. Military courtesy almost totally ignored. Discipline fair.

Three years ago, this company was considered the best drilled in the militia. Today its standing is one of the poorest, if not the lowest. This condition of things may be attributed to internal dissensions, which brought about a feeling of distrust among the men, thereby causing the best to withdraw. I was very much disappointed at the manner in which the men conducted themselves during the inspection and drill. There was very little of discipline and military courtesy. The fact that the Captain was present as a spectator, simply gave evidence that his interest in the company was not very strong. The only recommendation I can offer in behalf of this company is, that the State property is securely protected, and that the books are well kept. The armory did not present that neat appearance which is indicative of a well officered and thoroughly disciplined organization. There was general carelessness throughout. The drill hall is of fair size, but not so large as many movements in the school of the company demand. The non-commissioned officers need more training. On the whole, this company is in poor condition. Nothing but hard work can raise it to its former high standing. Upton should be more carefully studied.

Time occupied in inspection and drill, one hour and fifteen minutes

Co. "H," SECOND REGIMENT, (Waterville Light Infantry.)

Inspected July 2, 1881. Inspector received on time, but poorly. Sergeant called roll without piece. Pieces improperly brought to position of inspection. Lieutenants did not face company and take position of in place rest till requested by the Inspector. Set-up of men very poor. No attention given to sizing company. Pieces out of place at fix and unfix bayonets. Heads down. No collars. Hats on back of head. Men unsteady. Butts of pieces protruded. Hair of some of the men too long. One wore pair of base ball shoes covered with mud. In neatness and general bearing the officers excellent, but the men very unsoldierly. Drill hall too small. Armory neat. Books well kept, except descriptive book, which does not contain alphabetical list of men. Carry in three motions from an order. Manual bad. In the side step, the men stamped very heavily. In marching forward and backward, lines broke, and men stamped feet. "To the rear, march," given as the left foot struck the floor. In the wheelings, men did not turn heads towards marching flank. Manual on the march poor; no time kept, and pieces in various positions. "Company halt," pieces brought to a carry before halting. The Second Lieutenant, in saluting with the sword, raised right hand to the top of the head in first motion. "Halt," without preparatory command. Salutes by officers and men poor. "Attention," without preparatory command. "Eyes front!" by non-commissioned officer. "Company, fours right, march." In almost all the movements, the men changed positions before the command of execution. The manual of the non-commissioned officers very bad. Judging from the poor inspection and drill of this company, I am led to believe that little or no attention was given to the set-up drill and sizing. No improvement can be made unless particular attention is given to these two points, which constitute the foundation of a good military organization. The officers are soldierly in appearance, and well versed in military matters, but their attention, evidently, was not directed to the beginning. Some allowance must be made for the company on account of its being but recently organized, still, I would respectfully suggest to the commanding officer the necessity of a thorough set-up drill. The men are well disciplined, and their behavior during the inspection and drill was excellent. The men should be instructed to be more careful as to neatness in dress, and not to appear at an inspection in a manner that is not military.

The armory is neat and the property well cared for, but the drill hall is too small. The books are well kept, except the descriptive book, which should contain an alphabetical list of the men. Time occupied in inspection and drill, one hour and thirty-five minutes.

FRONTIER GUARDS—Eastport.

Inspected July 19, 1881. Inspector received on time. Roll called by First Sergeant without piece. Men unsteady. Spitting on floor. Result of roll-call not reported to commanding officer. Pieces poorly brought to position of inspection. Butts protruded. Backs of hands to front. Sizing good. One man without gloves. A few without collars. Set-up fair. Arms and equipments in good condition. Clothing neat and well fitting. Drill hall large. Armory neat. Discipline fair. Books correct, except First Sergeant's roll-book. Order very heavy. Side step with stamp. Distances poor. Manual poor. "Company, halt," pieces brought to carry before halting. "Company" repeated in manual. Some orders given with sword in scabbard. Pivots marked time in changing direction from a march. Men dressed after halting before the command. Heads down. Hands pressed tightly to side. "Halt" without preparatory command. "Attention" without preparatory command. "Guide" omitted in commands for flank movements. In opening ranks, front rank men did not dress to right. In counting fours, heads turned and shoulders out of position. No salutes. Feet shuffled on floor. Several movements not practiced.

This company is comparatively new, but composed of very good material, and labors hard to acquire a prominent position in the militia. There can be no doubt of its success. The town hall is used for drill purposes, the company's former quarters having been destroyed by fire. Fortunately very little State property was consumed. The arms and equipments are in good condition, and the clothing neat and well cared for. I would recommend for this company the large rifle in place of the cadet. The books are well kept.

