During the year, meetings as required by statute, have been held in each county, where we have considered with the local assessors of all cities, and substantially all incorporated towns and plantations, different problems of taxation, also methods of bettering conditions and removing any existing inequality, which might be overcome.

Meetings have been held at such places in each county, as would best convene the local assessors, the number being greater than in former years, from our desire to get more closely in contact with local conditions.

In addition to regularly advertised meetings, we have visited cities, towns and "wild land" sections, for the purpose of acquainting ourselves as fully as possible with existing conditions of the present time.

The friendly relationship of former years has been maintained with local boards, and in numberless ways we are again indebted for assistance, and courteous treatment, for which we have full appreciation, and only by a continuation of such conditions, made stronger by broadened acquaintance with men and conditions, coupled with hearty co-operation between this Board, the local boards, and the public in general, can satisfactory results be expected.

Realizing the many perplexing problems involved in taxation, we urge the taxpayer to frankly meet the assessor at all times, should the shadow of doubt or discontent enter the mind, as the supposed grievance may prove to be merely a misunderstanding, and in the same spirit, and for the same purpose, urge all assessors to come to us, as doubt and discontent should be cleared away if possible, leaving instead, confidence and content.

Believing the matter of taxation is possibly the most vital one to be met by city, town and state at the present time, and that citizen and tax official should spare no effort in frankly and fully meeting, and considering the different situations developing from time to time, in order to produce substantial and lasting results for the common good, which can only come from united and harmonious effort, we urge tax officials, and the public as well, to come to us freely at all times, for the discussion of matters of taxation, not feeling we may be able to solve all problems in this great work, but wishing to contribute the best we have to give, for the benefit of a common cause.

The increase in valuation as made by local assessors on April first, 1915, is material in amount, and indications are ample, to justify the confident expectation of a substantial gain in 1916, and in connection with the future valuation of all classes of property, we wish to remind those who may do this work, that under the law no basis of value is contemplated, other than just, true value of property, determined by careful use of all recognized factors which go to make value in the particular locality where the property is situated, bearing in mind the fact that the valuation of property at any point below that named, but tends to make higher tax rates, which is a question to be carefully considered from the view point of the possible purchaser, or those who may be interested in industrial development, and who may view with apprehension excessive tax rates.

In view of the fact that during the past twenty years, the increase in volume of all personal estate has been about 40%, real estate approximately 65%, wild land 175%, while intangible personal property consisting of money at interest, and taxable bonds and stocks, exclusive of bank and trust companies stock, has increased but about 5%, seemingly out of proportion to the probable real gain in this class of property, it seems well at this time to bring emphatically to the attention of all local assessors, the duty incumbent on them, under existing laws, of treating this class of property as seriously, and in the same manner as the home, farm, stock in trade or timber lands of the state, leaving to legislators, who now have the authority, under our amended Constitution, the changing or not, the method of taxing this class of property.

The following table shows the amount of intangible property of different kinds taxed in 1915:

The state valuation as made in 1914, as the basis on which state and county taxes have been assessed in 1915, and will be again in 1916, was $498,487,849, while the valuation of the cities, towns and incorporated plantations, as made by local boards on April first, 1915, plus the valuation of wild lands, and timber and grass on public lots, amounts to $496,519,920, being only $1,967,929 less than the total state valuation, hence it is very evident the valuation of 1916, will be in excess of the state valuation to the extent of several millions of dollars.

This shows conclusively that the state valuation, being made for a two year period, would all the time be many millions below the local valuation, unless reasonable additions were made, as provided by statute, by the Board of State Assessors, in anticipation of growth through new property and local readjustment, it being necessary to make the state valuation late in the year next preceding each legislative session, while local boards make two valuations after that, and during the same period to which the state valuation applies.

At a gathering of state tax officials, and students of taxation representing all the New England States, held in Boston four years ago, the New England Tax Association was formed, resulting in sessions held in Boston in January and December of 1913, while the Conference of 1914, was held at Augusta on December 3 and 4. The session of 1915 is to be held at Providence, Rhode Island, on December 15, 16 and 17, and it is doubtless the opinion of all those who have had substantial knowledge of the work of this Association, that much good has been accomplished, particularly in view of the similarity of many of the problems to be met in a group of states like this.

In this connection it may be well to say, that in many cases, state, and even county associations are being formed, productive of splendid results, and in Maine with its great area, diversity of interests, and multiplicity of tax problems, it is quite possible the time has come when we may well consider the wisdom of undertaking such work in this State, trusting that awakened interest and fuller knowledge may tend to simplify the great question of taxation.

WILD LANDS.

In the annual report of the Board of State Assessors for 1914, a recommendation was made for an appropriation of $10,000 yearly for continuing the work of surveying and estimating timberlands, this being double the amount of any former appropriation.

The Legislature of 1915 granted $20,000 for this purpose, to be expended during 1915, and 1916, and early in April of this year, preparation was commenced in order to do this work in a uniform and practical manner, distributing it in different sections of the State, also among many different owners of timberlands, avoiding when possible, the cruising by one explorer, of more than one or two towns owned by the same party.

Mr. R. E. Mullaney of Bangor, who has done both office and woods work, since the first appropriation was made for this purpose in 1905, commenced on plan and map work at the office in Augusta on April 13.

Believing a greater effort should be made for a careful and systematic exploration, Mr. Mullaney was given general supervision of the different parties, who for the most part began actual work in the woods about June first, and from that time until early in October, his time was used in visiting the different sections where explorers had been located, observing methods in use, and pointing out means to better conditions when possible to do so.

The "strip method" has been the one principally in use for the estimation of timber, and in addition cruisers have been instructed to report on each town such conditions as topography as affecting logging operations and drivability of streams, improvements such as hotels, farms, etc., area, lines and corners, soil conditions and character of growth, burnt and waste lands, cuttings showing age and condition, also whether cut for saw logs, pulp, or both, and stumpage values if definitely known.

We feel the result has justified the methods adopted, and our constant effort in this matter has been to secure the greatest amount of substantial information, consistent with a reasonable amount of money expended.

We are satisfied the men employed have worked faithfully to carry out our wishes, and the result of their efforts, in the shape of reports showing estimates of timber, general conditions found, also maps made, will be gladly shown to timberland owners, or other interested parties.

We have examined forty-three towns during 1915, having approximately 950,000 acres, making in round numbers 3,590,000 acres explored since this work was first undertaken in 1905.
