STATE OF MAINE.

BANKING DEPARTMENT,

AUGUSTA, December 1, 1906.

To the Honorable William T. Cobb, Governor, and the Executive Council of the State of Maine:

The present bank examiner entered upon the duties of the office on July 21st, when substantially two-thirds of the official year had elapsed and the official examinations of a large number of the banking institutions had been made. The year's work has therefore been divided between two administrations, and for obvious reasons this report, aside from a few general observations, will be confined to a publication of the results of the annual examinations and a tabulation of the so-called October returns.

It has been customary to publish the returns of the individual institutions made as of the last Saturday of April, and also those as of the corresponding day of October, and the examiner's report of his official examinations. The two returns first mentioned state in substance, and usually with less detail, what is given in the report of the annual examinations by this department, with such differences in the totals as may have occurred between the several dates, which at most are usually trifling in individual cases. Such being the case, I have concluded to publish herewith only the report of the official annual examinations, thus very materially reducing the size of the volume.

For the purpose of facilitating comparisons, both of individual institutions with one another, and of one year with another, the very excellent plan pursued by my predecessors, of fully tabulating the October returns, will be continued.

It should not be understood, however, that this elimination of matter from the annual report means any lessening of the work of the department. These several reports will continue to be received at this office, thoroughly examined and kept on file, where they can be inspected by all persons interested in them, and the fullest information concerning them will, at all times, be cheerfully given for the asking.

Following the custom already established by the department, the banking laws of the State will be published only in the report next following the biennial session of the legislature.

GENERAL REVIEW.

There are now existing in this State under the supervision of this department 119 institutions with combined assets amounting to $126,658,038.12, classified as follows:

51.....	Savings Banks.....	$89,681,144 72
33.....	Trust and Banking Companies.....	33,542,166 46
35.....	Loan and Building Associations.....	3,434,726 94
119.....	Total.....	$126,658,038 12

A condensed tabulation of the total assets of these institutions for the years beginning with 1890 shows a comparative statement as follows:

Year.	Savings banks.	Trust companies.	Loan and building associations.	Total assets.	Gain.
1890	$50,901,527 60	$3,629,895 77	$633,059 31	$55,164,482 68	$5,049,051 42

1899	67,521,197 05	11,802,252 29	2,975,716 47	82,299,165 81	5,923,627 12
1900	71,076,211 67	13,295,402 92	2,862,178 53	87,233,783 12	4,934,627 31
1901	74,623,171 03	15,207,325 55	2,865,380 98	92,695,877 56	5,462,084 44
1902	77,853,815 64	17,035,941 70	2,854,626 60	97,744,383 94	5,048,506 88
1903	80,538,169 30	19,914,010 63	2,982,206 28	103,384,386 21	5,640,002 27
1904	82,741,563 42	22,928,005 22	3,097,237 78	108,766,806 42	5,382,420 21
1905	85,590,104 63	27,984,858 58	3,192,473 92	116,767,437 13	8,000,630 71
1906	89,681,144 72	33,542,166 46	3,434,726 94	126,658,038 12	9,890,600 99
Total					$76,542,606 86

These figures show a gain in total assets over the preceding year of $9,890,600.99, or a greater gain than that made during the previous twelve months, which was then regarded as a banner year, of $1,889,970.28. Deducting from this, $750,000, the combined capital and surplus of the seven new trust companies organized during the past year, and we have a net gain in total resources made up of deposits and undistributed earnings of $9,140,600.99, or a gain of $1,139,970.28 over that of the previous year, exclusive of capital stock and paid up surplus of the new companies.

NATIONAL BANKS.

In order to give a complete idea of the prosperity of the State as shown by its banking business, it is necessary to couple the report of the condition of the State institutions with that of the national banks located in the State. Through the courtesy of the Comptroller of Currency, I am enabled to give herewith the statement of resources of these institutions on November 12, 1906, as compared with that of November 9, 1905:

Due from treasurer United States.....	7,500 00	6,686 89
	$52,505,531 68	$55,676,283 50

There are now 80 national banks against 83 one year ago, but these show an increase in total resources of $3,170,751.82 against a net loss during the preceding year of $62,918.99. Add this gain to the total gain in resources of the State institutions and we have a showing to the good of $13,061,352.81, or a net gain more than 64 per cent greater than that of 1905 over 1904.

