REPORT.

Hon. Henry B. Cleaves, Governor and Commander-in-Chief:

SIR:—I have the honor to submit my report as Adjutant General for the year ending December 31, 1896.

THE NATIONAL GUARD OF THE STATE OF MAINE.

The National Guard remains the same as in 1895, except that it has been increased by two companies of infantry organized on the 29th instant; Co. M, First Regiment, at Westbrook; Co. M, Second Regiment, at Machias.

The First Regiment, Lucius H. Kendall, Colonel, headquarters at Biddeford, is composed of companies designated and stationed as follows: A, B, E, and L, Portland; C, Auburn; D, Norway; F, Augusta; G, Biddeford; H, Rockland; I, Lewiston; K, Brunswick; M, Westbrook.

The Second Regiment, George A. Philbrook, Colonel, headquarters at Lewiston, is composed of companies designated and stationed as follows: A, Hampden; B, D, Lewiston; C, Bath; E, Skowhegan; F, Dover; G, Bangor; H, Waterville; I, Eastport; K, Calais; L, Houlton; M, Machias.

The Ambulance Corps, W. E. Riker, Captain, is stationed at Lewiston.

The Signal Corps, Lieut. G. W. Butler; station, Portland.

The strength of the Guard is as follows: Officers of the Staff of the Commander-in-Chief, 11; First Regiment, 44 officers, 632 enlisted men; Second Regiment, 44 officers, 595 enlisted men; Ambulance Corps, 1 officer, 4 non-commissioned officers, 17 privates; Signal Corps, 1 officer, 3 non-commissioned officers, 15 privates. Total, 101 officers, 1,266 enlisted men.

The officers-elect of the two new companies have been ordered to appear before the Board of Examination, January 2, 1897. In order to complete the three-battalion organization the election of a third major in each regiment is required.

The officers of the First Regiment were assembled for military instruction in Portland, April 24, and the officers of the Second Regiment, in Skowhegan April 28. Each school was under the direction of the colonel. The second school, usually held in the early part of the winter, was omitted this year owing to lack of funds and the fact that the U. S. Drill Regulations are now undergoing revision.

The Inspector General made his annual inspection of companies at their armories and in cases where it was deemed necessary, companies were visited by the Inspector General of Rifle Practice and by their respective colonels for the purpose of instruction.

THE ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT.

The annual encampment was held August 22 to 28. The commands went into camp in the afternoon of Saturday the 22nd and broke camp Friday, the 28th. Their service Saturday and Sunday was voluntary. Payment was made for five days. The camp, named "Camp Cleaves" in honor of the Commander-in-Chief, was under the command of Colonel Lucius H. Kendall, First Regiment, the ranking officer. Capt. W. S. Edgerly, 7th U. S. Cavalry, assigned to duty at the Encampment by the War Department in compliance with the request of the Commander-in-Chief, in addition to his duties as U. S. Inspecting Officer very obligingly complied with all requests for his advice and assistance. The Inspector General in addition to his own duties acted as Inspector General of Rifle Practice in the absence of Col. Farrington who attended only the regimental team matches on Saturday, the 22d. In the absence of Col. Shaw, Commissary General, the duties of that officer were most efficiently discharged by Lieut. Col. W. W. Whitmarsh, A. D. C.

The weather during the Encampment was all that could have been desired, with the unfortunate exception of Thursday which was so rainy as to prevent the review by the Commander-in-Chief which had been ordered on that day, greatly to the disappointment of the Commander-in-Chief, the Guard, and many citizens who desired to be present.

The Encampment was well conducted, the men were orderly and well behaved, as usual, and the drill varied and profitable. Much attention was given to "extended order" and to the firings. Campaign hats were issued to the entire command for the Encampment and its conclusion were turned in and stored. They were much more comfortable than helmets or caps.

The Post Hospital, under the direction of the Surgeon General, was organized and conducted in the same admirable manner that made it the subject of commendation at the Encampment of 1895.

Camp Cleaves was honored by a visit from that distinguished son of Maine, Chief Justice Fuller, and from Gen. Dalton, Adjutant General of Massachusetts. It was a matter of much regret that the rain on Thursday prevented the presence in camp of Senator Frye, President of the Senate of the United States, who was in the city and had signified his intention to visit the camp.

The largest number present was on Wednesday, when eleven hundred and fifty-three (1,153) officers and men were reported. The number is nineteen less than the attendance at the Encampment of 1895. Owing to unusual conditions which would have made it a hardship to compel their attendance more men than usual were excused from attendance. It is worthy to be noted that every officer of the First Regiment was present for duty.

ARMORIES.

The fine armory built by the city of Portland for companies A, B, E, and L, of the First Regiment and for the Signal Corps, was occupied by those companies in September. The spacious drill-shed is nearly completed and will undoubtedly be ready for use the ensuing month. The State and National Guard are under great obligation to Portland for this munificent provision for its companies of the Guard. It constitutes a worthy recognition of the importance of an available force of trained citizen-soldiers and affords an example to other cities of the State where companies are stationed. I am confident that the companies immediately benefited will manifest their appreciation by an increased interest in their duties and a determination to deserve by their conduct and efficiency the esteem and confidence of their fellow citizens. Indeed this conspicuous evidence of regard for the interests of its companies displayed by the leading city of the State cannot fail to exert a beneficial and stimulating influence upon every organization of the Guard in the State. Company F, of the First Regiment is now well quartered in the new City Hall of Augusta and has the use of the hall for drill. I regret that the city of Lewiston has not, so far as I am informed, taken any action this year towards building an armory on the lot purchased last year for that purpose. The reason given is the great expense of rebuilding bridges carried away by the freshet. The city should regard it as its next pressing duty to furnish suitable quarters for the four companies which are in great need of better accommodations.

The Inspector General reports that the armories at Lewiston are "not at all satisfactory," and that improved quarters are needed by the companies stationed at Hampden, Calais, Waterville and Houlton; that at Waterville there is a prospect that a better armory will soon be provided.

THE STATE CAMP GROUND.

No buildings have been erected the past year. Two mess-houses and two cook-houses will be required before the Encampment of 1897 for the accommodation of the two companies M recently added to the First and Second Regiments.

The increase of the force renders it more desirable than ever that the parade should be enlarged by removing the headquarters buildings to the eastern extremity of the ground. When this is done and a new site for the post hospital is selected there should be a hospital building, an improvement which the Surgeon General has constantly urged and which would have been made but for lack of funds. The headquarters buildings which have been used for that purpose are neither well situated nor convenient.

The regimental stables should be so arranged that the horses of each regiment may be stabled in one shed or sheds contiguous to each other.

It is very desirable that a road be built from the southeastern corner of the Camp Ground, on Western Avenue, to the street in rear of the company cook-houses. It would make an easy grade from the summit of the hill where it should start from Western Avenue, by scarping the slope of the Camp Ground in places and bridging one or two ravines. Such a roadway would greatly facilitate the hauling of baggage and supplies and would obviate the nuisance of dust in the vicinity of the camp and the obstruction of the drill-ground by teams. The street in rear of the cook-houses should be graded and graveled. The roadway in wet weather is soft and muddy and is so rutted by the necessary teaming as to mar the appearance of the camp.

It would greatly improve the drill ground to remove the smaller inequalities of the surface and fill the holes and hollows. I do not mean by this to recommend grading to any considerable extent; that would be an expensive work and it is not desirable to change the natural contours of the field.

The grass on the Camp Ground was sold for seventy-five dollars.

RIFLE PRACTICE.

Col. Farrington, the Inspector General of Rifle Practice, takes a just pride in the improvement made by the Guard in rifle practice the past year and in its present standing as a body of marksmen. He declares that the Second Regiment, which qualified over ninety-five per cent. of its strength, may be justly regarded "the strongest regiment of volunteer guardsmen marksmen in the country." Some of the companies of the First Regiment have a fine standing as marksmen. Some have labored under a disadvantage in not having good range facilities. Others have not made due efforts to become proficient. Skill in the use of his weapon is so important an accomplishment of the Guardsman that those companies which have reasonable facilities for practice and do not earnestly try to reach the highest qualification should have heroic treatment. Indifference on the part of any company to its duty in this respect, involving also a disregard for the interests of the regiment, indicates a lack of soldierly spirit injuriously affecting the company in every respect and it should not be tolerated. The Inspector General of Rifle Practice reports that companies have taxed themselves for ammunition for practice in addition to that issued by the State. The allowance to a company has been one thousand rounds of fixed ammunition and thirty-five hundred bullets and primers with reimbursement for powder used with that number of bullets and primers in reloading. To further encourage rifle practice, and to provide a sufficient number of shells for reloading I think it would be well to add five hundred shells to the present annual allowance.

