PUBLIC LAWS, 1905, CHAPTER 92.

AN ACT to provide for the better enforcement of the laws against the manufacture and sale of intoxicating Liquors.

Section 1. The governor is hereby authorized to appoint a commission consisting of three persons, one of whom shall be a lawyer, two members of said commission shall be from the dominant political party and one from the political party casting the next highest vote at the last state election.

Each member of said commission shall be paid a salary of fifteen hundred dollars per year and actual expenses.

The salary shall be payable in four quarterly payments on the first days of January, April, July and October.

Said commissioners shall be provided with an office at the state capitol, with suitable furniture, stationery and other necessary facilities for transacting the business of the commission, and may employ a clerk at the expense of the state.

Section 2. Said commissioners shall be known as enforcement commissioners and with the advice and under the direction of the governor shall have, and are hereby authorized to exercise in any part of the state, all the common law and statutory powers of sheriffs in their respective counties in the enforcement of the law against the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors.

Section 3. Said commission shall appoint such number of deputy enforcement commissioners as in its judgment may be necessary, who shall have the same powers as are given said commissioners under the preceding section. Such deputies shall be appointed in writing signed by a majority of said commissioners, which appointment shall be recorded in the office of said commission, and shall hold office during the pleasure of said commission. Upon being discharged they shall immediately surrender their certificate of appointment and all papers and other property relating to their office.

Section 4. Said commissioners and deputies shall be sworn and give bonds to the state for the faithful discharge of their duties, the commissioners in the sum of five thousand dollars and the deputies in the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars.

Any party injured by the official misdoing of any deputy, having first obtained judgment against him and failed to satisfy the execution issued thereon on demand, may, at his own expense, in the name of the commissioners, for the time being, institute suit upon such bond in the county in which the original judgment was obtained or in the county in which such deputy resides, for the purpose of collecting such judgment. The name of the party for whose benefit the suit is brought shall be stated in the declaration and endorsed on the writ and such party shall alone be liable for costs unless the court for good cause shown shall require other endorsers.

Section 5. It shall be the duty of the said deputy enforcement commissioners to exercise all the powers herein conferred when, where and as directed by said commission, and for their services, they shall be paid three dollars per day and the actual expenses occasioned by the performance of such duty, and shall, at such time as may be fixed by the commission, present their accounts for approval and after approval the governor and council shall draw their warrant against any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, in payment thereof.

Section 6. There shall be taxed for said commissioners and deputies in the bills of costs the same fees as sheriffs and witnesses have been heretofore entitled to receive, which shall be paid directly to the state treasury.

Section 7. The said commission, upon being satisfied that the local authorities fail to enforce the law against the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in any city or town of the state, shall, subject to the limitations of section two, instruct the deputy commissioners in the county, and may send one or more deputy commissioners from some other section of the state to enforce said law.

Section 8. The governor may, after notice to and an opportunity for the attorney for the state for any county to show cause why the same should not be done, create to continue during his pleasure, the office of special attorney for the state in such county and appoint an attorney to perform the duties thereof. Such appointee shall, under the direction of the governor, have and exercise the same powers now vested in the attorney for the state for such county in all prosecutions relating to the law against the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, and shall have full charge and control thereof; he shall receive such reasonable compensation for services rendered in vacation and term time as the justice presiding at each criminal term in the county shall fix, to be allowed in the bill of costs for that term and paid by the county.

Section 9. All fines collected by prosecutions undertaken by said commission or its deputies shall be divided equally between the state and the county in which the prosecution is had, except during the time when a special attorney is appointed to perform the duties of the attorney for the state for said county, in which event all fines collected on prosecutions instituted during such time by said commission or its deputies or by said special attorney, and half of all other fines in all cases in which such attorney shall take part, shall be paid to the state. Each clerk of the court shall within thirty days after the adjournment of each criminal term, certify to said commission a list of all fines collected in his county since his last return, which list shall show the origin of the case in which they were collected, and so far as exhibited by the papers or records, the connection of any of the special officials herein provided for, therewith. Said commission shall determine what moneys are due from any county to the state under the provisions hereof, and such sum shall be paid by the county treasurer to the treasurer of the state within thirty days after said commission shall notify the county commissioners of any county of its determination.

Section 10. Nothing in this act shall in any way relieve the sheriffs or the municipal officers of cities and towns, or except when such special attorney has been appointed, the attorney for the state for the county, of the duties devolving upon them for the enforcement of the law against the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, and all fines collected by prosecutions instituted by them, except those in which such special attorney shall take part, shall be paid entirely to the county wherein the conviction is secured.

Section 11. Whenever, in the judgment of the governor, either of said commissioners is negligent in the performance of his duty, it shall be the duty of the governor, and he is hereby authorized to remove said commissioner from office.

Section 12. Whenever, in the judgment of the governor, the commission is no longer necessary, he is hereby authorized to remove from office all members of said commission, and the commission shall be thereby suspended, until such time as he deems its services are again required.

Section 13. This act shall take effect when approved.

[Approved March 18, 1905.]

REPORT.

To His Excellency the Governor:

In November, 1907, the Commission submitted to your Excellency the following report:

REPORT.

