STATE OF MAINE.

IN SENATE, January 17, 1826.

The joint standing Committee on State Lands, to whom was referred so much of the Governor's Message as relates to the North Eastern boundary of the State, have had the same under consideration, and REPORT :—That, notwithstanding more than forty years have elapsed since the boundary line of the United States, a part of which forms the North Eastern boundary of Maine, was agreed upon and defined in the Treaty of peace between the United States and his Britannic Majesty, and although that line is so described as would seem to present but few difficulties in ascertaining its true course and location, yet it has been and still is a subject of difference and disagreement between the two nations, where that line shall be made and established.—And notwithstanding the establishment of this line has been a subject of negotiation between the Governments of the United States and Great Britain, and arrangements for its final adjustment have been made, it is feared that it is not now less difficult, than heretofore, to bring the question to a just or speedy determination. When the government of the United States consented to adopt the source of the Schoodic, as and for the source of the St. Croix river, mentioned in the Treaty of 1783, it was to have been expected that no further difficulties or embarrassments, would have been interposed by the British Agents, in running a line from that point “directly North to the Northwest angle of Nova Scotia,” thence “along the highlands which divide those rivers that empty themselves into the river St. Lawrence from those which fall into the Atlantic Ocean,” and establishing it as the true boundary between the Province of New Brunswick and the United States ; but so far from this reasonable expectation being realized, it is believed that the Agent and Surveyors of the British government, after ascertaining that such line would include within the United States a large portion of the St. Johns river, and the settlements at Madawaska, refused to continue it further North than Mars hill, which is about forty miles North of the Monument agreed to be at the source of the St. Croix :—this line has been extended under the authority of the United States to and across the St. Johns, but is very far short of the Northwest angle of Nova Scotia, as contended for by the United States, and the part thus run is not admitted by the British government to be the true boundary line. By the fifth article of the Treaty of Ghent, provision was made for ascertaining and determining this boundary, in pursuance of which Commissioners have been appointed by the respective Governments to agree upon and es-establish the line, but they have wholly failed to effect the object, and their Reports of disagreement have been made to their respective Governments, by which the question would appear more difficult of decision and settlement than was before apprehended.

These Commissioners, after six years of meetings, examinations and surveys, have differed upon the point where the Northwest angle of Nova Scotia is—upon the meaning of the words “along the highlands which divide those rivers that empty themselves into the river St. Lawrence from those which fall into the Atlantic Ocean”—and upon the admission of the maps presented by each Commissioner as indicating the boundary, and their reports upon these differences are elaborate, contradictory and voluminous, and probably contain much information on the points in controversy highly interesting to this State. The Treaty of Ghent also provides that in the event, which has happened, of the Commissioners differing upon all or any of the matters referred to them, they should make jointly or separately Report or Reports to the two Governments stating in detail the grounds on which they differ, and the grounds upon which their respective opinions have been formed, upon which the two Governments would refer the Report or Reports to some friendly sovereign who should be requested to decide on the differences which should be stated in such Report. It must be seen that such an appeal under such statements may be hazardous to the just rights of this State, and should be avoided if any other mode of settling the boundary more likely to develop the truth of the case, can be adopted.—It is presumed that for these, among other considerations, the government of the United States are attempting to settle the boundary by negotiation, and although the subject is entrusted to the care and management of those who will conduct it with ability and a due regard to the interests of this State, there is but little reason to expect a recognition on the part of the British government of our just rights, or an early adjustment of the difficulty.

The extent of territory affected by the different constructions contended for is very great, and its value and importance to Maine are far beyond what is generally apprehended, and the time has arrived when it behooves a wise Legislature to give its attention to the subject.—It is believed that the Agents of the British government and the leading men of the Provinces contiguous to Maine, have been for years and yet are vigilant, attentive and persevering in their efforts to obtain, arrange and preserve all such maps, documents, surveys and evidence, as tend to strengthen their claim and embarrass ours, while we, relying upon the justice and clearness of our claim, have remained so inactive and inattentive to the subject, that few, if any, of our citizens can say with any confidence where, or within fifty miles of what place, we claim that the line should be fixed and established—and if any proposition of compromise should be made to the General Government and referred to this State for acceptance or rejection, who among us could say whether it ought to be submitted to or not ?

Your Committee, therefore, recommend the adoption of such measures as will ensure the procurement and deposit, within the State, of copies of all such maps, documents, publications, surveys and evidence, as may tend to indicate and establish the extent of our rights in the interesting subject of our North Eastern boundary, for which purpose they respectfully submit the accompanying Resolve.

