Chapter 68.

An act additional to chapter twenty-four of the public laws of eighteen hundred fifty-eight relating to banks and banking, approved March twenty, eighteen hundred fifty-eight.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in Legislature assembled, as follows:

Additional to chapter 24 of public laws of 1858.

SECT. 1. Whenever the receivers of a bank have failed to give the notice provided for in section one of chapter twenty-four of the public laws of eighteen hundred fifty-eight, within six months next after their appointment, six months after the first publication of such notice shall be allowed to prove claims and demands against such bank.

Time allowed to prove claims and demands.

SECT. 2. The supreme judicial court, or any justice thereof, in vacation, may extend the time allowed the receivers of a bank by the provisions of said chapter twenty-four for converting its assets into money and for making their report to court.

S. J. C. may extend time.

SECT. 3. Nothing in said chapter twenty-four shall be construed to affect the power given to the receivers of a bank under section sixty-seven of chapter forty-seven of the revised statutes. And whenever process for the collection of any debt or demand due such bank has been commenced by such receivers within the time allowed them for converting its assets into money, the prosecution thereof to final judgment and execution shall not be affected by the provisions of said chapter twenty-four; and said receivers may sell such judgment or execution, or cause the same to be levied; and they shall have full power to sell any real estate levied upon in manner directed in section sixty-six of chapter forty-seven of the revised statutes.

Powers granted to receivers in chap. 47, sec. 67, R. S., not affected.
Processes commenced not affected.

Receivers may sell judgment or execution, &c.
—may sell real estate levied upon.
