WARDEN'S REPORT.

To the Honorable Governor and Council:

GENTLEMEN:—I herewith submit my annual report for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1918.

Never before have there been such unusual conditions in this country as there has been for the past year, it being almost impossible to do business on account of the increased cost and shortage of all kinds of material. Taking everything into consideration, the Maine State Prison has been very fortunate in getting material for our different departments, and it has been a very prosperous year.

We had a new deal in our broom department which netted us $22,837.86. The carriage department has also made a good showing with a net profit of $11,416.32. We had a bad fire in the harness department, causing us a loss of about $2,000.00. If it had not been for this loss the harness department would have made as good a showing as in former years, but on account of this fire the profit in this department was only $6,692.87. The stable and farm and wood yard have also shown a good profit.

We have paid all of the bills for the past year and taken all of the discounts, and on the 30th day of June, 1918, every bill the Maine State Prison was owing was paid, with a cash balance on hand of $5,307.56.

For information as to the business transactions of the year just closed, permit me to refer you to the appended tables which I believe are a brief and concise report of the year's work.

The overhead charges of the Maine State Prison have been more for the past year than ever before. In former years it has been costing about eleven cents a day for subsistence. This year it has cost about twenty-seven cents. Coal $4.05 and now $10.00, $12.00 and $13.00. All of the guards have had their salaries increased from $60.00 to $75.00 per month. Everything connected with the prison has increased in cost, and clothing doubled in value.

The new cell house has been completed and is now occupied. We have sixty-six prisoners occupying these cells, which is less than one-third of our population, and I would recommend that the next Legislature appropriate money to remodel the two old wings so as to make room for all of the prisoners. The old blacksmith shop is nothing but a fire trap and there should be an appropriation to build a new blacksmith shop. The Maine State Prison is the only institution of its kind in this country that feeds their prisoners in their cells. It is very inhuman, and Maine is too far advanced in other things to allow this to continue, and there should be a new dining room built this next season so that the men would have an opportunity to go in and sit down at a table and eat. It would take less food and cost less money, and the men would be better satisfied.

One of our boilers was condemned last year by the inspector from the insurance company and we placed one new boiler with a temporary boiler house over it. There should be an appropriation for a new boiler house and new engine house.

We have leased a farm in Warren with an option to buy it, and I would recommend that the Legislature appropriate money to buy this farm, also buy the one adjoining it. They are two of the best farms in Warren and just what the State needs.

The physical condition of the plant is not in the best of condition, being built in the year 1824, and for some years no appropriation has been made for repairs. Outside of the prison plant itself, the State owns six houses, two large repositories, one stable and a piggery, and all are in need of repairs. The only repairs that could be made on the plant would be from the revenue of the prison, and it is impossible for the warden to take much from the revenue of the prison for repairs. I would recommend an appropriation of $5,000 for repairs on this plant for the year 1919 and 1920.

I beg to express my appreciation for the assistance and helpful suggestions I have received from the hands of the Prison Commissioner, Messrs. Wheeler, Boynton and Hargraves.

In closing I wish to thank the overseers and officers of the institution in their co-operation in making the year a successful one.

Respectfully yours,

F. J. HAM, Warden.

PRISON COMMISSIONERS REPORT IN THE MATTER OF PAROLES.

The Board of Prison Commissioners herewith respectfully submits their report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, in the matter of paroles.

Applications for parole were received from forty-four inmates of the State Prison.

Of the forty-four applications considered twenty-six were paroled, seventeen were denied and one tabled.

Of the twenty-six paroled there are still out on parole twenty-two, one died, one returned and two have received their absolute discharge.

Of the twenty-two out on parole one is a violator.

Since the Indeterminate Sentence Law became effective (July, 1913) two hundred and ten convicts of the prison have been released on parole.

Of this number seventy-eight are out on parole, four died, twenty-four returned to the prison and one hundred and five have received their final discharge.