SAVINGS BANKS.

The total resources and liabilities of the 51 savings banks in this State on October 27, 1906, as compared with those of October 28, 1905, is as follows:

1905.	LIABILITIES.	1906.

21,580 99.....	Municipal tax.....	23,495 92
425,182 21.....	State tax	442,170 26

The savings banks have 219,687 depositors, a net gain of 4,565 for the year, while the average amount per depositor is $376.26 as against $367.77 at the close of the previous year. These depositors are now receiving an average rate of dividend of 3.51 per cent, or an increase of ten one-hundredths of one per cent, and the total dividends paid have been $2,702,887.30, being a difference to the good of $151,671.77 over the corresponding period last preceding. And this increased rate and amount of dividend has been realized without any impairment of the reserve to which depositors look for protection in case of loss on the bank's securities. On the other hand, while the total savings bank deposits show an increase of approximately five per cent over those at the close of the preceding twelve months, the total made up of reserve fund and undivided profits has increased eight per cent. In other words, this combined guaranty of safety has increased more than a half million dollars,—to be exact, $525,782.43.

DEPOSITS AND WITHDRAWALS.

Deposits, October 28, 1905.....	$79,115,188 66
Deposited during the year....	$16,763,271 24
Dividends added during the year	2,702,887 30

	$19,466,158 54
Withdrawn during the year..	15,903,365 95

Increase in deposits.....	3,562,792 59

Deposits, October 27, 1906.....	$82,677,981 25

This exhibit shows a balance of $859,905.29 in amount deposited over that withdrawn, exclusive of dividends added, in spite of the unprecedented call for money during the year in all business enterprises. During the year 1905 there was a shortage of $122,573.74 in this particular item. This means possibly that the money drawn for purposes of investment in commercial and manufacturing enterprises is now being replaced by the increased prosperity of the wage earners and the farmers, who constitute a large percentage of the depositors.

CLASSIFICATION OF DEPOSITS.

The following table shows the number of depositors and the amount of deposits in each class as compared with those of 1905:

Exhibit A.	1905.		1906.
	Number of depositors.	Amount of deposits.	Number of depositors.	Amount of deposits.

MARKET VALUES.

The estimated market values of resources above liabilities and above book surplus, the reserve fund, undivided profits, premium accounts, total dividend paid and deposits for the past year as compared with the same items for the preceding four years are shown in the following table:

	1902.	1903.	1904.	1905.	1906.
Estimated market value of resources above liabilities...	$10,816,944 71	$10,195,908 56	$9,810,915 64	$11,362,358 50	$11,410,400 18

Premium account ...	489,048 28	452,237 99	417,650 18	354,111 72	309,363 76
Total dividend paid..	2,263,120 64	2,352,764 99	2,435,647 19	2,551,215 53	2,702,887 30
Deposits.....	$73,102,924 12	$75,107,203 01	$76,686,546 87	$79,115,188 66	$82,677,081 25

DIVIDENDS.

The rates and amounts of dividends paid during the past year as compared with those of 1905, are as follows:

1905.		1906.
Number of banks.	Amount of dividends.	Rate of dividend.	Number of banks.	Amount of dividends.
1	$2,612 31	4 per cent paid by	2	$138,407 21
1	2,511 42	33 per cent paid by	2	355,136 75
29	2,070,417 68	3½ per cent paid by	34	1,937,499 71
6	237,751 59	3½ per cent paid by	2	74,205 64
14	237,922 58	3 per cent paid by	11	167,637 99
51	$2,551,215 53	3.51 average rate, 1906. 3.41 average rate, 1905.	51	$2,702,887 30