I should approve the recommendation of the Inspector General of Rifle Practice as to a State Range if the legislature should not only provide for purchasing and equipping one but also make special provision for the necessary expenses of the extensive use of the range which its establishment would imply.

LIABILITY OF THE NATIONAL GUARD TO SERVICE AT THE CALL OF THE UNITED STATES.

Among the questions required by the War Department to be answered by the U. S. Inspecting Officers assigned to duty with State troops, is this: "Do State laws provide for State troops being called into service of the United States?" This interrogatory presumably refers to the active organized militia or National Guard and not to the enrolled militia. While I have no question that the National Guard of the State of Maine would respond with alacrity to any call for service, it may be somewhat doubtful whether under section 7, article V, part first of the constitution it would be compelled to obey an order to march out of the State. There ought not to be any doubt upon this point. An occasion may arise when it will be of great importance that the country shall be able to call into immediate service troops of some degree of training. The government should be able to command the services of the troops for whose training it has contributed. In the case of our National Guard it would seem sufficient to empower the Governor and Commander-in-Chief to order it out of the State and into the service of the United States if the enlistment paper should be so amended as to require consent to render such service.

The United States could properly make it a condition of allotment of the appropriation in aid of the militia that the laws of the State provide for calling the active militia, or National Guard, into the service of the United States.

UNITED STATES APPROPRIATION.

Under a law of the United States which is contained in the report of this office for 1893 the sum of $400,000 is annually credited to the several states of the Union for the purpose of supplying the militia with arms, equipments, uniforms and other quartermasters and ordnance stores. The property thus drawn does not become the absolute property of the State; the State has only the use of it and the governor is required to make an annual return to the War Department accounting for it. The allotment to Maine for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, is $5,175.67. Efforts have been made from time to time by officials and others interested in the maintenance of a National Guard adequate in numbers and efficiency to the needs of a great and growing country, to secure an increased appropriation from the national government corresponding to the increase of the country in population and wealth since the appropriation for the militia was originally made. The attempt is now being renewed and it is to be hoped that it will prove successful. Recent events have caused the government to begin the work, on a suitably extensive scale, of protecting our exposed cities on the seaboard, and to continue the policy of enlarging the Navy. It is probable also that the regular army will be increased in order that the defensive works under construction may have at least a nucleus of skilled men to man them. In this scheme of preparation for contingencies, dictated by a prudent regard for the honor and welfare of the country and the lives and property of its citizens, the National Guard should not be overlooked. Under the present conditions of warfare effective troops cannot be improvised. When patriotic young men associate themselves for training in military exercises and contribute not only their time but money in addition to their small receipts for duty under pay for the maintenance of their organizations and for supplementing the supplies furnished by the State, they should receive from the national and State governments encouragement to the extent at least of meeting their reasonable expenses, and aiding them to attain the highest possible efficiency. Liberality on the part of the general government would lead to more generous provision by the states, and such recognition of the value of volunteer organizations would strongly tend to raise their standing in all respects. A larger appropriation by the general government would make it possible to maintain companies of artillery, cavalry and other arms which are not now deemed practicable on account of the expense, and to give greater facilities for instruction.

DATA FOR A HISTORY OF THE MAINE TROOPS.

Under the "Resolves providing for the collection of the necessary data for a History of the Maine Troops in the War of the Rebellion," approved March 27, 1895, a few additions have been made the past year to the manuscript material for a history—accounts of personal service, war episodes, &c., contributed in response to the circular or to special requests from this office. A few books have been bought. The preservation of the rolls, which is one of the objects named in the Resolves, seemed to be of the first importance and accordingly the appropriation has been mainly devoted to that purpose. The rolls of the third and fourth regiments have been backed with the best and strongest transparent linen and substantially bound in volumes as large as can be conveniently handled. This work is necessarily quite expensive, but the rolls, many of them, are in such a dilapidated condition that there was no other way, so far as I could ascertain, in which they could be preserved and used for reference. It requires such exceptional skill to do this delicate work that it cannot be performed at once but only with such degree of expedition as the difficulty of procuring workmen of sufficient skill may render possible. I trust the legislature may renew these Resolves and make an increased appropriation for continuing the collection of historical data and the preservation of the rolls.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

I renew the recommendations made in former reports that every company of the Guard be provided with uniforms, arms and equipments for the number of men prescribed by law as the minimum number of a company; that haversacks, canteens, meat cans, rubber blankets, shelter tents, and field mess outfits sufficient to equip the entire Guard, be procured and kept in store for issue at need. I recommend also that nineteen more conical wall tents be procured in order to provide for all the organizations of the Guard when increased to the minimum number. The woven cartridge belt now a part of the equipment of the infantry in the regular service is so preferable on all accounts to the cartridge box that the Guard should be equipped with them as soon as practicable. Many of the Springfield rifles in the hands of the Guard have been so long in use that it is very desirable that they should be replaced. In the report of this office for 1895 reference was made to efforts that were being made to induce the general government to issue new Springfield rifles in exchange for the worn and more or less unserviceable arms in the possession of the National Guard of the several states. Those efforts are being renewed and there is a good prospect that the present Congress will authorize such exchange. Other recommendations are made under the heading "State Camp Ground."

The cost of the improvements, additional equipments and stores recommended cannot be defrayed from the military fund without injuriously affecting the National Guard by curtailing the expenses of its annual duties prescribed by law; for instance, by omitting the Annual Encampment as was done in 1893 in order to save funds for much needed uniforms. There is an impression in many quarters that the appropriation to the special military fund under the law of 1893 is much more liberal than in prior years. The annual appropriation before the enactment of the law of 1893 was $20,000. The appropriation for each of the years 1893 and 1894—one-twelfth of a mill on the State valuation—was $26,185.87; for each of the years 1895 and 1896—one-tenth of a mill—it was $32,447.83. It is probable that one-tenth of a mill on the increased valuation will yield a few hundred dollars more for 1897 and 1898. It is true that the appropriation is larger, but the expenses have been correspondingly increased by the provisions of the law for an increased force, increased pay of members of the National Guard, and additions to the duties necessitating expense. These features of the law are, in my opinion, wise and just and necessary for the maintenance of a sufficient and efficient force. The increase of the force is best shown by the number attending the Annual Encampments. At the Encampment of 1891—there is no report for 1892—there were nineteen companies aggregating "seven hundred and seventy-two (772) officers and men, the largest number in camp for many years," according to the report of the Inspector General. The number of officers and men present at subsequent Encampments was, in 1894, ten hundred and ninety-three (1,093); in 1895, eleven hundred and seventy-two (1,172); in 1896, eleven hundred and fifty-three (1,153). The addition of two companies makes it probable that there will be present at the Encampment of 1897, 26 companies numbering at least 1,272 officers and men—seven more companies and five hundred more officers and men than were present at the Encampment of 1891. Of these seven companies four are stationed in the extreme eastern part of the State and the cost of their transportation constitutes a considerable item in the increased expenditures now necessary for the maintenance of the National Guard.

Concurrently with this increase of force which was desirable for the purpose of completing regimental organizations and of profiting by favorable opportunities to organize companies at advantageous stations, it has been necessary to complete the old mess-houses, to build new mess and cook-houses for new companies, and other buildings for general purposes, on the State Camp Ground, and to supply tents, uniforms and other articles to replace worn and unserviceable property.

It would greatly advance the interests of the Guard if special provision should be made for carrying out the recommendations made herein. I trust that at least one may be made for uniforming, arming, and equipping the two companies just organized, since, if the cost be defrayed from the military fund the Guard will suffer through the consequent necessity of shortening the period of the Annual Encampment. The duration of each Encampment of the past three years has been five days of paid duty, beginning Monday. The Guard has turned this short period of service to the best account by generously volunteering to go into camp on Saturday, thus serving two days without pay.