R. WILLIAMS, Per Order.

CHAPTER LIX.

Resolve for the payment of Accounts against the State.

Resolved, That there be allowed, and paid out of the Treasury of the State, to the several persons mentioned in Roll Number Seven, the sums set against such persons names respectively, amounting in the whole, to the sum of seven thousand five hundred and twenty seven dollars and seventy eight cents, the same being in full discharge of the accounts and demands to which they refer.

[Approved by the Governor, March 7, 1826.]

CHAPTER LX.

Resolve authorizing the Treasurer of this State, to make a temporary loan.

Resolved, That the Treasurer of this State be, and hereby is authorized to borrow on loan, a sum not exceeding ten thousand dollars, at a rate of interest, not exceeding six per cent. per annum, the same to be considered as a part of the sum authorized by the Resolve of the third instant, relating to a loan.

[Approved by the Governor, March 8, 1826.]

CHAPTER LXI.

Resolve imposing a Tax on the several Counties.

Resolved, That the sums annexed to the several Counties, contained in the following schedule, be, and the same are hereby granted, as a tax for each County respectively, to be apportioned, assessed, collected and applied, for the purpose of paying the debts and necessary expenses of the same :

YORK,	Eight thousand and eight hundred dollars.
CUMBERLAND,	Nine thousand and three hundred dollars.

HANCOCK,	Four thousand five hundred & seventy five dols.
WASHINGTON,	Five thousand four hundred and fifty dollars.
KENNEBEC,	Five thousand and six hundred dollars.

[Approved by the Governor, March 8, 1826.]

CHAPTER LXII.

Resolve relating to the erection of a National Observatory.

As the promotion of learning and science is a most interesting subject in a Republican Government, the establishment of Institutions for that purpose must ever be regarded with pleasure by those, who feel interested in the prosperity of the country ; the erection of one or more Astronomical Observatories in the United States, as recommended by the President, would, in the opinion of this Legislature, greatly promote science and contribute to the honor of the Nation, and as the Government is already furnished with instruments nearly sufficient for two Observatories, the expense of the establishment cannot be great : And whereas, the extreme northern position of Maine, gives it many advantages, as a suitable place for the erection of an Observatory, and General Hassler, whose scientific attainments and astronomical knowledge, entitle his opinions to great respect, in his report on that subject, has designated Maine as the place where an Observatory ought to be established :

Therefore Resolved, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to use their best exertions to procure the establishment of a National Observatory, at Brunswick, in this State.

Resolved, further, That the Governor be requested to transmit a copy of this Resolve to each of our Senators and Representatives aforesaid, as soon as may be.

[Approved by the Governor, March 8, 1826.]

CHAPTER LXIII.

Resolve in favor of Lemuel Witham.

Whereas Lemuel Witham, of the House of Representatives, whilst attending upon the service of the State as a Member of said House, at this present session, has been suddenly taken sick, and unable to return home and still remains so ; and must necessarily be subjected to great expense by reason of his sickness and inability to return home : Therefore, Resolved, That there be allowed and paid out of the Treasury of this State, to said Lemuel Witham, in addition to his pay for travel and attendance for the whole of the present session, the sum of one hundred dollars.

[Approved by the Governor, March 8, 1826.]

CHAPTER LXIV.

Resolve respecting Clerk hire in the office of the Secretary of the State and for other purposes.

Resolved, That there be allowed and paid out of the Treasury of the State, for all necessary Clerk hire in the office of the Secretary of State, in engrossing and copying the Acts, and proceedings of the Legislature, and of the Governor and Council, a sum not exceeding two dollars and fifty cents, for each day they shall be so employed: Provided, That the accounts of such Clerks, shall be first examined and allowed by the Governor and Council.

Resolved further, That there be allowed and paid out of the Treasury of the State to Thomas Baker, in full of his account for certain contingent expenses of the Legislature, at the present session thereof, the sum of twenty nine dollars and twelve cents, the same not being included in the Roll of Miscellaneous Accounts.

[Approved by the Governor, March 8, 1826.]

CHAPTER LXV.

Resolve in favor of Seward and Charles Merrill.

Resolved, That there be allowed and paid out of the Treasury to Seward and Charles Merrill, the sum of fifty four dollars, for Powder delivered at the Magazine in the year one thousand eight hundred and twenty four, for the use of the State.

[Approved by the Governor, March 8, 1826.]
