REPORT OF COUNCIL COMMITTEE,

To the Governor and Council:

Under the statutes of Maine the supervision of the state prison devolves upon the Governor and Council and, in the exercise of this supervision, some member of the Committee on State Prison and Pardons has regularly visited the prison at least once each month.

The affairs of the prison have been managed by Warden Ham to the entire satisfaction of the committee. The conduct of the shops and the sale of manufactured products has been in accordance with correct business principles and with favorable financial results. Several improvements have been made in the condition of the buildings and the inmates have been cared for, so far as the limitations of the plant and the means at the disposal of the Warden would permit, according to the best modern tendencies in prison management. The steam engine and dynamo used for generating electricity and the old water motors have been discarded and new electrical equipment has been installed. Current for both light and power is secured from the Rockland, Thomaston and Camden Street Railway and improved service has been obtained. Under the new arrangement a material saving in the expense for light, heat and power can be effected as soon as necessary changes are made in the heating apparatus. Whenever the necessary funds are available the waterpipes should be entirely renewed to prevent the excessive waste of water which now occurs and when this is done water can be obtained through a metered service, in the opinion of the committee, at much less cost.

The buildings, with the exception of the harness shop, are antiquated and unsuitable for the purposes of the institution.

The Legislature should make provision at an early date for a new prison to be constructed along the lines of modern prison architecture and located at some more central and convenient point where sufficient land can be obtained for cultivation by the inmates. If this can not be accomplished extensive changes should be made in the present structure. The cells should be enlarged and better sanitary arrangements provided and hospital quarters should be established where the sick can be properly cared for and those suffering from infectious diseases segregated.

We believe that changes should also be made in the laws which regulate the management of the institution. A Prison Commission to consist of five members should be created to exercise a supervision over the prison and with authority to select the Warden and subordinate officers. The Board of Inspectors of Prison and Jails should be abolished and all of the powers and duties of that board should be conferred upon the Prison Commission. This commission should also assume all of the powers of the Advisory Board in the Matter of Paroles which was created under the indeterminate sentence law passed by the last Legislature. To insure continuity of service the members of this commission should be appointed for a period of five years, the term of one member expiring each year.

Dated the thirtieth day of November, A. D. 1914.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWARD W. WHEELER,

FRED G. KINSMAN,

JAMES S. WRIGHT,

Committee on State Prison and Pardons.

MAINE STATE PRISON AND JAILS.

---

To His Excellency, Governor William T. Haines, and the Executive Council:

GENTLEMEN: We herewith submit to you the report of the Board of Prison and Jail Inspectors of the date of November 30, 1914.

There were confined in the Prison at Thomaston, Men, 164.

Women, 5.

Received during the year, 67.

Discharged by expiration of sentence, 40.

Pardoned by the Governor and Council, 4.

Paroled by the Governor and Parole Committee, 35.

Transferred to the Criminal Hospital, 3.

Men confined in the Prison Nov. 30, 1913, 178.

Women confined in the Prison Nov. 30, 1913, 8.

For particulars relating to the departments we would refer you to the tables and reports of the industries and to those of the Warden and other members of the prison board.

Conditions affecting the prisoners, and those relating to the prison plant, remain practically the same as at the time of our last report. The health of the prisoners appears to be good, reflecting the influence of good food, not uncomfortable housing and rational treatment.

During the summer the Saturday and Sunday afternoon recreations in the yard have been appreciated and much enjoyed.

We could make no comments other than favorable on the discipline and order of the prison. The rules are few and for the welfare of all concerned, and are intelligently and reasonably enforced.

The food is of good quality and of sufficient quantity and variety. The prison is always clean and well aired during the summer, and warmed and well ventilated in the cold months. The sanitary arrangements are not modern but the health of the prisoners is seemingly in no wise affected.

The industrial departments have been operated steadily and to good advantage, affording continuous employment to the men and substantial returns to the State.

The harness department shows an increase in the gain this year over that of last of about $1,326.13, and a profit on the year's business of $8,192.20.

