REPORT OF COUNCIL COMMITTEE.

To His Excellency the Governor and the Honorable Council:

The Committee on State Prison and Pardons has exercised a careful supervision over the prison and in order to become familiar with the details of its management the members of the committee have visited the institution at irregular but frequent intervals during the year.

The prison buildings are antiquated and ideal conditions can never be obtained with the use of the present plant, but so far as this limitation will permit the affairs of the prison are being conducted in a manner which is reasonably satisfactory. Both in the government of the prisoners and the management of the various shops and departments, including the purchase of supplies and the sale and disposition of manufactured products, Warden Ham has demonstrated an especial fitness for his position and the splendid service which he has rendered, in all respects, has been a source of much satisfaction to the committee.

By a resolve of the last Legislature the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars was appropriated for the payment of the outstanding debts of the prison which had accumulated during previous administrations. The overdue accounts represented by this indebtedness had continually absorbed the current income of the prison and had made it impossible for previous wardens to purchase supplies in quantities at the best prices and with the usual discounts for cash payment allowed by trade customs. This indebtedness being largely extinguished by the appropriation above referred to, the Warden has been able to use current income in the purchase of material for cash, effecting a very substantial reduction in the cost of supplies for all departments. In this way and through improvements in the methods of manufacture and the care and skill which has been displayed by the Warden in the sale of the manufactured products, the financial returns for the year have shown a substantial gain.

The operation of the new parole law has affected injuriously the results accomplished in several departments. Under this law prisoners who have become experienced and skillful workmen are usually released on parole and only the less experienced and least productive convicts remain. While the passage of this law has made it increasingly difficult to operate the prison shops at a profit, it has had a beneficial effect in promoting discipline.

The custom has been inaugurated by Warden Ham of granting a half-holiday on Saturdays during the spring and summer seasons, to all prisoners whose conduct during the week has been satisfactory. Baseball and other sports and amusements have been enjoyed and a very noticeable improvement has resulted in the health and discipline of the men.

Arrangements are under consideration for the employment of additional guards, to permit greater freedom to the prisoners on Sundays. Better hospital accommodations are needed which will permit the segregation of prisoners suffering with infectious diseases and assure them better care and treatment, but this and other improvement to the plant will require legislative action.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWARD W. WHEELER,
FRED G. KINSMAN,
JAMES S. WRIGHT,

Committee on State Prison and Pardons

MAINE STATE PRISON.

To His Excellency, Governor William T. Haines and the Executive Council:—

GENTLEMEN:—We herewith submit for your consideration the report of the Board of Prison and Jail Inspectors of the date November 30, 1913.

At the beginning of the prison year, December 1, 1912, there were confined in the prison at Thomaston:—

Men	178
Women	8
Received during the year	74
Discharged by expiration of sentence.....	54
Pardoned by the Governor and Council	8
Paroled by the Governor and Parole Committee.....	32
Parole violaters returned	1
Conditional pardon (returned)	1
Transferred to Criminal Insane Hospital.....	4
Received from Criminal Insane Hospital.....	1
Men confined in the Prison November 30, 1913.....	178
Women confined in the Prison November 30, 1913.....	8

For extended details we invite your attention to the statistical tables and statements of the industrial departments, also to the reports of the warden, physician, and the chaplain.

It is the observation of your Board of Inspectors that conditions relating to the prisoners—their health, food, clothing, and discipline—may be stated as excellent. Their housing and sanitation, while not what they should be, are made as good as circumstances will permit. The ventilation of the corridors is good and the heating comfortable. The men from their appearance and the ease with which they continue at their daily work, we judge to be of good physical standard; and the influence of the institution upon their mental and moral attitude must tend to make them better citizens when their opportunity comes.

The industrial departments are well organized actively and advantageously employed, and are assisting in meeting the expenses of the prison at the rate of over $2,000.00 per month.

For a comparison of expenses and earnings, from the published reports for the six years last past, we find that the average cost of running the institution in the years 1907, '08, '09, and 1910 was $30,291.81, and the average earnings of the departments $22,746.49; showing that the industries assisted in paying the bills of the prison at the rate of nearly $23,000.00 per year, or over ninety thousand dollars in the four years. A favorable commentary on the productive labor of able-bodied prisoners in lightening the burden of the taxpayers of the State.

The years 1911 and '12 show a marked difference in results; for while the average cost of the years referred to was $30,291.81, that of 1911 and '12 was at the rate of $38,536.21, and that amount less the average industrial earnings made the average cost of the two years at the rate of $17,241.40 as compared with the average cost of $7,545.40, for the previous four years, and show the sensitiveness of the affairs of the institution to changes in the administration of operation, with attendant conditions.

The indications are now that the industrial departments will be able to render substantial aid in meeting the expenses of the prison.

There have been about seven months of active work under the present administration, and in that time the carriage and sleigh shops have manufactured carriages and sleighs amounting to an average of $3,000.00 per month. There are three departments employed in this work; the blacksmith shop, the wood-working and the upholstering and painting.

In the harness department, harnesses are made ranging from light driving to heavy weight double harnesses, of a style and quality which make for them a ready market. The output from this department averages a monthly value of $5,000.00.

In the broom department new machines have been installed. Business here is very active. Brooms of all grades and styles are being manufactured, and order calls are ahead of productive capacity. The product from this department has a value of $3,000.00 per month.

