I may add that I do not find anything in the standard policy or in the statutes which does more than require the insured to file the written statement under oath above referred to. There would therefore be no obligation to file another statement on either an adjustment of the loss or the award by referees, although this is presumably done in the case of an adjustment.

To E. E. Roderick, Deputy Commissioner of Education

I have your memo of November 14th concerning a teacher who had served 29 and 13/18ths years and retired on a pension, which service lacked 45 days of teaching to entitle her to a 30-year pension. You advise me that she afterward made up these 45 days by substituting a day or two at a time upon the "urgent request" of the superintendent of schools. You state that while rendering this substitute service, she was at the same time receiving the pension.

I do not think that that would in and of itself preclude her from having these extra days of service tacked on to her previous service. The question is not free from doubt, but I think that in all fairness this doubt should be resolved in her favor, and thus I advise you that you could properly allow her a pension based on 30 full years of service credit.

The question has been raised whether the above named credit union is subject to the payment of the examination fee to be paid to the bank commissioner under the provisions of Section 3 of Chapter 273 of the Public Laws of 1945, which enacted a new Chapter 51 for the same Chapter in the Revision of 1944, which is repealed by this new amendment.

The Federal Employees' Credit Union was organized in 1931 under a Private and Special Law and is Chapter 11. In Section 8 of that act the corporation is subject to examination, supervision and control by the bank commissioner, and the provisions of Sections 47 to 55 inclusive of Chapter 57 of the Revised Statutes of 1930 are made applicable to this corporation. These sections are found in the chapter dealing with the management of savings banks and the annual examinations by the bank commissioner of their books and records. We thus have here a provision for supervision and examination by the bank commissioner; and the performance of that duty is in accordance with the sections of the savings bank law. It is unlike the provisions contained in the enactment of the