Time occupied in inspection and drill, three hours and ten minutes.

FIRST PLATOON OF FIRST MAINE BATTERY, (Lewiston.)

Inspected May 6, 1881. The Infantry inspection was very poor. The Captain had no conception of the ceremony, and turned over the company to the Lieutenant, whose knowledge of the proceedings was little better. All the men appeared without gloves, and many without collars. The Lieutenant was unable to give successive orders, and, as a consequence, the men appeared at a disadvantage. They evidently need a better officer at their head. I was very well pleased with the appearance of the men, who would become good soldiers if properly trained. The clothing was in good condition. I was not favorably impressed with the soldierly appearance of either commissioned officer. The rifles are well kept, very few marks appearing on the stocks. Some of the barrels were rather rusty inside. The Captain acknowledged his ignorance of Infantry, and could not be induced to command the company. At my request the Lieutenant put the men through a few evolutions, but his orders were not given in a military style. The men appeared well, considering the slight instruction received in this branch. Many faults committed must be overlooked, owing to the fact that a double duty must be performed by the platoon. After the Infantry drill, the men, under command of the Captain, drilled at the gun. They acted with life and precision, and, as was expected, appeared at better advantage than in the infantry drill. There is good material in this platoon, and with proper training it could be made efficient.

The armory is situated in the city building. It consists of a room of fair size, which is also the drill hall, with two small ante-rooms, one used by the officers, and the other for the storage of uniforms and rifles. These articles are well protected and show unmistakable signs of care on the part of the officers and men. The drill hall is not sufficiently large for a thorough training in infantry and artillery, and this fact, together with the great height of the armory, renders necessary the keeping of much of the property in another building. There should be procured for this platoon a large drill hall, situated on the ground floor, and capable of affording accommodations suitable to its wants. The books present a neat appearance, but the company records should not be kept in the orderly book. I was exceedingly gratified at the soldierly bearing of the men. With proper training they could be made very efficient. The inspection and drill did not meet my anticipations. More attention should be given to the latter. Salutes were totally ignored, while the discipline, though fair, tended to prove that a few of the men failed to understand the true qualities of a soldier. The formation and dismissal of the company were not commendable. I am very sorry to say that the officers did not show a thorough appreciation of their duties. A more careful study of the tactics, and the putting into practice the knowledge acquired, are recommended. Time occupied in inspection and drill, two hours and fifteen minutes.

SECOND PLATOON OF FIRST MAINE BATTERY, (Portland.)

Inspected September 7, 1881. Inspector received one half hour after time. Inspection ceremonies fairly performed. Second Lieutenant, during inspection, faced company, then to front, taking position of parade rest. Company well sized. Set-up very good. Material excellent. Clothing neat and well fitting. Arms and equipments in good condition. Butts protruded. Men steady. A few without collars and gloves. Discipline good. Armory in good order. Books well kept. Carry in three motions from order. Fix and unfix bayonets fairly done. Charge bayonets in two motions. No practice in loading and firing. Manual fair, considering the company has had but little experience, and spends more time at artillery drill, in which is shown more proficiency. Pivots careless. "Right forward, fours right, march," right four did not take short step. "Mark time, march," from a halt. In wheeling, some men did not turn head and eyes towards marching flank. Feet shuffled on floor. Files not covered. Forming line from column, fours gained distance, and lines were broken. Many movements not practiced. Salutes good.

Considering that this platoon has not been long organized, and is required to become proficient in both the infantry and artillery branches of the service, the inspection and drill were very creditable. The discipline was good, the material excellent, the officers were well versed in military matters and able to instruct those under them. The armory hardly serves the double purpose of artillery drill and storing property. In infantry drill the platoon uses the hall of Co. "E" The arms, equipments and clothing were in good condition, and the books very well kept.

Time occupied in inspection and drill, one hour and thirty minutes.

MAJOR GENERAL'S REPORT.

HEAD QUARTERS 1st DIV. MILITIA OF ME., }
Portland, December 31, 1881. }

General GEORGE L. BEAL, Adjutant General:

SIR: I submit the few observations which seem needful to constitute the report of the operations and condition of my command for the year just closing.

The organization of the Militia is now substantially what those of our citizens most experienced in military affairs have long desired.

It is now the part of those charged with the administration of this system to make the most of the means at their disposal to carry out the spirit and intent of the laws.