There was, however, owing to the parole, less men employed and a corresponding reduction in the product, 2,242 harnesses having been made in 1913 and only 1,933 in 1914, or 12 per cent less, but with an increase of profit. The inventory shows an unusually large stock of leather, which was purchased at the low price of the year, but taken in the inventory at the price paid, a gain to the coming year's business.

The carriage department has also been successful, although losing many of its expert workmen by the parole. At the beginning of Warden Ham's administration this department was encumbered with a stock of carriages and sleighs and practically no market for them. At the time of this inventory there is no stock of mention, and a quick market for far more carriages and sleighs than can be manufactured. The repair work is of large proportions and very profitable.

The broom department, while showing comparatively small profit, is in a most satisfactory condition. A product to the value of nearly $40,000 has been manufactured, and of a high grade of workmanship. This has been disposed of at ruling market prices. Orders are received for more goods than can be manufactured. The improvement here during the last two years has been very marked. Prior to that time it was badly handicapped by old machines, and the inventory at the beginning of this administration showed a large amount of poorly made brooms, a quantity of undesirable stock, and a correspondingly poor reputation in the market. That accumulation was disposed of at what it would bring, and new machines were installed which made perfect goods. Its product is now a favorite in the market, and the financial ability to buy the stock at the proper time in the season would make this one of the most profitable departments in the prison.

We can safely affirm that there is no prison in the country in which the industrial departments contribute so largely towards the maintenance of those confined as that at Thomaston. Many of the states are hampered by labor laws, regulating the amount of work to such small proportions that no material aid results to them. With favorable laws only a few prisons earn more than from ten to twenty per cent of the cost of maintaining their prisoners. Maine is an exception to the rule, its prisoners having earned an average of over 65 per cent of the entire cost of running the prison for the last eight years. We may mention here that the State should not, thoughtlessly, be too selfish in this matter; there are several points of view concerning these earnings. It might be more to the interests of the State if a much larger amount than the stipend now allowed were to go towards putting the paroled or expired sentenced man on "his feet" when he gets into the world again. As it is now, on leaving the prison he is, in almost every instance, penniless, and his situation soon becomes serious. A percentage of his earnings, large enough to be of service, placed to his credit during his sentence, could be of the greatest assistance to him and well invested by the State. It may be observed also that 33 per cent of those sentenced are married and may have had one or more dependent upon them. For a man to be earning something for himself, or for those dependent upon him, could but be an inspiration to him and a bond of union for mutual good.

It is a duty and a pleasure to comment on the able and highly efficient manner in which the prisoners and the departments have been managed by the warden and his subordinates. Discipline and obedience to the rules of the institution are strictly enforced, but with a reasonableness and a sensibility appreciated by the well disposed and adversely criticized by none. The labor in the departments is not severe but requiring skill and ingenuity. The recreation allowed in the summer, and such entertainment as can be provided in the winter for holidays and Sundays, with reading and study by some of the younger men, and anticipated release by parole, softens somewhat the grip of prison life.

To this slender list of prison benefits should be added assistance to the man on his re-entry to civil life. It is morally due to him, and for the State's interest, that a favorable opportunity be created for him to reconstruct his life, if so disposed. This assistance, made possible by his labor, in conjunction with the humane treatment accorded him while in prison, would discharge all obligations which the State might owe him under the present system of affairs.

In the administration of the industrial departments the results show intelligent supervision and energetic and judicious methods of operation. Each department is a well ordered and successful business corporation. An aggregate of nearly $200,000 is handled in doing the business of these departments. It is very evident that only a few available men possess the requisite qualities, the experience and business capacity for the varied duties of the management of such institutions.

It is clearly to be seen that an institution which carries with it so much responsibility, and the administration of which is so important to the State, should not be subject to the uneven tenure of political favor. We believe it reasonable to suppose that the day is not far distant when our prison will be conducted by the state after the manner of other institutions.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK H. HARGRAVES,

MATTHEW C. MORRILL,

CHARLES B. RANDALL,

Inspectors of State Prison and Jails.

WARDEN'S REPORT.