The clerical work of the office in answering requests for information relative to the service of soldiers in the war continues to be about the same as in former years. Three hundred and seventy-seven original certificates of service, requiring investigation of the records, and many duplicates of certificates formerly made have been furnished within the year. Captain Thomas Clark remains clerk in the office where he has rendered faithful service for many years. His duties have been in addition those of a quartermaster and ordnance sergeant, receiving and issuing stores.

REPORT OF COMMISSARY GENERAL.

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSARY GENERAL,
Portland, Maine, November 5, 1896.

To Brigadier General Selden Connor, Adjutant General:

SIR:—In compliance with Section 21, Chapter 266, Laws of Maine, the report of the Commissary General is herewith submitted.

The date fixed for the annual encampment occurring to prevent my attendance, application was made to be excused, and for a detailed statement, the report of Lieutenant Colonel W. W. Whitmarsh, who took charge of this department, will give full information.

By request, such arrangements, as far as possible, were made by me, and a contract was made with the "The J. E. Fuller Co.," which was carried out highly satisfactory to all. Some criticism was evoked at the awarding of the contract, but after careful examination and consultation, the health and welfare of the troops being the first consideration, it was deemed most wise and feasible to take this action, and results proved no mistake had been made.

It may not be out of place at this time, as this is the last report that I shall make as Commissary General, to attest to the careful interest evinced by the Governor that the troops should have the best of food and plenty of it, and to him should be given largely whatever credit may be awarded this important part of all the encampments.

The rations have been of a quality and variety that is not excelled in any State encampment of the National Guard having the same system, and while the expense may be a trifle in excess of other states, yet the results amply repay the cost and effort. Time and experience will remove many of the objections that now exist, and I bespeak for the National Guard the same liberal treatment in the future.

To you, sir, to the other officers of the general staff and to the officers of the different organizations, my thanks are due for the courteous treatment, ever ready, in my associations and in the discharge of my duties, and I trust that the future may bring increased interest and zeal, and that success may attend the National Guard of Maine in reaching the high ideal hoped for.

I have the honor to be very respectfully,

THOS. B. SHAW,

Colonel and Commissary General.

TABLE K.

REPORT OF INSPECTOR GENERAL.

Brigadier General Selden Connor, Adjutant General, Maine:

SIR:—I have the honor to submit my report as Inspector General for the year 1896.

I have inspected the several companies of the first and second regiments at their armories, in accordance with orders, and attended the encampment at the State camp ground, August 24-28.

Reports in detail of the several company inspections will be forwarded, I have not thought best to embody in this report those minor criticisms of drill which are made upon the companies at these annual inspections, believing that greater good will come to the organizations by forwarding them separately with copies for the regimental commanders and the commanding officers of companies.

The National Guard has made considerable improvement during the year and in general efficiency is in advance of any previous year of my inspections.

ARMORIES.

The most marked change for the better had been made in the character of armories during the administration of Governor Cleaves.

In the first regiment but three companies, G, of Biddeford, I, of Lewiston, and K, of Brunswick, occupy the same armories they did four years ago. Of these companies G and K have very good accommodations. I has quarters with two companies, B and D of the second, and with the ambulance corps, which are not at all satisfactory and it is hoped that the city of Lewiston will soon have a suitable armory for all the companies located there.

In Portland A, B, E and L companies of the first regiment and the signal corps have been provided by the city with the finest armory in the State.

These several organizations are to be congratulated; and the city of Portland and its officers who labored for the accomplishment of this object, have done a lasting service to the National Guard of the State and one that should be fully appreciated by all having an interest in the service. In Auburn, C Company has a new armory with good drill hall and property rooms well arranged for the convenience of the members and the care of State property. In Norway, D. Company has quarters in the new town hall with property and company room well arranged and the use of the hall for drill. F Company, of Augusta, occupy rooms in the new City Hall building and use the large hall for drill, the rooms are well arranged for the safety and proper care of State property and for the convenience and comfort of offices and men. H Company, of Rockland, has been practically reorganized during the year and has the skating rink for its armory. I have not visited the company in its new quarters but am informed that they are ample for all purposes.

The companies of the second regiment are not so well provided for. A, of Hampden, B and D, of Lewiston, F, of Dover, I, of Eastport, and K, of Calais, have made no change except in the way of repairs or slight improvements.

The armory of A, of Hampden, is the town hall with several posts supporting the floor above, which interfere very much with drill. B and D, of Lewiston, occupy the same building as I, of the first regiment. F, of Dover, has fair accommodations. I, of Eastport, owns a good armory, well adapted to its uses.

The armory of K, of Calais, is altogether too small for this company, so small that it has been necessary, in my several inspections, to divide the company for drill. C, of Bath, have very good quarters centrally located in a new building on the main street. E, of Skowhegan, has greatly improved its surroundings and now has a good sized drill hall and fair officers' rooms. G, of Bangor, is located in the old city hall, which has been remodeled, the drill hall is large and the rooms very well situated for the use of the company. H, of Waterville, is at present located in very fair quarters though the drill hall has several posts which interfere with the drill. I am informed that when the new city building is completed the old city hall will be fitted up as an armory. L, of Houlton, has a hall which is not large enough to drill the company to advantage and the rooms for officers are small.

Taken together, while there has been great improvement in our armories during the last four years, it is to be hoped that there will be changes for the better in several of them, particularly in the second regiment.

It is of great importance that armories should be well adapted for drill, the halls large enough to execute company movements and the rooms for officers and men made pleasant and comfortable. The idea that anything will do for the National Guard is fast dying out, and the towns and cities where companies are located are realizing that, to keep them, they must provide better accommodations.

INSPECTIONS.

The drill at the inspections of the several companies shows improvements in many respects, although errors are altogether too common, careful study will do much to obviate these errors and the necessity of this cannot be too strongly impressed upon company officers. While failures to follow strictly the drill regulations may not greatly detract from the strength and efficiency of the company, it does destroy that uniformity of movement which adds so much to the appearance of troops in drill and inspires the soldiers with confidence in each other and in their organization.

The following tables show the attendance of the several companies at armory inspections:

FIRST REGIMENT.

Company.	STRENGTH.				PRESENT.				ABSENT.		Per cent.
	Commissioned officers.	Non commissioned officers.	Privates and musicians.	Total.	Commissioned officers.	Non-commissioned officers.	Privates and musicians.	Total.	No excuse.	Excuses offered.

Total	31	113	408	552	29	91	285	405	54	83	.73+

The attendance of the first regiment is over seventy-three per cent., against .665 in 1895, and is the highest percentage of attendance, at company inspections, in the history of the regiment.

SECOND REGIMENT.

Company.	STRENGTH.				PRESENT.				ABSENT.		Per cent.
	Commissioned officers.	Non-commissioned officers.	Privates and musicians.	Total.	Commissioned officers.	Non-commissioned officers.	Privates and musicians.	Total.	No excuse.	Excuses offered.

Total	33	104	406	543	32	91	308	431	42	70	.80-

The per cent. of attendance in the second regiment is a little less than eighty, against seventy-five in 1895, a marked improvement and, as in the first, is the largest percentage in the history of this regiment at company inspections.

The percentage of attendance in the two regiments is over seventy-six, a very material increase over 1895, when it was seventy-one, and is the largest attendance, so far as we have any records, in any year at these inspections. This attendance may be improved, but it is a great satisfaction to report a steady increase, in this respect, during the last four years. It shows interest on the part of officers and men in this, one of the most important duties.

No excuses were offered for the absence of fifty-four men in the first regiment and forty-two in the second. As to eighty-three in the first and seventy in the second, various excuses were offered, such as sickness, absence from town on furlough, working nights, etc.

ENCAMPMENT.

The encampment in the latter part of August was practically the same in its general features as that of 1895.

The sanitary conditions were good and the subsistence gave entire satisfaction to the troops.

In the matter of drill a marked improvement was made, especially in the first regiment, and instead of marching about the field in column of fours or companies, nearly all of the battalion movements were executed and the first regiment was given considerable exercise in regimental formations and drill.