This shows a marked comparative increase of those in the higher classes. Considerable criticism and complaint has been heard during the year that certain banks have forced up the rate and advertised the fact widely. Mutual savings institutions were never intended to be competitive business enterprises to vie with one another in securing public patronage, and the stronger banks should studiously refrain from doing anything that might have a tendency to cripple the weaker ones. They are not chartered for the benefit of, or to provide lucrative positions for, the officials. They are intended primarily to serve, and promote the welfare of, their immediate constituency, and it is the convenience and necessity of that constituency that is expected to guide this department in sanctioning their existence. When they undertake to exploit other fields, they should consider whether by drawing deposits from local institutions they are not weakening them, injuring a portion of the great public which the entire system is intended to benefit, and ultimately in danger of breeding an unwholesome spirit of rivalry which will create distrust and lack of confidence in that portion of the public which constitutes the chief patronage of the savings banks as a whole.

On the other hand, this question should be dealt with fairly. There is another side to it. In the first place it is right that the earnings of a bank should be properly distributed among its depositors. They are constantly changing and each depositor of six months' standing has a right to his part of that six months' earnings. He should not be compelled to wait three years to receive it.

More than that, it is the duty, and should be the aim, of every board of corporators to see that their bank is so managed as to secure the best results for its depositors. Much depends upon the management and especially upon that portion of it which comes into daily touch with the public, and no one board or no official has a right to complain that another shows more devotion to its duties, more skill in their discharge, or greater freedom from ruts and cliques.

The larger and more fortunate institutions should cultivate their respective fields vigorously and avoid doing anything that would militate against the welfare of institutions in other localities. Those which are smaller or less fortunate should keep strictly within their limitations, rather than do anything which might ultimately impair their solvency. But they should be constantly alert to improve their own conditions, not by reckless investments, but by careful attention to details.

INVESTMENTS.

There is a growing and apparently a very widespread demand for an extension in the classes of securities in which the savings banks may invest their funds. This subject was aptly referred to by Mr. Timberlake in his report of this department last year, when he sought to draw the attention of the banking public to this matter sufficiently in advance of the legislative session so that there might be thorough consideration of the subject before specific amendments were formulated.

Whenever we approach this subject we should remind ourselves that the mission of the savings banks is to invest, not to speculate. Promise of large returns for the use of money is always an indication of weakness. There are instances where a security of much apparent merit may be bought at such terms as to yield a revenue considerably in excess of the ordinary, instances in which the later history of the security fully justifies its early promise. But it is always safe to assume that it would not be on the market at less than the market price of the average first-class security if there was not some element of risk about it greater than that which attends the average first-class security. I cannot better express this truth than in Mr. Timberlake's words in the report above referred to, "The income basis upon which a bond can be purchased is the most accurate test of its safety." This would be an excellent motto for the directors' room of every institution which invests the funds of others.

There should be no reason, however, why the classes of investments permissible should not be materially broadened. The increased stability of institutions in the newer states of the West and the more progressive states of the South, which has come about since our present statute was framed, would seem to recommend the public funds of many of them as of as high a class as many of those now safely handled by our banks. It would also seem that with reasonable restrictions as to debt limits, and possibly as to stability of population and industry as evidenced by the length of time that a certain minimum has been maintained, the requirements as to population of cities and towns whose funds can be purchased could be somewhat relaxed with safety.

Inquiry should also be made into our present requirements as to railroad and corporation bonds. In fact, such an inquiry would disclose some very glaring inconsistencies in our statute which have resulted from its having been built up from constant amendments and which suggest the desirability of a careful revision.