---

To His Excellency and the Honorable Council:

GENTLEMEN: I herewith submit you my second annual report of the Maine State Prison for the fiscal year ending November 30, 1914.

In my last annual report I said that the citizens of this State must not expect too much from the Maine State Prison this year, because of the parole law paroling the best men that we have in the institution.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Parole Board has paroled sixty-nine (69) men from this institution it has been a very good year for the Maine State Prison and a great deal better than we expected, showing an increased profit in the Harness and Carriage Departments. In the Broom Department we manufactured and sold thirty-eight thousand, seven hundred twelve dollars and forty-four cents ($38,712.44) worth of brooms, and you will notice by the appended reports that the profit was small for the reason of the high price we had to pay for broom corn for the first ten months in the year; also the increased cost of broom handles from three to five dollars per thousand. It has been a nice clean business, the men have all been to work and we have had no trouble in selling the brooms, and we have been way behind on our orders all of the time, and today we have twelve hundred dozen of brooms back on orders.

In the Carriage Department and Harness Department we have been behind on our orders and orders for wagons taken last June have not been filled yet, and the manufactured stock that we have on hand today is the lightest that it has been for a great many years. The sales in the Carriage Department have dropped off during the last year a little over four thousand dollars ($4,000.00) for the reason that we have not had the men here to manufacture the stock.

We have paid every bill during the year as they came due and taken the discounts, and on the 30th day of this month we paid every bill that the Maine State Prison was owing or contracted by me during my administration, and had a cash balance in the bank of five thousand, five hundred and sixty-six dollars and sixteen cents ($5,566.16.)

Last year the Stable and Farm showed a profit, this year they show a loss. In the Stable we had poor luck with our pigs, losing several hogs beside two cows, which accounts for the loss in the stable. Last season we had a splendid year for potatoes, raising over sixteen hundred bushels. This year was a poor season and what potatoes did not rot in the field rotted in the cellar.

Last year and this year show an increased cost for lighting and heating, for subsistence, and medicine. The reason for this is that the salaries of the two engineers, the commissary and physician have always been charged to officers' salaries, which is wrong. Since I have been here I have charged the salaries of the two engineers to light and heat department, commissary to subsistence department, and physician to medical department in order to show just what each department has cost the State.

For all information as to the business transactions of the year just closed, permit me to refer you to the appended tables which I believe are a brief and concise report for this year's work.

The average health of the inmates of this institution has never been better than it is at this time, only three being unable to work, one an old man, one a cripple, and one just operated on for appendicitis. I have given the men the use of the yard Saturday afternoons and Sunday afternoons and it has done them more good than medicines or doctors. The exercise and out door air has done wonders for them both mentally and physically, and we have received more work and better work in the five and one-half days than we would if we had worked the full six days.

The general condition of the plant is out of repair and run down, being built over ninety years ago. The things we need most here is a flush closet in the cells and a dining room for the prisoners to eat in. After working in the shops hard all day they should have a chance to go into a dining room and sit down to a table and have what time they want to eat, and all they want; but now they are locked in the cells and the food put in to them. The State of Maine is too far advanced to allow these conditions to exist. I still recommend the buying of six hundred acres of good land in the central part of the State and building a new modern and up to date prison. I believe it would be a good investment for the State to make.

I repeat now what I recommended in my last annual report, a parole law for life men after serving a sentence of twenty-five to thirty years or arriving at the age of seventy-five years; believing that we have men here that have served from twenty-five to thirty years that would go out and make good, useful, and law abiding citizens.

The guards here at the Maine State Prison receive a salary of $500.00 per year or $41.67 per month for twelve hours per day and seven days in the week, and the Legislature should at this session increase the salaries of the guards of the Maine State Prison.

Fr. Flynn, pastor of St. Bernard church of Rockland who has been very faithful to his flock here, having services in the chapel the third Sunday in each month, besides visiting the prison several times during the month should receive compensation for his services and I recommend that the Legislature pass a law making his salary $300.00 per annum.

I have endeavored to make this report clear and concise so that the citizens of this State will know the condition of the Maine State Prison at this time.