Under the experienced heads of the departments a good proportion of the men become interested and competent workmen; and it is a subject of surprise, and complimentary to the overseers and the men, that with the changing population the quality and character of the work can be maintained.

During the summer months the men are given the yard Saturday afternoons for out-of-door sports. This is greatly appreciated. The freedom from restraint and monotony of prison discipline, the healthy out-of-door excitement from competing sports and rival ball teams; the liberty to talk and laugh and shout, drives the pallor from their faces and makes them forget for the time the existence of a prison wall. The sentiment seems to be for an extension of recreation, and the subject will be taken up at an early date by the warden and the inspectors.

The men are well supplied with comfortable clothing. A regulation prison suit is worn, which is not, however, the conspicuous striped suit commonly worn in a large number of prisons, but a suit one-half of which is brown and the other half black.

On coming to the prison the clothes of the prisoners are changed, his outer clothing thoroughly aired and if necessary fumigated, his under clothing washed, and all put away with his number and name attached. Money and valuables, if any, are taken to the office and placed in safe-keeping for the day of his release, if any there be. The prisoner is given a thorough bath, and then provided with underwear, stockings, shoes and a suit of prison clothes.

Once each week the men go in squads of five to the commissary department; baths are taken, and a suit of clean under clothing with stockings, towels, sheets and pillow case are given to each.

It may be of interest to know that for two hundred men, the average number until the advent of the parole law, there were used in the preparation of food for a month the following amounts:—

5000 lbs. of flour

3000 lbs. of meat and fish

1500 lbs. of sugar, rice, coffee, onions, prunes, macaroni, etc.

80 bush. of potatoes, beans and peas

1000 gallons milk

40 gallons molasses

Total cost of the month observed was.....	$710.81
Average cost per day for food alone.....	21.73
Average cost per day for each man.....	.10 98-100
Average cost per day including tobacco.....	.11 90-100
Gross weight of food per day to each man...	3 1-2 lbs.

On land owned, and leased, in connection with the prison there were raised 1645 bushels of potatoes, 590 bushels of turnips and 6000 ears of sweet corn. A large vegetable garden furnishes fresh food in its season for the prison.

There are in the pens 65 hogs and shoats; $366.00 worth of pigs were sold by the warden for the prison account.

Nine cows are kept to assist in supplying milk, and in the stable are four horses for work about the premises.

In the preparation of the food there are in the kitchen a head cook and four or five helpers. The kitchen has been recently renovated, the walls painted and screens made for the doors and windows for use in warm weather. A cement floor has been put in, and so arranged that it can be flooded and easily kept clean. There are installed good ranges and soup kettles for handling food in large quantities. The flour, meat, pork, fish and other food material are of good quality and bought with care and judgment.

We consider the commissary department well and economically managed.

In the women's department a part of their food is prepared there under the supervision of the matron. These rooms are well and pleasantly arranged. They are heated by steam and lighted by electricity, as is the whole prison, and have good bath and toilet conveniences. The rooms are well furnished, and the whole department shows evidence of scrupulous care and neatness. The discipline and order are all that can be desired.

Warden Ham in the short time which he has had charge of the affairs of the prison has shown himself to be a disciplinarian of broad and humane ideas, and genuinely interested in the welfare of those under his care. He believes, with the enforcement of discipline and labor, that the man behind the bars should have proper recreation, good food and comfortable clothing; also the best sanitation and housing the prison affords, and to that end the cells are kept painted and clean and the corridors well warmed and ventilated. Order and decency prevail, and the confidence of the prisoners in the integrity and good will of those in authority does much to lighten the gloom of prison life.

The parole law, now in execution, is a factor of distinct significance, and has introduced a recognized reformatory sentiment. To those who really want to become useful citizens the parole is an incentive for control and improvement, that they may merit its bestowal. To the recipient it carries the recommendation that he has proved himself worthy of confidence, which, and it needs no stating, is the foundation for a return to civil life.

It is recognized that there are those who though convicted of a serious misdemeanor, or crime, are not at heart criminals, and would be glad at the expiration of their sentence to join the ranks of wage-earning and law-abiding citizens; but sent out, as they are, with the handicap of a prison record, and practically no money, and in the most of cases with no one to do them a good turn, the situation at once becomes serious. To those who want to "make good" in their new start in life information and assistance at this stage would be of the greatest value and worthy of the State's interest. Without some help they may not be able to withstand the way of the least resistance and find themselves again under the ban of the law.

"For glad the man who can always boast
Of a friend or two;
The fairest sight is a friendly face,
The blithest tread is a friendly pace,
And Heaven will be a better place
For a friend or two."

It may be stated that Warden Ham has proved himself to be a good administrator of the business affairs of the prison as well as a good disciplinarian.

At the time of his appointment the finances of the prison departments were in a serious condition, a result, perchance, of the increased cost of maintenance, a recession of business in some of the departments and failures of parties to whom the prison had sold goods. It was considered, as is well known, of sufficient importance to warrant action by the Legislature, and a committee of investigation was appointed to consider what should be done to adjust affairs.

