10	D. By September 1, 1994, the department shall adopt rules to implement this subsection. The rules must include, but 12	are not limited to, an appeal process for persons who are denied access to information under paragraph B. The appeal 14	process must determine whether the person requesting information is a person who lives with or provides direct 16	care to a client, whether disclosure of the information is in the best interest of the client and whether denial of 18	access to the information will result in significant deterioration in the client's daily functioning. The 20	commissioner shall appoint an advisory committee to assist the department in the development of the rules. The 22	advisory committee must include, but is not limited to, proportionate representation from each of the following:

professionals. The amendment also allows clients to refuse requests for information and directs the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation to establish an appeal process that may be used by persons who are denied access to information. The department is directed to work with consumers, providers, family members and advocates in developing the appeal process and other rules needed to implement the law. The amendment also adds a fiscal note to the bill.