To make these encampments of the greatest benefit to the service, the time should be devoted mainly to instruction in the branches of drill and discipline which cannot be taught at the armories. To accomplish this, the responsibility rests upon those field officers who, outside of camp, have few duties and little responsibility, they should give their entire attention for the few days of camp to their respective commands.

I am pleased to report that the behavior of the men outside of camp as reported and observed by me was orderly and gentlemanly.

The attendance at battalion drills is not what it should be, too many of the men, seem to have what is regarded as good excuses for remaining away, the absentees fail to get instruction in certain movements and when they do appear their mistakes detract from the appearance of the whole command.

The ambulance corps attended promptly to the duties in its department.

The signal corps made its second appearance at encampment and was of material aid at the shooting range and devoted the balance of the time to general drill in their department.

Among the distinguished visitors at the camp were Chief Justice Fuller of the supreme court of the United States and Adjutant General Dalton of Massachusetts. They were each received with the proper salute.

Capt. W. S. Edgerly of the 7th U. S. Cavalry was detailed by the war department to attend this camp. He gave the most careful attention to the duties of inspection and was of great assistance to the officers in drill particularly in extended order.

A severe storm on Thursday prevented a review by the commander-in-chief, this was a great disappointment to the troops who were anxious to appear that all might observe and appreciate the conscientious work done by them.

Taken altogether the troops derived great benefit from the instruction given, and it must be regarded as one of the very best encampments we have ever had.

RIFLE PRACTICE.

This important branch of the service has reached the highest point of efficiency ever attained in our State, and I have yet to learn of any State where so large a percentage of the entire force, have qualified as marksmen, under such a high standard of qualification as we require. The condition of this department reflects great credit upon the officers in charge and upon the company officers, who have given so much of their time to bring about this result; failure to maintain the present high rank would be one of the surest indications of a falling off in the efficiency of the force.

SCHOOLS OF OFFICERS.

In accordance with orders, I attended the schools of officers in the first and second regiments; and after a careful examination of the work done at these schools it seems to me wise to have but one meeting of officers besides the encampment. I can see no objection in requiring that one of the meetings "For Military Instruction" provided for in section 84 of the Militia law be held during the encampment. Under the present conditions I do not think that the benefit derived from the meeting in the fall sufficient to warrant the outlay.

BRIGADE.

I see no reason to change my views upon the question of the desirability of a brigade formation and fully believe it the best for our force.

OFFICERS.

Many changes have been made in the field and line officers of both regiments during the year; what was said in my report of 1895 as to the high character and intelligence of our officers is equally true at the present time. They are loyal hardworking gentlemen, fully alive to the importance of the positions they hold and deserving of cordial and hearty support.

NEW COMPANIES.

The organization of two new companies during the year at Westbrook and Machias will, with the election of additional majors, complete the organization of two twelve company regiments, an object much to be desired.

CONCLUSION.

Not during the last quarter of a century has there been a time when the great nations of the world were doing so much in the way of strengthening their armies and navies as at present. To prevent war we must be prepared for war, and it must be patent to every one that in this nation our great reliance must be upon the National Guard. The government appropriates four hundred thousand dollars for the National Guard of all the states, over one hundred thousand men, or about four dollars per man, that much is a great help, but it falls far short of what the interests of the service demands.

The State of Maine had done well towards its Citizen Soldiery, its legislature seldom refuses to grant any reasonable request having in view the advancement of the efficiency of our military force and our people generally have been ready to sustain it.

If anyone is desirous of obtaining accurate information regarding the true condition of the National Guard, he should study the facts given in reports of the several branches of the service, both by our own officers and officers of the regular army, and take the comments and opinions of those unprejudiced officers who are sent to our encampments by the United States; and in that way he will be able to form a much more intelligent and accurate idea of the true state of things, than by reading the annual and sensational letters, often published with large head lines, announcing a general lack of interest and predicting a thorough overhauling of the establishments: such criticisms are unfair and unwarranted by the facts.

We have at the present time a larger Volunteer force than ever before and it is better armed and equipped than ever before.

The inspection of 1896 showed the largest attendance in its history and the rifle practice has reached its highest figure of merit; to sustain this condition will require constant labor on the part of officers and men, they are willing to do all in their power and have a right to demand the support of all good citizens.

Yours respectfully,

W. S. CHOATE,
Inspector General.

TABLE L.

REPORT OF SURGEON GENERAL.

WATERVILLE, Dec. 14, 1896.

To His Excellency, Henry B. Cleaves, Governor and Commander-in-Chief:

SIR:—In accordance with the law governing the militia of Maine, I have the honor to present my report, as surgeon general, for the past year.

Major Frank S. Warren, surgeon First Regiment, whose commission expired August 20, 1895, was discharged on that date.

Capt. B. F. Bradbury was commissioned major and surgeon to rank from April 15, 1896. First Lieutenant J. B. O'Neill was commissioned captain and assistant surgeon, to rank from April 30, 1896. Dr. Gilbert B. Elliott of Brunswick was commissioned first lieutenant and assistant surgeon, to rank from April 15, 1896.

For many years Major Bradbury has served as assistant surgeon of the First Regiment. Always obedient and courteous, he has finally received the recognition to which his long and faithful service entitles him.

Other than these there have been no changes in the personnel of the medical staff.

By General Orders No. 2, Adjutant General's Office, C. S., Capt. Bradbury, Lieut. O'Neill and Dr. Elliott were directed to appear before a "Board of Examination" at Augusta on the 14th of April, 1896. This board is made up of officers who know no more of the duties of surgeons than does the ordinary surgeon of the duties of company officers. It seems to me that this travesty on examinations might well be dispensed with and a board composed of medical officers be organized for the purpose of conducting examinations of surgeons. Surely, it would not be more preposterous to require officers of the line to be examined as to the duties of surgeons, than to ask medical officers to go before a board made up of officers having no knowledge of the requirements essential to the proper discharge of the duties of surgeons.

In previous reports I have called attention to the growing necessity of more improved hospital accommodations. I have indulged the hope that I might see this work accomplished, and when I took charge of this department, expected, ere this, to enjoy its full fruition. Want of sufficient appropriation is the ever ready excuse. I trust in the near future proper buildings, appliances and instruments, will be provided the department, so that it may be able to fulfil the demands made upon it.

By Special Orders No. 10, I was directed to attend the sixth annual meeting of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States held in Philadelphia on the 12th, 13th and 14th of May last. A report of that tour of duty has already been submitted.

I wish here to make emphatic my idea of the great good accomplished by these gatherings. I believe them to be of inestimable value to the proper discharge of the varied duties of the medical officers of the National Guard, not only because of the instruction gained from the papers and discussions, but also because of the broadened views incident to association with medical officers of the army and navy and the national guard of other states.

The ambulance corps has lost nothing of its excellence during the past year. It has been supplied with new litters of the U. S. army pattern of 1895. This litter is durable and efficient, is simple of construction, capable of sustaining great weight and can be used and misused to almost any extent, without impairment. This provision has filled a long-known necessity and has greatly improved the efficiency of the corps.

The State may well be congratulated that men of such ability as are its present medical officers, are willing to devote their time and attention to the needs of the service; and especially is this so when the tenure is so uncertain and promotions come so slowly or not at all.

Acting under section V, General Orders No. 6, Adjutant General's Office, C. S., a post hospital was organized at Camp Cleaves August 22nd, and continued through the Encampment. Major Fuller, surgeon of the Second Regiment, was detailed as surgeon in charge of the hospital, and all other medical officers were directed to report to him for duty.

I wish to here acknowledge my indebtedness to Major Fuller for the very faithful and efficient manner in which he carried out my instructions and for the valuable suggestions he advanced.

Appended is the order organizing the post hospital, also the report of Major Fuller, surgeon in charge.

I wish to thank the medical officers for the uniform and cordial support which they have always given me and the readiness with which they have followed any suggestions made for the benefit of the service.

To General Connor, adjutant general, my thanks are due for the assistance he has been ever ready to render me.

And to your Excellency I am indebted for the interest you have manifested in the detailed as well as the general work of this department.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

F. C. THAYER,

Surgeon General.