It was found upon examination that on December 1, 1911, the date of the then published report, that there was a credit balance of $17,904.05, while the accounts of March 17, 1913 showed a debit balance $3,322.66, indicating a loss of $21,226.71. This was corroborated by a stock account and an expert examination of the books of the prison. This amount was further increased by a bankrupt account of $2,500.00, thus making a shrinkage in the assets of the prison of $23,726.71. This drop in the quick capital of the departments caused a decided stress of their finances, creditors were calling for the settlement of their accounts long overdue, and the business of the departments was badly handicapped.

To relieve the situation and put back the departments to their old-time standing, the Legislature appropriated the sum of $20,000.00, and made it available through the State Auditor for the use of the prison. Upon this the creditors were paid, new business secured, supplies bought and discounts taken. At this time there are no bills payable of mention, and it is safe to state that the industrial departments are being well and profitably operated.

The law by which the prison bills are audited in the office of the State Auditor and paid through the State Treasury is working smoothly and satisfactorily.

The accounts of the prison are under the care of Mr. H. B. MacGunnigle whose experience and ability to act in this position are a guarantee that the business of the office will be done accurately and in accordance with the most approved methods. Mr. MacGunnigle is most efficiently assisted by Miss Helen Thomas whose knowledge of the detail work of the department render her services of especial value.

The valuations upon which the present report of the industrial departments is made are based on the cost of material. A manufactured article having only the value of the material of which it is made; having no additions for labor or selling price.

We would suggest that a law be passed making it compulsory that all valuations of the prison products be made on that basis.

Thus avoiding the variations in judgments of boards of inspectors and wardens.

The prison is well officered by men of excellent reputation, and of experience in prison work.

Deputy Warden Pierce is especially well fitted for the responsible position which he occupies; the day and night guards are attentive to their duties and dependable for prompt and decisive action should it be required. The overseers of the departments are expert in their line of work and experienced in obtaining the best results from the men under their charge.

From our knowledge of the officers and the guards, and of the overseers of the departments and their helpers, we are confident that no one will be treated unjustly, nor with severity, if the rules of the prison are obeyed, and these are reasonable and sensible and limited to only what are necessary for the welfare of all concerned.

The prison and the State are fortunate in having the services of Dr. J. Edwin Walker as attending physician. His ability and experience have enabled him to very successfully overcome the inadequate facilities for the treatment of his patients. Under his care no especially malignant nor contagious disease has gained a footing. It is very probable, however, that there will come a time when the physician's care and foresight will not avail to protect the prison from the spread of disease which could easily entail the loss of life, suspension of business and tremendous inconvenience. We believe it to be the exercise of only ordinary prudence for the State to protect the inmates of the prison, its officers and the business of the departments from contagion by ability to at once isolate malignant cases. For that purpose a building should be constructed under the direction of the prison physician and other competent authority.

The prison chaplain fills a most important place in prison life. His activities are many and varied; he mingles with the prisoners and from his intimate knowledge of them his council and advice can be of great good to them and to the institution. His interest in their moral and social welfare and his endeavors to instruct and entertain afford them the closest personal touch and sympathy that can come into their prison life.

Chaplain Allen is keenly appreciative of the duties and opportunities of his position, and his assiduity and earnestness are rewarded by the moral and social uplift of those whom he serves, and by the appreciation and respect which they accord him.

The Rev. Father Flynn, of Rockland, who is a welcome visitor at the prison, is most sincerely loved and respected by those to whom he administers; ever counseling with rare judgment and kindness, and always a ready and sympathetic friend of the prisoner.

The Board of Inspectors beg to express their appreciation of the courtesy which is always accorded them by the Warden and prison officials.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK H. HARGRAVES,
MATTHEW C. MORRILL,
CHARLES B. RANDALL,

Inspectors of Prison and Jails.

WARDEN'S REPORT.

To the Honorable Governor and Council:—

GENTLEMEN:—I respectfully submit to you the annual report of the Maine State Prison for the fiscal year ending November 30th, 1913.

I assumed the office of Warden the seventeenth day of March last. I found the bookkeeping system antiquated and not adapted to the use of the prison. I found no protection from fire for the books. We installed a new system of bookkeeping and bought a new fire proof safe for the books. There was also turned over to me accounts receivable, seventeen thousand seven hundred thirty-eight dollars and five cents ($17,738.05). I found several parties owing the prison in bankruptcy and had already received their discharge; others living out of the State, some of them no good and others dead, so that we charged off to profit and loss, three thousand three hundred thirty-eight dollars and seventy-one cents ($3,338.71).

I found the different departments in a good condition with the exception of the Broom Shop where there was several hundred dozen of brooms made up, machinery all worn out, and for that reason the brooms were not salable. I bought three new sewing machines, hurl cutter and sizer, and two new winding machines and today we are making on an average of about three thousand three hundred dollars ($3,300.00) worth of brooms per month and find a ready market for all the brooms we can manufacture.

We have paid the bills and taken all the discounts for the year, and on the 30th day of November we paid every bill that the Maine State Prison was owing with the exception of one old note at the Georges National Bank of five thousand one hundred dollars ($5,100.00), and had a balance in the bank of one thousand three hundred ninety-four dollars and forty cents ($1,394.40).

The sales and the profits in the Harness Department have dropped off some during the nine months of my administration for the reason that some of the best harness makers have been paroled and their sentences expired; also the increased cost of some of the material that go in making up of the harnesses, so that the first of the year we have advanced the price on all harnesses to take care of the increased cost of the material for the coming year.

