Fiscal Detail and Notes

Extending the ineligible period for falsifying an application for general assistance from 120 days to 24 months will reduce assistance payments made by municipalities and reduce amounts reimbursed to municipalities by the Department of Health and Human Services. The savings to the department is not expected to be significant because the frequency of falsification is very small and recipients typically do not stay in the program, having to reapply each month they seek help. A more precise estimate of the fiscal impact is not possible because recipient data related to number of months on assistance, amounts paid to each recipient, number of recipients who return and the frequency of falsification resides at the municipal level and varies over time.
