prisonment in the said reformatory for men for a definite period of time, said commitment for that reason shall not be void; but the person so committed shall be entitled to the benefit, and subject to the provisions of this section, in the same manner and to the same extent as if the commitment had been in the terms required by this section. In such case the superintendent of the reformatory shall deliver to such offender a copy of sections 366 to 373, inclusive.'

Sec. 2. P. L., 1933, c. 1, additional. Chapter 1 of the public laws of 1933 is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to be numbered 369-A and to read as follows:

'Sec. 369-A. Classification, conduct records and parole eligibility. The superintendent of the reformatory shall classify each person committed thereto and shall keep monthly records of his progress in industry and deportment. When a person so committed has shown proper progress in industry and deportment, the superintendent may recommend him for hearing before the parole board; but no person shall be eligible for such hearing in less than 6 months after the date of commitment if convicted for a misdemeanor nor less than one year if convicted for a felony.'

Sec. 3. P. L., 1933, c. 1, § 370, amended. Section 370 of chapter 1 of the public laws of 1933 is hereby repealed and the following enacted in place thereof:

A person to whom such a permit has been issued shall be under the custody and control of the superintendent during the remainder of the term that he otherwise might have been held; but if it shall appear to the superintendent that such person will continue to live an orderly life, he may, upon approval of the parole board, discharge such person from custody and shall deliver to him a written certificate to that effect. Any permit so issued by the parole board may be revoked by said board upon information by the superintendent that the parolee has failed to comply with the conditions of his parole. Whenever such permit is revoked, such person shall be rearrested and returned to the reformatory, by order of the superintendent, where he shall be held for the unexpired portion of the term for which he might have been held under his original commitment, and such unexpired portion shall date from the time of revocation of the said permit, provided, however, that such person may again be paroled in the discretion of the parole board in the manner hereinbefore set forth. Prosecution under this section may be instituted in any county in which said person may be arrested or in the county of Cumberland but in such cases the costs and expenses of trial shall be paid by the county from which said person was originally committed, and payment enforced as provided in the following paragraph.'
