10 6. Excessive rates for small business employers. Rates for small business 11 employers are excessive if they do not include a modification factor determined pursuant

13 Sec. 4. 24-A MRSA §2382-G is enacted to read:

14 §2382-G. Small business employers

15 The following provisions govern the rate modification applicable to small business 16 employers.

17 1. Rate review. The superintendent shall develop and implement a process of 18 heightened scrutiny review for rates applicable to small business employers. This review 19 must include, at a minimum, a comparison of the risk to insurers applicable to this class
20 of employers and the workers' compensation insurance costs to such employers. The rate 21 review required by this subsection must be conducted periodically, but no less than 22 annually.

23 2. Modification factor; rate adjustment. Based on the information gathered 24 through the rate review conducted pursuant to subsection 1, and taking into account the 25 standards in section 2382, the superintendent shall develop a modification factor 26 applicable to small business employers for the purpose of adjusting rates applicable to 27 such employers downward to better match the relative risk to insurers to the relative cost
28 burden of workers' compensation insurance costs to such employers. The superintendent 29 shall ensure that all rates of insurers applicable to a small business employer include the 30 appropriate modification factor determined according to this section.

31 3. Annual report. The superintendent and the Workers' Compensation Board shall 32 review claims applicable to small business employers and compare the claims data to the 33 claims data for the classification as a whole and report their findings to the joint standing 34 committee of the Legislature having jurisdiction over labor matters by November 1st of 35 each year.
