REPORT.

Hon. Henry B. Cleaves, Governor of Maine:

SIR:—I have the honor to make my report for the year ending December 31, 1894:

THE NATIONAL GUARD OF THE STATE OF MAINE.

The National Guard remains as described in my report for 1893 except that the strength of the two regiments has been increased to eleven companies each by the addition of Co. L, Portland, to the First, and Co. L, Houlton, to the Second, as indicated in that report. The numerical strength of the Guard is as follows: Officers of the General Staff, 11; First Regiment, 41 officers, 537 enlisted men; Second Regiment, 41 officers, 589 enlisted men; Ambulance Corps, 1 officer, 21 enlisted men. Total, 94 officers, 1,147 enlisted men.

Every requirement of the law relative to the Guard has been observed; schools of instruction have been held, the Board of Examination has certified to the fitness of all officers who have been commissioned, recruits have been examined by medical officers before being mustered, the several inspections have been made, and an encampment has been held.

SCHOOLS OF INSTRUCTION.

The schools of the First Regiment were held, one in Portland in April, and one in Biddeford in December; those of the Second Regiment, one in Lewiston in April and one in Bangor in December. Each Colonel was the instructing officer of the schools of his regiment, and he called to his aid such officers of his command as he pleased. Lieut. Mark L. Hersey, 9th United States Infantry, Military Professor at the Maine State College, was present at all the schools by invitation of Colonels Kendall and Philbrook, and rendered valuable service as an instructor. Lieutenant Hersey has responded to every suggestion that his aid was desired by promptly volunteering it and the Guard has greatly profited on many occasions by the energy, skill and enthusiasm with which the duties requested of him have been performed.

The law does not fix the duration of a school. Each school thus far held has been ordered to consist of three sessions, one in the afternoon and one in the evening of the day of convening, and one in the forenoon of the following day.

Officers receive only transportation and expenses for attending to this duty which requires at least four days in each year from every officer and from some, several days more. It shows their interest and zeal that they give so much time cheerfully.

In view of the expense attending the assembling of officers it would be hardly worth while to call them together for a school of less duration than three sessions.

INSPECTIONS.

General Choate, Inspector General, made a thorough inspection of each company of the two regiments in the first half of the year, and in the course of his tour condemned such articles of uniform and equipment as were absolutely unserviceable. His report of the inspection of each company was made in triplicate immediately after the inspection, and a copy was at once furnished regimental headquarters and the commanding officer of the company. Colonel Farrington, General Inspector of Rifle Practice, also made a tour of the companies of the two regiments, instructing and encouraging the members of the force and inspiring them with his own enthusiasm in rifle practice. Colonel Thayer, Surgeon General, inspected the Ambulance Corps, which is under his control. Colonels Kendall and Philbrook were authorized to visit the companies of their respective regiments a short time before the Encampment for the purposes of inspection and instruction.

At the request of the Governor and Commander-in-Chief, Capt. Charles B. Hall, U. S. A., was assigned by the War Department for duty in this State. He reported the first of June, and at once made a tour of the Guard, inspecting and instructing. Captain Hall was on duty with the militia of this State in 1892 and his return was warmly welcomed.

THE ENCAMPMENT.

The annual encampment was ordered to be held on the State Camp Ground from August 13 to 17, both days inclusive. Upon ascertaining that it was the desire of the officers and men to go into camp Saturday the 11th and that they were willing to serve the two extra days without pay, the Guard was ordered into camp that day, to arrive by the afternoon and evening trains. Sunday travel was forbidden and provision was made for all who were unwilling or unable to come Saturday to take the first trains on Monday. The number of those failing to report Saturday evening was a small percentage of the whole force. Sunday was a quiet day in camp. Religious services were held by the chaplains of both regiments and those members who desired to attend places of worship in Augusta were permitted to do so in detachments under the charge of officers.

The men rested and established themselves in their quarters and on Monday morning the work of camp-duty was entered upon without delay and prosecuted with zeal and faithfulness throughout the entire period of the encampment.

The Governor, attended by his Staff, the Executive Council and many State officers, visited the encampment Thursday, the 16th, and the Guard was reviewed by the Governor and Commander-in-Chief. The ceremony was remarkably well performed; officers and men acquitted themselves in a manner to elicit warm praise from many veterans and soldiers well qualified to form a critical opinion. The senior officer,

L. H. Kendall, Colonel of the First Regiment, was put in command of the encampment, and discharged that duty most satisfactorily, in addition to commanding his own regiment. Both he and Colonel Philbrook of the Second were untiring in their efforts to turn the encampment to the utmost profit as an occasion for drilling and disciplining their commands in the field and exercising them in routine and duties of camp life. Their officers and men showed alike soldierly spirit and a desire to improve the opportunity for acquainting themselves with a soldier's duty.

Gen. W. S. Choate, Inspector General, Col. E. C. Farrington, Inspector General of Rifle Practice, Col. Thomas P. Shaw, Commissary General, Col. Frederick C. Thayer, Surgeon General, Capt. Chas. B. Hall, U. S. A., were on duty through the entire encampment and you are respectfully referred to the reports of these officers for specific information relative to the performance of duties pertaining to the departments they respectively represent. Lieut. Mark L. Hersey, U. S. A., was assigned by the War Department, at the request of the Governor, as an assistant to Captain Hall and performed that duty with his usual energy and ability.

It resulted from the earnest spirit pervading the force and from the strict attention paid to duty that the encampment was orderly, well conducted, profitable to the service, and a worthy beginning of the annual encampments of the National Guard of the State of Maine. It was the largest encampment since the organization of the volunteer militia. The greatest number present on any one day was ninety-eight (98) officers and nine hundred and ninety-five (995) enlisted men.

SERVICE UNDER SECTION 89, CHAPTER 266, MILITIA LAW.

On the 28th of January the principal business square of Bath was entirely destroyed by fire. Upon the application of the municipal officers of the city Co. C, Second Regiment was ordered to report to them for guard duty. Co. D, Second Regiment, Lewiston, was the next day ordered to assist Co. C. Co. D, First Regiment, Norway, was ordered to perform a like service on the application of town officers after the fire which swept that town the 9th of May, 1894. These three companies gained great credit for this duty.

UNIFORMS, ARMS AND EQUIPMENTS.

Besides fitting out the two new companies and making the necessary changes in the uniforms of the two artillery companies, issues were made early in the year to other companies to take the place of articles condemned by the Inspector General and to supply those found by him to be required. Detailed information as to all issues may be found in the tables accompanying this report. The rifles condemned and turned in and those found in the storerooms of this office were examined by a competent armorer, and after all good parts had been selected a sufficient number of new parts were added to assemble fifty rifles. When returned by the armorer with barrels re-browned and other parts newly finished they were in appearance and for all purposes as good as new arms, while the cost of repairing was much less than that of new rifles. Unless provision is made by new national legislation for the exchange of our rifles for the army magazine rifles, it will be a long time before the Guard can be armed with the new weapon.