Three of the officers of the Maine State Prison have been retired on a pension during the year; Charles A. Pierce, Deputy Warden; Jefferson Faulkner, Guard; and Artemus Allen, Overseer of the Broom Shop and the State will lose the services of three faithful officials.

I beg to express my appreciation for the assistance and helpful services that I have received from the hands of the Governor and the Visiting Committee Messrs. Wheeler, Wright, and Kinsman, and for the coöperation of the Board of Prison and Jail Inspectors, Messrs. Hargraves, Randall, and Morrill.

In closing I wish to thank the overseers and officers of the institution in their coöperation in making the year a successful one.

Respectfully yours,

FRANK J. HAM,

Warden.

REPORT OF ADVISORY BOARD.

To His Excellency, William T. Haines, Governor of Maine:

The Advisory Board in the Matter of Paroles, created by chapter sixty of the Public Laws of 1913, respectfully submits its second annual report, which includes all transactions of the board from December 1, 1913, to November 30, 1914, inclusive.

Applications for parole were received during the year from fifty-nine inmates of the state prison. Nine of these applications, in which exclusive jurisdiction under the terms of the law had been conferred upon the Governor, were referred to him, and a parole was granted in each case. Of the fifty applications remaining, and which were considered by the Advisory Board, twenty-six were allowed, sixteen refused, two were granted to take effect at a later date and six are held without decision, pending further investigation.

In granting paroles the board has taken into account the prison conduct of the applicant, his previous record and his habits and methods of life before conviction; his domestic relations, his prospects of employment and his ability and apparent desire to lead a correct life and maintain himself by honest labor. The refusal of the board to grant paroles has been due either to the character of the crime committed, the misconduct of the applicant while in prison, his previous criminal record, the lack of suitable employment for him if released or his inability to bring himself otherwise within the terms of the law.

Since the Indeterminate Sentence Law became effective sixty-nine inmates of the prison have been released on parole. Of this number nine have violated the conditions of their paroles, two of whom have been returned to prison to serve out the unexpired terms of their sentences, one has failed to furnish his monthly report for October and the other six have disappeared.

Twenty-seven final discharges have been issued to prisoners who have completed the full period of parole with a good record. Two paroled prisoners have died, one by suicide. All of the other prisoners to whom paroles have been granted, according to the information and belief of the Advisory Board, are living useful and industrious lives and fully appreciate the clemency and opportunity extended to them. The percentage of parole violations has been much smaller in Maine thus far than the average of other states in which similar laws are in operation.

The statute provides, "No prisoner shall be released on parole until the governor or advisory board in the matter of paroles shall have satisfactory evidence that arrangements have been made for such honorable and useful employment of the prisoner as he is capable of performing." This provision of the law has caused the Governor and the Advisory Board considerable embarrassment owing to the extreme reluctance of the people of the state to employ anyone who is known to have served a term in a penitentiary. Some of the violations of paroles have been directly due, in the opinion of the board, to the inability of those to whom paroles have been given to secure or retain steady and profitable employment.

The following tables show in detail the paroles granted, the violations reported and a summary of the earnings and expenditures of paroled convicts for each month since the law became effective.

PHYSICIAN'S REPORT.

To the Inspectors of the Maine State Prison.

GENTLEMEN: Herein find my annual medical report of the Maine State Prison.

During the year there have been no epidemics. Two men died during the year in the institution and one man while out on parole. Throughout the year when the weather permitted the convicts have been allowed each Saturday afternoon for recreation in the yard. In my opinion this has been a great benefit to them both physically and mentally, as well as an incentive for good behavior.

Again this year I must call your attention to the need of a building for the tuberculous patients so that they may be segregated from the other convicts. At the present time they are kept apart as much as possible from the other men. During the year only one death has occurred from tuberculosis.

The food has been of good quality, and plenty of it. The clothing clean and warm. Proper sanitary conditions have been maintained as far as we were able.

I wish here to thank the Warden, Deputy Warden, and all the subordinate officers for the many courtesies extended me during my official duties.

J. EDWIN WALKER, M. D.,

Prison Physician.

CHAPLAIN'S REPORT.