“The Enforcement Commission herewith submits tabulations of the various cases originated by our deputies in the counties of Somerset, Androscoggin, Sagadahoc and Knox, giving the name of the party, the nature of the case, the origin and date of commencement, the disposition in the lower court, the date of entry in the Supreme Court, adding a memorandum as to the previous record of the offenders. For Penobscot county we give a similar tabulation, but owing to the fact that no term of court has been commenced in that county since our work began there, the tabulation for Penobscot is largely the showing of the results in the Municipal Court.

Before speaking in detail of the various counties, in view of what the tabulations will show we think it proper to make some general observations as to prosecutions under the prohibitory law, which will apply to all the counties and to the work generally.

Under the provisions of the law, in nearly every case where a conviction is justified on a search and seizure or seizure process, the evidence will also justify a conviction as common seller or for maintaining a nuisance, and our deputies have been instructed in proper cases to make concurrent complaints for all three of these offenses. The law court has recognized and declared them to be distinct, and to subject the party to the penalties upon each concurrently. Analysis of the cases will show beyond question that in many instances indictments have not been secured upon the bound-over nuisance and common seller complaints, and it is also apparent from the record that one penalty only has been imposed upon the two or three cases coming before the court against the same offender. It is also apparent that there has been little or no distinction made between new and old offenders. It will be observed that many cases have been placed upon the special docket, which means that being convicted, generally upon a plea of guilty, they stand continued ready for sentence when the county attorney may see fit to call them to the attention of the court. Theoretically these cases are supposed to be on probation, with the understanding that the offenders shall not be punished unless they shall be guilty of subsequent violation of the law, but that if they are guilty of such violation they shall be subject to sentence on such old cases. Properly used, this may constitute a most efficient instrument in the hands of the county attorney to enforce the law, since the old offender is not entitled to trial on any such case, but must simply take his sentence. If used by the county attorney for this purpose, the man with cases on this special docket would practically be barred from engaging in business, since he would not only be sentenced, but his sentence would properly be a severe one. If such use of the special docket is not made, the system is a pernicious one, and such disposition of the cases should not be made.

Under our practice, in liquor cases as in other cases, the criminal docket is very largely handled by the county attorney in accordance with his discretion, and while decision as to a sentence is ultimately an act of the judge, he is dependent for his knowledge as to the record of the offender upon the information placed before him by the county attorney, and it is even proper to say that in the sentence of particular offenders he must depend largely upon the advice of the county attorney. This is true also to a great extent with regard to the entry of a nol pros or continuance in the various cases. It is a fact also that the county attorney, being the special private adviser and assistant of the grand jury, exercises great influence in determining whether indictments shall be returned.

We speak of these matters generally, since we believe that they must necessarily be considered in order to obtain a proper understanding of the tabulations which we submit. Present conditions are largely the result of customs which have been gradually adopted during a period covering many years. They are not new or unusual, but in view of the duties devolving upon the Enforcement Commission and upon the county officers, we deem it our duty to call your attention to such conditions, with the suggestion that the work of our deputies in presenting cases to the court is but a part, and perhaps not the most important part, of the work to be done in bringing about an efficient enforcement of the law.

Section 8 of the law creating this commission provides for the appointment by the Governor, after notice and hearing, of a special attorney for the prosecution of liquor cases in any county. Under the statute, chapter 29, section 69, it is made the duty of county attorneys to "diligently and faithfully inquire into all violations of law within their respective counties and institute proceedings in case of violations or supposed violations of law, and particularly the law against illegal sale of intoxicating liquors." We assume this to mean that they, as well as the sheriffs, are bound to use the provisions of the statutes to their full extent to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, and that if they do not do so it is clearly contemplated by section 8 that special attorneys should be appointed, and that it is proper matter of inquiry and report by the commission to your Excellency whether the machinery of the law is fully and properly and effectively used. In this connection should be noticed the provision of chapter 29, section 41 of the Revised Statutes, providing for an additional penalty for subsequent violations after the first offense of single sale, and a similar provision in section 42 in the case of common seller, with the general provision of section 61 requiring every trial justice, recorder, clerk and judge of a municipal or police court and every county attorney having knowledge of a previous conviction of any person accused of violating this chapter, in preparing complaints, warrants or indictments to allege such previous conviction therein, with the further provision in the same section that if such indictment is entered in court no county attorney shall dismiss or fail to prosecute it except by special order of said court. We do not undertake to state what conditions exist in the courts in other counties with respect to these matters, as we have not the figures from the records, but from the tabulations which we present it seems manifest that a change of policy would be necessary in order to conform to the spirit and letter of the prohibitory law.