What can be done in one direction must be limited by the appropriations for military purposes made by the Legislature. But this being granted, the matter of deep importance for the interests of the service is the constant care and thorough discipline exercised by all concerned.

As to the first point, the question arises how to make the most of what we have appropriated for the purpose of an annual encampment. No one questions the necessity of having the troops occasionally brought together in order to learn the important duties of field and camp life—the police and sanitary discipline so essential to effectiveness in actual service, and to acquire the soldierly habit and the ability to act in mass and with the “spirit of the whole.” We should hold the encampments where the cost of transportation, and the time consumed in getting into camp and breaking camp shall make the least possible inroads on our means of instruction. Nothing seems to be lacking in the good will of the troops. They are willing, and pleased, to work hard to secure the best results. It would be much better if our means allowed of more time in the encampment; but as it is, we must exercise all economy to leave as large a margin as possible to secure the proper ends of a camp of instruction.

As to discipline, frequent and close inspections are the only effective means. Rigorously discharging from the service unworthy members, and mustering out companies that do not keep up to the standard, will make our organizations energetic and efficient, and the service honorable. These means have been well employed, and, it may be proper for me to say, owing to the zeal and skill of the Adjutant General our militia organizations are in good condition.

The encampment this year showed us all how much we had to learn, or to remember; and it showed also the sincere interest and even self-denying pride which all our soldiers feel in maintaining good discipline. Many evils were patiently borne for the good of the service. But patient effort will remove the evils.

I should be doing injustice not to mention the salutary effects of the earnest and devoted attention which Col. Brown pays to the interests of his command, and of the services of so experienced and able a commanding officer as Col. White.

I beg to enclose the report of Lieut. M. Crawford of the U. S. Army, who kindly acted as inspector during the encampment. I have already published it for the benefit of the command.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

JOSHUA L. CHAMBERLAIN,

Major General.

BRUNSWICK, MAINE. }
 November 1st, 1881. }

Lieut. Col. D. O' C. O'Donoghue, Asst. Adj. Gen'l Maine Militia :

COLONEL: In compliance with verbal instructions from the Major General commanding, I have the honor to report the result of my inspection of the First and Second Regiments of Infantry and the Light Battery of the Maine State Militia, encamped at Camp Plaisted, Augusta, Maine, September 13th to 16th, 1881, inclusive.

My inspection was made on the 14th, the troops being paraded for the purpose. The Light Battery was first inspected and was found to be as follows:

Materiel. The Battery is composed of four 12-pounder brass guns (Napoleon) with their limbers and caissons, together with a small caliber Gatling gun. The carriages of the four guns, although in apparently good order, were evidently very old and probably unsound, and would not be likely to withstand much hard service. The horses used were such as could be hired for the occasion.

The implements and equipments could not be fully inspected as to presence or condition, as the pouches which should have contained a portion of them were not worn by the cannoneers. A part of the enlisted men of the battery were armed with a very heavy and cumbersome sabre of an obsolete pattern, which could be advantageously discarded for the corporals and privates, the simple pistol belt being retained, and the chiefs of section armed with the modern artillery sabre. The materiel, so far as could be seen, was in serviceable condition and had been well cared for.

Personnel. The Battery, taken as a single organization, was insufficiently manned, and in consequence the cannoneers had more than their proper duties to perform, which of course detracted from the symmetry of the drills. The physique of the men was very fine, and their evident enthusiasm and attention to orders deserves the highest praise. The clothing was uniform and good, and had been well cared for.

Drill. I carefully observed the drill of the battery, both standing gun and mounted, on several occasions. In the former there seemed to be a great difference in the amount of instruction received by the cannoneers, some performing the manual of the piece well, others very poorly. The difficulty of executing the evolutions of a mounted battery with green horses is well known, but in no particular of the encampment was improvement so marked as in this, and with a longer encampment and the horses and drivers remaining practically the same from year to year, a great degree of perfection could be easily attained.

The Infantry Regiments, when inspected, were in light marching order, i. e., in full dress uniform, without haversacks, knapsacks, canteens, etc. The general appearance of both regiments was very good. The arms, except those of one attached company, were the present U. S., cal. 45, service rifles, the arms of the excepted company being the old pattern cadet rifle, cal. 45. A detailed inspection showed that the arms and equipments were in good serviceable condition, except in a few instances where the chambers of the pieces had been allowed to become rusty, and the mechanism of the locks broken. These defects should have been corrected by the company commanders. The clothing was found to be uniform and in very good condition.

