No. 568

STATEMENT OF FACTS

It is proposed that funds be appropriated for the establishment of a Boston informational office and the moving of the New York office to a street level. Additional rents and utilities, $7,500 per year. Promotional and decorating expenses for the opening of these offices, $13,000. Salaries for contractual personnel in the Boston office, $12,272 per year.

Experiences with our New York office have warranted the necessity of a Boston office. While New York, rated 4th in our state-by-state primary market list, produces thousands of requests annually, Massachusetts, with a number one rating, does not have a Maine informational office. It is the opinion of this division that the addition of a Maine office in Boston, which is geographically the largest city within relatively short distance to Maine, would enhance substantially our recreational income from Massachusetts.

Experience with our New York office has also substantiated the necessity for a change in location. Now located on a lower level, many of the inquiries originate from persons passing by the office. It is the feeling of this division that the move to the street level would make this office much more noticeable to the travelling public.