Taking the counties in the order in which work was commenced, the first is Somerset county, where the first seizure was made June 8th, 1907. In this county prior to our entry into the same we called upon the sheriff, urging that the law be enforced, but upon a private investigation instituted by us it was found that there was absolute failure to enforce the law. It is true that raids were made, but they were not effective, and the sale of liquor was open and practically unrestrained. In one place, a hotel, while our representative was about the premises, word came that a raid would be made by the sheriff or his deputies on the succeeding day. There was at the time a well-equipped bar running wide open. During the following day, before the arrival of the deputies in the afternoon, the liquors were removed, and when the raid was made, nothing was found in the bar-room. A small amount of liquor was found in the room of one of the guests in the hotel, which was seized as the basis of a complaint, but the seizure was manifestly of such a nature as would produce no result. It was under such conditions that the deputies were set at work in this county. The tabulations, which extend to the close of the September term, show that the respondents in 3 search and seizure cases each paid $100 and costs in the lower court. Thirteen search and seizure cases were appealed. Of these, two were nol prossed, 9 were continued, and the remaining two were fined $100 and costs each. One of these two, who pleaded guilty, paid his fine, and the other case went to the law court on exceptions after trial and conviction. One case for aiding and assisting in violating the prohibitory law was continued. Of 5 nuisance cases bound over, no indictment was found against one, one was nol prossed and three were continued.

In Androscoggin county work was done by the enforcement deputies up to January 1, 1907, when by your direction it was discontinued in order that the law might be enforced by the sheriff if he decided to do so. The last term of the Supreme Court held prior to January 1, 1907, was on the third Tuesday of September, and in this county we have dealt with cases originating since that time, following them through to the close of the term recently held in September, being the last term for the year 1907.

Before again sending deputies into Androscoggin county, as in other cases, we communicated with the sheriff, calling his attention to the conditions as we found them. Conditions had become very bad. Although four deputy sheriffs had been appointed at the opening of the year especially for the enforcement of the liquor law, it was common knowledge that liquor was sold freely in the city of Lewiston and in certain other parts of the county. This was commented upon by the public press, and was the subject of general remark. We did not, however, rely upon common report. We had a special investigation made, with the result that 130 places known to be liquor shops were located in Lewiston, the names of the proprietors being given, with a description of the business, our report also estimating that there were probably 50 other places which would ordinarily be called kitchen bar-rooms, where liquor was bought and disposed of in small quantities and not known to be kept constantly on hand. At the time our report showed this condition to exist, the sheriff, in response to our request that he take measures to enforce the law, published a letter which was widely read, to the effect that no open shops existed. Work was begun the 24th of June. The tabulation shows the cases originated by our deputies since that time up to the commencement of the September term and also, as has been said before, the disposition of the cases which had been standing over from their previous work. The tabulation shows that there were 77 seizure and search and seizure cases presented to the court by the enforcement deputies which went to the Supreme Court by appeal. The penalty provided by the statute is $100 and costs, and in addition thereto 60 days' imprisonment. By the general statutory provision as to sentences, chapter 136, section 1, however, the court may in its discretion impose either or both of these penalties. Six of the old offenders and nine of the new offenders received sentence of $100 and costs. No new or old offender received the alternative sentence of 60 days' imprisonment, but one old offender received sentence of $100 and costs and 60 days' imprisonment additional. A nol pros was entered in 8 cases against old, and in 11 cases against new offenders. Seventeen cases against old and 19 cases against new offenders were placed on the special docket. Four cases against old and 2 against new offenders were continued. Had sentences of fine and imprisonment been imposed in each case of conviction of old offenders, the fines would have amounted to $2,400 besides the costs, and the imprisonments would have amounted to 48 months, as against $600 and costs and two months' imprisonment actually imposed.

The punishment for nuisance is a fine not exceeding $1,000, or imprisonment not exceeding one year. Under chapter 136, section 1, the sentence may be either or both. In the cases tabulated all were bound over from the lower court, probable cause being found. There were 66 persons bound over for nuisance, of whom 24 were old and 42 new offenders. No indictment was returned by the grand jury against 4 old and 13 new offenders. Nol pros was entered as to 3 old and 1 new offender. Eight old and 5 new offenders went on the special docket. Penalties imposed were, $50 in case of one old offender; $100 in case of 6 old and 11 new offenders; $250 in case of one old offender, this, however, being really a fine imposed upon 3 joint offenders; $300 on one new offender, in which case a nol pros was entered as to two others jointly indicted. In one case sentence of $100 and four months was imposed upon a new offender, there was one sentence of 30 days against a new offender, one of two months and one of four months. There were 18 new offenders convicted of nuisance, and taking a fine of $100 as a minimum for such, the amount would have been $1,800. The amount actually received from fines upon new offenders was $1,700. There were 16 old offenders convicted, and assuming an average penalty of $300, the amount would have been $4,800. The amount actually received was $900.

The penalty for being a common seller is one hundred dollars fine and 60 days' imprisonment. Under chapter 136, section 1, the court may impose either fine or imprisonment or both. On a second and every subsequent conviction the penalty is $200 and four months.

There were 10 cases of common seller, 7 against new and 3 against old offenders.

No indictment was found against 2 new offenders. Three were sentenced to pay $100, 1 to imprisonment for 30 days, and 1 was placed on the special docket.

The 3 cases against old offenders were all placed on the special docket.

There were 3 cases of single sale, all against new offenders, one of which was not pressed, and the other two, both against the same offender, were defaulted.

The statutory penalty is $50 and 30 days, with provision for $200 fine and 60 days for subsequent convictions.

Since the question of expense with respect to the work of the Commission is frequently urged, it is to be observed that had the court dealt with the cases simply by fines, the results with the minimum and maximum in each case, taking no account of double sentences which would have been possible in the common seller cases for previous convictions, since these were in no case alleged in the indictments, would have been as follows:

Search and seizure, convictions, 58; fine, $100; amount, $5,800.