There are two items that appear in this report, and the report will not show up as well financially as it would if I left them out. The Warden's salary of two thousand five hundred dollars ($2,500.00) and the water bill of two thousand five hundred dollars ($2,500.00), making a total of five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) has never appeared in any other report of the Maine State Prison. I felt in making up this report that it was intended to give the citizens of this State the exact condition of the prison financially.

For all information as to the business transactions of the year just closed permit me to refer you to the appended tables which I believe are a brief and concise report of the year's work.

I believe the average health of the inmates is better than it has ever been before in the institution. There has been no deaths and no one sick, while only four of the men show some symptoms of tubercular trouble, but are all able to work. Last spring after the ground was settled I fixed up base ball grounds in the yard and allow the men to play ball Saturday afternoons and holidays. The exercise and the air was just what they needed to improve their physical condition.

The physical condition of the plant is not in the best of condition, being built in the year 1824 and for some years no appropriation for repairs, and the only repairs that could be made on the plant would be from the revenue of the prison, and it was impossible for the Warden to take much from the revenue of the prison and put into repairs.

I would recommend that the State buy three or four hundred acres of good land located in the central part of the State and build a new modern up to date prison. Unless they do this there should be an appropriation for a new building to take the place of the old blacksmith shop, tailor shop, bath room, dispensary, and store which is in one building, and in that building there should be a dining room for the prisoners to eat in. There are only two prisons outside of Maine that they feed their prisoners in their cells. The old blacksmith shop is nothing more or less than a fire trap, and sooner or later we are bound to have a fire there. Also there should be a new building for the power plant and a change of the location. It will take a great deal more in the next few years to keep the buildings up than it ever has before on account of the age and conditions of the plant.

The last Legislature passed a parole law which went into effect July 1st, and up to the 30th day of November there has been paroled thirty-two and all of them have made good with the exceptions of one and he has been returned to the prison. It is a splendid thing for the men but hard for the different departments as it takes the best men from each department. The average amount earned by the men out on parole for a month is about nine hundred dollars ($900.00). Under the parole law a prisoner after serving half of his sentence in prison, provided his conduct has been good can be paroled. There are several paroled each month and during the coming year there are bound to be several paroled, and the citizens of this State must not expect too much from the different departments of this institution for the coming year.

In some of the Western States they have a parole law for life men, and at the last Prison Convention held in Indianapolis the wardens told me that it had worked out well, and I would recommend a parole law in this State for life men after serving twenty-five to thirty years of their sentences or having arrived at the age of seventy-five or eight years of age, providing they have friends and a home to go to so that they will be no expense to the towns. We have men here today serving a life sentence that have been here from thirty to thirty-five years and I believe that they would go out and make good citizens, leaving the question of parole wholly to the discretion of the warden and parole commission.

The guards of the Maine State Prison today receive a salary of five hundred dollars ($500.00) per year and they work on an average of twelve hours per day, and I am going to recommend to the next Legislature an increase of salary for each man.

I beg to express my appreciation for the assistance and helpful suggestions that I have received at the hands of the Governor and the Visiting Committee, Messrs, Wheeler, Wright, and Kinsman and for the coöperation of the Board of Prison and Jail Inspectors, Messrs. Hargraves, Randall, and Morrill.

In closing I wish to thank the overseers and officers of the Institution in their coöperation in making the year a successful one.

Respectfully yours,

FRANK J. HAM, Warden.

The foregoing statement of Income and Expense is for the nine months beginning March 1, 1913, and ending December 1, 1913. There are, however, cases where the entire year's expense or income shows. This may possibly be misleading, but inasmuch as certain expense accounts have never before appeared on the Institution's books—and there is no question but what all expense of the prison should appear—they have been opened up during this audit and made to give the year's cost in the particular accounts mentioned in the following statement:

The fact that practically all of these accounts as they now stand are uncollectible, we think they should be charged off to Profit and Loss, and probably will be before the close of another year.

Voucher No. 398 in favor of Edward Jones is still unpaid because as yet no bill has been found that was rendered by Jones. This is a transfer from the old system of book-keeping and can, without doubt, be closed off in the future provided Jones does not submit another bill for the charge.

PHYSICIAN'S REPORT.

To the Honorable Governor and Council:

GENTLEMEN :—Herein find my annual medical report of the Maine State Prison.

During the year there have been removed to the criminal department of the Augusta State Hospital four (4) convicts and one (1) returned as improved or cured. There have been no deaths in the institution since my last report. But few accidents have happened, the general health of the convicts has been very good. No epidemics have occurred. I believe the Saturday afternoon—weather permitting—out door recreation instituted by the present Warden has done much for the physical and mental condition of the men.

The variety of food has been increased. The good and well cooked food, the warm clothing, the equitable temperature of the buildings, and the excellent sanitary condition of the whole institution, have all helped to bring about this good result.

The care and treatment of tuberculous patients in prison is now a much discussed question. All agree, however, that the tuberculous patient should be kept apart from healthy people. Under the present condition at this institution this is impossible. I would advise a building being built for the confinement of the tubercular in this prison. I do hope that this State will soon realize the necessity of segregating and treating the tuberculous inmates in this institution.

