SUMMARY

Under current law, when a retiree divorces, the retiree is unable to remove the divorced spouse as the retirement survivor beneficiary. This bill allows a retiree to change beneficiaries with the agreement of the original spouse, either as part of a divorce agreement or at a later time.

Committee Amendment "A" (S-161) requires the Executive Director of the Maine State Retirement System to ensure that a spouse is counseled by an employee of the retirement system prior to agreeing to give up the right to a retirement benefit. The amendment changes the formula for calculation of the new beneficiary's benefit to be actuarially equivalent to the prior benefit. The amendment adds the provisions of the bill to the laws relating to participating local districts. The amendment also adds an emergency preamble and clause and a fiscal note to the bill.
