Chapter 193.

AN ACT Relating to the Shipping and Transporting of Clams Beyond the Limit of the State During Closed Time.

Emergency preamble. Whereas, chapter 198 of the public laws of 1931 prohibits the shipment, transportation and offer for shipment of clams beyond the limits of the state between the 1st day of June and the 15th day of September following; and

Whereas, because of such prohibition many needy residents of the state are prevented from selling and transporting clams, from which they might otherwise obtain needed revenue and said act is working a hardship on many residents of the state; and

Whereas, the repealing of said act, so that said residents may ship and transport clams between the 1st day of June and the 15th day of September of this year would result in needed additional revenue to many residents of the state, and

Whereas, in the judgment of this legislature the facts hereinbefore set forth create an emergency within the meaning of section 16 of Article XXXI of the constitution of Maine, and require the following legislation as immediately necessary for the preservation of the public peace, health and safety; now therefore,

Be it enacted by the People of the State of Maine, as follows:

P. L., 1931, c. 198, repealed. Chapter 198 of the public laws of 1931 is hereby repealed.

Emergency clause. In view of the emergency recited in the preamble this act shall take effect when approved.

Approved March 28, 1933.