Nuisance, convictions, 39; fine, $50 to $1,000; amount, $1,850 to $39,000.

Common seller, convictions, 8; fine, $100; amount, $800.

Thus, treating $50 as being as low as could reasonably be affixed by any court in a nuisance case, had minimum sentences been imposed in each case of conviction the fines would have been:

In search and seizure cases.....	$5,800
In nuisance cases.....	1,850
In common seller cases.....	800
	$8,450

While had the maximum been imposed the figures would be:

Search and seizure.....	$5,800
Nuisance	39,000
Common seller	800

Reports and investigations satisfied us that the law was not being properly enforced in Knox county, and on the 24th of June, 1907, our deputies commenced work there, and it has been continued without interruption since that time, except that by request of the city marshal and upon his assurances that he would undertake to enforce the law the deputies were withdrawn from Rockland in September. Since that time conditions have changed for the worse, and we ascertained that liquor was being sold freely in the city, and on the 19th of this month our deputies resumed work in Rockland, making four successful raids. From the tabulation it appears that all five cases which were on the docket at the January term 1907, four being search and seizure cases and one a nuisance case, are still on the docket, although recognizances have been defaulted and scire facias proceedings begun upon two of them. Eleven new cases of search and seizure and two for single sale appealed to the Supreme Court were all continued at the September term. Twelve nuisance cases were bound over from the lower courts. In two of these no indictment was found, and the other 10 were continued.

In Sagadahoc county, as in the other counties, the deputies who had been at work in 1906 were withdrawn at the close of the year to give the sheriff opportunity to enforce the law. Reports of similar conditions to those in other counties were received and verified by investigation, and as conditions continued bad, notwithstanding notice by the Commissioners to the sheriff, deputies were sent to begin work June 25, 1907. The last term of court in this county is held on the fourth Tuesday of December, so that it happened that no new cases were begun by the enforcement deputies subsequent to that court until the summer of 1907, and the tabulation shows the record of these new cases. In this county one respondent paid $100 and costs, without appeal, in the lower court. The other cases were disposed of as follows. One for illegal keeping was nol prossed, one search and seizure case was nol prossed, and one person was sentenced to 60 days in jail on a search and seizure case. Against one respondent there were 4 cases. On one search and seizure case he was sentenced to 60 days' imprisonment; another for the same offense and one for single sale were continued. The fourth case was for nuisance, upon which he was bound over, but no indictment was found.

In Penobscot county our deputies began work August 19th. There had been frequent public statements that conditions were bad, and that liquor was openly sold in Bangor and elsewhere. As in other cases we endeavored to get enforcement by the local officials. After careful investigation we became satisfied that this was not being accomplished and was not to be expected, and arrangements were perfected to set a competent force at work and the work has been continued up to the present time. The August term of the Supreme Court had commenced when the deputies began to make seizures. There has been no criminal term since that time in the county, so that we are able to report only the figures from the lower court. The tabulations extend to the 1st of November. They do not include cases where searches were made and nothing found, nor cases where liquors were seized and no person arrested.

The table shows 35 cases on search and seizure process. Sixteen of these were sentenced to pay $100 and costs, 9 of them paying and 7 appealing. For 9 the sentence was $100 and costs and 60 days' imprisonment, and all appealed. Six cases were nol prossed, 3 were discharged on hearing, and 2 defendants defaulted their bail.

There were 12 cases of illegal possession, of which 6 were sentenced to pay $100 and costs, 5 of these paying and 1 appealing. One was sentenced to $100 and costs and 60 days and appealed. Two cases were continued for sentence, and 3 were discharged on trial.

There were 18 nuisance cases, 10 of which were bound over, 2 discharged on hearing, 5 nol prossed, and 1 defaulted bail.

The work in the above mentioned five counties by no means represents the entire work of the Commission. We have received and attended to many complaints throughout the state, referring them generally, when they arose in counties to which we had not sent deputies, to the respective sheriffs, and in many cases these have apparently received prompt attention. In accordance with our established policy and as we believe with the intent of the law, we have used all possible effort to obtain local enforcement, and have no doubt that conditions have been improved in counties where enforcement heretofore has been more or less lax, by reason of the understanding that the Commission would enter such counties if failure by the local officials should continue."

Since the above report work has been continued in each of the five counties covered by the same. Work has also been done in Washington county. The results in detail are given in the tabulated statement which is herewith submitted, covering the work of the Commission from December, 1906, to this date.

On the 13th day of December, 1907, conditions were such in Somerset County that the Commission recommended to the Governor the appointment of a special attorney for that county. January 4th, 1908, after notice to the county attorney and opportunity given him for a hearing, Amos K. Butler, Esq., of Skowhegan, was appointed special attorney for Somerset County and has acted in that capacity until the present time.

The county attorney began quo warranto proceedings to test the validity of this appointment. The presiding justice sustained the validity of the proceedings and the case was taken to the law court where it was argued at the June term at Portland, 1908, and up to the present time no decision has been received. In this case the constitutionality of the law under which the Commission is acting is directly called in question, and especially the portion of the same providing for the appointment of such special attorney. With this case pending, the Commission has not found it advisable to take further action in applying for appointment of a special attorney until the decision should be received from the highest tribunal of the state.

