SUMMARY

The bill requires health care practitioners to release a patient's records upon the request of that patient and provides a civil penalty of $100 per day for failure to comply with the requirement. Health care practitioners include physicians, nurses, podiatrists, dentists, chiropractors and psychologists.

Committee Amendment "A" (H-157) replaces the original bill. It allows practitioners, as an option, to supply a narrative summary of the patient's record rather than the actual record. This gives the practitioner an opportunity to protect third parties who may be named in the records and to exclude information when the practitioner finds it therapeutically necessary. The amendment also cross-references the existing law that permits minors to consent to medical care in certain instances and the existing law regarding disclosure of HIV test results to clarify that there is no intent to change those provisions. The amendment decreases the penalty to $25 per day with a maximum forfeiture of $100. (See LD 421)