Some canteens and haversacks are needed to complete the equipment. None have been purchased because the need of other articles was more pressing. No more knapsacks have been procured because those in use are not of good pattern and it is hoped that special provision may be made for procuring the "Merriam Pack" for the entire force. A cartridge belt of blue webbing has been adopted in the service of the United States, instead of the cartridge box. It is with these as with the rifles; we are not likely to be able to procure them unless provision for exchange is made. I recommend that campaign hats be purchased whenever there may be funds available for the purpose. Uniforms, arms and equipments sufficient to complete the outfit of the minimum number of enlisted men of a company—fifty-five—should be procured and issued. With but few exceptions the companies can now uniform, arm and equip but forty-seven enlisted men each.

Company D, First Regiment, which had just received the uniforms, etc., including the new blankets, to which it was entitled, lost everything in the Norway fire except its arms and equipments. It was promptly refitted with everything needed except overcoats, which remain to be supplied. The commanding officers of Companies A and B, First Regiment, report that their property was somewhat damaged by fire recently. The Inspector General, who was ordered to inspect the property, has not yet made his report.

Until within a few years no returns have been required by the War Department of property drawn by the State under the Apportionment Act which is quoted in full in the report of this office for 1893. Now a strict account of all property received is required. In order that the condemned uniforms might be properly disposed of and dropped from the account they were submitted to the examination of a board of survey which reported a recommendation that they be sold at auction. Upon the approval of the report by the War Department the articles were sold at auction and the net proceeds covered into the treasury of the United States.

The result of the inspection the coming season by the Inspector General will probably be the condemnation by him of several articles of uniform, trousers and blouses principally, which at his inspection this year were considered serviceable for a little longer time. Issues will have to be made to replace such articles.

CAMP AND GARRISON EQUIPAGE.

The tents owned by the State are insufficient to accommodate the present force and many of them are so old and worn as to be well nigh unserviceable. Good care has been taken of them; after use they have been repaired and thoroughly dried before being packed away. Twenty conical wall tents, made to the order of this office by H. S. Lord, Bath, after the model of one drawn from the United States, were used at the encampment and were greatly liked by the men quartered in them. I regard them as preferable in every respect to wall tents and think it desirable that they should be purchased when tents are required. Notwithstanding the purchase of these tents it was necessary to hire twenty-five wall tents for use at the encampment.

The cook-houses are provided with ranges. All utensils and table furniture are kept in the storehouse on the camp ground and issued to companies for their use at the encampment; this plan which has been followed some years, appears to be preferable to supplying each company with a mess-kit to be transported to and from each encampment and to be exposed to the chances of loss and injury during the remainder of the year when the companies have no use for them in the ordinary course of duty. At the same time it would be prudent to keep on hand and in readiness to be sent whenever needed, some appliances for field cookery. The "Buzzacott Oven," which has been in use in the regular service some years, and has been adopted by several states for their troops, is an admirable device for that purpose—simple, compact, light and effective. At least a dozen of them should be kept in store to provide for emergencies.

ARMORIES.

I am pleased to report an improvement in the Armory accommodations of several companies. The following companies have been provided by the towns in which they are stationed with new quarters: C, First Regiment, Auburn; C, Second Regiment, Bath; E, Second Regiment, Skowhegan; H, Second Regiment, Waterville. The quarters of K, First Regiment, Brunswick, have been greatly improved. It is expected that G, Second Regiment, Bangor, will at an early date be put into possession of ample and convenient rooms in the old City Hall, and that the town of Norway will make generous provision for Company D, First Regiment, upon the completion of the Opera House. The lease of the building occupied by Company F, First Regiment, Augusta, expired in July and no suitable quarters were provided by the city although the attention of the authorities was timely called to the case. They appeared to be willing to furnish a suitable armory, but excused themselves on the plea that there were no rooms adapted to the purpose to be found in the city. The armories provided by the cities of Lewiston and Portland are insufficient and unsuitable. The city authorities of Portland have had the question under earnest consideration the past year and several plans have been proposed, none of which proved on examination to be generally acceptable. I am confident that their efforts will be continued until the city has an armory building worthy of itself and its citizen-soldiers. The favor with which Lewiston seems to regard its large and fine representation in the National Guard, would find a suitable expression in furnishing satisfactory armories.

THE STATE CAMP GROUND.

The following improvements have been made at the State Camp Ground: A guard-house and two cook-houses have been built, all the sinks and stables enlarged and the work on the mess-houses which was begun last year has been completed; mess-houses are now provided with doors and windows and the ends have been boarded. At the encampment two companies used hospital tents for mess-houses, and two used the headquarters cook-house and mess-house. To give twenty-four companies proper accommodation four new cook-houses and six new mess-houses would be required. An attempt was made a year ago to induce the water company to put in a high service and extend its mains so that the encampment could have an abundant supply of water. The water company expects to make arrangements the coming season for such service and in that event the water should be introduced and the camp ground conveniently piped. By arrangement with Mr. Gannett, the owner of the land intervening between the camp ground and the cross street from Western avenue to Winthrop street, a new roadway was laid out diagonally across Mr. Gannett's land, from a point a short distance from Western avenue. The grass on the camp ground was sold for sixty dollars.

I respectfully recommend that the appropriation for the military fund be increased to one-tenth of a mill on the State valuation, believing that the amount of such assessment is required to carry out the provisions of the law in a proper manner and secure an efficient National Guard. I also recommend that for the purpose of uniforming, arming and equipping the two additional companies of infantry required to complete the organization of the First and Second Regiments, and the one hundred and sixty men required to increase the strength of twenty companies to fifty-five men, the minimum number of a company under the law, of providing quarters on the State camp ground and camp and garrison equipment for the increased force, and of providing the Guard with the "Merriam Pack," a special appropriation of twenty thousand dollars be made.

In view of the fact that the Guard was deprived of an encampment in 1893 in order that much needed uniforms, etc., might be supplied, and of the unforeseen drafts upon the military fund caused by losses by fire and extra duty, I believe that such an appropriation would be just and wise. Any saving which could be made from the military fund would be applicable to the organization of a battery, as contemplated by the law.

Report of Inspector General.

To Brigadier General Selden Connor, Adjutant General, Maine:

SIR:—I have the honor to submit my report as Inspector General for the year 1894.

Besides the inspection made at the encampment, I have during the year made an inspection of all organizations of the National Guard, except the Ambulance Corps, at their several armories.