STATE OF MAINE.

SURGEON GENERAL'S OFFICE.

CAMP CLEAVES, Aug. 22, 1896.

The following order is promulgated for the information and government of those whom it may concern:

In accordance with section V, General Orders No. 6, Adjutant General's Office, C. S., and by direction of the commanding officer of the camp, Col. Lucius H. Kendall, First Regiment Infantry, a post hospital is hereby established at Camp Cleaves.

Major Edwin M. Fuller, surgeon of the Second Regiment, is detailed as surgeon in charge of the hospital.

He will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

It will be his duty to determine and designate the kind and amount of service to be performed by the various medical officers of the Guard while in camp; to specify the hours of duty and relief, and to attend to all matters of detail in the management of the hospital.

He will cause to be kept a complete record of the medical treatment of all cases admitted to the hospital or cared for at the dispensary. He will see that a report of the condition of the health of each regiment be forwarded daily to its colonel, and a summary report of all organizations be forwarded to the commanding officer of the camp, and to the surgeon general.

These reports must reach their destination not later than nine o'clock in the morning.

Major B. F. Bradbury, surgeon of the First Regiment, will assist Major Fuller in the discharge of this duty, in such a manner as they can agree upon.

All assistant surgeons and hospital stewards will report to Major Fuller at the hospital as soon after arrival in camp as may be.

Capt. Warren E. Riker, commandant of the ambulance corps, will report to Major Edwin M. Fuller, upon arrival in camp.

F. C. THAYER,

Surgeon General.

Approved: LUCIUS H. KENDALL,
Colonel First Regiment Infantry, Commanding Camp.

Bath, Maine, September 10, 1896.

Col. F. C. Thayer, Surgeon General of Maine:

SIR:—I have the honor to forward my report as surgeon in charge at Camp Cleaves, during the late Encampment of 1896.

By special order, August 21, under your hand, I was placed in charge of the hospital and proceeded at once to put it in condition for the reception of patients.

The following circular was issued to the surgeons and assistant surgeons of the First and Second Regiments, together with a tour of duty for the same and for hospital stewards, as follows:

Circular No. 1, Post Hospital, Camp Cleaves, August 22, 1896. The following circular order is hereby promulgated.

I. It is desired to make this Encampment of the National Guard of Maine eminently successful from a medical standpoint. In order to do so it will be necessary to have the hearty co-operation of every officer in the medical department.

II. Details for duty will follow this circular.

III. The post hospital must not be left at any time, day or night, without, at least one surgeon or assistant surgeon, on duty and present at the hospital. This order must be followed with fidelity.

IV. Surgeons and assistant surgeons may be relieved from duty by substitutes for dress parade and for other purposes by mutual arrangement and by application to the surgeon in charge.

V. The hospital will be divided into two wards designated as ward I (at the hospital proper,) and ward II in the building adjoining on the left.

VI. Each surgeon or assistant surgeon temporarily in charge of the hospital will be held responsible for the proper sustainment of good order, and the proper maintenance of hospital environment.

VII. Each surgeon and assistant surgeon will remain at the hospital at the close of each term of duty until properly relieved.

VIII. The surgeon in charge desires to be consulted regarding the deposition of important matters at the hospital.

Very respectfully,

(Signed)

EDWIN M. FULLER,
Major and Surgeon in Charge.

Every officer to whom orders were issued performed their duties with dignity and fidelity.

The prevailing sickness consisted of indigestion and resulting diarrhoea. The leading causes were due almost wholly to indiscretions in eating and drinking.

The following table will show the number and percentage of sick and wounded each day.

	Number prescribed for daily.	Number of men in hospital.	Number ill in quarters.	Number in camp daily.	Per cent prescribed for daily.
Sunday, August 23.....	21	-	21	1,041	2.01
Monday, August 24.....	30	-	30	1,036	2.89
Tuesday, August 25.....	133	-	133	1,036	12.83
Wednesday, August 26.....	105	-	105	1,113	9.43
Thursday, August 27.....	91	3	88	1,062	8.56
Friday, August 28.....	25	7	68	1,098	6.83

Company commanders appeared to have a better control over the indulgence of excesses, among their men, this year than in previous camps which I have attended.

The cook houses, and mess houses, were kept very clean, and the food was well cooked and well served throughout the camp.

The ration supplied was wholesome, ample and satisfactory. All food was inspected daily. A better sanitary condition was maintained in the urinals and water closets than usual.

The ambulance corps rendered valuable aid and performed its duty well, throughout the Encampment.

There is a fair supply of medicines and surgical appliances at the hospital, and under separate cover, I forward you a complete inventory of all property contained in the hospital at the close of the Encampment.

I desire to express my acknowledgments to my superior for the many courtesies accorded me, and to extend my gratitude to the whole medical corps for their uniform courtesy while in the performance of their various tours of duty.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

(Signed)

EDWIN M. FULLER.

Major and Surgeon Second Regiment Infantry.

STATE OF MAINE.

SURGEON GENERAL'S OFFICE.

WATERVILLE, June 8, 1896.

To His Excellency, Henry B. Cleaves, Governor and Commander-in-Chief:

SIR:—I have the honor to report, that acting under Special Orders, No. 11, c. s., I represented the medical department of the National Guard of Maine at the sixth annual meeting of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States, held in Philadelphia on the 12th, 13th and 14th of May, last.

Although a member of the association for several years, this was the first opportunity I have had of attending one of its meetings.

I found the association to be a working body composed of surgeons prominent in the army, navy, hospital marine service, and the National Guard of the various states.

The papers which were read were practical and valuable, and the discussions which they incited gave evidence of the earnest thoughtful work of the men who give so much time and attention to the consideration of the sanitary environment and physical welfare of the soldiery of the country.

Some of the subjects considered were: Value of athletics in the training of soldiers; the emergency ration; instruction of the hospital corps; the annual encampment and what it teaches the surgeons of the National Guard; methods of caring for wounded, their transportation from dressing station to field hospital and from field hospital to general hospital, etc.; methods of instruction in first aid; modern methods of sewage and offal disposal in military posts. Altogether the subjects were practical, well presented, and being fully discussed, can but be useful to those who took part or listened.

The value of these meetings cannot be over estimated, and the interchange of experience and opinion can but be productive of good to the National Guard.

The medical officers of the regular service are very free to express their appreciation of the good accruing to them from their intercourse with the surgeons of the National Guard, and say that these meetings give them new ideas and inspiration in the prosecution of their work. How much more advantageous it must be to the surgeon of the National Guard to meet those men whose lives are devoted to military sanitation and gather wisdom from their experience.

I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

F. C. THAYER,

Surgeon General.

TABLE M.

REPORT OF THE INSPECTOR GENERAL OF RIFLE
PRACTICE

For the Year Ending October 31, 1896.

To the Adjutant General of the State of Maine:

SIR—In compliance with the law governing the making of the report of rifle practice by the National Guard of Maine, I herewith submit my report for the year ending October 31, 1896, with such recommendations and suggestions as seem proper for the advancement of the knowledge of marksmanship.

It is very gratifying to me, after so long a service in this department, to report a continual and decided improvement in quality of marksmen and numbers of those qualifying in the different grades of marksmanship, as well as an advance over any year in the history of the Guard.

Some gain has been made from year to year, but as the per cent. of marksmen increased it became more difficult to show decided gain. Nevertheless, you will see by the appended tables, that a creditable and substantial gain has been made during the season past, both in numbers and quality.

There has been expended at least 100,000 rounds of ammunition, which is quite a large quantity more than is issued by the State. It is only by an expenditure of ammunition purchased by the companies, that such excellence in rifle shooting can be attained. The interest shown by many of the companies, whereby they voluntarily tax themselves for an outlay of money and time, should be appreciated by the State and without doubt will be, in providing for the wants of the Guard in keeping it equipped in a manner suitable with its character and standing.

The figure of merit, or the per cent. of qualification as marksmen in 1895, was 70.40 and the standing, or efficiency as riflemen, was 1.92. The figure of merit at the close of the season of 1896, was 81.63 and its standing, 2.62.