On the eleventh day of July, 1908, after careful examination and attempts to obtain enforcement by the sheriff of the county, the Commission sent its deputies into Washington County, making simultaneous raids at a number of places in Calais, where large amounts of liquor were seized and a condition of open violation of the law was found.

Since that time work has been continued in that county, and considerable seizures have been made at Eastport and other places.

Deputies have not been sent into other counties to assume the work of prosecution, except that in Franklin County, on account of the fact that Chisholms constitutes practically one village with Livermore Falls where our deputies were at work, they have covered this village and have in one or two instances, at the request of the county officials, visited the Rangeley region.

As to the other counties in the state, conditions have been for the most part satisfactory, and such as to cause the Commission to believe that there was proper effort on the part of the local officials to enforce the law.

Complaints have come to the Commission especially in regard to six localities, as to which we state briefly as follows.

1. Rumford Falls. There have been frequent assertions in the public press that liquor selling was allowed in this village by the local officials, and claims made that the Commission should enter Oxford County in order to take care of this. That liquor has been and is sold in this vicinity is unquestionably true. The real question, however, is whether the proper measures have been taken to prosecute.

The Commission has taken the matter up with the sheriff, Mr. Hubbard, and the county attorney, Mr. Barnes, as to whom the Commission believes, and we have not found it questioned, that they are both entirely honest, and have endeavored to see that the law was enforced.

The charge urged upon the attention of the Commission was that the local officials in the town of Rumford were at fault. Mr. Hubbard investigated this in private and in public. Mr. Barnes has taken a personal and direct interest in the prosecution and has made use of injunction proceedings against various offenders, and the records show that there has been activity, both in commencing and carrying through prosecutions against offenders in this locality to an extent which indicates efficient enforcement and probably as good as could be obtained by our deputies if they were sent to this town.

It is not claimed so far as we know that elsewhere in Oxford County there is any trouble about enforcement.

2. It has been frequently claimed that the law was not properly enforced in York County. As to this county, in the summer and fall of 1907 we found conditions unsatisfactory. We had consultations with both the county attorney and the sheriff, and measures were taken which produced a great improvement in conditions.

Lately we find conditions not so satisfactory, and have taken up the matter further with the local officials, but have not deemed it advisable to assume charge of the prosecution in this county, in view of the fact that it is reasonable to assume that the incoming sheriff would expect to enforce the law and that opportunity should be given him to do so.

3. Cumberland County. Until about the first of January, 1908, the sheriff assumed to enforce the law, and did so to such an extent that we did not feel called upon to interfere. During the latter part of 1907 and the first part of 1908, however, it became manifest that conditions were changed, and we found that liquor places were opened up and generally that the sale of liquors was becoming free and open and that no steps were taken to prevent it either by the sheriff or by the city officials.

Preparations were made by the Commission to place a force of deputies in this county, but before any raids were made the Mayor and City Marshal undertook the enforcement of the law in the city of Portland, from which the larger part of the complaints came to us, and put a special force into the field to do the work.

The work has been continued by the local officials since. It has been difficult and trying, especially in view of the fact that the police and the sheriffs have not been acting in concert. We have had conferences with the mayor and the city marshal and have been assured of their purpose to enforce the law if possible. They have not done so completely, but we believe that this has not been entirely through their fault, but has arisen from the exceeding difficulty of the situation, and from the fact that in the nature of things efficient enforcement cannot be accomplished immediately, but requires time and organization to meet and overcome the resistance of the liquor interests.

When the local officials started to enforce, various hotels were running bars more or less concealed. These were raided and many of the ordinary places where liquor was sold were closed. Thereupon the system of so-called "clubs" began to get into active operation, and latterly troubles have come very largely in this direction. It is a difficult proposition to meet, but many of these have been raided. The conditions are not satisfactory in this county, but the problem is a large one, and is modified by some of the general questions which we discuss later in this report, and on the whole, in view of the purpose of the law under which we act, that enforcement shall be obtained through local officials if possible, we have not undertaken to cover Cumberland County.

4. Kennebec County has not been altogether satisfactory. In the vicinity of Togus there is a serious difficulty owing to the conditions which surround the large number of soldiers at the Home. When the Commission, prior to January 1, 1907, had its deputies in Kennebec County, the same difficulties were met, chiefly, so far as the work of the deputies was concerned, in reaching the liquor places without knowledge of the liquor sellers, any stranger approaching being at once an object of suspicion.

In taking this matter up with the sheriff and county attorney, both expressed themselves as anxious to enforce the law, but claimed that no more could be done than was already being done. In support of this, they pointed to the fact that prosecutions had been instituted and carried through against the known dealers in the vicinity, notwithstanding which sales continued.

Conditions at Waterville, Augusta and Gardiner have been the subject of our consideration, and as to these, there have been times when the enforcement was apparently lax, and at other times more thorough. Open bars are not to be found. Places where liquor can be obtained with greater or less precautions undoubtedly exist.

The sheriff has assured us repeatedly that his officers were instructed to enforce the law strictly, and has complained that he could not obtain from the county commissioners authority to employ special deputies, and that relying upon the ordinary civil deputies he has done the best he could. On the whole, we have not thought it necessary to assume the prosecution of the law in this county.

