STATE OF MAINE.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE, }
PORTLAND, Dec. 1, 1882. }

To the Governor and Council of the State of Maine :

In compliance with statutory requirements, I have the honor to submit the following report of the business of this office for the preceding year :

TAXATION OF RAILROAD AND TELEGRAPH COMPANIES.

At the date of my last report the following suits, involving the right of the State to tax the railroad and telegraph companies, were pending before the Courts :

State of Maine vs. Maine Central Railroad Company.

State of Maine vs. Boston and Maine Railroad.

State of Maine vs. Portland, Saco and Portsmouth Railroad Company.

State of Maine vs. Western Union Telegraph Company.

State of Maine vs. International Telegraph Company.

In these suits, Messrs. Drummond & Drummond appeared for the Maine Central Railroad Company, William L. Putnam for the Boston and Maine Railroad, Messrs. Webb & Haskell for the Portland, Saco and Portsmouth Railroad Company, and Messrs. Baker & Baker for the Western Union and International Telegraph Companies.

These several suits were brought to enforce the payment of the State taxes due from the corporations under the assessment of 1880. The tax against the railroad and telegraph companies was assessed under separate acts, and though suits were brought against all of the foregoing corporations, and pending in the Supreme Judicial Court in Cumberland county, it was deemed an unnecessary expense to the State to carry more than one of each class forward to the full Court. Through the courtesy of the President of the Maine Central Railroad, Hon. George E. B. Jackson, and Messrs. Drummond & Drummond, counsel for the corporation, who expressed a desire to have the constitutionality of the act determined without unnecessary delay, the case against the Maine Central was submitted to the full Court without the usual delays accompanying similar cases.

In the suit against the Western Union Telegraph Company, the testimony was taken before Judge Virgin at the April term, 1881, and the case went forward to the Law Court upon a full report of the evidence. The cases were most ably and elaborately argued by counsel for defendant corporations: claiming that the tax acts under which the assessments were made were in violation of the constitutional provision requiring that "all taxes upon real and personal estate, assessed by authority of the State, shall be apportioned and assessed equally, according to the just value thereof." That the tax was a property tax; that it was not uniform or proportional, either in mode or rate; that it was not apportioned and assessed equally. That the law undertook to tax property by classes—"one per cent. on railroads, two and one-half per cent. on telegraph lines, against one-half of one per cent. on the general property of the State." That it was "not enough that one railroad pays the same as another, one telegraph line as another, and one land owner as another; but the tax on railroad, telegraph line and land owner must be alike and uniform in rule and rate, varying only in aggregate, 'according to the just value' of the property."

On the contrary it was argued for the State that, as the property of these corporations was exempt from all municipal burdens and taxes, the State had the power to subject such property to a general State tax, to be paid directly to the State, and before such tax act should be declared unconstitutional, it must affirmatively appear that the tax was disproportional and in excess of the valuation and assessment of the various towns where the property was situated. That if these assessments were disproportional and unequal as property taxes, and could not be sustained, the law should be upheld as a tax upon the business and franchise of the corporations. That the tax of two and one-half per cent. upon the value of the telegraph line, including the poles, wires and insulators, was not intended as a tax upon the value of the property as so much wood and wire, but a tax upon its capacity to reap profits, determined by the length of line, the number of poles and amount of wire used, and other circumstances which affected its value as a telegraph line. That it was a tax upon a given employment imposed upon its business transacted in the State of Maine. The State had the right to exclude foreign corporations altogether; and if the power to exclude existed, the right to impose a tax upon its business transacted within the limits of the State must follow; and so long as such tax applied alike to all engaged in the telegraph business, it was equal and uniform, and obviated all constitutional objections as to uniformity and equality of taxation.

In the case of the railroad tax, it was claimed for the State that it was competent for the Legislature to require these corporations to pay a tax for the support of the State government which gave them protection. That if it could not be upheld as a direct tax upon the real and personal estate of the corporation, it was to be presumed the Legislature intended it as a franchise tax. The right of the State to tax the franchises of the railroad corporations as property, in proportion to their value, is unquestioned, and the imposition of the tax was but a proper exercise of the power granted under the constitution.

The suits were sustained by the full court, the laws declared constitutional, and judgment ordered for the State for the full amount claimed and interest.

Resulting from this litigation, the following amounts have been collected and paid to the State Treasurer:

Maine Central Railroad Company.....	$24,967 10
Boston and Maine Railroad.....	20,164 78
Western Union Telegraph Company and International Telegraph Company.....	7,436 61

The suit against the Portland, Saco and Portsmouth Railroad Company for $12,000 is still pending in Court. I believe an adjustment of the suit will be effected and the payment of the tax secured to the State. If not settled the case will be in order for trial at the next January term of the Court.

