STATE OF MAINE

IN THE YEAR OF OUR LORD NINETEEN HUNDRED
FIFTY-SEVEN

RESOLVE, Regulating Digging of Quahogs in Middle Bay, Cumberland County.

Digging of quahogs in Middle bay; regulated. Resolved: That the Commissioner of Sea and Shore Fisheries be, and hereby is, authorized and directed to issue a rule and regulation making it unlawful to dredge or to take quahogs by any means, except by the usual manner of hand digging with a so called clam hoe, or by hand raking and hand tonging, or by picking quahogs out of the mud by hand, from the waters or flats of Middle bay, Cumberland county, namely, all of the territory north and northeasterly of a line drawn from a red marker, on the eastern shore of Mere Point and located at Blackstone Rock, so called, then in an easterly direction to and including the northern end of Birch Island and continuing in the same general direction to a red marker placed on the shore of Wilson Cove, so called, located on the westerly shore of Harpswell Neck.