5. In one other county in the state, Lincoln, we have on a special occasion, at the request of the sheriff, sent in deputies to assist him. This was done in a place where it was difficult for him to reach the known offenders with his own officers.

6. Not long before election time, complaints reached us in regard to Bar Harbor and Stonington, and it was claimed that the sheriff of Hancock County was not enforcing the law properly in these localities. Complaint had been previously made with respect to Stonington, but investigation had not satisfied us that there was neglect on the part of the sheriff or his deputies.

When complaints took definite form last summer, we sent deputy Ferd E. Stevens, in whose capacity and reliability we had entire confidence, to make a quiet investigation. The report to us satisfied us that in Bar Harbor there was no condition warranting our interference, and that the same was true with respect to Stonington.

The latter place is on an island, has many Italian laborers, and is reached, of course, by water. That liquor was sold is no doubt true, but there was entire absence of liquor places which could be located, or of the appearance of general selling, except that through the transportation companies liquor was undoubtedly delivered to individuals, which could be seized were it not for the fact to which we shall hereafter allude, that the decisions of the court stand in the way.

There remain to be mentioned conditions in one or two peculiar localities in the state which are very difficult to deal with, such as Jackman and Greenville Junction. They are near the borders, are distant from the centers, are frequented by men coming out of the woods, and persistent and bold liquor sellers are found in these localities. To reach them without discovery, either by railroad or by team, is exceedingly difficult.

Raids have been successfully made, however, but a single raid will not cure the difficulty so long as upon the payment of a fine when caught and convicted, the man can go back to his business. It is a different proposition even from that of the persistent liquor seller in the city where he is open to repeated raids.

As to the other parts of the state, conditions are generally satisfactory, and for the most part the law is practically well enforced. We have been in communication with various officials besides those whom we have mentioned particularly, and have generally found them prompt and alert with respect to any matter called to their attention.

December 11, 1906, a decision was announced by the Supreme Court which materially affected enforcement conditions in this state. Prior to that time under the authority of the cases of State vs. Intoxicating liquors, 95 Maine, 140, and State vs. Intoxicating Liquors, 96 Maine, 415, our court in passing upon the rights under the commerce provisions of the United States Constitution as modified by the Wilson Act had decided that the transportation of liquors had been completed after liquors had arrived at their place of destination and storage had commenced, so that liquors intended for unlawful sale were subject to seizure by the officer in the freight house of the railroad where they were awaiting delivery to the consignee.

Under these decisions liquors had been repeatedly seized by the officers in freight offices, and also in the hands of the express companies, where there was reason to believe that they were intended for unlawful sale in the state. But in the case of the American Express Company vs. Iowa, 196 U. S. 133, the United States Supreme Court, whose authority is supreme with respect to the interpretation of the commerce clause of the United States Constitution, passed upon the question of when interstate commerce terminated. Our court was bound by this decision and followed it, and in the case above cited held, December 11, 1906, that until the duty of the carrier had ended, by delivery to the consignee, transportation was incomplete, and the liquors were not subject to seizure under the state law.

In accordance with this decision, officers have no authority to seize liquors, even if they are the property of well known liquor sellers, and understood to be intended for unlawful sale by them, while they remain in the freight house of the railroad or in the possession of the express company for delivery to the individual to whom they are consigned, if such liquors were shipped from a point out of the state for delivery to such consignee. The state officials are simply powerless to deal with them under such circumstances.

The result of this has been to open up an entirely new phase of the liquor business, and one which complicates the question of enforcement seriously. In addition to the regular express companies which handle liquors only in the same way they handle other express matter, there have come into existence a considerable number of so-called express companies organized as corporations under the laws of the state in the same manner that a legitimate express company is organized, and for similar declared purposes, whose real business is the unlawful sale of liquors.

Of course in connection with this they do some legitimate business—at least, it is to be supposed that they do. But practically their method is to order a supply of liquors which are shipped by express, each package tagged with the name of some individual, real or fictitious.

The same decision above referred to held that the fact that the name of the consignee was fictitious was not material, so that at any time officers going to one of these express offices, on examination would find a greater or less number of packages addressed to A., B., C., etc., so far as appearances go waiting for delivery to the party named. The express company of this kind delivers these packages to whomsoever it sees fit, as there is generally no connection whatever between the name on the tag and the actual consignee. And it has been found that any person whom the express company considers to be safe can receive one or more of these packages delivered by the express company without any previous order, but in exactly the same way that the party might buy it of a dealer.

Many of these express companies have been raided, but it is only safe to do so when the officers are prepared to prove that the express company itself is the consignee and that the goods have actually reached their destination when they reach the express company, in which case, of course interstate commerce has ceased with respect to such goods.

The result of this is that such express companies have become distributors of goods, not only to people who buy for the purpose of drinking, but to small establishments, kitchen bar rooms and pocket peddlers, who buy them for the purpose of selling, and who are relieved of any necessity of keeping a stock on hand subject to seizure, by reason of the fact that the express company will deliver a small quantity at any time.