This inspection included a careful and complete examination of each organization, its personnel, uniforms, arms, equipments, armories and records.

I have made detailed reports of each company believing that the value of an inspection depends largely on calling the attention of officers and men to such matters as are open to criticism at once, thus giving opportunity for correction, and further, I doubt if the publication of criticism on minor points of drill are of advantage to the service.

Considering the whole inspection I am pleased to report that the progress made by the National Guard during the year has been marked and commendable, it is very encouraging and indicates a growing interest which, if continued, cannot fail to be of great benefit.

To sustain and increase this interest should be the endeavor of those having the military service of the State in charge. A liberal financial policy is necessary to insure the best results.

Consider what is given in time and money by the members of the National Guard as individuals, and no one will deny that the State should be liberal with them. We have about twelve hundred men in the service to-day, and if each soldier's time is worth fifteen cents an hour, and to that is added the money actually paid out on account of the service, I have no doubt it will equal the amount appropriated by the State for the support of the National Guard. I advocate no lavish expenditures in this direction, but simply such as will thoroughly equip the National Guard, furnish them with means to bring the service to a high state of efficiency, and provide an annual encampment of such length as to benefit the organization.

ATTENDANCE.

The attendance at inspections shows a marked improvement over that of 1893, and was, I believe, the largest in the history of the service; it was over seventy per cent of the entire force; and while this is commendable it is not what it should be, and by united efforts of officers and men it may be materially increased.

This increased attendance was more marked in the Second Regiment, in which it was nearly seventy-one per cent.

ENCAMPMENT.

The encampment at Augusta in August was considered by all to be the most successful and useful ever held in the State. The uniforms, arms and equipments have been put in good condition and the troops were well cared for as to food and shelter.

Marked improvement was shown during the encampment and officers and men made good use of the time.

I would call attention to the fact, that, so far as I know, the provision of section 106 of the militia law of 1893 were not enforced at the encampment. This section provides for a deduction from the pay of enlisted men who fail to appear at drills or parade without excuse; it was designed to remedy the evil of having so few men at battalion drills, and its rigid enforcement cannot fail to accomplish good results.

The attendance of officers from the regular army at our encampment is of great benefit, and the earnest and constant labors of Captain Hall and Lieutenant Hersey were fully appreciated.

The general order and police of the camp were good, the rations furnished were excellent in quality and abundant, and in consequence there was very little sickness, the hospital and ambulance taking good care of those who needed medical attendance.

Complaint was made that some companies were unable to bring in full numbers because employers were unwilling to let men off. It seems almost incredible that those who employ a large number of men, and who have ever been the first to ask for aid from the National Guard in cases of riots and disturbances, should be unwilling to make any personal sacrifice for the good of the service. Fortunately these cases are rare, and whether they can be successfully provided for by law is an open question.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

I repeat my recommendation of 1893 for the establishment of the brigade organization as being, in my judgment, the best for our force.

In the matter of uniforms I would recommend that the troops be supplied with leggins and campaign hats as soon as practicable.

I would recommend a special appropriation to send a team to the National rifle competitions which are now held annually at Sea Girt, N. J.

These competitions bring together a large body of the most expert military riflemen in the country, and the valuable information obtained by the teams, and through them communicated to other members of the National Guard, more than compensates for any small outlay in that direction.

The efficiency of the military force can only be advanced and maintained by persistent and consistent efforts; the great changes constantly taking place is bringing new material into the service and this requires drill and discipline. We do not maintain a standing army in which each man is expected to serve a full term of enlistment, and many serve a lifetime; and where for the officers it is a profession. This is not the policy of the State; but we should maintain a moderate force and keep it in such a state of efficiency, as will make it ample to preserve the peace and uphold the Executive on all occasions short of actual war.

Very respectfully your obedient servant,

W. S. CHOATE,

Inspector General.

Report of Commissary General.

OFFICE OF COMMISSARY GENERAL,
Portland, Me., November 1, 1894.

To Brigadier General Selden Connor, Adjutant General:

SIR:—In compliance with section 21, chapter 266, Laws of Maine, the report of the Commissary General is herewith submitted.

General Order No. 7, A. G. O., C. S., as amended by General Order No. 8, A. G. O., C. S., required subsistence from Saturday, August 11th to Friday, August 17th, for the National Guard at its annual encampment, and to this was added the fractional ration for the necessary guard and the members engaged in rifle practice, and Company K of Calais on Saturday, the 18th.

The interest taken by the Commander-in-Chief in this matter and the useful suggestions of the Surgeon General made possible the liberal allowance of fifty cents per ration and resulted in the most satisfactory subsisting yet experienced by the National Guard of this State.

As this was the first encampment for two years, the result of the efforts of the Adjutant General and others in bringing up the standard of the National Guard was apparent in the increased morale and numbers in attendance, and in line with this work, a careful and judicious diet was of first importance. To the Colonels and Quartermasters of the regiments much is due, for their experience and aid was cheerfully rendered and made possible the very satisfactory results.

Contract was made with the James E. Fuller Company of Augusta, and the very efficient fulfilling and quality of goods furnished was highly satisfactory. The Quartermaster General was untiring in his efforts to provide all necessary arrangements looking to the welfare of the troops. The rations provided included fresh meats (beef and lamb), fresh fish, corned beef, ham, baked beans, eggs, potatoes, onions, string beans, beets, pickles, prunes, bananas, white and brown bread, hard bread, coffee and tea, etc., etc., and was furnished as required to give necessary variety.

The number of rations furnished in camp was 676,234, amounting to $3,381.17. Incidentals for entertainment, $237.04, making total, $3,618.21. For the companies living at a distance, necessitating meals en route, arrangements were made with G. E. Woodbury at Bangor and Brunswick, and in quality and quantity were very satisfactory.

I have the honor to be very respectfully,

THOS. P. SHAW,

Colonel and Commissary General.

Report of Surgeon General.

WATERVILLE, ME., December 1, 1894.

To His Excellency Henry B. Cleaves, Governor and Commander-in-Chief:

SIR:—In compliance with the 22d section of an act to revise and consolidate the laws relating to the militia, I have the honor herewith to submit my report of the medical department of the National Guard of the State of Maine for the year 1894.

The medical department of the Maine National Guard, as at present organized, consists of a Surgeon General with the rank of Colonel; two Surgeons with the rank of Major; two Assistant Surgeons with the rank of Captain; two Assistant Surgeons with the rank of First Lieutenant; two Hospital Stewards, and an Ambulance Corps consisting of a Commander of the rank of Captain, one Hospital Steward, two Surgeons and seventeen men.

All of the surgeons are really regimental officers, appointed by the Colonels of the two regiments; but in the encampment of the current year, the department was in effect a special medical corps under the command of the Surgeon General.