Permit me to thank the warden, deputy warden, and all the subordinate officers for the many courtesies extended me during my official duties.

Very respectfully,

J. EDWIN WALKER,

Prison Physician.

CHAPLAIN'S REPORT.

To the Honorable Governor and Council:

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to present this, my second annual report as Chaplain of the Maine State Prison at Thomaston. The year has presented many opportunities for service. I have during the year given careful attention to the routine work. This has been in part the ministering to the spiritual needs of the men, doing what was possible for the mental development of each, and striving to render less monotonous an existence necessarily hard.

Carrying out this thought chapel services have been held as usual, and have been made as attractive as possible. Talks with the men on religious themes have supplemented the chapel services, and Bibles and religious literature have been given to such as would make use of them.

An abundance of good reading matter has been provided, and men who have been unable to make use of this have received assistance in studies, so that in not a few cases men have learned to read the books from the library, but some have now learned to read and write their own letters. For those who are unable to do this the reading and writing of their letters is a part of the routine work of the chaplain, as is the reading of all of the letters written or received by the men before they are forwarded.

Other work has been taken up as occasion and need seemed to direct. A musical program has been rendered each Sunday afternoon in the corridors of the prison in an attempt to relieve somewhat the monotony of the day. An appropriation made by the last Legislature has made possible the extending of this work, and occasionally an orchestra has been secured. A phonograph is used on other days, and men are allowed to sing such selections as are familiar. The results from this change have seemed to justify the effort.

During the summer the men were allowed the privilege of the prison yard each fair Saturday afternoon. The change was something of an experiment. It was necessary that some person assist in directing the games, and, feeling deeply the importance of making this a success, I gave such assistance as was possible each Saturday.

Many of those who applied for parole needed assistance, some in filling out the application blanks, others in the correspondence required in securing the services of the "first friend and adviser" others in the explanation of the conditions imposed by the new law. This assistance I have given as required.

I am receiving scores of letters from paroled men and from men who have completed their term of imprisonment, and have replied to each as far as possible. In this I have tried to cheer and encourage men who have none too easy a time in finding their place in the world after a term in the State Prison. Thirty-two men have been paroled and thus far one only has been returned. This is an excellent record. While it is certain that this number will become larger, since men are but human, I feel that a helpful letter from the chaplain may help some man in a critical hour. I am willing to write many letters if, in so doing, I may find the "one man."

I have regarded this prison as my parish, or, rather, the prisoners as my parishoners. I have tried to be a friend and helper to each man as far as possible. One year ago I pledged to you, Gentlemen, my best effort. I have kept my pledge, my best has been given. The same pledge I repeat here.

On the third Sunday of each month the Chapel service has been conducted by Rev. Fr. Flynn of Rockland, or by his assistant, Rev. Fr. Murmane, who have ministered to the spiritual needs of those of the men who held their faith. My relations with these gentlemen have been pleasant.

May I be pardoned if, in closing, I express my approval of the progressive management of the prison at the present time. The treatment accorded to each man has regard for his manhood, and furnishes, as I firmly believe, the most helpful condition for the reform of erring men. Improvements in ventilation, larger cells, new buildings, more land, and the like, may be desirable, and in some items be indispensable to the best work. But of the treatment of the prisoners as men I have no recommendation to make. The whole trend is in the right direction.

"This place is Heaven to what it was a few years ago."

These words spoken to me recently by one of the prisoners voices the opinion of many concerning prison management. Changes have been made that have produced results justifying the changes. The management of the men is in line with reforms in other states, so far as an antiquated plant will permit.

The change in the treatment of the men has been great, the change in the conduct of the men has been correspondingly great, and they too deserve much credit for splendid results.

The number of prisoners ranges from 180 to 220. Not one of this number but is confined against his will. Excellent discipline is maintained. Rules are strict and are rigidly enforced.

Ask any prison worker if 200 men can be kept under strict discipline without frequent, severe punishments, at times, and the answer will probably be "No!" But that is precisely what has been done here. Not only has the dark dungeon, a relic of the barbarous ages, been unused for several months, but all forms of punishment are now infrequent. Periods ranging from two weeks to six weeks without a single case of punishment of any sort are common. At the present time a period of 8 weeks has passed with only one case of misconduct requiring discipline, and that of a man apparently mentally unbalanced.

Contrast this with the days when the dark dungeon was seldom a week without occupants and when men were kept there seldom less than three days, and sometimes five, seven or even nine days, and one might well enquire "How has it been brought about?"

The answer is soon given. Discipline is now enforced by giving privileges for good conduct, and withholding these privileges as a penalty for infraction of the rules, and the plan has produced splendid results. Some of the privileges have been of long standing.

A deduction from the sentence for good record. The hope of a pardon in the case of men serving a life sentence. These have long been incentives toward good conduct. Two others have been added to these,—the hope of parole for such as are eligible, and the privilege of playing base ball and other games in the prison yard on each pleasant Saturday during the summer months. These things are doing the work of keeping the men in line as nothing else could do.

Men who laughed at the dark dungeon have become careful and obedient to the rules, knowing that only in that way could they have the "yard." Formerly a man receiving punishment had the sympathy and encouragement of his fellow-prisoners, was a sort of hero, or was credited with being "tough." Now the man who invites punishment,—for no man gets it otherwise,—is regarded as foolish by his fellows.