This gain has largely been made by the remarkable increase in the Second Regiment, which has qualified 95.23 per cent. of its entire force, and secured a standing of 3.10. Seven of the eleven companies have qualified every member of their companies, and in the whole regiment there were but seven men that failed to qualify who practiced, and but nineteen having no practice.

This success has been accomplished by the most intelligent and determined efforts of the officers, and has been responded to with zeal by the members of each company.

Col. Philbrook, commanding, may take just pride in his efforts to bring about such good results, and may justly claim, I believe, to have the strongest regiment of volunteer guardsmen marksmen in the country. Lieut. L. H. Newcomb the regimental Inspector of Rifle Practice, has done most excellent work in his department.

The First Regiment made a small gain over 1895. However great the interest and efforts of most of the companies in the regiment, to secure regimental strength in rifle practice, there continues to be a number of companies which fail to make a reasonable advancement in this respect. Col. L. H. Kendall, and regimental Inspector of Rifle Practice Lieut. Geo. A. Anthoine, have been constant in their efforts to advance the standing of their command, and all things being considered, have no reason for discouragement.

Your attention is called to the "detailed statement of companies" herein.

SIGNAL CORPS.

In this organization there were returned upon the rolls of rifle practice, twenty men. Of these one is a sharpshooter, four first class, and four second, and two third class marksmen, six practiced and not qualified and three having no practice. Per cent. of qualification, 55.00, and standing, 1.85.

Nearly one-half of the command did no range work at all. I know of no reason why better work should not be done by this corps. They are armed with the fine shooting carbine United States rifle; their numbers are small, and I do not think the State ought to excuse them from qualifying every man, in some of the classes. If they need rifles at all, and it seems that their duties in the field as a signal corps would likely call them where they would need them, their knowledge as marksmen should be of a high quality, for their use of the rifle would naturally be quick and decisive.

AMBULANCE CORPS.

Rifle practice is not enforced in this organization, and they do whatever practice they are inclined to. Their return gives six men qualified in the second, and one in the third class as marksmen.

REVOLVER PRACTICE.

A small gain is made each year in the purchase of the United States Army revolver by officers and an increase in marksmen. The First Regiment has five officers who are expert revolver marksmen, and three first, and four second class marksmen.

The Second Regiment has one expert, one first and two second class marksmen. Their names and qualifying scores are appended hereto.

In examining the tables of qualifications, it will be remembered that the per cent. of qualifications do not in fact give the real strength as a military organization. The membership varies in numbers, so that if a company qualifies all its men, it secures the same per cent., whether its number is less or larger than another. The larger the command, if all are marksmen, the greater value to the State. For instance Company B, Portland, qualified forty-one men, 69.49 per cent.; Company C, Auburn, qualified thirty-three men or 80.48 per cent. of the company.

DETAILED STATEMENT BY COMPANIES.

FIRST REGIMENT.

Company A, of Portland. This company considering the circumstances has made a fine record this year. Its officers have taken a commendable interest in the work, and by their earnest labors, and the company inspector of rifle practice, Sergt. Higgins has qualified 88.23 per cent. of its company, against 44.44 in 1895. The future promises well for a strong company of marksmen.

Company B, Portland. This company has made a slight gain and although it has eleven men who have done no practice, its per cent. of marksmen is above the average in the regiment. Continual improvement can be safely predicted.

Company C, Auburn. This company has made a reasonable gain over 1895, and considering the short time for practice after the range was completed, has done exceedingly well. Capt. Barney deserves no little credit for his work in this direction. Its per cent. is 80.48.

Company D, Norway. This company stands first in the regiment, qualifying all its command of 54 men, none being below second-class marksmen. Lieut. Frank C. Bartlett has proved himself one of the best instructors as company inspector of rifle practice.

Company E, Portland. This company has made a gain in marksmen, but its weak condition is apparent, and its carrying forty per cent. of its men without any practice whatever, cannot but give it a low place as a military organization.

Company F, Augusta. This company stood very well at close of season of 1895, and this year has made a fair gain, having 79.07 per cent. of marksmen. Corporal Norton has done well as company inspector.

Company G, Biddeford. This company shows a falling off from 1895. Its per cent. of marksmen is 60. against 82.46 in 1895, with seventeen men returned as having no practice. I know of no good reason why such should be the case. Nearly all of these men having no practice, have not shown any interest in range work, and why they are retained to weaken the command is not easily understood.

Company H, Rockland. This company was reorganized during the year, and successful range work was not expected. There are sixty-nine men returned upon the rolls, all having practice. This shows a waste of time and ammunition, which should have been expended upon the maximum membership of the company. I have faith to believe that another year will place this company well up among the best in the regiment.

Company I, Lewiston. This company made a considerable gain over 1895, but its strength is not what should be expected. Its per cent. of qualification is 63.04 against 45.09 in 1895. There were only two men who practiced but what became marksmen, and the fifteen men who did not practice, weakens the company seriously. Lieut. Moriarty is a fine shot and a good instructor, and if he wishes to reach a good rank in marksmanship, these inefficient will have to be dispensed with.

Company K, Brunswick. This company stands second in the regiment and are a strong body of marksmen. Capt. Peterson is an excellent rifleman and takes a deep interest in the work, and Lieut. Goodwin, the company inspector of rifle practice, is a fine marksman and a most excellent instructor. Every man was on the range, and all became marksmen but three.

Company L, Portland. This company did slightly better than last season, but its condition is anything but satisfactory. Every effort has been made to interest the company, but many of the men are indifferent to the work necessary to become efficient soldiers. I cannot see much hope of gain in this command. It being a young company of active young men, there has been an expectation of seeing the company take a high rank as marksmen. I hope I may mistake as to its future in this regard.

In connection with the question of making marksmen in the companies in the city of Portland, it is urged that the range facilities are not what they should be to accommodate the four companies. There is some force in this claim, but that is not the reason why a better standing is not secured by some of the companies mentioned.

The city has provided excellently for the care of the companies in Portland, and with this encouragement, and the possibility of a new range, Companies E and L ought to be depended upon to make a better advancement.

SECOND REGIMENT.

Company A, Hampden. Capt. Robertson, a skillful marksman, has, with the assistance of Lieut. Emery, its inspector, qualified all its men and added greatly to the strength of the regiment.

Company B, Lewiston. This company shows an increase over 1895, and for the time it has had for practice since the range was built, has done well. Capt. Paul deserves much credit for the interest taken in rifle practice and the standing of his command.

Company C, Bath. This company has qualified all its men and bids fair to be among the strongest. Capt. Kimball did a great work this season.

Company D, Lewiston. This company has done well, increasing its high rate of per cent. of marksmen over 1895, standing now at 88.88 of its company. Capt. Crockett has shown himself to be a valuable officer.

Company E, Skowhegan. This company made excellent gain over 1895, coming near securing a perfect record. Capt. Withee has worked hard to keep up so fine a record.

Company F, Dover. This company made great improvement over any previous year. From 58.50 per cent. in 1895, it reached 100. this season. It is with no little satisfaction that a company is able in one season to get to the top round of qualification. The officers have worked hard for this record and deserve credit accordingly.

Company G, Bangor. This company was almost reorganized last spring, and has had a hard, up-hill contest in doing as well as it has. It has qualified 78.04 per cent. of its company of 41 men. One difficulty is that it has not a few men who have no aptitude for rifle shooting, nor will have, without more expenditure of ammunition and time than the company can afford. More care in enlistments and the discharge of the poor marksman will do much to advance the standing of the company.

Company H, Waterville. This company has done most excellent work on the range, and has all its men marksmen. Sergt. McLellan has proved himself a fine instructor in rifle practice. He is the right officer in the right place.

Company I, Eastport. This company is not in the habit of being satisfied with anything less than 100 per cent. of marksmen, and has secured that result this year. Its standing is below what it would be if it used the longer ranges. Its range facilities is limited, but it is to be hoped that an effort will be made to get qualification in the higher classes.

Company K, Calais. This company continues to show its strength at target practice. With 59 men all qualified, and many of them getting recognition as superior marksmen by being upon the State and regimental teams, and a standing of 4.59, it can but be a pride to the State and an honor to that city.