I am fully of the opinion of Major Charles Smart, United States Army, in that the province of a military medical department is much more than caring for sick and injured men in times of peace. It is to have on hand a competent body of officers and men to provide needful supplies and professional care to the sick of camps and the wounded of battle; and that the regimental system is altogether incompetent to accomplish this object; and it was in furtherance of this idea that a post hospital was established at Camp Cleaves and all medical officers were ordered to report, on coming into camp, at once to the Surgeon General. There can be no doubt that the efficient work accomplished by the department during this encampment was largely due to this plan.

I am decidedly in favor, and fully believe it would inure to the efficiency of the department if the appointment of medical officers be made by the Governor, after examination by a medical board; and that they, with the Ambulance Corps, be constituted a special corps,—the officers being uniformed as staff officers and not as officers of a regiment, and under the command of the Surgeon General.

It is a pleasure to note that the personnel of the Guard is much improved over other years. This, in some degree at least, is due to the physical examination of the men. In the past, practically no examinations have been made, and quite frequently the examination papers have been signed without the surgeon having seen the men at all. This is no longer tolerated, and surgeons are directed to make thorough examination in every instance.

As a result of a visit to the camp of the Second Brigade, National Guard of Massachusetts, in July, 1893, I had a compact medicine chest constructed, much on the plan of those in use in that State, and I wish here to return my thanks to General Kittredge, Surgeon General of Massachusetts, for assistance and valuable suggestion in this connection.

Early in May, I invited Major Warren, Surgeon of the First Regiment, Major Fuller, Surgeon of the Second Regiment, and Captain Riker, Commander of the Ambulance Corps—who is a competent druggist—to meet and advise with me concerning a new outfit and the adoption of a supply table. As a result of this consultation, the following supply table was made,—made up almost wholly of tablets—and the medicine chest furnished accordingly.

Remembering full well when I was an assistant surgeon during an encampment, an artillery man had the misfortune to have a part of his hand blown off while firing a salute, and before being able to dress the same, we were compelled to borrow the necessary instruments from a local surgeon, I requested Major Fuller, Surgeon of the Second Regiment, to take into camp such instruments as would be necessary to meet such emergencies. I know of no good reason why the State should not supply its National Guard with all instruments necessary for the proper treatment of such injuries as may require the services of its surgeons. This would fill a long felt want, and I recommend the purchase of a full set of surgical instruments for this purpose, including splints and such other apparatus as may be needed.

During the last encampment the building formerly occupied for brigade headquarters was used for a hospital. It is poorly arranged for such purposes and very inconvenient, both for the sick and the medical officers. I recommend that a building be erected for a hospital large enough for at least twelve beds and the accommodation of several medical officers. This is essential to proper work in this department and will, I trust, receive the attention its importance demands.

Acting under section 6, General Orders No. 7, current series, I organized a Post Hospital at Camp Cleaves and detailed Major Fuller, Surgeon of the Second Regiment, as surgeon in charge; and I wish to acknowledge my appreciation of the very efficient manner in which this service was conducted. His report to me of this tour of duty I have the honor herewith to transmit. The recommendations which he makes I heartily endorse.

The work done by the Ambulance Corps this year has been efficient, and demonstrates the wisdom of its establishment, and both officers and men deserve the commendation which I am glad to bestow.

While there has been a notable improvement in the medical department since I first entered the service fourteen years ago, there is still amply opportunity for advancement; and an observance of the recommendations here made and an acquiescence to my requests on the part of the State, will result in still greater betterment to the medical department of the National Guard.

I have the honor to be very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

F. C. THAYER,

Surgeon General National Guard, State of Maine.

BATH, Me., November 26, 1894.

Col. F. C. Thayer, Surgeon General of Maine, Waterville, Maine:

SIR:—I have the honor to forward my report of service while in charge of Post Hospital, Camp Cleaves, during the annual encampment of 1894.

Acting under special order I assumed charge of Post Hospital August 12, 1894, and continued in charge until the close of the encampment August 17th. Details of Surgeons and Hospital Stewards from the First and Second Regiments were made so that one Surgeon and one Hospital Steward were constantly in attendance at the hospital day and night.

The prevailing sickness consisted largely of catarrhal colds, indigestion, over-eating and resulting diarrhœa. The men coming from different parts of the State, with sudden changes in food and shelter, together with the discipline and duties of camp life, accounted for many cases of mild attacks of illness. But one man was seriously injured. Private Hill of Company D, August 12, while wrestling with his own brother, sustained a fracture of left fibula. August 15, Assistant Surgeon Bradbury, with two members from the Ambulance Corps, were detailed to remove him to his home in Norway, where he arrived safely and comfortably.

August 12, medicine was prescribed to 28 enlisted men; August 13, to 75 men; August 14, to 90 men; August 15, to 97 men; August 16, to 68 men; and August 17, to 67 men, making a total of 425 prescriptions furnished during the camp. Every bed in the hospital was filled with the sick after the first day of camp until its close.

The hospital is entirely inadequate and poorly arranged for the purpose of caring for the sick. I would recommend the erection of a suitable hospital, containing a ward with at least twelve cots, together with a reception room, pharmacy, surgery and sleeping apartments for at least four officers.

The Ambulance Corps and camp hospital should be situated near each other. The Ambulance Corps did valuable service throughout the encampment and through the superintendence of Captain Riker is a very efficient corps.

The food, mess houses, cook houses and water closets were inspected each morning.

The food supplied was wholesome, abundant and well-cooked. The mess houses and cook houses were kept clean. The water closets after the first day were unclean and nuisances were constantly committed in them. A certain number of closets should be set apart and kept as urinals alone. By this means dry closets will be kept much cleaner and there will be less danger and annoyances from nuisances. It is my opinion that the architecture of the seats in the closets should be changed, so that defilement of seats and the commitment of nuisances would be reduced to a minimum. It could be done for a small sum of money. I would suggest that a proper guard be maintained over this department of the camp, and that a light be suspended in each closet during encampment.

Disinfectants were used in the vaults daily and they were kept in as sanitary a condition as possible.

The water and ice supply was of the best quality, together with a bountiful quantity.

A fair supply of medicines are now in hand at the hospital, but a few additions to the stock should be made before another camp. An inventory of each article, together with hospital furnishings, was made under date of August 17.

I desire to express my gratitude and appreciation to my superiors for their generous support in an endeavor to maintain an efficient hospital service to the camp, and to the Assistant Surgeons and Hospital Stewards for their unwearied and unselfish co-operation in the performance of their various duties.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

[Signed]

EDW. M. FULLER,

*Major and Surgeon in Charge,

"DRILLS AND CEREMONIES.