During the present month, December, an important additional decision has been received from the law court, holding, in substance, that liquors which under the United States Pure Food Law are adulterated or misbranded are not subjects of interstate commerce, and if intended for unlawful sale in this state are subject to seizure while in the hands of the carrier and to forfeiture. As nearly all of the liquors intended for illegal sale are below the required standard of purity, this decision would seem to make most of the liquors handled in the manner above described by the liquor express companies subject to seizure under the state law, and in many respects the work of enforcement will be simplified.

NUISANCES AND INJUNCTIONS.

When work was resumed by the Commission in the summer of 1907, notices were prepared and the deputies were instructed to serve them in all cases where search and seizure was maintained against persons occupying premises not their own, calling the attention of the owners of such buildings to the fact that their tenants were using the buildings as liquor nuisances. Many such notices have been served, prosecutions have been instituted where a second case was found against the tenant, and many places have been closed permanently as a result. To make this efficient, however, the active cooperation of the county attorneys has been necessary, and this in many cases has been lacking.

The nuisance statute provides for injunction proceedings against buildings used as nuisances and against their owners and keepers, either upon information by the county attorney or upon petition of twenty legal voters of the town or city. The attention of all the county attorneys in the state was called to this statute by us, and they were requested to make use of it. Two county attorneys have done so with excellent result, Mr. Barnes in Oxford County and Mr. Hobbs in York County, both of whom have been active and zealous in the prosecution of liquor sellers. This arm of the law is a most efficient one if used. As the law now stands, however, it is difficult to make use of the alternative power given to the twenty legal voters, and its value at present depends upon the personal views of the county attorney in any county. The Commission made preparations to obtain the necessary number of petitioners, both in Androscoggin and Penobscot County, but after careful consideration, in view of doubt as to their right to guarantee petitioners against possible expense, cost and liability, and of the probability that such cases, if begun, might result in somewhat extended litigation, the Commission decided that further steps in this direction by them were not advisable.

PROSECUTION OF DELINQUENT OFFICERS.

The statutes provide for active prosecution of offenders against the liquor laws on the part of county attorneys and sheriffs and their deputies, and provide further a penalty for wilful or corrupt neglect or refusal to perform their duty in this respect. No prosecutions have been commenced for the enforcement of such penalties, although it may be considered manifest from the fact that enforcement has devolved upon the Commissioners in the several counties where they have worked, that there has been ground for such prosecutions. It has been considered doubtful whether it would be within the province of the Commission to institute such proceedings, and it is further obvious that ordinarily the relations existing between the sheriff and the county attorney in a county where the law is nullified would be such that there would be small prospect of success.

WHAT THE TABULATIONS SHOW.

The tabulations show proceedings of one kind and another instituted by the deputy enforcement commissioners in the different counties as follows:

Androscoggin	863
Franklin	78
Knox	391
Penobscot	972
Sagadahoc	72
Somerset	109
Washington	67

Cases enough have been brought before the courts by our deputies in each of the counties where they have been at work to have practically put an end to the liquor business in these several counties, had the full penalty provided by law been imposed. Undoubtedly a wide margin might have been allowed for first offenders and for special circumstances requiring leniency, but when the liquor business is analyzed, any liquor seller stands in the position of violating the law simply for what profit he can make out of it. Moreover, from the details which we give in our tabulations, it appears that a very large proportion of the offenders are persons against whom there had been previous convictions. The conclusion seems irresistible that the responsibility for the continuance in business of these offenders lies with the courts and the court officials.

Another feature shown by the tabulations is illustrated by the history of the August term, 1908, in Penobscot County and the September term, 1908, in Knox County.

In Penobscot County there were 43 persons before the grand jury on the testimony of deputy enforcement commissioners for offenses against the liquor statutes, and there were in addition 45 persons who had been convicted in the municipal courts in the interval between the February and August terms, making a total of 88. The number of indictments found against any of these persons, all for nuisance, was 17.

There had come over from the February term 24 nuisance cases, 6 on the special docket with a plea of guilty or nolo contendere and 18 continued on the general docket. No further steps were taken with the cases on the special docket. Of the 18 continued cases 7 appear at the close of the August term as further continued, so far as the criminal docket is concerned. In five of these cases, however, scire facias had issued before the August term, and four of these scire facias cases were dismissed at that term, the other being defaulted and continued for judgment. 5 of the remaining 11 nuisance cases were nol prossed, and in the other 6 the entry was indictment filed, which indicates that, unlike the placing of a case on the special docket, no plea is required.

All the indictments as common seller found at the February term, 9 in number, were continued to the August term, 3 on the special and 6 on the general docket. Those on the special docket remained there. Two of the others are further continued, scire facias having been issued in one, but dismissed at the August term. 2 were nol prossed and 2 filed.

At this term only one offender was brought before the court for sentence, which was to jail.

The 17 new indictments found at the August term were disposed of as follows: nol prossed, 1; indictment filed, 1; continued, 15.

In Knox County 23 cases were before the grand jury on the testimony of the enforcement deputies, against 21 individuals. Four indictments, for nuisance, were found. 3 of these cases were continued, and the fourth offender was sentenced to 60 days in jail. This was the only jail sentence imposed, and no fines were collected. The new appealed cases originated by the deputies were all nol prossed or continued, with the exception of three search and seizure cases against one offender, which were defaulted, the judgment of the lower court affirmed and mittimus issued.