Company L, Houlton. This and Company K are the two strongest companies in the National Guard. There is only one difference in the membership of their companies. Their per cent. of qualification is the same and their standing so nearly alike that not much chance is left for boasting. The per cent. of this company is 100 and standing 4.63. That the officers have worked hard for such a record, is well known, and they justly deserve the honor which is attached to such excellent results.

RANGES.

One new range was built by the cities of Lewiston and Auburn under my direction, for the accommodation of the companies in Lewiston and Auburn. It is in the city limits of Auburn and has proved an incentive for better rifle practice. It was not finished until well into the season. It is easy of access and built substantially.

The ranges have been kept in fair condition, and all the companies now have fairly good ranges, though something will need to be done on all of them in the spring.

It is desirable that the companies in the city of Portland have better range facilities. It is so limited in targets and ground that only a few men can be accommodated at the same time. This is a serious hindrance to successful range work.

A STATE RANGE.

I renew my recommendation for providing a State rifle range where State competitions can be held without so much embarrassment and discouragement to the competitors. The interest taken by so many men in marksmanship, by those who have reached a high standard of excellence, should be rewarded by giving them some place where they can do themselves credit when shooting in matches.

STATE RIFLE TEAM.

This organization is being kept up from year to year, but it will be useless to do so unless the State is to provide some means to allow their expert marksmen to meet in competition with others from other states. Not only do these annual competitions give strength to the National Guard in the country, but it gives character and standing to our own Guard, and the State ought to allow a representation of its guard to annually meet in the State and interstate competitions. To be allowed to go once in a while to such competitions does not avail, for the team gains nothing from experience and are handicapped every year. Not only is there much to be learned, but it is only a just recognition for the long, untiring work of these men in the interest of our Guard. It is to be hoped the State will make permanent provision for sending annually a team to national matches.

REVOLVERS.

I wish to renew my recommendation that the officers be furnished with the U. S. Army revolver. It is an arm that they should have, and know how to use. To my mind it is too much to ask, or to expect, that the officers generally will go to this expense, which is additional to that they already have to bear.

Appended hereto are tables showing members of State team, distinguished marksmen, and results of all State competitions, together with a detailed statement of the entire company membership, and grades of qualification.

CONCLUSION.

My term of service is nearly to a close, and in looking back over so many years of work in connection with the instruction in rifle practice in the National Guard of the State, I regard myself fortunate in having received such response to my suggestions and advice on the part of this grand military organization as to secure a continual improvement from year to year till the Guard of Maine has secured a standing in marksmanship excelled by no other state in the country.

This work has been attended by a great deal of labor on the part of both officers and men, and under conditions sometimes of discouragements which would have been difficult to have overcome by men less intelligent and determined. It is a wonder how well these companies maintain themselves. They voluntarily accept responsible trusts, tax themselves to keep up their organizations, both in time and money, hold themselves in readiness to stand at the peril of their lives between the peace of the State and whatever foe that may threaten it, and get no real recompense in return, unless it be to thereby have the satisfaction of doing some worthy deed outside of that of a citizen. I am deeply impressed that the State should realize more fully what these men are sacrificing for the State's good, so that their work may be appreciated and their needs amply provided for.

Both officers and men through all these years of association, by their response to my wishes, made my duties pleasant and in a reasonable measure successful. I wish to have them feel when our official relations cease that their kindness is most sincerely appreciated by me.

During the past four years under the administration of his Excellency, Hon. Henry B. Cleaves, Governor, the Guard has rapidly improved in quality and efficiency. His assistance has been of great help to me in the discharge of my duties. This constant interest of the Commander-in-Chief, and his untiring Adjutant General, Gen. Selden Connor, whose methods of organization and discipline, and prompt response to every reasonable request for advice or assistance has been the means of securing to the State such creditable results. I feel deeply indebted to both these officers.

I trust that the Guard will continue in its growth, in all that pertains to a well disciplined and efficient military organization.

E. C. FARRINGTON,

Col. and Inspector General of Rifle Practice of Maine.

December 15, 1896.

TABLE N.

GENERAL ORDERS.

STATE OF MAINE.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE.
AUGUSTA, January 10, 1896.

General Orders No. 1.

INSPECTION.

I. The inspection required by Section 81 of the Military Law will be made forthwith by the Inspector General or other officer detailed therefor, upon such dates as the Inspector General may designate.

II. Commanding officers of organizations to be inspected will be notified of the date fixed for the inspection of their commands and will promptly acknowledge the receipt of such notification.

III. The inspections will be held as far as practicable upon the dates of the semi-monthly drills. Company commanders will, upon receipt of this order, inform the Inspector General of any change in the dates of such drills which may have been made since his last inspection.

IV. The several organizations will parade in fatigue uniform, armed and equipped. Knapsacks will not be worn.

V. No member of any organization will be excused from this inspection except in case of sickness.

VI. Commanding officers will prepare duplicate rolls of their companies, and lists of all State property in their custody, for the use of the inspector.

EXTENDED ORDER.

VII. Commanding officers of companies will make Extended Order, Squad, Platoon and Company, and Signals, a leading feature at all assemblies of officers and non-commissioned officers for instruction (Section 83, M. L.), and of all drills.

VIII. Commanding officers of regiments will devote the first and second sessions of the next School of Instruction to instruction in Extended Order (p. 186 to p. 227, Drill Regulations) and Signals (p. 7, D. R.), and will require every field and line officer of their respective regiments to take such part in the instruction as they may direct.

IX. The Inspector General will attend the next School of Instruction of each regiment, for the purpose of observing the relative knowledge of the principles and practice of Extended Order exhibited by each officer, and of making report thereof to this office.

X. The season for rifle practice will open November 1st, and close October 31st of each year until otherwise ordered.

XI. Ammunition for target practice will be issued as follows:

To each company of infantry one thousand rounds of fixed ammunition, and thirty-five hundred bullets and primers, with reimbursement for powder used with them in loading cartridges at the rate of $2.50 per thousand, as shown on the return of score cards to the Inspector General of Rifle Practice.

To the Signal Corps, one thousand rounds of carbine cartridges will be allowed.

To the Ambulance Corps, one thousand rounds of fixed ammunition will be allowed.

To regimental headquarters, five hundred rounds of fixed ammunition will be allowed.

To each regimental inspector of rifle practice, five hundred rounds of fixed ammunition will be allowed.

The Inspector General of Rifle Practice recommends the use of Hazzard's F. G. powder in reloading.

XII. Company commanders will see that each member of the company has opportunity to expend his quota of ammunition allowed, and that it is not expended by any other member.

ARMORY PRACTICE.

XIII. It will be the duty of commanding officers to see that the men in their command are carefully instructed in aiming drill before they are allowed to participate in firing upon the range. They will see that each man becomes familiar with all that pertains to deliberate aiming, and trigger pulling, and that especial attention be given to those not accustomed to shooting. Too much attention cannot be given, nor time spent in armory practice, for there lies the foundation of success in rifle shooting.

RECORDS.

XIV. All score cards shall be signed as herein provided, and one immediately forwarded to the Inspector General of Rifle Practice, and one to the regimental inspector of the regiment in which the practice is conducted. Every shot fired must be recorded, but the man who has begun a score may discontinue it, and commence another. The record of uncompleted scores must be returned. All score cards must be signed by an Inspector of Rifle Practice, or a commissioned officer. If neither is on the range at the time of practice, the score, signed by a non-commissioned officer, and certified by a commissioned officer, will be accepted. The scores will be recorded upon official score cards, supplied by the Quartermaster General upon application. Duplicate score cards should be kept in numerical order. Blunt's Manual will be authority, controlling practice and competitions not otherwise specified by general order. Each company must keep a correct record of all practice, and at the close of the practice season, make return of the two best scores made at the distances prescribed for qualifications to the Inspector General of Rifle Practice. This return must be made on or before November 10, upon blanks furnished for such purpose.

The commanding officer, or Inspector of Rifle Practice, should not allow more than 50 or 60 grains of powder used in reloading, until the men have become thoroughly familiar with the use of the rifle, and have overcome the fear of the "recoil." One of the main reasons of providing bullets and primers is to educate the men by the use of light cartridges at that point, when, without "flinching," they can use the heavy ammunition now furnished by the Government.