(a) Number and Nature of. (b) Proficiency in. (c) Field Exercises.

(a) The militia law requires the National Guard to parade for inspection by companies, battalions, or regiments twice each year, and the Commander-in-Chief may order any organization for review, escort, or other military duty or ceremony at his pleasure. In addition, there must be at least one annual inspection by the Inspector General or officer detailed for the purpose. Each company must drill twice each month, one and one-half hours each drill. Many companies drill once each week. An annual encampment is required each year upon the State camp ground, but this encampment may be omitted, if the commander-in-chief deems it for the best interests of the service. In the armories the drills are confined almost wholly to company movements and the manual; few attempt the platoon movements, and very few companies have drilled the setting-up exercises, firings, or extended order. No drill for riot duty or system for assembling quickly in case of emergency has been practiced. A system for the latter has been suggested, and will probably be adopted. (b) As a result of the personal inspection made by me, I class the companies as follows (the scale being that adopted by the Inspector General's Department, United States Army) : 1, bad ; 2, poor : 2, unsatisfactory ; 10, fair ; 7, very fair. (c) None. At the annual encampment the time is occupied with battalion drills in close order, and regimental dress parades and reviews.

PERSONNEL AND DISCIPLINE.

As a rule the officers and men composing the Guard are workingmen, mechanics, factory and millmen, woodsmen, and farmers. Some of the officers are professional men. They are sober, industrious, and intelligent, with but few exceptions. Physically they cannot be excelled. They are anxious to learn, attentive, and try to profit by instruction. Where companies are found to be poorly drilled and lacking in discipline, it is through the fault of the officers, who, from lack of ability or interest, do not properly instruct, and not that of the men. Discipline, in all that the word implies, is fair.

How Performed. Officers and Non-Commissioned Officers Well Instructed. Sentinels Well Instructed. Any Outpost Duty.

Very little attention paid to this subject in the armories. During the encampment of 1894, the troops, therefore, knew very little about guard duty and had to be instructed from the beginning. They showed themselves willing and anxious to learn, and at the end of the five days' encampment performed the duty in a very satisfactory manner. Lieut. Mark L. Hersey, Ninth Infantry, ordered by the War Department to report to me as assistant at the encampment, was placed in charge of this branch of instruction, and his report is as follows: "I have the honor to submit the following report on the guard duty of the encampment August 11 to 17: Guard duty was, on the whole, as well performed as could be reasonably expected of our National Guard organization. Not over twenty-five per cent of any one guard had, as near as I could find out, ever been in camp before. Officers, without exception, showed interest, zeal, and attention to guard duty. The field officers of the day were not sure of their duties always, but attended to them as far as they knew. Officers of the day and officers of the guard freely and frequently consulted me in regard to their duties, were quick to adopt suggestions, and carried out, I believe, all their orders to the best of their ability. The same commendation given to the commissioned officers applies to the non-commissioned officers of the Guard. I noticed about a dozen incompetent sergeants and corporals on guard during the week, but these same men would have been incompetent in any position. The sentinels of the first guard mounted, Sunday, did not receive altogether correct instructions. Some captains had instructed their men before going into camp to 'present arms' to all officers when they, the men, were on guard. Other errors of a similar nature had to be corrected. From this first guard both officers and men marched off guard considerably mixed in their ideas of guard duty. Monday was better. Tuesday regimental guards were established, and after that a decided improvement was noticeable, till at the last of the week guard duty, as stated above, was performed as well as could be reasonably expected. In regard to the ceremony of guard mounting, first sergeants failed to put their details in proper shape before marching on. The only exception was Sergeant Bartlett, of the Norway Company, who has received a year's military instruction at the State College. The men were generally unsteady in ranks—enough at least of such men at each guard mounting to mar very seriously the effect of the whole. The adjutant of the First Regiment was perfectly familiar with his duties at guard mounting, and made very few errors; the adjutant of the Second Regiment was not familiar with the ceremony, and made many errors, some of them very gross ones. Guard duty, on the whole, was performed better in the Second Regiment than in the First; there were more frequent inspections in the Second, men were more promptly in their tents after taps, and were not visible, at least on the parade ground, in front of their company streets, as they were in front of the First. Men walking around after taps were quiet, however, and the good order prevailing in camp throughout the week deserves marked commendation."

ARMORIES—LOCATION AND DESCRIPTION.

Each company has an armory, so called, but in nearly every case it is only a room. Portland has two armories for four companies; Lewiston has one for three companies and the Ambulance Corps. The State pays $100 per year per company, and the towns the balance of the rental. The armories in Portland are a disgrace to the city on account of poor construction and repair. The wonder is that men are willing to drill in them. Throughout the State the armory rooms are barren places, and are kept only reasonably clean. The exception to this is the armory at Eastport, which is owned by the company, and is a credit to the city and company; also the ones at Skowhegan and Brunswick which have been recently refitted, and rooms provided for officers and non-commissioned officers."

The following extracts are taken from a copy of Captain Hall's report to the Adjutant General of the Army, given by him to the Governor and Commander-in-Chief; they do not appear in the report as published by the War Department:

"During the past three months I have had an opportunity to see all of the companies in the State, and have visited and inspected twenty of the twenty-two in their armories. As a rule I find the officers and men very much interested in military matters, anxious to learn, attentive, and well pleased when they can make a good showing. * *"

It affords me the greatest pleasure to note the great improvement in the National Guard during the past two years. I inspected the encampment of 1892 and the companies in their armories shortly before and after that time.

To-day I find the moral tone of the troops raised one hundred per cent. There is more attention to duty, more self respect shown as soldiers, better discipline, and a marked advance in military courtesy.

I was present at the railroad station on the afternoon of August 11, 1894, when the troops arrived for the encampment, which was to officially begin on the 13th, inst. The companies came in on troop trains, accompanied by their baggage and horses. In less than one hour all had been unloaded and the troops were on the march for camp. The depot is located in the centre of the city of Augusta, but during the time the men remained in the vicinity of same, there was not a single disorderly act, no loud noises, and the troops not employed in unloading remained with their companies. At the camp good order prevailed, and any noise after taps was exceptional. * * * * *

Too much credit cannot be given the troops for the soldierly manner in which they broke camp, marched to the station, and embarked on their different trains. Such good conduct and attention to duty has raised the guard in the estimation of the citizens of the State, and has convinced them that encampments are not held for picnic purposes, and shown them that the State has a reliable and fairly well drilled body of troops available in time of need."

Report of the Inspector General of Rifle Practice,
FOR THE YEAR ENDING OCTOBER 31, 1894.