The act relating to the taxation of telegraph companies is still in force, and all State taxes now levied against these corporations are under the provisions of that act. The line of the International Telegraph Company is controlled and operated by the Western Union, and under the terms of the contract all taxes assessed against the International are payable by the Western Union.

The favorable decision of the Court, sustaining the constitutionality of these acts, cannot be over-estimated. It is of vital and paramount importance to the people of the State, and establishes a governing principle for future assessments against all telegraph companies exercising their powers and franchises within the State.

Since the enactment of the statute imposing a State tax upon telegraph companies, a charter has been granted the Eastern Telegraph Company of Maine, and a line has been constructed from Boston to Portland, Bangor, Lewiston, Augusta, Bath, Belfast and other important points. The statute relating to the taxation of business of this character has been applied to this new corporation.

In this connection it will be observed that numerous charters have been granted by the Legislature, authorizing the construction and operation of telephone lines within the State, granting authority to those corporations to locate and construct their lines along any public highway or bridge, or along and upon any line of railroad, but in such manner as not to incommode the customary public use thereof. Various lines have been constructed and are now in successful operation within the State. Other similar corporations have been organized under the general law with limited powers.

The act relating to the taxation of telegraph lines is not construed as applying to these corporations. They subserve in many respects the same ends and purposes, and are endowed substantially with the same powers. If, upon examination, it is deemed advisable that these corporations shall bear their proportion of the public burdens in return for the privileges granted, the subject will receive the favorable consideration of the Legislature.

All State taxes against the railroad corporations are now assessed under the provisions of chapter 91, public laws of 1881. The statute of 1880, relating to taxation of this character, and by virtue of which the taxes against the railroads heretofore alluded to were assessed, was repealed by the foregoing enactment. The present statute provides for an annual excise tax against every corporation, person or association operating any railroad in this State, for the privilege of exercising its franchises.

The assessment is made by the Governor and Council, payable one-half on the first day of July next after the levy is made, and the other half on the first day of October following. In case of non-payment an action of debt may be maintained in the name of the State to recover the tax with ten per cent. interest. The Governor and Council, in the performance of the duty required by the act, assessed the various railroads and reported their proceedings to the State Treasurer.

The following corporations have promptly paid the taxes assessed against them for the present year :

Maine Central Railroad Company.....	$28,156	18
Boston and Maine Railroad	18,626	62
Eastern Railroad Company	18,652	86
European and North American Railway	4,713	92
Portland Horse Railroad, $\frac{1}{2}$	950	14
St. Croix and Penobscot	89	07
Sandy River Railroad	34	63
Bucksport and Bangor	49	50
New Brunswick.....	20	12
Somerset Railroad	67	20

It is claimed by several of the corporations that there is no legal liability or obligation on their part to pay the assessments made against them, and they have accordingly refused.

The principal companies assessed under the act of 1881, so refusing, are :

Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada ...	$21,665	22
Knox and Lincoln Railroad Company	1,235	85
Portland and Rochester Railroad	2,355	62
Portland and Ogdensburg Railroad	2,047	87
Bangor and Piscataquis Railroad Company....	457	49

The question as to the constitutionality of the statute under which these assessments were made has never been before our Courts for determination. Accordingly in the month of September last, for the purpose of determining that question and compelling the payment of these taxes to the State, I commenced proceedings against the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada to recover for the State the amount of tax then due from that corporation, and the suit was entered at the October term of the Supreme Judicial Court in Cumberland county. The defendant, being a foreign corporation, the statute of the United States authorized it to transfer the action to the United States Circuit Court. The corporation, through its counsel, availed itself of this provision of law, and the case was transferred, by order of the Supreme Court of the State, to the Circuit Court for trial. It will probably be in order for hearing at the next session of the Court at Portland in April. Proceedings will be instituted against other delinquent corporations to enforce the payment of the taxes due from them.

It will be observed that in levying a tax upon property of this character, serious difficulties have been experienced in devising a system which in its practical operation would bring to the State an equitable tax, and at the same time keep within the constitutional inhibition relating to uniformity and equality of taxation.

