PUBLIC ACTS

OF THE

STATE OF MAINE,

PASSED BY THE

TWELFTH LEGISLATURE,

AT ITS SESSION, HELD IN JANUARY, 1832.

PUBLISHED AGREEABLY TO THE RESOLVE OF JUNE 28, 1820.

AUGUSTA:

I. BERRY & CO., PRINTERS TO THE STATE.

1832.

of the farm on which Cyril Brown now lives, and is bounded as follows, viz: Beginning on the Northerly shore of the Southerly Fox Island, at such a point, as a line drawn from the highest peak of the Easterly Sugar Loaf, to a large hemlock tree standing in the pasture of said Brown, spotted on two sides, will strike the shore aforesaid; thence running from the point so fixed, on the shore aforesaid, Southeasterly to the Hemlock tree before mentioned, and continue the same course from the tree aforesaid to Brown's Cove, so called, about eighty rods more or less; thence running Southerly and Westerly by the shore round Brown's Head, so called; thence Northerly and Easterly by the shore on the Westerly and Northerly side of Fox Island aforesaid to the first mentioned bounds; containing about six acres, more or less. Also a third piece or parcel of land, being a certain Island or Ledge, called Goat Island, situated at the mouth of Cape Porpois harbor, in the town of Kennebunk-Port, in the County of York.

SECT. 2. Be it further enacted, That this State shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the United States in and over the territory described in this Act and the houses, when erected, so far, as that all civil military or criminal processes issued under the authority of this State, or any officer thereof, may be executed on any part of the said granted premises, or in any building that may be erected thereon, in the same way and manner as if the jurisdiction had not been ceded as aforesaid.

This State to have concurrent Jurisdiction with the United States so far &c.

[Approved by the Governor, February 11, 1832.]