To the Adjutant General of the State of Maine:

SIR:—I have the honor to submit my report of rifle practice, together with some recommendations regarding the future work in this direction. I am pleased to call your attention to the continued increase in the interest and efficiency of the National Guard as shown by the following statement and tables appended. The standard of efficiency is greater than ever before, the returns of individual practice showing a large gain in as effective riflemen. It must be remembered that four new companies have been added to the Guard without former knowledge in rifle practice.

The whole number of soldiers in the First Regiment, as shown upon the returns made to me at the close of the practice season is 548, as against 392 in 1893. The number of sharpshooters, 24; first-class marksmen, 48; second-class marksmen, 179; third-class marksmen, 132; practiced, not qualified, 74; not having practiced, 91; total, 548. Number of qualified marksmen, 383; per cent of marksmen, 69.30; per cent having practiced, 84; per cent having no practice, 16.

Whole number in the Second Regiment as returned, 599. The number of sharpshooters, 38; number of first-class marksmen, 46; number of second-class marksmen, 166; number of third-class marksmen, 100; practiced, not qualified, 124; not having practiced, 125; total, 599; number of qualified marksmen, 350; per cent of marksmen, 58.43; per cent having practiced, 80; per cent having no practice, 20.

Whole number of men in First and Second Regiments, 1,147. Number of marksmen, all classes, 733; number who have practiced, not qualifying, 198; number having no practice, 216; total, 1,147. Per cent of marksmen, 64; per cent having practiced, 81; per cent having no practice, 19.

Ambulance Corps—Number of men returned, 22. Sharpshooters, 2; first-class marksmen, 2; second-class marksmen, 6; third-class marksmen, 4; practiced, not qualified, 2; not practicing, 6; total, 22.

The following condensed table of rifle practice will show the standing of each company.

DETAILED STATEMENT OF COMPANIES.FIRST REGIMENT.

Company A, Portland. This company has increased its efficiency from 41.66 per cent of marksmen to 93.75, and takes second place in the regiment. Too much credit cannot be given the officers, and especially Corp. Charles Baker, the able inspector of rifle practice.

Company B, Portland. This company has sixty-two men on the rolls and has fifty-six qualified marksmen, and although occupying third place in the regiment, in fact has more marksmen than any other company. Captain Baker has shown himself to be a most excellent instructor in rifle practice and may well be proud of his company.

Company C, Auburn. The condition of the company is not much changed from 1893.

Company D, Norway. This company though showing a slight decrease in numbers of marksmen still maintains a strong company of marksmen. Much credit is due Captain Stiles for the hard work done the past two years by which such a record is made.

Company E, Portland. This company has more than doubled its number of marksmen, and now has forty-two per cent of marksmen. It is hoped that another year will find Captain Hogan able to take a still higher rank in the regiment.

Company F, Augusta. This company remains about the same as in 1893. Sergt. D. W. Lovejoy has put in much time and hard work to maintain the standing, under conditions that would have discouraged most company inspectors. Being one of the best riflemen in the Guard, his work has been of a high order.

Company G, Biddeford. This company through the efforts of its officers, and especially Lieutenant Scammon, the company inspector, has reached the top round, qualifying every man, taking first place in the regiment. The number of marksmen is fifty-one.

Company H, Rockland. This company shows a fair increase in marksmen, and many of those practicing and not qualifying, are very fair riflemen, and with a little more attention would have added largely to the per cent of efficient men. Captain Ulmer has worked hard for his command, and deserves much credit.

Company I, Lewiston. This was one of the new companies transferred to the First Regiment. It had to start new in the work, and has made a good record, having 47.91 per cent of marksmen. Lieutenant Morriarty, the company inspector, has made a most commendable record for the first year, and if a few of those who do not take kindly to the rifle were replaced by others, he would soon have a company of marksmen second to but few in the regiment.

Company K, Brunswick. This was another of the new companies. They have excellent material for riflemen, and their record of eighty-one per cent of marksmen speaks for itself. Lieut. W. C. Goodwin, the company inspector, has proved himself not only an excellent rifleman but a first-class instructor.

Company L, Portland. This is another of the new companies, and for the first year has done very well. Captain Conley and his officers have done considerable hard work in the endeavor to secure a good standing, and with the experience of the past season, it may be expected that liberal gains will be made another season.

SECOND REGIMENT.

Company A, Hampden. This company had but twenty-eight men on its roll at the close of the season of 1893, and at the close of this season it returns fifty-eight men. It returned twenty marksmen, all classes, in 1893, and this year returns thirty-four. This is a gain in numbers qualified, but reduces its per cent. Sixteen men have had no practice, much too large a number for a company which has now good facilities for range work.

Company B, Lewiston. This company remains about the same as in 1893. There are altogether too many men that take little interest in rifle practice. The range facilities are not the best, and this is one reason why a better standard is not maintained. The company, however, does not show the strength it should and it is hoped that another season will find it doing better work on the range. Lieutenant Paul, the company inspector, is one of the best in the State and has done much hard work in his endeavor to make a company of riflemen.

Company C, Bath. This is the weakest company in the regiment, in point of marksmen. Its range facilities are very poor, and much effective work cannot be expected until a more convenient and better range is secured. The officers always seem anxious to maintain a good record, but the men as a rule do not take the interest a soldier should in this important part of the duty. Extra efforts will be made another year to increase the standing in rifle practice.

Company D, Lewiston. This company shows a slight falling off in marksmen. The same reasons hold good in this as in Company B of the same city.

Company E, Skowhegan. This was once one of the best companies in the State as riflemen. The last two years but little good work has been done, and its record now is next to the poorest in the regiment. Lack of interest on the part of its officers is the only reason I can see for its present condition.

Company F, Dover. This company just about holds its own, which is not an enviable record. It has good material, but there is not sufficient interest on the part of its officers. It lacks a good range, which must be provided for early another season.

Company G, Bangor. This company shows a slight falling off from its high standing of 1893. It has a good record, however, and with the providing of a new range, which is promised early in 1895, not much doubt can exist but what it will retain its standing or increase it.

Company H, Waterville. This company shows a good improvement over 1893. It has too many men who cannot be interested in rifle practice. Much credit is due Corp. J. H. Whitehouse for the work done this season.

Company I, Eastport. This company has made excellent gains over 1893. Its range facilities are not sufficient, attention to which will be had next season, and then there can be no doubt it will be a sharp competitor for first place in the regiment. It stands second now.

Company K, Calais. This is the banner company of the regiment and the State. It has sixty-one men on its rolls, every one a marksman. This is not all, for reference to the table it will be seen that they are marksmen of a high grade. The officers take a lively interest in rifle practice. Captain Lee and Lieutenant Adams know how to get good work out of their excellent company.