The propriety of requiring the large corporations operating extensive lines of railroad within the limits of the State to pay a tax of some character, whether in the form of an excise or property tax, cannot be successfully questioned. Some of these corporate bodies are created and have their existence under the laws of another State or country; a large proportion of their stockholders reside beyond the jurisdiction of the State, and are not subject to our laws like stockholders of domestic corporations. They are accorded the privilege of maintaining their road-way through the principal towns of the State, of running their engines and cars and exacting tribute for the carriage of passengers and freight. They are protected by our laws and share the benefits of good government, and should contribute towards its support. It has not been the policy of the State to deal otherwise than fairly and justly with these corporations. They have conferred immense benefits upon the interests of agriculture and commerce, and aided materially in the development of our State. All legislation should be just to the proprietors of the railroads, and at the same time carefully protect the public interests.

If the constitutionality of the act under which proceedings are now pending in the courts shall be sustained, it will settle for future time this important question of taxation which has occupied the attention of the public mind for several years, and secure to the State in future the amount of revenue that should come from such sources.

TAXATION OF EXPRESS COMPANIES.

The act relating to the taxation of express companies was passed in 1880. The law provides that all express companies doing express business on any railroad, steamboat or vessel in this State, shall annually pay to the State Treasurer three-fourths of one per cent. of the gross receipts of such business for the year, excluding the receipts on goods or merchandise in transit through the State, such tax being in lieu of all local taxation. The first assessment under the act was made June 2, 1881, and the taxes became due and payable on the first day of May last.

The entire assessment amounted to the sum of $1,579.66, the principal portion of the same being against the American Express Company, a corporation chartered under the laws of New York. This corporation, having refused payment, I commenced proceedings to enforce the collection of the tax. On the fourteenth day of August last, the company filed with the Governor and Council an application for delay of action, proposing to submit an estimate of the receipts of the company at the various points in the State on which to base a tax, and if such estimate was found satisfactory, it was proposed to ask an abatement of the taxes already assessed. The subject was referred to the committee on taxation and expenditures and a temporary stay of proceedings was granted. Unless a satisfactory adjustment of the tax is effected without delay, I recommend that proceedings for its collection be resumed.

Attention is called to the provisions of the statute requiring these companies annually, on or before the fifteenth day of May, to make a return to the Governor and Council, verified by oath, stating the amount of receipts for all express matters carried within the State for the year ending on the first day of April preceding. These returns furnish the basis upon which the assessment is made. Several of the companies, claiming that the act is unconstitutional, have refused to furnish the required returns the present year, and the Governor and Council were obliged to assess the tax upon the best information attainable. The law provides a penalty of twenty-five dollars per day for every day's neglect to furnish such returns, to be recovered for the State in an action of debt. It was the purpose of the Legislature in passing the act to require only a fair and equitable tax from such companies, and subject them to no further penalties or burdens. If the course pursued for the present year in refusing returns is to be persisted in—the Governor and Council left without the required information upon which to base a tax, and the State subjected to litigation in enforcing those already assessed, it may be considered advisable to commence an action to recover for the State, the penalties already accrued under the law amounting to several thousand dollars in excess of the companies assessments. I trust upon reflection the companies will decide to adjust their several assessments.

INSURANCE TAXATION.

During the present year there has been paid the State under the provisions of the tax act applying to insurance companies, the sum of $15,609.92. In June last the Home Insurance Company, a corporation created by the laws of the State of New York, commenced proceedings in the Courts to test the constitutionality of certain provisions of the act under which the insurance taxes are assessed, claiming that they were not legally bound to pay the sums assessed against them. The suit is still pending in the Supreme Court and will be argued upon questions of law arising in the case, at the next session of the Law Court for the Western District, in July next. Other companies doing business in the State have promptly paid their assessments without subjecting the State to litigation.

BUSINESS CORPORATIONS.

The statutes relating to the organization of business corporations will receive the attention of the Legislature. In numerous instances corporate bodies are being created, and in no way or form contributing to the resources of the State in return for the privileges granted. Some revenue should be secured from this source. Whether it shall be in the form of a reasonable fee, to be paid directly to the State Treasurer for the benefit of the State, upon organization, or secured in some other manner, will be determined by the Legislature.

It will be found upon examination that many organizations have been formed in the State, not for the accumulation of wealth, but having in view some district, village or town improvement, or aiding in the advancement of the great agricultural and other material interests of the State, or for purposes of a like character. These organizations, in many instances, have assumed the form of corporations, and under a strict construction of the law are liable to make the required returns and incur the penalty for such neglect. I think it may be safely said that if taxable property exists belonging to such organizations it is open and visible, and whatever assessment may be made by the assessors will be directly upon the property, and no advantage can result to the State by requiring returns from such beneficial organizations. A modification of the statute, in this respect at least, may be deemed desirable by the Legislature.