In executing the "inspection arms," much awkwardness was observed in several of the companies of both regiments, where the other parts of the manual were excellently well rendered. I would note here that I do not know of any authority prescribing the movement of "inspection sword" by commissioned officers in front of their companies, when approached by the inspector. Such, at least, is not the custom in the United States regular service. Again, the salute with the hand rendered by the company at the command "attention" from its commander, as the General and Staff approached the head of the company streets for the purpose of inspecting quarters, was not given simultaneously in the great majority of the companies.

I observed carefully the company and battalion drills and parades of both regiments on several occasions, and while minor errors were frequently observable, both on the part of officers and men, yet, as a whole, the exercises were certainly of a very satisfactory character, especially towards the end of the encampment. In this connection I may state that the principal errors and mistakes seemed to arise from a lack of distinctness of some of the company commanders in giving their commands, in their failing to observe a sufficient interval of time between the "preparatory commands" and the "commands of execution," and in a few instances in giving commands which a too retentive memory had evidently stored up from systems of tactics no longer in use.

The camps, both of Infantry and Artillery, seemed to be healthy, and the tents were well pitched and not overcrowded.

The camp guard duty seemed to be well and intelligently performed, the sentinels entering at once into the spirit of their duties, and carrying out their orders minutely.

The police of the company streets was good, a few were excellent, while one or two were indifferent.

The kitchens, mess rooms and sinks were generally in fair condition.

One important feature of the camp, however, seemed to have been but illy provided for, namely, the bedding for the men. In several of the companies no bedsacks seem to have been provided, and the straw which was furnished was simply dumped on the tent floors and so used, thus, to say nothing of the personal discomfort of the occupants, spoiling all appearance of neatness in the interior of the tents. Either the State or the individual soldier should furnish the common white bedsack, army pattern, which is inexpensive and easily transported. In order that the few days of an encampment may be profitable to the State, the soldier must be able to pass his nights in comfort.

The honors rendered by the troops were in the main well and cheerfully given; but the lounging and even sitting attitudes in which individual soldiers when not under arms,—and sometimes when engaged in occupations where a salute should not be given,—were frequently observed to salute officers, showed a lack of instruction on these points of military etiquette.

Before closing this report I would respectfully offer the following suggestions in addition to those already made:

First, with regard to the length of time the troops were encamped. Four days, as at present allowed, seems to me to be too little, when it is remembered that the first and last days are of little use for the purpose of methodical instruction. I believe that an encampment of six days would afford more instruction to the troops than two encampments of four days each, one year apart.

Next in importance in facilitating rapid instruction, is the permanency of the camp. If the same grounds could be used from year to year, both officers and men would be enabled to arrange themselves for the work in hand with the greatest possible celerity, and much valuable time would be saved.

Lastly, in regard to the formal inspection. Its importance is so great that much more time should be allotted to it than was given this year, in order that it might be more exact and searching. I would also earnestly urge the propriety of the troops being fully equipped for field service on this occasion, i. e., with haversacks, knapsacks, canteens, overcoats and blankets, or as much thereof as is furnished by the State. Otherwise it is impossible for the inspector to report intelligently upon their readiness for immediate service, and furthermore an encampment of this kind is believed to be the proper place to teach the soldier what he needs for his own comfort, and the proper use and care of such equipage.

Respectfully submitted.

M. CRAWFORD, 1st Lieut. 2d U. S. Art'y.
Acting Inspector.

REPORT OF THE INSPECTOR OF RIFLE PRACTICE.

FRYEBURG, November 15th, 1881.

To General George L. Beal, Adjutant General:

The following circular was issued on April 26th, giving the conditions of rifle practice for 1881, and containing useful suggestions upon other points:

CIRCULAR No. 1.

STATE OF MAINE,
OFFICE INSPECTOR OF RIFLE PRACTICE, }
Fryeburg, April 26, 1881.

ARMORY DRILL.

I. A portion of each drill must be devoted to instructing the men in all that pertains to rifle practice. It is expected that every man will become thoroughly acquainted with and well informed in the different firings. Captains must see that their commands are instructed in firing singly, by volley, file, and by squads. This can be successfully taught in the armories, and will form the basis of competition hereafter.

II. Class firing will be continued on the range in the following manner, and no ammunition furnished by the State will be expended except as prescribed in these firings: No man will be permitted to use more than his proportion of the ammunition allowed, nor to fire in any class except the one in which he belongs. Officers will see the importance of thorough drill practice in the armory, before going to the range for practice, if a good record is made.