To the Honorable Governor and Council:

GENTLEMEN: I respectfully submit my third annual report as Chaplain of the Maine State Prison. The work of the year has been performed to the best of my ability, and I have no excuses for the results.

Chapel services have been conducted each Sunday. The services on the third Sunday of each month have been in charge of the Rev. Fr. Flynn of Rockland, or his assistant, Rev. Fr. Murmane. My relations with these gentlemen have been very pleasant, and both are true friends to the men to whom they minister.

It has been my ambition to make the Chapel services helpful and attractive, and I believe that almost every man in the prison looks forward with pleasure to that service. New speakers are secured frequently, giving variety to the service. Excellent music is provided, and the men are permitted to sing themselves. This they enjoy and the singing is a feature of each service.

The privilege of writing a letter each week has been enjoyed by most of the men. More than 5,500 letters and post cards have been sent out during the year, and a much larger number has been received.

About 30 of the men receive a weekly paper, while a large amount of reading matter is donated to the prison. The inspection of all this mail is no small part of the Chaplain's work. An abundance of good reading is furnished each man. A library of over 3,100 volumes is much used by the men, two volumes each week being allowed, and two magazines each week are given to each man who wishes to have them, the change being made twice each week. This supply of reading matter given to the men is most helpful in maintaining good discipline, as a man who is occupied with a good book or paper is not breaking any rules.

Several of the men are unable to read or write their own letters. This places a twofold task on the Chaplain, the care of the mail of these men, and the teaching of them to read and write. I regard this as most important. Many learn to read their letters, and some are able to write good letters after receiving the help we give. This work is hampered for lack of a good room and regular hours for school work. With a proper room much better results could be secured.

During the summer a religious movement was started among the men, and a Volunteer Prison League was organized. This League now numbers more than 50 members, and ten applications for membership are waiting acceptance. Each applicant must sign a promise to keep the rules of the League, which are as follows:

1. To pray every morning and night.
2. To read the Day Book faithfully.
3. To refrain from the use of bad language.
4. To be faithful in the observance of prison rules and discipline so as to become an example of good conduct.
5. To earnestly seek to cheer and encourage others in well doing and right living, trying, where it is possible, to make new members for the League.

(The Day Book, see rule 2, is a selection of readings from the Bible.)

This League here, as elsewhere, is proving a help both to prisoners and officers. The men as a whole are making commendable effort to keep these rules.

The Sunday afternoon concerts were discontinued during the summer, the men being given the afternoon in the yard, but will be resumed soon.

I would like to repeat and emphasize the commendation of my report of a year ago with regard to the management of the men under this administration. I have no knowledge of the business affairs of the year other than is possible to the casual observer, but judge from what I have seen that the showing will be excellent. But in my opinion, far above this in value, is the record of good discipline maintained by constructive methods. I recall a period of two months during the past summer during which no man was punished for any offense committed in that time, and this also when the punishment consisted only in losing the yard for a time. I doubt if a record like this has been made elsewhere in this country. Contrast this with the punishing of men by confinement in the dark dungeon, and discipline secured by that method alone, and your Chaplain feels that the present method can not be too strongly commended. The only change desirable is to make permanent the conditions that obtain during the summer. If a large room in which the men could have exercise and air Sunday afternoons was available, and the extra guards could be kept during the entire year the question of discipline and health would be met as well as is possible with this plant. There have been but two deaths in the prison since some time before I began my work as Chaplain, 26 months or thereabouts, a remarkable record. No doubt the yard Saturdays and Sundays has been a means of saving the life of some of the men here. To be associated with the Warden and Inspectors in this work is a privilege for which I am grateful. For the coming year I again pledge my best services in behalf of the men behind the bars.

Respectfully submitted,

EUGENE V. ALLEN,

COUNTY JAILS.

The meaning and significance of County Jails depend much upon the interest and experience one may have had in connection with them.