A suit is now pending, commenced in April last, against the Androscoggin Railroad Company to recover for the State the penalty prescribed by statute for refusal of the corporation to file with the Secretary of State returns required by law. Complaint having been made to me of such neglect, the statute of 1881 required the foregoing proceedings.

REVISION OF THE PUBLIC LAWS.

Under a resolve passed at the last session of the Legislature, the revision of the public laws of the State was committed to Hon. Charles W. Goddard. It has required a vast amount of research and labor, and will be submitted to the Legislature at the coming session. The report accompanying the revision contains many valuable suggestions and recommendations for consideration.

LIFE SENTENCES.

At the January term of the Supreme Judicial Court, held at Saco, in the County of York, by Judge Barrows, Sarah F. Whitten was sentenced to imprisonment for life for the murder of her infant child.

Chester S. Cunningham of Cherryfield, in the County of Washington, was indicted at the last April term of the Supreme Judicial Court, held at Calais, for the murder of Harriet E. Sprague on the nineteenth day of March last. They had lived in the same neighborhood, and for some years had been on the most friendly terms. A short time before the murder she had declined to receive his attentions.

The crime was committed on Sunday evening while returning from church. It was claimed in defence that the prisoner was temporarily insane. The prosecution contended that there was evidence of deliberation on the part of the accused, and offered evidence of previous threats by the prisoner. The jury returned a verdict of murder in the second degree, and the prisoner was sentenced for life.

The prosecution of the case was admirably conducted by Charles B. Rounds, Esq., County Attorney of Washington county, the Attorney General being engaged at the time in other important State cases. The prisoner was defended by John F. Lynch and E. B. Harvey, Esqrs. Judge Danforth presided at the trial.

Mary Glynn, was tried at the August term of the Supreme Judicial Court in the County of Penobscot, charged with the murder of Patrick Glynn. The defence was insanity. The jury found the respondent guilty of murder in the first degree, and she was sentenced to imprisonment for life. In the preparation of the case, and during the trial, I received the efficient aid of B. H. Mace, Esq., County Attorney. The defence was conducted by P. G. White and A. J. Merrill, Esqrs. Judge Peters presided at the trial.

The murder of Howard E. Hurd by his brother, Eugene C. Hurd, occurred in Harmony, Somerset county, on the fifth day of August last. An indictment was found at the September term of the Court held at Skowhegan. It was claimed in defence that the crime was committed under sudden and great provocation, and that the respondent should only be held for manslaughter. It was claimed for the State that there was evidence of preparation on the part of the respondent to slay his brother; that the prisoner's previous and subsequent acts indicated a formed design to take his life. The jury found the prisoner guilty of murder in the first degree, and he was immediately sentenced to imprisonment for life by Judge Virgin, who presided at the trial.

The defence was conducted by Hon. S. D. Lindsey and E. N. Merrill, Esq. In the prosecution of the case I was ably assisted by Levi Greenleaf, Esq., County Attorney.

I do not deem it necessary to give a detailed statement of the circumstances attending the commission of these crimes. The simple narration of the fact is sufficient, and carries with it its own force.

During the past two years six citizens of the State, upon trial, have been convicted of murder in the first degree; one of murder in the second degree. Two in addition have been sentenced to imprisonment for life upon the plea of guilty, and two verdicts of manslaughter have been rendered. In my last annual report attention was called to the frequency of these horrible crimes, and the barbarous brutality exhibited in their commission. Those of the present year seem to be accompanied with deeds of violence equally atrocious.

The future protection and safety of our citizens demands a most rigorous enforcement of all statutes for the security of human life. I have, therefore, regarded it as an act of duty to the administration of justice, so far as within my power, to attend the prosecution of these important cases. I have in all instances received the efficient aid and cordial co-operation of the prosecuting officers of the various counties.

An indictment is now pending in Sagadahoc county, against Sergeant Kelly of the United States Army, for the murder of Frank A. Smith in August last.

Joseph Henderson of Somerset county is now confined in jail charged with the murder of William McDonald in September last.

CRIMINAL BUSINESS IN THE COUNTIES.

The amount and character of the criminal business in the different counties will appear in the accompanying tables.

I have attended the sessions of the Law Court, and Table A embraces a list of the cases there disposed of.

The business of this office, in connection with the affairs of the State government and its various officials, will be found upon the files of the different departments.

Very respectfully,

HENRY B. CLEAVES,

Attorney General.

NOTE.—The tax due from the American Express Company for the year ending on the first day of April, 1881, was paid in full after the foregoing Report had been made.