CLASS FIRING.

III. Third Class—100 and 150 yards, standing. Second Class—300 yards, kneeling; 400 yards, lying, (any position without artificial rest). First Class—200 yards, off hand; 500 yards, lying. Every soldier will commence in the third class (unless permitted to enter higher classes by the General Inspector of Rifle Practice), and fire five shots at 100 yards.

and the same number at 150 yards, standing. Those making an aggregate of 25 points out of a possible 50, will pass to the second class.

IV. The second class will fire five shots at each distance (300 yards, kneeling and 400 yards, lying), and those making 25 points out of a possible 50, will pass to first class.

V. The first class will fire five shots at each (200 yards, standing and 500 yards, lying), and those making 25 points out of a possible 50, will be classed as marksmen.

VI. Marksmen who qualified in 1880 are excused from firing in the third, and will be permitted to commence in the second class.

VII. Company commanders will be held responsible for the ammunition issued them, and no part of the allowance shall be used except as prescribed in the different firings, and no soldier, except marksmen, allowed to fire in any class except where he belongs. The General Inspector of rifle practice may enter the name of any soldier in the list of marksmen, on being satisfied that he is entitled to that standing, by records made in matches or otherwise.

VIII. Classification blanks will be issued to each company, and will be ruled so that a record of the standing of each man can be made, with the date of qualification and score in the several classes he has passed through. This must be conspicuously posted in the armory, showing the result of each practice.

IX. A final classification will be made at the close of the practice season, and the figure of merit computed as follows:

For each member qualifying as a marksman,	100
" " remaining in first class,	60
" " " second class,	30
" " " third class,	10
" " " fourth class,	0

These numbers are added and the total divided by the number present and absent at the last annual inspection. The result will be the figure of merit.

PRACTICE ON THE RANGE.

X. As delays are tiresome, and all the time men can have at the range is needed for practice, all arrangements should be completed early in the day, and before the hour appointed for practice.

XI. Great care must be taken, and strict discipline and good order preserved, that accidents may not occur.

XII. The class firing must be completed before August 15th, and full returns made to the General Inspector of Rifle Practice. Maine should be represented at Creedmore, this year, by a team that will be a credit to the Militia of the State. Nothing but untiring practice will make a superior record. The distances shot at Creedmore are 200, 500 and 600 yards.

SCORER'S INSTRUCTIONS.

XIII. White disk, bulls-eye, counts 5; red disk, centre, counts 4; white and black disk, inner, counts 3; black disk, outer, counts 2.

Red flag waved right and left, ricochet. (i. e. that shot has hit the ground before striking the target, constituting a miss). marked R. O.

XIV. When a red flag is shown at the target, call "danger! cease firing!" and require those about to shoot to throw open the breech-block of their rifles and withdraw the cartridge; also raise your own danger flag and keep it up until that at the target is taken down. Never allow firing when the red signal is in sight at the target.

XV. The marker's signals are conclusive.

XVI. No score shall be erased. If a figure is wrong, draw a line across it and write the figure above it and report to the inspector or officer in command, who will write his initials opposite.

XVII. Call each man's name and the value of his shot, as you put it down, thus: Smith, four.

XVIII. No sighting shots allowed at any distance. Elevations must be studied up before coming to the range. Report all unfair practices, if observed, at once to the officer in command.

XIX. In case of disorder or dispute as to scoring, raise your danger flag and stop the firing, and report the matter to the inspector or officer in command, whose decision is conclusive on all questions.

XX. The officer in command will see to it that no wrangling or disorderly conduct is indulged in, either on the range or in going to or returning therefrom. Gentlemanly conduct is expected on all occasions, and under all circumstances.

TO CLEAN THE RIFLE.

XXI. A brush should be habitually used to clean the inside of the barrel, dipping it in hot water, and afterward drying and oiling the barrel, as hereafter prescribed, and a wooden wiping rod should be used whenever practicable.

XXII. Place a rag (woolen if possible) upon the cleaning rod, being careful to see that its head is equally covered all around, press it into the bore—first from the muzzle and afterwards from the chamber—and rub it up and down until the barrel is clean, being careful not to mar the corners of the chamber by the shoulder of the ramrod.

XXIII. Wipe out the barrel well with a rag, as before, until it is perfectly dry, and afterwards with an oiled rag. This should always be done as soon after firing as possible. The men should be cautioned that if the barrel is not perfectly clean and dry, it will rust, no matter how much oil is afterwards applied. For this reason, in cleaning, warm water is preferable to cold. After oiling, the rifle should be allowed to stand for a time, and then wiped. The slight film of oil left will protect it better than if a quantity be used.