Company L, Houlton. This company is one of the new commands, and it was not armed till late in the season, and had no range till mid-summer. Captain Hume and his efficient company inspector, Sergt. Geo. A. Taber, did splendid work for the time they had, qualifying more than half of the company and bringing to the State matches one of the best teams in the State. Weeding out a few men who care nothing for the rifle, and care in enlistments, will make this company among the very best in the State.

AMBULANCE CORPS.

Rifle practice is not enforced in this part of the Guard, but the men are desirous to be marksmen, and the State issued them ammunition, and under the instruction of Captain Riker they have made a good record.

RANGES.

All the companies are now provided with very fair ranges, except Companies F of Dover, G of Bangor and C of Bath, of the Second Regiment. Those companies need new ranges and efforts will be made early in the spring to secure them. The selection of one in Bangor has been made by the officers of that city. The other two companies will, it is hoped, be able to find a suitable place, and ranges built early in the season of 1895. Companies B, D and I of Lewiston, need a better and more convenient range, and an effort will be made soon to see if those companies and Company C of Auburn, of the First Regiment, cannot be provided with a range so arranged as to accommodate the four companies. As it is now, but few men can occupy the range at the same time, and often soldiers have to return without taking any firings, after having walked nearly two miles for the purpose of rifle practice. If such an arrangement can be made it will add greatly to the work in those commands.

A STATE RANGE.

There can be no question but what the State should have a good rifle range, from 200 to 1000 yards. There is now nor never has been any State range. The method has been to make temporary arrangements for annual matches with as little cost as possible. The new magazine rifle adopted by the government, with a range of more than two miles, will make it necessary that the State commence soon to locate and maintain a rifle range for its soldiers.

THE NEW MAGAZINE RIFLE.

Agreeable to the wishes of the Adjutant General, in company with Gen. W. S. Choate, Inspector General of Maine, a reasonable test was made of the shooting qualities of the new arm, adopted by the United States government. The distances used was 200, 500 and 600 yards. We found that the rifle was quite accurate, but so poorly sighted that it was impossible to do good work without making allowance for elevation and windage. By doing this very excellent results were secured. With proper sights, as a weapon of war, it would be vastly superior to the present rifle, from the fact that its range would be twice that of the United States Springfield, and owing to the low trajectory, the danger space between opposing forces would be far greater. Nevertheless, to adopt it for a rifle that is intelligently sighted, and well understood by the Guard, and which also does accurate work at long distances, would be a doubtful experiment in my opinion. I have never seen a rational opinion given why so fine a weapon, so far as make ammunition goes, should be sighted in a manner that no good rifleman would use it unless compelled to.

INEFFICIENT SOLDIERS.

It is true that every year shows a gain in marksmen, and the Guard is growing stronger continually; it is also true that the State is clothing and equipping 15 per cent at least of its force who take but the slightest interest in the duties of a soldier, and who know absolutely nothing about the use of the rifle. Such men are worse than worthless to the State as soldiers, and your attention is called to this fact with the hope that the Guard may be relieved of their supposed services. Officers of companies are more and more made aware of this fact and are beginning to feel I judge that their commands are weakened by such soldiers. There can be but little doubt, but if all such men were discharged their places would be taken by better material, and the hard work of maintaining an efficient company by its officers be greatly lessened.

MAINE STATE RIFLE TEAM.

Agreeable to General Orders No. 2, January 15, 1894, the first steps were taken to prepare a State team to enter the competitions of the National Rifle Association which are held at Sea Girt, N. J., under the auspices of the New Jersey State Rifle Association.

The State rifle team of 1893, and other distinguished riflemen were called into competition and practice, extra ammunition being issued to them by the Adjutant General early in the spring of 1894. Practice was carried on, on the home ranges of the companies where the competitors lived, till they were called into competition, for places on the State team, which occurred at Brunswick August 10th, just prior to encampment.

At that competition sixteen men were selected in accordance with the highest scores made, as follows :

Gen. W. S. Choate, Col. E. C. Farrington, of the Governor's Staff, Lieut. Geo. A. Arthoine, Inspector of Rifle Practice of the First Regiment, Capt. M. P. Stiles, Co. D, First Regiment, Capt. J. E. Mitchell, Co. G, Second Regiment, Lieut. W. A. Paul, Co. B, Second Regiment, Lieut. Robertson, Co. A, Second Regiment, Lieut. A. A. Chapman, Co. F, First Regiment, Sergt. D. W. Lovejoy, Co. F, First Regiment, Sergt. W. W. Cookson, First Regiment (color bearer), Corp. W. F. Cummings, Co. G, First Regiment, Private E. J. Cram, Co. G, First Regiment, J. A. Fairbanks, Co. F, First Regiment, J. H. Littlefield, Co. B, Second Regiment, E. A. Guptill, Co. G, Second Regiment, and J. G. McMurry, Co. B, Second Regiment.

Too much praise cannot be given to these men who spared no effort to prepare themselves by diligent practice and training to acquit themselves with credit to the State in the contemplated matches. Never but once before, under the administration of Governor Plaisted, was Maine ever represented at these National matches. The National Guard of Maine are under obligations to Governor H. B. Cleaves, and Adjutant General Connor, for giving the team encouragement and securing funds to aid them in what might be considered an arduous undertaking, that of winning any distinction in competition with riflemen from large states where a much greater body of marksmen could be selected from, and who had year after year met annually in these matches. I can speak for the team who went, and assure the officers mentioned above that we not only appreciated their assistance, but were put under great obligations to the members of the Governor's Staff who so liberally contributed toward the expenses of the trip, especial interest being taken and much service being done by Col. Thomas P. Shaw in procuring assistance in transportation.

The team left Maine Thursday, August 31, and arrived at Sea Girt, N. J., Friday noon. Gen. Bird W. Spencer, Inspector General of Rifle Practice and executive officer of the association, tendered the team the use of tents and all needed furnishings, extending to the team all the courtesies possible, making every effort to have our stay comfortable and pleasant. I should not do justice to the officers of that association did I not inform the people of Maine that the attendance of a team from Maine National Guard was regarded with gratification and marked approval.