For instance, the saving banks may now invest in the first mortgage bonds of any railroad in the several states mentioned, including the five New England states aside from Maine, but not in a second mortgage bond of one of these roads, no matter what the equity or the income. They may, however, hold any mortgage bond of "any railroad leased to a dividend paying railroad in New England upon terms guaranteeing the payment of a regular stated dividend upon the stock of such leased road and the interest on its bonds." In other words, a second mortgage bond in itself of a railroad cannot be held under any circumstances, although the mere guarantee of that same railroad, subject, it may be, to several mortgages, is enough to legalize a third, a fourth, or fifth mortgage bond of some leased road without any restriction as to the independent financial condition of the road so leased. Nay, more, by a subsequent provision of the same section of the statute the banks, still restricted to first mortgage bonds as a direct investment on their own merits, may invest in the stock "of any railroad leased" as above provided. So that they may even hold the stock, subject not only to all mortgages but to all unsecured liabilities of every kind, simply on the guaranty of some other railroad without regard to the number of the underlying mortgages on the guaranteeing railroad, when they could not purchase a second mortgage bond of that guaranteeing railroad under any circumstances.

It would seem that some act might be devised, safely guarded by restrictions as to amount of money invested and earning capacity, which would permit the banks to go outside of first mortgage railroad bonds in some states. This should be particularly true of some classes of refunding bonds of large systems of railroads, steam or street, composed of roads more or less of which are subject to underlying mortgages, but the individual values of which have been greatly enhanced by the consolidation and building of connecting lines.

TRUST COMPANIES.

There are now 33 trust companies organized and doing business in this State with resources amounting to $33,542,166.46. This is an increase of seven during the year.

The new companies with capital, paid up surplus, and total resources as of October 27, 1906, are:

Fidelity	$150,000	$150,000	$988,537 73

The end of the year just closed finds them with 60,855 depositors of all classes,, against 43,242 a year ago, while 14,228, or more than 80% of this numerical gain, is made up of those participating in the savings departments of these institutions, and the total amount of interest paid depositors of all classes, for the year, aggregates $541,212.12, being a gain of $80,939.91 over the year before. They have also paid in dividends to stockholders, $19,230 more than during the same period of time last past. The apparent decrease in the average rate of dividends to stockholders disclosed in the foregoing table arises from the increase in the total capital stock of trust companies caused by the incorporation of the seven new companies, which have not yet commenced to pay dividends. If the percentage were figured on only those which had done business our full year or more, the result would show an average rate of 10.30%, or an increase of 2.07% over the rate of the previous year. And while paying out these very largely increased sums in interest and dividends, they have increased their total surplus and undivided profits 30% against an increase of 16½ in the combined deposits of all classes.

The following table shows the number of trust and banking companies, the amount of capital stock, surplus, deposits, and total assets for each of the past twenty years.

REGULATION OF INVESTMENTS.

Considering the present unexampled prosperity of the trust companies it may seem unnecessary to suggest that more stringent restrictions should be invoked in the management of their business. In fact, there are really no restrictions now imposed upon them by law. In this they differ radically from all other banking institutions, both state and national, although they are permitted to solicit and to receive deposits, interest bearing and non-interest bearing, with no regard to the amount of their capital and surplus.

These deposits now aggregate $25,015,181.89, without including trust funds and corporation sinking funds, against a total capital and surplus of $4,576,450. A glance at these figures cannot fail to impress one with the necessity of insisting upon every precaution to prevent large losses in any individual investment or loan or class of investments or loans.

Directors should see that their loans and investments are so distributed that no usual number of misfortunes to borrowers or corporations whose bonds are held would seriously impair the financial condition of the bank. While this practice is now largely followed, the history of banking institutions in the past demonstrates that in the absence of any statutory guide there is great temptation to deviate from this very salutary rule.

It is now entirely within the letter of the law for one of these institutions to loan to a single individual any amount in its possession, even in excess of its entire capital and surplus. The only way now provided by law for the State to regulate such a contingency is for the bank examiner to apply to the courts to interpose on the ground that the institution is not being properly managed. The necessary result of such action, whether warranted by the facts or not, would be to destroy the institution by destroying the confidence of the public in it.

A reasonable restriction to obviate such a condition as this should be welcomed by the trust companies as well as by the general public, because improvident investments by one institution followed by disaster must surely result in lessening the public confidence in all State banking institutions of a commercial nature.