XXIV. Wipe the surfaces of the hammer, breech-block, firing-pin, etc., with a slightly oiled rag, close the breech-block and let down the hammer.

XXV. Oil the stock well with sperm or linseed oil; let it stand a few hours and then rub it with a woolen cloth until the wood is perfectly dry.

Repeat this from time to time, and it will produce a polish which moisture cannot affect.

XXVI. The hammer should be habitually carried at half cock, and care be taken that the motion of the firing-pins be not obstructed by dust or rust. Occasionally oil the firing-pin.

XXVII. A well made rifle is a delicately constructed instrument, requiring proper attention, and unless it is kept clean, good shooting cannot be expected from it. The grooves become filled up, and when it is fired the bullet "leads," so that its velocity is diminished and it falls short. Every man must therefore clean out the barrel of his piece frequently as possible, and never allow it to be put away dirty, as one night's rusting will do more harm than a year's use.

E. C. FARRINGTON.

Col. and Inspector of Rifle Practice.

And in compliance with General Order No. 6, I commenced early in May to inspect the armories and arms of the different companies of M. V. M. A detailed report of the condition of arms and armories was forwarded to you, and a copy sent to each of the Colonels John Marshall Brown and Daniel White, commanders of the First and Second Regiments, at the time of inspection. The reports now on file at your office, and those sent as above mentioned, received the careful attention of the commander-in-chief and the regimental commanders, and resulted in a much needed reform and in an improved method in the care of property belonging to the State. The instruction to the militia in rifle practice was given during these inspections, occasioning no extra expense for this purpose.

The soldierly appearance of the officers and men, the deep interest taken in the instruction given, the gentlemanly conduct and courteous treatment received during my visits, gave me the strongest encouragement for substantial improvement in this department. The result of the rifle practice this season excelled my most sanguine expectations, and I am proud to inform you that the State has a militia whose efficiency in rifle practice is not excelled by any State in the Union. From fifty-one marksmen qualified in 1880, the number has now increased to two hundred and sixty-four. There are many men not enumerated in the above number who are efficient riflemen, who, on account of circumstances, could not get opportunity to pass through the different classes.

The number who have not practiced, shown in the table of consolidated company practice, is much larger than the actual facts would warrant. There are, in most if not in every company, the names of men borne on the rolls, who are either removed from the State or cannot be made to take any interest in the welfare of the company, that enter into this account of men having given no attention to rifle practice. They are "paper men," and serve only to discourage officers and men who are trying to keep their command up to a high standard, and to drag down the standing of the company.

I recommend that an order be issued compelling those of the fourth class (those not having practiced) to spend one half hour at each monthly drill, receiving instruction in aiming and other movements pertaining to rifle practice. I also recommend that all those who have made a record of forty out of a possible fifty, or twenty-eight out of a possible thirty-five, or twenty out of a possible twenty-five, 200 yards, standing, in the practice or in matches of the past season, or who may make the same hereafter, be classified as sharpshooters.

No returns have been received from Co. E (Montgomery Guards, Portland), 1st Regt., and but slight returns from Co. G (Jameson Guards, Bangor), 2d Regt. Lieut. Lapping of Co. E has made himself efficient in rifle practice, and has done much toward developing an interest in this direction among the men, so that a few men have some knowledge of the practice. But as a whole the company is very deficient in this respect. And while I can see quite a gain from last year, it is far below what you have a right to expect of it.

Co. G, 2d Regt., have done but little practice. Circumstances not in the control of the company have had much to do with it. I shall look with confidence for good improvement in this company in the future.

Instruction and inspection was extended to the First Maine Battery in Lewiston and Portland. Capt. Mennealy has developed quite an interest in the practice in that part of the command in Lewiston. I think we can look for good progress another year. That part of the battery located in Portland have given but little attention to it. It was late before instruction could be given them, and great progress could not be expected. We shall expect more attention to be given to it in the future.

PRIZES.

The State Badge given by the State to those qualifying as marksmen, and the prizes offered by the State for regimental, company and individual contest have been the means of awaking a deeper interest in the work and stimulating the men to better practice. The admirable arrangements made by Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, so that this competition could take place during the State encampment, gave great satisfaction, and was the means by which the best possible results were secured. It is to be hoped that at least one full day will be allowed for rifle practice during the next encampment.