County Jail may be thought to mean a house of detention for those upon whom the hand of the law has been laid, and where the conditions of the sentence will be enforced with reasonable severity; where discipline, order and cleanliness prevail, and a wholesome respect for the law is engendered; where with time for contemplation and the riddance of evil environments, the convicted party at the expiration of his sentence may have been somewhat chastened and reformed, and inclined to become a law-abiding citizen and a productive factor in the body civic.

County Jail may be found to mean a den of iniquity, where all grades and classes of arrested and sentenced persons are indiscriminately confined; the young man awaiting trial for his first offense, and the prisoner with a record and character so objectionable and menacing to decency and order and the safety of society that he should never be allowed to associate with others, but should be segregated and restrained from any possibility of spreading crime. In this situation men are awaiting trial and serving sentence, the novice with the hardened criminal in an intimacy which bodes ill for a corrective or reformatory sentiment.

If only a part of the ability which is given to the exposition of criminal law could be given to a study of the conditions which obtain in the service of the sentence and their ultimate influence on those convicted, we are positive that the result would be of the greatest value to the community.

It has been truly said that half the population of our prisons is made up of persons who have been trained in mis-ruled jails and workhouses. Society must realize that conditions which now are allowed to exist are responsible for a large percentage of criminality.

That the present system is being subjected to criticism is evidenced by the fact that legislatures in several states have appointed commissions of investigation and recommendation. Essays have been written, addresses given and theories exploited, but lack of experience and practical knowledge of the many phases of the subject by the authors render them of but little constructive value.

Sixty per cent of our jail population, as shown by the records previous to 1913, was the direct result of intemperance. To the credit of law enforcement in 1913 and '14 it may be stated that our jail population was reduced 40 per cent. Jails whose cells and corridors had been crowded became comparatively vacant and some were closed.

In addition to the commitments for drunkenness the offenses, or crimes, of those confined in our jails run through the entire calendar from one of simple offense against law, with no criminality attached, to that of murder, and includes persons of all nationalities and conditions.

In many of our jails this motley crowd is held in enforced idleness. To rule and govern them there is an ever changing superintendency of sheriffs, jailers and boards of county commissioners. The wonder is that the influence of jail conditions is not worse.

Having a few, at least, of seemingly well defined ideas for the betterment of these conditions the board of inspectors in 1909, were given authority, subject to the judgment of the Governor and Council, to make changes in the housing and treatment of prisoners, and to provide definite plans on questions of employment, segregation, diet, clothing and sanitary affairs, and on all other questions relating to our jails, in the hope that they might not continue to be "schools of crime," but rather corrective and reformative.

The first principle acted on was that of employment, to be followed by a partial centralization in having sentenced persons committed to the larger jails where they could be systematically employed and segregated, and using some of the smaller jails only for bound over prisoners. Also to have in one or more of the larger central jails departments for women, with matrons, infirmaries and other absolutely essential details. To urge upon counties the farm plan for inebriates and light offenders, and further by education and the practical working out of betterments, gradually to develop a new system of jail conditions and government. The intrusion, however, on old-time customs and environments was resented. A change in the administration afforded the opportunity and the law was repealed. If for reasons beyond our knowledge that method of procedure lacked merit, we believe that the supervision of the jails by the state, rather than by the county, would be far better than the present system, and which could be done without interfering with the duties of the sheriff, or with their responsibility for the safe-keeping of the prisoners. The removal of the jail system from the instability and inexperience which follow political holding and according to it rational handling, would assuredly result to the benefit of the community beyond any immediate conception. The subject is of such magnitude and admits of such development that its supervision should not be merged with that of other institutions, but should be conducted on principles of its own. We believe that a subject so vitally related to the life of the state will eventually receive the attention which it deserves.

The following is a report on the jails individually :

The jails of the state may be divided into three classes with reference to size ; the small ones, those of average size and five large ones. Of the counties with small jails ; Lincoln has discarded its old stone one, built in the seventeenth century and used a time, as its records appear to show, for the prison of the state, and is committing its prisoners to the larger jails. The same plan of commitment is being followed by Sagadahoc. Hancock has a small and well conducted jail at Ellsworth, but with so few commitments that it could with profit follow the plan by adopted by Lincoln and Sagadahoc.

