This bill also would have required that lease rates be determined by the fair market value of lease rates within 10 miles of the leased lot. If a lease is terminated, a lessee would have been reimbursed for on-site improvements. The bill would have required that leases on recreational lots be for a minimum of 5 years.

SUMMARY

This bill clarifies that areas meeting the definition of significant wildlife habitat, but not yet mapped pursuant to the Maine Revised Statutes, Title 38, section 480-I, are protected provided they occur within another protected natural resource. The bill also removes language that makes any sensitive wildlife areas mapped for the purposes of the State's oil spill clean-up program from automatically being considered mapped for the purposes of the natural resources protection laws, since the criteria of the 2 programs are not identical and therefore the boundaries will not be the same in all cases. However, data used in the mapping of sensitive wildlife areas may still be used in the mapping of significant wildlife habitat. In addition, the bill requires that habitat of endangered or threatened wildlife species must be defined by the Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife before qualifying as a significant wildlife habitat, as is already required for the other habitats of species under the jurisdiction of the Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife listed in the laws. This bill also allows for protection of threatened or endangered plant species habitat in protected natural resources that are not wetlands, including fragile mountain areas.

Committee amendment "A" (H-412) adds a section to the bill that strikes the requirement that applicants for a dredge spoils permit file dredge spoils test results with the Commissioner of Environmental Protection within one year before the submission of a permit application.

The amendment also clarifies that subsurface wastewater disposal systems are exempt from permitting requirements under the natural resources protection laws if those systems comply with the State's subsurface wastewater disposal rules adopted by the Department of Human Services. The effective date of that exemption is delayed in order to allow the Department of Human Services sufficient time to adopt subsurface wastewater disposal rules that are consistent with the minimum requirements of the natural resources protection laws.

The amendment also adds an emergency preamble, an emergency clause and a fiscal note to the bill.

SUMMARY

This bill broadens the ownership language for single family dwellings under the Small Community Grants Program to include spouses by using the word "owners" to replace the term "persons listed on the deed of record." In addition, the bill amends the language regarding commercial establishments by deleting the word "earnings." This change makes it consistent with the wording in the federal income tax return forms.