Sergt. G. F. Johnson, Co. C, 2d Regt., Dexter, won the champion gold badge for 1881. S. M. Leighton of the same company, Charles F. Belmore, Co. E, Skowhegan, and Capt. C. W. Davis, Co. B, Portland, ranked next, each making the same score, as will be seen by appended table.

The First Regimental Team won the regimental prize.

Company C, Dexter, in company firing won the first prize offered to the 2d Regiment.

Company E, Skowhegan, won the second prize offered to the 2d Regiment.

Company D, Rockland, won the third prize offered to 2d Regiment.

Company G, Biddeford, won the first prize offered to the 1st Regiment.

Company F, Augusta, won the second prize offered to the 1st Regiment.

Company H, Gardiner, won the third prize offered to the 1st Regiment.

COMPANY TEAM MATCH.

Company C, Dexter, won the first prize offered for best team.

Company E, Skowhegan, won the second prize offered for best team.

Company D, Rockland, won the third prize offered for best team.

Company D, Norway, won the fourth prize offered for best team.

Company H, Gardiner, won the fifth prize offered for best team.

It would be of great advantage to the companies if record books could be issued to them, in which to keep a complete record of all rifle practice.

INSPECTION.

As good results cannot be secured without good rifles, and as good rifles cannot be had without the best of care, and believing that a rigid inspection is one of the best means to secure this, I wish to recommend that the rifles be inspected at least twice each year.

AMMUNITION.

The ammunition used was manufactured by the U. S. Cartridge Co., Lowell, Mass., and gave the best of satisfaction. There is now in the hands of some of the companies considerable ammunition unexpended. I advise that at least fifty per cent. of this in each company be issued to those who have qualified as marksmen, to be used wholly at 500 yards firing, the returns of practice to be made to the Inspector of Rifle Practice, and the balance used, as provided in circular No. 1, by the remaining members of the company.

EXPENSE.

The expense, including all prizes offered by the State, work on the State range and expense of the matches during the encampment, will fall considerably below the estimate ($1,000) made in the report of last year. Although this outlay is exceedingly small compared with the results achieved, or with the outlay for this purpose in other States, I am confident, with the knowledge of rifle practice now attained in the different companies, that another year it can be reduced considerably below the amount expended this season.

I learn that the English government are giving greater attention to the instruction of their troops in rifle practice than ever before. They rightfully take the ground that they cannot hope to maintain their former prestige, unless their militia are thorough in this most important part of their military education. France is giving instruction in rifle practice to the boys in the elementary schools, that they may be more easily converted to soldiers, at the proper age.

I submit whether the superior excellence attained by a large portion of the Maine Volunteer Militia does not show that Maine can stand in the front rank with the most proficient of her sister States.

RESERVE MILITIA.

I wish to renew my recommendation of last year—that the reserve militia have the instruction of rifle practice and some allowance of ammunition extended to them.

The high standard of efficiency in this department reached by the militia this year could not have been secured had I not been most ably assisted by the careful attention, the wise and timely suggestions of His Excellency Hon. Harris M. Plaisted. To this and to the most thorough application of needful rules and regulations by Gen. Geo. L. Beal, Adjutant General, and Col. John Marshall Brown of the First, and Col. Daniel White of the Second Regiment, the State is justly indebted for the superior excellence of her military force in rifle practice.

I wish to return my sincere thanks to officers and men with whom I have been brought in contact, for their universal kindness and courtesy, by which my official duties were made pleasant and agreeable.

E. C. FARRINGTON,
Colonel and Inspector of Rifle Practice.

General Orders No. 2.

Military overcoats have been deposited at the Headquarters of the First and Second Regiments of Infantry, M. V. M., for the use of the Companies composing those Regiments.

Any Company desiring the use of any number of overcoats for parade, will make application to the commanding officer of the Regiment, stating the purpose and the dates the same will be required, and if the request is approved by him he may order them sent to the Company, holding the commanding officer responsible for their care and the safe return within a stated time after the service is performed, and pay all charges for transportation to and from Headquarters.

The Artillery and Frontier Guards will make application to Division Headquarters, subject to the same regulations.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief.

HEADQUARTERS MAINE MILITIA,
Adjutant General's Office, Augusta, March 9, 1881.

General Orders No. 3.

I. Company Commanders of the Volunteer Militia will order drills at least twice each month; battalion drills and inspections, when ordered, may take the place of company drills.

II. At these drills, dress or undress uniforms may be worn at the discretion of the officer ordering the drill, but citizens' dress, never, except by recruits, whom it may be necessary to place under instruction before they have had time to become properly uniformed.

