SUMMARY

This bill amends the current law regarding copies of medical records to specify that it applies to paper copies, to change the maximum per page charge to 45¢ and to impose a cap of $250 on the total charge. The bill requires electronic copies of medical records to be made available if electronic copies are reasonably possible, allows charges for reasonable costs of staff time and necessary costs for supplies and postage and imposes a cap of $150 on the total charge. The bill prohibits a health care practitioner or hospital, when charging for an electronic copy of a medical record, from charging a retrieval fee or for the costs of new technology, maintenance of the electronic record system, data access or storage infrastructure.
