bring an enforcement action or may suspend municipal registration if a registered municipality fails to adequately enforce these standards or changes the ordinance in a manner inconsistent with the standards.

Gravel pits currently licensed under the site law remain subject to the terms and conditions of that license. Gravel pits that do not comply with these minimum performance standards can be ordered to cease operations until they comply or until they obtain a site law permit. Violations of these standards are subject to the general penalty provisions of the Maine Revised Statutes, Title 38.

The amendment requires the Department of Environmental Protection to convene a working group to review the process for licensing gravel pits larger than 30 acres and requires the department to report annually for the next 4 years on the implementation of this amendment.

House amendment "C" (H-626) creates 3 enforcement positions at the Department of Environmental Protection with sufficient allocations to inspect an estimated 300 gravel pits per year. The House amendment also clarifies that a notice of intent to comply must be sent to the Department of Environmental Protection, the municipality, the Maine Historic Preservation Commission and the abutting landowners. Only the notice sent to the regulator must be sent by certified mail, return receipt requested.

The House amendment also clarifies that buffer strips in disrepair at the time a notice is filed must be revegetated as soon as practicable and that excavations below road level may not occur within 150 feet of a road, unless it is a private road where the owner has given permission for excavations within 150 feet.

The amendment also makes a technical correction to the fee schedule in the majority report and expands the duties of the working group to include recommendations for minimum standards for gravel pits having fewer than 5 acres.