Some law should be enacted along the lines of that governing national banks, limiting, according to a fixed percentage of the capital stock of the company, the amount that may be loaned to any individual or to any several individuals who are partners or engaged in enterprises that make them peculiarly dependent upon one another.

There is another feature connected with the investment of the funds of trust companies that demands early consideration. There is now a provision of law applying to savings banks that "no loan shall be made directly or indirectly to any officer of the corporation, or to any firm of which such officer is a member."

But the corresponding provision for trust companies is grossly inadequate,—these institutions may now make loans to their "directors, officers, agents or other persons" in their employ, on approval of a majority of their board of directors or of its executive board. In other words, a loan to one or more of such board authorized in part or in whole by the borrowing member or members, even if such members constitute a majority of the board, is within the letter of the present law. Protected as depositors are by an accumulated capital and surplus, and by a stockholders' liability, I would not recommend the extreme prohibition placed upon savings banks in this respect. But there is need of some legal regulation more radical than that now provided. In these days of large financial undertakings, when it is possible, and in some states not unusual, to establish or secure control of a bank in order to finance some enterprise or enterprises, it is easily possible for a few men to control through a majority ownership of the capital stock, deposits far in excess of that capital and to divert them to enterprises in which they have much greater personal interest than in the ultimate welfare of the bank itself.

This is certainly not consistent with good banking and the law should at least be so amended as to require the sanction of a majority of the entire board without counting the vote of any member interested directly or indirectly as a borrower.

NEW COMPANIES AND BRANCHES.

With the growth of the business transacted by trust companies in this State has come an increased demand for permission to establish branches. There are circumstances under which this is entirely proper and others under which it is objectionable.

The welfare of the public, and in each instance first that of the immediate, or local public, should be the prime consideration in the establishment of a semi-public institution under the supervision of the State and securing its franchise from the State. Under ordinary circumstances the prosperity, the stability, the general happiness of every locality depends very largely upon the investment of its own money, at least, in its own industries. This money is distributed mainly through the banking institutions which gather it up in the form of deposits from the general public. If this bank of deposit is a branch of some parent institution elsewhere located where the majority of the board of directors and frequently the entire membership of the executive board with their business interests and business alliances are resident, it is inevitable that that latter locality will have the first call on the deposits when they are required for business purposes, and especially when the need is greatest. And this accumulation and investment of funds of several communities in one locality will not ordinarily add to the safety of the investment.

It follows that in a community where there is a demand for any kind of commercial banking facilities and where local conditions are such as to warrant the stability of a banking institution, the field should be reserved for that community. And the necessity for banking facilities in a field that meets these requirements ought to, and usually will, speedily lead to their realization if left to themselves.

On the other hand there are unquestionably many communities which could not provide their own banking facilities, but which could be served by some established trust company with profit both to the company and to the community. These may properly be divided into two classes, those which can not and those which should not. In the first are those small villages which have a few merchants and manufacturers who would like the service of a commercial bank, a limited number of people who would be accommodated and encouraged to accumulate by a savings bank, both of whom will be well served by a trust company of this class.

The second class includes larger villages which, although very prosperous, depend entirely or substantially upon one industry, usually some manufacturing industry, and are so located that but one kind of manufacturing can be done with profit. In this case careful consideration should be given to the probability of that industry becoming unprofitable either through the instability of the general enterprise or the ultimate exhaustion of the material on which it relies. And an element of equal importance in such a case is the effect that any labor trouble or other serious misunderstanding might have on the prosperity of the community. Because it is apparent that a substantial, even though temporary, suspension of the business on which the welfare of such a community depended would almost necessarily result in a heavy withdrawal from the bank and probable embarrassment and loss both to the stockholders and depositors; while in the case of a branch bank, the parent institution could simply suspend business there, or curtail it, without likelihood of serious loss to anyone.

In these two classes of communities there would seem to be no objection to the chartering of a branch institution. But it is apparent that all these conditions should be given careful consideration in dealing with requests for chartering trust companies and their branches. Neither should be permitted simply for the asking. No body of corporators should be permitted to solicit deposits without reasonable assurance that the conditions will warrant stability. No branch should be permitted when the local interests demand and warrant a local institution.