Formerly men encouraged each other to dare things forbidden. Now men often encourage each other to refrain from the same forbidden acts, feeling that the consequences may affect the privileges of not one but many. Formerly there were "hard cases." Now I do not know of a single case that could be properly called a "hard case." Formerly a bitter and revengeful spirit was common. Now it is rare.

Now a man has so much to gain by good conduct that the gain appeals strongly to each. He has so much to lose from bad conduct that few indeed care to take any risk in that direction.

But this tells only a part of the story. Much can never be given in detail. It does not tell of sixteen months without a death in the number of the prisoners. It does not tell of decrease in the number sent to the Insane Hospital at Augusta. It does not tell of change in the care of cells from which tuberculous prisoners have been removed. It does not tell of other matters concerning the treatment of the prisoners that would have long since have been demanded by the public had the public known. But it does tell enough to show that treatment of prisoners as though they were human is producing good results.

Respectfully submitted,

EUGENE V. ALLEN,

Chaplain.

To the Honorable Governor and Council:

GENTLEMEN:—Although not officially connected with the State Prison, it falls to my lot to minister to the spiritual wants of the Roman Catholics confined therein.

The third Sunday of each month, Mass is celebrated in the Prison Chapel. All prisoners, irrespective of creed, are present at this function. A sermon or instruction is given on this occasion, adapted to their needs. At my request, the Warden saw fit to issue an order excluding outsiders from this service, thus enabling the men to fulfill their religious duties without being objects of more or less morbid curiosity.

Once a year, in the spring, a special service is held for Catholic prisoners only. This gives them an opportunity to comply with the law of their Church relative to Easter duty.

On week days, we visit those who wish to consult us on matters pertaining to their spiritual or temporal welfare and do what we can to lighten their burden.

Owing to the fact that no appropriation is made for the services of a Catholic priest at the Prison, it is impossible to give to this work the time and attention it deserves. Nevertheless, measurable success has been attained.

Despite the disagreeable features necessarily linked with confinement in prison, the religious and moral tone of the institution is good. It is evident that the Parole law and the changes made by Warden Ham in minor matters of discipline have done much to soften the asperities of prison life.

Let me, in conclusion, testify to the unfailing courtesy extended to the visiting priest by the Warden and subordinate officers, as well as to the hearty coöperation he has had, at all times, from the Chaplain.

Very respectfully,

JAS. A. FLYNN,

Pastor of St. Bernard's Church, Rockland, Maine.

COUNTY JAILS.

There has been an improvement in the discipline and conditions of many of the jails within a comparatively recent time, more especially in the larger ones, the greater population of these apparently permit of more method and better discipline. Order and discipline prevail in the larger number of the smaller jails, but in many the indiscriminate, though seemingly unavoidable, housing of the prisoners defeats the intention of sentences. We believe in the coöperation of the courts to the effect that on conviction to county jails the person be committed to the one best suited to carry out the sentence imposed.

We most heartily endorse the position taken by Cumberland County in providing a farm for inebriates. For years previous to 1913 county jails have been congested with that class of commitments. This farm plan is a most important and progressive step, and we earnestly urge its adoption in other counties.

Prior to 1913 there were long periods in some of the counties when the jails were absolutely inadequate to meet the requirements of their commitments and the crowding was intolerable, large numbers of cells being used each for the sleeping quarters of from four to six prisoners. The situation was aggravated by crude sanitary conditions and from no isolation for those who were ill; and the crowded and poorly ventilated cells often times had a sick inmate to add danger and discomfort to his companions.

This last is in part from an earlier report and with particular reference to Androscoggin County jail, which has had at times from one hundred and thirty to forty prisoners in its cells and corridors, and has had an average of one hundred and five for the last six years, and 118 for 1912, of November dates; but which reports for November 30, 1913, only 28 prisoners; a surprising statement, and especially due to the small number of commitments for drunkenness.

It is of interest to know that in this county for 1912 the total commitments were 1318, and of this number 1057 were for drunkenness, an average of 88 per month; with this average for 1912, and an average of 68 for the last six years, it is a significant fact that at the time of this writing the commitments for drunkenness have averaged but 12 1-2 for the last eight months; and this in a county whose percentage of drunkenness has exceeded that of any other county in the State.

This 86% reduction would mean for the year 900 less of male commitments for drunkenness, and the addition of a large number to the ranks of the sober, working men of the county; a fact of great economic value and of particular worth in its prevention of crime and suffering.

While the county just referred to has led in the reduction of its jail population, and that in conjunction with an efficient and satisfactory maintenance of order and protection of persons and property, it is not alone in this moral and economic saving. The movement is apparent throughout the State. With but few exceptions the counties have shown decided reductions in jail commitments. Among the larger jails that of Kennebec shows a reduction of 60% in its November 30, 1913 report of jail population as compared with that of the corresponding date of 1912; a 60% reduction in the commitments for drunkenness for the year, and a 50% reduction in its total commitments.

There were in this county 450 less male commitments in 1913 than in 1912. As the convictions ran these men would be represented by (600 sentenced for one month or) 50 for one year. The maintenance of 50 men in Kennebec jail would cost the county for one year $5,000. In the absence of the offending cause of arrest these men would become wage earners for themselves and others. A daily wage of less than $2.00 would amount for a year to $25,000. This earning result and the saving of maintenance by the county would show a credit balance of $30,000.