In those counties with average population, Franklin and Washington have especially well managed jails. In these the sheriffs and the deputies in charge give them particular attention, and in both the cleanliness, order and discipline are excellent. At Farmington, wood is prepared and sold in the local market netting to the county considerable profit. At Machias, the county commissioners are unable to find anything for the prisoners to do, a weakness common to many boards of commissioners. The sheriff and his deputy in charge, however, keep them at work on the jail interior or about the court house and grounds, and under such discipline and method as to meet the requirements of the situation.

The remaining six jails of this group are, as all are, with one exception, of comparatively modern build. The prisoners are always well fed and comfortably clothed and housed, when not too crowded, but they are idle; and these jails possess all the evils which are accredited to "County Jails."

Of the large jails, that of Kennebec, at Augusta, from its plan and capacity, may be given first place. The cells are of good size and well arranged, and it has very fair accommodations for women. It is well lighted and has a satisfactory system of heating. The kitchen and storage rooms are large and suitably fitted out. The workshop is of late construction and well planned for work and communication with the jail proper. Under the present management the routine of the jail is methodical and the discipline excellent.

The Auburn jail is not as well planned or as large as that at Augusta. It is, however, well lighted and heated and its walls, corridors and cells are clean and well painted. The women's quarters here are commodious and convenient, and are pleasantly located. There is a model eating room for the prisoners with smooth cement floor and slate topped tables, thoroughly sanitary in every particular. The kitchen is large and with modern conveniences, the storage rooms are well lighted and with good floors. A workshop adjoins the jail and the prisoners are regularly worked. The order and discipline here are as good as could be desired.

The jails at Bangor and Portland are much alike as institutions and in their maintenance. The interiors of both are in very good condition and the heating and lighting all that are necessary. The kitchen and laundry accommodations are not modern but serve their purpose. The quarters for women in the Bangor jail are poorly located and not as well furnished as they should be. In the Portland jail the quarters for women occupy one of the wings and are always in admirable shape. There are good cells and a workroom. A matron is in charge, who also has supervision of the laundry and of the clothing and bedding which, with the manufacturing and repairing, make the position one of responsibility and the department a busy one. This jail has a large workshop, but unfortunately, from complications, it is not in operation. The enforcement of order and discipline is not as strict here as in the other large jails, but no especially bad results have occurred from the leniency of those in charge.

York County, at Alfred, has a good jail. It is well managed and has excellent discipline. The interior is in perfect order. There is a large and convenient kitchen and well arranged storage quarters. It has a workshop and the prisoners are regularly worked. The lighting and heating should be changed, a new system installed and better accommodations provided for feeding the prisoners. With these changes Alfred jail would be one of the best of the large jails.

The largest proportion by far of those committed to jails is for drunkenness, many of whom are habitual drunkards who should be taken out of the jail system. They serve their sentences and are released only to return with further expense and trouble. This class of commitments for a series of years has averaged close to 4,000, and at a cost of from $3.00 to $10.00 each, according to the locality, or an average of $6.00, or $24,000; add to this the cost of lodging and subsistence for thirty days at only $10.00 each, or $40,000, totaling $64,000, and you have a low estimate of county expenses for a comparatively small number of persons for a large number of convictions, and for no possible permanent good.

Three-fourths of this class of commitments are in the five large counties and it would seem that all could protect the many interests involved at no better advantage than to follow the plan of Cumberland County and purchase farms, that these men might receive sentences applicable to their cases. They are not criminals and a jail is not the place for them; they get out of it only to go back again. They should be put at work with the proper environment for their own good and that of the community. The counties could well afford to allow these men a return for their work, the larger part to be held in trust, or applied as it should be, to mothers and children, perchance. This participation wherever tried solves the problem of discipline and gives to the men courage and a reformative spirit.

The farm plan has proved itself of especial worth where it has been developed, not only for inebriates but for light offenders who cannot be safely put on the probation list, and yet ought not to be sent to jail.

We most sincerely hope that Cumberland County will give to its commissioners the power to develop this farm system at the admirable Windham location for its own benefit and as an example for other counties.