QUALIFICATIONS.

XV. The following qualifications are hereby established:

Third Class Marksman.—Two scores of 15 out of a possible 25, at 200 yards.

Second Class Marksman.—Two scores of 18 out of a possible 25, at 200 yards.

First Class Marksman.—Two scores of 21 out of a possible 25, at 200 yards. Two scores of 21 out of a possible 25, at 500 yards, or two scores of 22 out of a possible 25, at 250 yards.

Sharpshooters' Class.—Two scores of 22 out of a possible 25 at 200 yards. Two scores of 24 out of a possible 25, at 500 yards, or two scores of 25 out of a possible 25 at 250 yards. Two scores of 23 out of a possible 25, at 600 or 300 yards.

Position at 200 yards, standing; at longer distances, any position.

Companies which have either the 500 or 600 yard range, or both, must qualify at those ranges.

Shooting at 300 yards and under, must be on third class, and at 500 and 600 yards on second class targets.

Distinguished Marksman Class.—Sharpshooters of record under 1891 or subsequent conditions who have represented the State at any inter-state or national match, and those who have won or may hereafter win a position on the State team, or who have won in 1891, or may hereafter win an individual trophy in a State match, and those making the twelve highest scores in the State Sharpshooters' Match.

Sharpshooters and marksmen who have qualified as such for five years, not necessarily consecutive, will be borne upon the records as such, without detriment to the standing of the company in its annual practice.

REVOLVER PRACTICE.

XVI. The conditions governing the qualification in revolver practice will be as follows:

Second Class: Two scores of 26 out of a possible 30 at 25 yards, and two scores of 25 out of a possible 30 at 35 yards.

First Class: Two scores of 25 out of a possible 30 at 35 yards, two scores of 28 out of a possible 30 at 50 yards.

Expert Marksmen: Two scores of 29 out of a possible 30 at 35 yards, two scores of 28 out of a possible 30 at 50 yards, two scores of 27 out of a possible 30 at 75 yards.

Target "A," Revolver, Colt's new pattern, calibre 38, prescribed by the United States.

Two hundred rounds of ammunition will be furnished for practice to each officer providing himself with a revolver.

Scores will be returned as provided for return of rifle practice in the National Guard.

Expert Revolver Marksmen, having qualified as such for three consecutive years, will be borne upon the rolls as such, without detriment to the standing of the company in its annual practice.

An "expert marksman," making two scores of 27 out of a possible 30 at 100 yards will be enrolled as an "Distinguished Revolver Marksmen," and allowed to wear a ribbon beneath his badge denoting the same.

SIGNAL CORPS.

XVII. The qualification for members of the Signal Corps are prescribed as follows:

For Third Class: Two scores of fourteen each at 200 yards.

For Second Class: Two scores of sixteen each at 200 yards.

For First Class: Two scores of nineteen each at 200 and 500 yards.

For Sharpshooter's Class: Two each scores of 20 at 200, 21 at 500, and 20 at 600 yards.

The above are five shots each at distances mentioned.

If the 500 and 600 yard ranges are not used, and 250 and 300 are used instead, then there will have to be for First Class two scores of 20 at 250 yards. At 300 yards, for Sharpshooter, the score will be the same as prescribed for 600 yards. The positions at 250, 300 or 500 and 600 must be any without rest, except such as may be got on one's own body. Off hand only at 200 yards.

BADGES.

XVIII. Distinguished Marksmen.—To a Distinguished Marksman, a pair of silver stars will be issued, to be worn on either side of and near the end of the coat collar; either dress or fatigue.

To a sharpshooter, a silver badge will be issued, the badge consisting of a silver pin and cross, to be worn on the left breast; the soldier having once qualified as a Sharpshooter may continue to wear his badge; and upon three years' qualification (not necessarily consecutive) a silver bar will be issued, which will specify the years of qualification, and will be attached to the badge, between the pin and cross. Each additional three years of qualification will entitle him to an additional bar. This badge to be worn on dress coat only.

To each Sharpshooter will also be issued a pair of silver maltese crosses, to be worn one on each side and near the end of the coat collar. These will be worn on fatigue coat only.

Sharpshooters will be allowed to wear on the left breast of their fatigue coat only, a red, white and blue ribbon, one inch in length for each year of re-qualification, not to exceed six in all. The ribbon will be folded so as to expose one-half inch in width, and sewed to the coat.

To each First Class Marksman a silver pin will be issued, to be worn upon the left breast of dress coat only.

A Marksman who requalifies will be permitted to wear, underneath his Marksman's pin, a red ribbon, exposing not more than one inch to view.

There will also be issued to each Marksman, a square button, to be worn in the same manner as prescribed for Sharpshooters, on fatigue coat only. Marksmen who re-qualify will be permitted to wear the red ribbon under the same conditions as prescribed for Sharpshooters.

To a Second Class Marksman, a pair of silver buttons will be issued, to be worn, one on each side and near the end of the coat collar; but unless the soldier re-qualifies the next succeeding year, the buttons will be removed at the close of the season. These may be worn on dress or fatigue coats.

To Third Class Marksmen, a pair of bronze buttons will be issued and worn under the same conditions as those relating to Second Class Marksmen.

Trophies or badges won in competition may be worn on dress coats, but none other than those specified in this order will be worn on the fatigue coat.

First, Second and Third Class Marksmen are allowed to wear one pair only, of the square, silver or bronze buttons, as provided.

Any soldier having earned by qualification, badges, buttons or other insignia, in the Volunteer Militia or National Guard, upon being honorably discharged, may retain as his property such badges, buttons or insignia.

When badges have been lost or have become unfit to wear, new ones will be furnished by the State on payment of the cost, and upon a certificate of the commanding officer that he, on investigation, is satisfied that they have been lost or are unfit to be worn. If unfit to be worn they must be turned in to the Inspector General of Rifle Practice.

REVOLVER MARKSMEN.

To Revolver Marksmen, a badge will be issued suitable for the class of qualification, to be worn upon the left breast of the dress coat only. A silver star will be worn upon each side of the collar of the undress coat, near the end of the collar, by expert marksmen; a silver square button by first class, and a square bronze button by second class marksmen. An additional bar may be worn by an expert marksman for each three years of qualification, stating the years of qualification.

No member of the National Guard shall be allowed to wear, except during the year following the year of qualification, any insignia denoting qualification as marksman in any class, except the sharpshooter, first class marksman and expert revolver marksman. Company commanders shall see that the badges specified are worn as directed in the foregoing rules and not otherwise.

INSPECTION.

XIX. The company inspector of rifle practice will inspect the rifles of his company at the close of the practice season, and not later than December 15th, and make return to the commander of the company of their condition, setting forth in his return the mention of any part of any rifle needed to make the same serviceable.

The Inspector General of Rifle Practice, is hereby charged with the details and strict observance of this order, and will be held responsible for its proper execution. He may communicate directly with members of the guard on matters relating to instruction in rifle practice, and the members of the guard may thus communicate to him.

XX. At the close of the practice season, the standing of each company will be determined by multiplying the number of sharpshooters by 5; first-class marksmen by 4; second-class marksmen by 3; third-class marksmen by 2; revolver expert marksmen by 5; first-class revolver marksmen by 4; second-class revolver marksmen by 3; by adding to the total of the products thus obtained, 5 for every member of the company who has won a place on the State team, or has shot on a winning team in a State match, and dividing the aggregate by the number of enlisted men and officers on the roll of the company, October thirty-first of that practice season.

THE IMPORTANCE OF RIFLE PRACTICE.

Under the conditions of modern warfare it is of the first importance that the infantry soldier should be a skilled marksman. The high standing of the National Guard of the State of Maine as riflemen must not be impaired, but improved. It is due to those companies which, by obedience to orders and by their own zeal and enthusiasm, honor their colors and increase the efficiency of the Guard, that their efforts shall not be neutralized by companies indifferent to duty and unmoved by the soldierly spirit of emulation. Therefore failure by any company to make a satisfactory record in Rifle Practice will, at the close of the present practice season, be made the subject of inquiry and recommendation by a military board.