There can be no record of all the good accomplished by the sheriff who fulfills the intent of law enforcement. He protects the welfare and happiness of homes through the length and breadth of his county from a waste of time and money which never comes to the notice of the law. In a county of over 60,000 inhabitants the earning result and maintenance cost of 50 men, though it be $30,000.00, is but trifling in a measurement of the good resulting.

Washington County shows conspicuously good results from vigorous and successful sheriff work, as evidenced in the returns from that county, recording as they do a 70% reduction in its November report of jail population; an 85% reduction in its commitments for drunkenness, and 28% for the year, with a reduction of 27%, in the total commitments.

The records of the police department of Portland—which is the storm center of Cumberland County as far as law enforcement and jail population is concerned—show that since 1900 there was an increase in the total arrests from 2090 in 1901 to 6035 in 1912. The records also show that in 1913 only 5477 arrests were made. 75% of arrests, the proven by the books of the department, are for drunkenness, or its results.

The jail record of Cumberland County shows a reduction of 10% in the number of prisoners November 30; a 47% reduction in the commitments for drunkenness of the same date, and 12% reduction for the year; and 16 2-3ds reduction in its total commitments.

In Penobscot and Sagadahoc Counties the records show decided shrinkage in jail populations. In Penobscot County commitments for drunkenness have fallen from an average of 67 per month to 34 per month for eight months, or a reduction of 50%; total commitments for the year from 1235 in 1912 to 587 in 1913 or a reduction of 2%. Also a reduction of 39%, in the jail population of November 30 dates of 1912 and 1913. In Sagadahoc County in the last eight months commitments for drunkenness have decreased from an average of 18 to 20 per month in 1912 to that of 7 or 8 in 1913 or a shrinkage of 60%. During the month of December 1913 there was but one arrest for drunkenness as compared with nine in December 1912.

York County shows 17% reduction in its jail population of November 30; 38% reduction in its commitments for drunkenness for the same date, and 13% reduction in drunkenness and total commitments for the year. This jail has a large proportion of tramps, a recent inspection showing over 50% of that class in the jail at that time. The jail has a well organized workshop and the prisoners are kept at work.

For the sheriff of York to have made possible in the year a reduction in commitments has required close attention to his duties. During the last three years the county has had excellent enforcement of the law, these three years showing but one-half of the commitments for drunkenness of the three previous years.

Among the counties with the lightest jail population—Hancock, Lincoln, Piscataquis, Somerset, and Waldo—Hancock makes a good showing in its reductions, Lincoln County has closed its jail, having had but 19 commitments through the year and 14 of those being tramps. The conditions in the other counties referred to have had good enforcement by the sheriffs.

Oxford County has reduced commitments for drunkenness 22%, but makes a slight increase on other points.

Aroostook makes a small increase in drunkenness and total commitments, but a reduction in its November 30th jail population.

A distinct change in this advance along the line of sobriety and economy is shown by the records made in Knox and Franklin Counties.

Knox shows an increase in its jail population of 25% of November 30; an increase of 27% in the commitments for drunkenness for the year, and an increase in the total commitments of 45%.

Franklin shows an increase in its jail population of 18% of November 30; an increase of 46% in the commitments for drunkenness for the year, and an increase in the total commitments of 40%.

Through the State the number of prisoners in the jails is less by 36%, than that of the corresponding date of November 30 in 1912; and the same percentage applies to the average for six years.

The number committed for drunkenness in 1913 was less by 40% than that of 1912 and 37% less than the average number for the last six years.

The percentage of total commitments is 23% less than that of 1912 and 26% less than the six years average.

The records show that this reduction was accomplished in less than eight months, the first part of the year having the average of 1912.

The figures of 1912 are practically the same as those of the last six years as may be shown by the following comparison.

The average number of prisoners in the jails of the date November 30, for the last six years has been 586; that of 1912 was 584; that of 1913 is 375.

The average yearly commitments for drunkenness for the last six years have been 3790; those of 1912 were 4097; those of 1913 are 2426.

The average yearly total commitments were 6650; those of 1912 were 6388, and those of 1913 were 4940.

These figures show that in 1913 there were from 1500 to 1700 less men committed to the jails than in 1912, and the years preceding, and that there are now in the State a large number of men who have been lifted by the policy of law enforcement from an improvident and wasteful level of existence to that of those who do the work and business of the State, with the livelihood and privileges which follow. And to this great material result may be added the immeasurable benefits which have come to the many homes from the restraint and removal of the cause of untold sorrow and privation.

What this sane and economical policy would have meant to the State if followed from the days of its originator; means now to the State during the few months in which it has been active, and what it will mean if continued, may be left to its citizens to consider.

From your inspectors point of view, as among the least of its benefits, it will save the building of larger jails, which until this revelation seemed imperative.

We also submit a report upon the upkeep and conditions of the jails individually.

ANDROSCOGGIN.

Auburn jail has been thoroughly renovated, and at this time it may be said to be in the best condition of any in the State. The cells, corridors, walls and ceilings have been renewed and the floors repaired. The kitchen, dining room and apartments and office are in the best possible condition and the cleanliness and order are seemingly perfect. The discipline is excellent. Rules are posted for the government and conduct of the prisoners and the requirements are lived up to. We cannot do otherwise than praise the management and the conditions of this jail.