III. A portion of the time at these drills must be given to the aiming and position drill, as taught in the prescribed manual for rifle practice.

IV. Officers and enlisted men shall be considered on duty whenever in the headquarters or armories of the regiments or companies, and will obey the orders of the superior officer present, the same as upon any duty required by law or orders; and all officers detailed for that purpose, shall have the right to visit at any time, any headquarters or armories within their commands, and give any orders which they may think for the best interests of the service.

V. Armories shall be under the command and charge of the commanding officer of the organization for which they have been provided, except, that in addition to the officers mentioned in the preceding section, the Adjutant General and Inspector General and their assistants shall at all times have access; and such drills and exercises as they may desire to witness shall be conducted, and such public property as they may desire to see, shall be displayed for their inspection. In like manner, the Quartermaster General and Surgeon General may visit headquarters and armories for inspection of public property appertaining to their departments.

VI. Reports of the drills required by this order will be made monthly, upon blanks furnished for that purpose, giving the number of officers and enlisted men present for duty, absent with or without leave, aggregate present and absent, number of hours devoted to drill, and the name and rank of any officer inspecting or visiting the command. This return will be made in duplicate, one copy retained by the company making the return, and the other forwarded to these headquarters through the proper channels.

VII. Each organization, upon receipt of this order, will designate the time for these drills, commencing the first of April, and forward the same, through the proper channels, to these headquarters.

VIII. Regimental Commanders are charged with the execution of this order, and will in person or by a detail of one of their regimental field or staff officers, visit and inspect the companies of their commands as often as the good of the service may require, and fully inform themselves as to their condition, and their compliance with this order.

IX. It is desired that all officers and enlisted men should be impressed with the importance of these semi-monthly drills, and endeavor to be present and spend the time required by section 85, chapter 225, Militia Law of 1880.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief.

GEORGE L. BEAL, Adjutant General.

HEADQUARTERS MAINE MILITIA,

HEADQUARTERS MAINE MILITIA,
Adjutant General's Office, Augusta, April 15, 1881.

General Orders No. 5.

I. The attention of Commanding Officers of the Volunteer Militia is called to the following extract from the Militia Law: "Section 85. The volunteer militia shall parade by companies, on the first Tuesday in May, for inspection, company drill and manoeuvre. They shall also be assembled for drill not less than three hours in each month."

II. It will be observed that the law for inspection is imperative, and does not carry pay with it any more than the required drill of three hours each month.

III. The inspection will be made by the company commanders, if no regimental officers are present. Inspection Rolls, in triplicate, will be prepared and forwarded on or before the fifteenth of May, as follows: one to these headquarters and one to regimental headquarters; one copy will be retained by the Company Commanders.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief.

GEORGE L. BEAL, Adjutant General.

HEADQUARTERS MAINE MILITIA,
Adjutant General's Office, Augusta, April 22, 1881.

General Orders No. 6.

I. The Inspector General will, as soon as practicable, visit and inspect, at their armories, the Companies of Infantry and the Battery of Light Artillery composing the Volunteer Militia. He will, as far as possible, select some evening already designated for semi-monthly drills, and should any other evening be selected it will be returned as one of the same. He will make his report in writing to these Headquarters as soon as possible after the inspection.

II. The Inspector of Rifle Practice will visit, at their armories, the organizations composing the Volunteer Militia and make a special examination of the arms, and give instruction to the officers and men in rifle practice, reporting any neglect in the care of the arms, or inattention to this portion of the soldier's duty. Paragraph one of this order will govern the time for his visits.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief.

II. The two Platoons of the 1st Maine Battery will each be reckoned as and entitled to the same privileges in rifle practice as a Company of Infantry.

III. The Silk Banners offered as the first prize in the Regimental Company Champion Match (No. 1) will be owned by the companies winning them, so long as such companies remain in existence, and will be turned over by each commanding officer to his successor, and borne on the property returns. On discontinuance of the company from any cause, they will be turned in to the Adjutant General.

IV. The above matches will occur under the supervision, and at such time and place, and under such additional conditions as may be prescribed by the General Inspector of Rifle Practice, and approved by the Commander-in-Chief.

V. All marksmen qualifying during the year will receive a "Marksman's Badge." Those who qualified last year and qualify again this, will receive a badge and one additional bar.

VI. The allowance of ammunition to each company for the current year is fixed at two thousand rounds.

By order of the Commander-in Chief.
