Accounts & Control

Frank A. Farrington, Deputy

Attorney General

Chapter 1, P.L. 1933, Section 351.

In view of the facts stated in your memorandum of February 25th, which is supplementary to your memorandum of February 15th on the same subject, it is the opinion of this department that Section 351, Chapter 1, P.L. 1933, may properly apply to women convicts discharged from the Reformatory for Women, when the offence with which they are charged is a State prison offence and when they are incarcerated at the Women's Reformatory by virtue of Chapter 92, P. L. 1933.

This memorandum will supplement the memorandum from this department dated February 17th, and it is still the opinion of this department that said section 351, Chapter 1, P. L. 1933, does not apply to women discharged from the Reformatory when they were committed on a charge which did not carry with it imprisonment in the State prison.

The charge to the State Prison Appropriation of these advances seems proper.

Frank A. Farrington
Deputy Attorney General