We found that the National Guard of the District of Columbia were on the ground, with a representation of forty men, and had been in practice for nearly a week before our arrival. The Georgia State team had been there several days, and a fine body of men they were, getting in condition for the best possible work the coming week. We were to meet the famous marksmen from the State of New York, and those from Pennsylvania and New Jersey fresh from their State matches. We had less than two days to practice as a team. We also found that such innovations had obtained in the conditions of conducting the matches that we were regarded by those competing, handicapped not a little. We were the only team that used the United States service Springfield rifle, with the government ammunition, as issued. I think men never worked harder to maintain a fair standing for their State, than did our team. I am free to say that the team did better work than I had expected. The fact that circumstances had hindered the men from practicing together before going there, made it more difficult to make large scores in team matches, but every hour's work on the range after our arrival showed encouraging improvement. On Tuesday, the 4th day of September, the teams were selected to compete in the National and Interstate matches. In the Interstate matches, the conditions were ten rounds at each 200 and 500 yards, and in the Hilton Trophy match, seven rounds at each 200, 500 and 600 yards. The following is the personnel of the team and total scores :

	Interstate.	Hilton Trophy.
Gen. W. S. Choate	89	90
Private J. G. McMurry	86	88
Lt. Geo. A. Anthoine.....	84	85
Sergt. W. W. Cookson.....	86	86
Private J. A. Fairbanks.....	77	89
Corp. W. F. Cummings.....	84	91
Lieut. E. A. Robertson.....	79	90
Lieut. W. A. Paul.....	80	88
Private J. H. Littlefield.....	84	71
Private E. A. Guptill.....	87	83
Sergt. D. W. Lovejoy	90	89
Col. E. C. Farrington	80	89
	1,006	1,039

In the Interstate match, at 200 yards, the Maine team was but two points below that of the highest team, making 504 points as against 506 of the New Jersey team, and in the match held fifth place, standing next to that of the New York team.

In the Hilton Trophy match, Maine held fifth place, standing next to New Jersey, the winner in the former match.

In the Interstate Regimental Team match, the team was made up as follows :

The conditions being ten rounds at 200 and 500 yards, and two skirmish runs of 20 shots each, distance 600 yards to 200 yards and return.

	200.	500.	Skirmish.	Total.
Capt. M. P. Stiles.....	42	44	151	237
Lieut. A. A. Chapman.....	44	43	145	232
Sergt. W. W. Cookson.....	44	44	165	253
Sergt. D. W. Lovejoy	43	45	157	245
Private E. J. Cram.....	42	38	134	214
Private J. A. Fairbanks	41	37	115	193
	256	251	867	1,374

In this match the Maine team led all competitors at the two hundred yard point and held third place in the match. It is proper to say that none of our men had ever practiced skirmish firings at long distances, and that they were brought into competition with the best skirmishers in the United States National Guard.

The time needed to strengthen the teams for team matches did not give the men but little time for entering the individual matches, open from Monday to Saturday. In these matches, however, some fine records were made.

Gen. W. S. Choate won the "Trenton Cup" with a score of 86 at 500 and 600 yards. General Choate also won prizes in the "All Comers' Match," in the match for the United States championship and in the revolver match. He also stood fifth in the "Wimbledon Cup" match. Col. E. C. Farrington won second place in the only match he shot in, the "Kuser Match," with a score of 101 out of a possible 105, three scores at 500 yards. Lieut. E. A. Robertson won second prize in the "All Comers' Military Match," with a score of 63, seven shots at 200 and 300 yards, and in the United States championship match. E. J. Cram won third prize in the "Sheutzen Match." J. G. McMurry won a prize in the "All Comers' Match."

That the State should annually be represented at these National matches, no one conversant with the benefits to the National Guard will for a moment question. With the experience of this competition and the proper encouragement on the part of the State, there is the best reason to believe that Maine can improve her standing as a State of marksmen another year.

I would recommend that a special appropriation of $1,000 be made for the purpose of sending a State team to attend the National matches of 1895. The Commander-in-chief, Governor Geo. T. Werts, was present nearly every day at the matches, and from him and the officers of the National Guard of New Jersey the Maine team received many courtesies. Great credit is due Gen. Bird W. Spencer, the executive officer, and his able corps of assistants, for the fairness with which the matches were conducted, and is a guarantee that competitors may expect fair treatment in future competitions.

REGIMENTAL INSPECTORS.

Under the new law regimental inspectors of rifle practice were appointed and commissioned as Lieutenants. These officers were Lt. Geo. A. Anthoine of Biddeford, for the First Regiment, and Lt. L. H. Newcomb of Eastport, for the Second Regiment. They have afforded me valued assistance in the encouragement of rifle practice during the practice season, and ably assisted me during the matches at encampment.

COMPANY INSPECTORS.

The company inspector of rifle practice is, if well selected, one of the most valuable members of the National Guard. I should have said officers if I could properly, and believe that such inspectors should be commissioned officers. The duties of a company inspector requires a man skilled in use of the rifle. He must, if successful, give a good deal of time in securing efficient work in the company. He gets no pay whatever for this labor, and may not have even the honor of rank his work is so justly deserving. Rifle practice has grown the past few years to become a recognized and important factor in the soldier's acquirements, in order to fit him for service, but no recognition so far as relates to company instruction is given it. We must always depend upon the company inspector for success in this department. A proper recognition of the services of those who perform the duties of company inspector, by giving them a rank of first or second lieutenant, would be simply justice.

FUTURE COMPETITIONS.

It is my opinion that there should be matches arranged for officers, field and line, separate or united, and the company matches should only be opened to those of a company who do not hold commissions.

SERVICE REVOLVER.

Very few of the officers have equipped themselves with the United States Colt's revolver. There can be no question but what every officer should have a revolver and know how to use it with quick and deadly effect. The fact that the law requires officers to furnish their own side-arms, makes it no small hardship to have to purchase a weapon, which all realize they should have. I think that the State should furnish each officer with the revolver adopted, and compel thorough knowledge in its use. The revolver would be State property and would retain its efficiency as a weapon as long as the rifle. Once supplied, very little expense would be thereafter entailed.

IN CONCLUSION.

I desire to express my appreciation to all those who have so faithfully assisted and encouraged me in the discharge of my official duties, for the timely performance of duties entrusted to them and for many courtesies received.

The interest taken in the work of making the National Guard more efficient, by the Governor, Hon. Henry B. Cleaves, has not only been a great help to me, but has lent encouragement throughout the whole guard. I am under great obligations to the Adjutant General, General Selden Connor, for prompt assistance, encouragement and advice in discharging my duties.

To Col. L. H. Kendall of the First, and Col. Geo. A. Philbrook of the Second Regiment, and the officers in their commands, my thanks are due for courtesies which has made my duties pleasant.

Colonel and Inspector General of Rifle Practice of Maine.

X. The orders of former years and the reports relating to the rifle competition of 1893, indicate that many articles of uniform and equipment are reported "lost" or "stolen," whenever any organizations of the National Guard are brought together. Company commanders will exercise the utmost care of the property for which they are responsible, and regimental commanders are enjoined to furnish them with every reasonable means of protection. Commanding officers of companies will be held to strict accountability and "lost at encampment," or "stolen at encampment," will not be accepted as a sufficient explanation of the loss of property.