LOAN AND BUILDING ASSOCIATIONS.

There are now thirty-five of these institutions in the State, the number having continued the same during the past four years. They were first placed under the supervision of this department in 1887. Some idea of their growth during that time may be gathered from the following table:

Year.	Number of institutions.	Number of shareholders.	Accumulated capital.	Guaranty fund.	Number of loans.	Amount of loans.	Assets.

This shows an increase in total assets of $242,253.02 against a corresponding gain of $95,236.14 during the previous year, well in keeping with that made by the other two classes of banking institutions when we consider the total amount invested. The accumulated capital is $167,718.75 in excess of that of Oct. 28, 1905, and the guaranty fund is now $78,373.11 against $74,245.92 of the earlier date. There is an increase of 272 in the number of shareholders against an increase of 96 in number of borrowers, an evidence of the continued popularity of these institutions with the investing public.

If the methods and purposes of these associations were better understood by the general public, this increase would be very much greater. They have been largely exploited as an aid to the home-builder by affording an opportunity for him to borrow money which he can repay in small instalments. This system of accumulating capital by small payments required to be made at regular intervals is equally beneficial to those who would place a part of their earnings at interest and who require some special inducement to make that investment regularly. Many who now wait in vain to accumulate what they regard as a reasonable sum to place at interest would soon find themselves with a very satisfactory deposit if they understood that they might pay in from one to five dollars a month toward the purchase price of an equal number of shares of $200 each, have a regular semi-annual dividend of from 2 per cent to 3 per cent on the amount paid in added to their accumulations, and have the privilege of withdrawing what they have paid in with a fair rate of interest before maturity if desired.

BANKS IN LIQUIDATION.

The Oxford County Loan Association is the only institution under the jurisdiction of this department now in process of liquidation, except for suits pending in some instances to enforce stockholders' liabilities in institutions in which this department has already substantially exhausted its remedies. The history of this institution and of its liquidation has been sufficiently dwelt upon in previous reports of the Bank Examiner, and it will suffice at this time to give the latest report of Mr. Silas D. Andrews, the Receiver, which is as follows:—

"To the Honorable W. B. Skelton, Bank Examiner of Maine.

"I have the honor herewith to submit my report as Receiver of the Oxford County Loan Association from Oct. 31st, 1905, to date.

RECEIPTS.

STATEMENT OF CONDITION.

Amount of claims allowed	$54,450.00
Eleven dividends paid	51,727.50
Balance due on face of claims.....	$2,722.50

ASSETS.

Cash on hand.....	$5,706.28
-------------------	------------

"I have paid during the year one dividend of six per cent, making in all 95 per cent of the face of all claims allowed by the Special Master. I have disposed of all of the assets of the Association under an order of Court so that the entire assets at the present time are shown by the cash on hand in above statement. I have filed my final account, and hearing has been ordered on same for January 8, next. I shall be able to pay the face or principal of all the indebtedness of the Association, together with the expenses of administration and a very little on the interest."

IN CONCLUSION.

I should be ungrateful if I closed this report without first having publicly acknowledged the obligation I am under to my predecessor in this office for invaluable assistance rendered me in taking up its duties. I found the department thoroughly equipped and systematized and every record including full minutes of examinations and correspondence connected with every institution under its jurisdiction for the period of Mr. Timberlake's incumbency of the office carefully filed and readily accessible. This coupled with a disposition to furnish every possible detail of information and suggestion desired and an office force exceptionally conversant with the work and needs of the department and ambitious only for the discharge of its duties in a manner befitting the dignity and importance of one of the great departments of the State government, has added very materially to the pleasure of the work and the possibility of its proper execution. And if at the end of my connection with this department I shall be able to command even a reasonable part of the commendation that I have had the pleasure of hearing bestowed upon the work of him who has been responsible for its management during the past eleven years, I shall feel that my efforts have not been in vain.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM B. SKELTON,

Bank Examiner.