Taking the disposition of all the cases on the docket, regardless of origin or date of entry, as reported by the clerk of courts, we find the one jail sentence already mentioned, 4 cases, including the 3 above mentioned, defaulted and judgment below affirmed, 4 simply defaulted, 3 indictments filed, and 69 cases nol prossed. Included in this were the cases which were returned from the law court for disposal at this term where conviction had been affirmed and nothing remained but execution of the sentence, and these cases were nol prossed with the others. The responsibility for the disposition of cases on the criminal docket by nol pros, filing, continuance or placing on the special docket rests primarily upon the county attorney, unless in special cases the court sees fit to interfere.

SUGGESTIONS AS TO CHANGES IN THE LAW.

1. Express companies organized under the laws of this state should forfeit their charters upon conviction for violation of the liquor law, and should be subject to investigation by the legal department of the state; and foreign express companies guilty in the same manner should be excluded from doing business in the state.

2. Chapter 136, section 1, of the Revised Statutes, should be amended, at least so far as it affects sentences for offences against the liquor law, so that the sentences prescribed by statute should be imposed, and it should not be left to the discretion of the court to change them.

3. The statutes of Kansas provide that proceedings may be instituted by the Attorney-General, county attorney or any citizen of a county where a liquor nuisance exists, in the name of the state, to abate and permanently enjoin the same, and that when judgment is rendered in favor of the plaintiff, the court shall also render judgment for a reasonable attorney fee against the defendants, which shall be taxed and collected as other costs therein, and when collected paid to the attorney or attorneys of the plaintiff therein. Our statute should be amended to give similar powers to the Attorney-General, to citizens and to the Enforcement Commission.

4. If the conduct of liquor cases is left in charge of the county attorney regardless of his attitude towards enforcement, an entire docket of criminals may practically escape punishment. We believe it should be the duty of the court to see that the liquor docket is fully and completely presented and properly acted upon, and that the court should deal with any county attorney who fails to attend to his duty properly in this respect. While it would seem that this might be a disagreeable duty for the court, and impose upon it a heavy burden, it is probable that the mere fact that the court would assume such a responsibility and let it be understood that it would do so, would remove in advance any necessity of actual interference.

The duties and responsibilities of the deputies have been important, and we are pleased to say that their work has been, in our opinion, well performed. All sorts of difficulties have confronted them, not the least of which is their liability to constant attack, misrepresentation, and even suit. Ungrounded complaints have been made against them, and they have even been met by physical violence while attempting to perform their duty, as was notably the case in the riot at Old Town, which attracted much public attention. They have shown courage and patience, and generally excellent judgment, and we believe deserve the commendation and support of all good citizens. Their work has not been confined to the ordinary hours of labor during the day, but all of them at times have been obliged to spend night after night in all kinds of weather and under all kinds of difficulties.

EXPENSES.

We submit a tabulated statement of the expenditures of this department, together with amounts turned in to the state treasurer from various sources, showing the net cost to the state for the two years from December 31, 1906, to have been $54,395.62.

In the report submitted by us in December, 1907, which is quoted in full, in discussing the cases on the docket of Androscoggin county we spoke of the amounts which were actually received from fines as compared with the amounts which might have been received had the larger penalties authorized by law been imposed. An examination of the cases which we report in our tabulations will make it clear to any one interested that with the number of prosecutions instituted by our deputies, had even moderate sentences been imposed upon convicted liquor sellers, not only would sufficient money have been received by the State to pay the entire expenses of the Commission, and to leave a handsome surplus, but there would have remained in the county treasuries corresponding amounts.

Under the statute the Commission is required to determine what moneys are due from any county by virtue of its provisions, and such sum is to be paid by the county treasurer to the treasurer of state within 30 days after the Commission shall notify the county commissioners. There remain unpaid at the present time sums so determined as due from counties as follows:

Knox, fines	$725 00
Knox, fees	1,911 31
Androscoggin, fines	1,625 00
Androscoggin, fees	1,687 43
Somerset, fines	550 00
Washington, fines	300 00

Counties have been notified of amounts so determined by the Commission, which have not as yet been paid to the State treasurer.

In Knox county the officials have so far refused payment, and the matter is now in the hands of the legal department of the State. In Penobscot county the county attorney has declined to allow the fees provided by the statute for deputy enforcement commissioners in cases instituted by them, although formal request has been made by the Commission for such allowance. The above sums when paid to the State treasury will still further reduce the net cost of the Commission.

LIST OF CASES AND DISPOSITION OF SAME.

In the following list the term, nature of case and docket number of Supreme Court cases are given, and all cases are Supreme Court cases unless otherwise noted. Cases in which conviction was secured in the municipal courts and which were settled there instead of being appealed, are also included, up to the date of opening of the August term of the Supreme Court.

As the terms of the Supreme Court covered are both in 1908 (February and August) the year is omitted except in municipal court cases dated 1907.

An asterisk (*) following a person's name indicates conviction (in Supreme Court) prior to 1908.

The notation "No indictment" indicates that none was found, although the deputies were in attendance as witnesses and convictions had been secured as shown in the lower courts.