AROOSTOOK.

The Houlton jail conditions are not as good as formerly. The interior of the jail should receive attention and the cells, beds and bedding improved. The discipline is very good. The food is of good quality, is well handled and of sufficient quantity. The jail yard should be repaired and made safe, or a new workshop, or workshed, constructed where the prisoners could be worked safely and to advantage, and thus be gotten out of the cells and corridors during the day. With this change conditions could be easily improved.

CUMBERLAND.

With the advent of the county farm for inebriates and better law enforcement Cumberland County jail has been relieved of its congestion and can easily accommodate its commitments. It should, however, have a thorough and complete renovation. Its cells and corridors need whitening, its beds and bedding renewed and its sanitary conditions improved. The prisoners are employed and the discipline is very good.

FRANKLIN.

The jail at Farmington is one of the well managed small jails. The discipline is good. The prisoners are well fed and regularly worked. The jail is clean and well cared for. There is no other small jail in the State in which the prisoners are worked to such advantage. A large quantity of wood is prepared and sold, yielding a good return to the county.

HANCOCK.

The jail at Ellsworth is one of the smallest in the State and the county has the good fortune to have but few commitments. The jail is well arranged and its few cells are of good size. A change should be made in its sanitary arrangements for convenience in the case of illness or for the close confinement of a refractory prisoner. The prisoners are boarded by the sheriff and have practically the same fare as that of his family. The discipline is good and the cells and bedding clean and in good repair.

KENNEBEC.

This is the largest and best arranged jail in the State. It has extra cell room, is well lighted and ventilated and has very good sanitation. It has a model workshop and the prisoners are regularly worked. The discipline is excellent and there is order and method throughout the establishment.

KNOX.

An effort is being made by those in charge to better conditions in the Rockland jail. Its interior has been painted and its plumbing improved and purchases have been made of mattresses and bedding. This jail has a workshop addition but the prisoners are not regularly worked. The continued occupancy of the cells and corridors is not conducive to cleanliness and healthfulness. Arrangements should be made for the working of the prisoners and for a thorough airing and cleaning of the jail each day.

LINCOLN.

We are very glad to note that Lincoln County has discarded its old stone jail at Wiscasset, a sturdy relic of the seventeenth century with narrow slits in its thick stone walls for light and ventilation, and is sending what prisoners it may have to other jails. Kennebec and Androscoggin jails are in shape to receive prisoners in considerable numbers, and we should recommend sending to either of these but not one of the smaller jails.

OXFORD.

We are pleased to report that Oxford County is to build a workshed for the jail at South Paris. It is impossible for the discipline and cleanliness in a jail to be what it should be where the prisoners are closely confined to the small central corridor, or narrow corridors at the sides, and in the small jail cells. We are confident that regular and systematic working of the prisoners will result in better discipline and a more satisfactory upkeep of the jail interior. The prisoners in this jail are well fed and clothed and jail conditions have been as good as could be expected under the circumstances.

PENOBSCOT.

There has been a very noticeable improvement in the affairs of the Bangor jail in conjunction with the better law enforcement now prevailing in that county. There is no crowding of prisoners into limited cell room as has been the case until recently. We believe, however, that Penobscot County can well afford to remodel its jail. The sanitation and other conditions are crude and insufficient for even a small number of occupants. With the lack of law enforcement in vogue until recently the commitments were in such numbers as to make the conditions intolerably bad. The county would do well to follow the plan of Cumberland County and provide a farm for future contingencies.

SAGadahoc.

This county having no jail sends its prisoners to either Augusta or Auburn, and to the advantage of all concerned.

SOMERSET.

This jail has a workshop addition but, for reasons best known to those in charge, little work has been done during the past year. Arrangements should be made by the County Commissioners and Sheriff to provide work for the men committed to this jail. Men awaiting trial are glad to get out of the cells and corridors of jails and employ themselves in a workshop, and those under sentence should perform labor of some kind. The bedding equipment in this jail should be overhauled and new supplies purchased.

WALDO.

This county has one of the old time stone jails. It is, however, very well arranged and with enough cell room for the requirements of the county. The interior has been recently painted and the conditions are very good for the number of prisoners it averages to house. This jail was one of those which built a work yard some years ago but like the one at Houlton it is of but small practical use and should be replaced by something better.

WASHINGTON.

This county has one of the best managed small jails in the State. The cells and corridors, the bedding and clothing are all in prime shape. The food is good, and the discipline and order are in the highest degree satisfactory. The sheriff in the county and the turnkey at the jail attend to their duties in a thoroughly efficient and capable manner. Only commendation can be reported of conditions in this county.

YORK.

The jail at Alfred is one of the four large ones in the State, and one of the first to have a workshop and to regularly work its prisoners. The workshop is well organized and the prisoners intelligently treated. The discipline is all that can be desired and the management of affairs reflects credit upon those in charge of the jail. This jail suffers in comparison with others in its class, and from the attending inconvenience, by its stove heating and oil lighting system. It can be easily and economically heated by steam in connection with its workshop, and electric lighting can be installed at small expense. These changes should be made.