Of the seventy-eight out on parole, at the present time, fifty-two are violators.

PRISON PHYSICIAN'S REPORT.

To His Excellency, the Governor, and Council of the State of Maine:

I hereby submit my annual report as physician of the Maine State Prison for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918. Generally there has been less sickness during the past twelve months, due largely to the improvement in diet, showing its beneficial effects in a lessing of gastro intestinal trouble. Acute diseases of air passages—throat, bronchial tubes and lungs have been less frequent and of a mild character with one exception, that of George L. Crockett, who died of pneumonia. The only case of the disease recorded during the year.

Tuberculosis of the pulmonary type has been quite as frequent as in former years. The cases have been greatly benefited by open air treatment. Accidents of a minor character have been somewhat frequent, recovering rapidly under effective surgical treatment. The only serious accident was that of John Hamel, who fell twenty-five feet striking on his head, sustaining a fracture at the base of the skull. He made a perfect recovery. Mental diseases or insanity have been less frequent than in former years. The state of health among the prisoners at the present writing is exceptionally good. They are well fed, well clothed, and well treated and the sanitary conditions have been greatly improved by the addition of the new prison building with flush closet in cells, and I fondly hope the latter improvement will soon be extended to all the prison cells in the institution.

I need not mention the high cost of surgical and medical supplies, but I assure you that every economy is being exercised.

ALBERT P. HEALD, M. D.,

Prison Physician.

AMERICAN PRISON ASSOCIATION REPORT.

The annual convention of the American Prison Association was held in New Orleans in November, 1917; as a representative of the state and the prison commission I herewith submit a report of such proceedings as came to my notice.

The convention was held in the large and handsomely equipped Grenwold Hotel. The registration of three hundred or more, was representative of the largest and most important of the prisons, penal institutions and reformatories. A large percentage of the delegates were able and experienced specialists.

Dr. David C. Peyton, president of the association and superintendent of the Indiana Reformatory, was a notable speaker. The convention was opened by Dr. Peyton with an address on Constructive Criminology, especially treating of scientific research into the causes of criminality and of educational treatment based upon its deductions.

Amos W. Butler, secretary of the Indiana State Board of Charities, was an able and instructive speaker; experience and ability have made him a recognized authority in that field. The influence and judgment of Secretary Butler have been largely instrumental in making Indiana's penal institutions, state hospitals, reformatories and asylums, national models of efficiency and character.

Dr. B. Glueck, of Sing Sing Prison, a scientific expert in criminology, stated, with other facts, that 59% of the prisoners received at Sing Sing could be classified as mentally deceased or with mental deviation, causes of criminality; and that thousands of that class could be cured by vocational training and modern prison methods; that Sing Sing was being remodelled and developed for the intensive study of each prisoner who enters the institution; and that from this study, to extend over a period of four months, will be outlined the most effective treatment for their future welfare.

Dr. A. O. Squire, also of Sing Sing, spoke on hospital treatment, emphasizing the importance of adequate means for the segregation of contagious or infectious diseases and of tuberculosis in particular. An elaboration of medical examination was that of a court physician to make a physical and mental examination of a prisoner upon his arrest for the benefit of the judge and jury at the time of his trial.

Dr. Edith R. Spaulding, director of the Physcopathic Hospital of the New York Woman's Reformatory, was an interesting speaker on the trials and responsibilities of those entrusted with the management of similar institutions, and of the importance of women's reformatories in a state's system of criminology.

Self government in reformatories and correctional institutions, was strongly set forth by the heads of several large institutions and seemingly proved practicable. It was very ably and convincingly advocated by Calvin Herrick, now of Winchester County Penitentiary, N. Y., who has operated a system for five years with marvelous results.

A particularly impressive example of self government was evidenced by its workings in the Preston School of Industry in California, under the management of J. L. Montgomery. This is a reformatory with a population of over 300 boys and young men with an average age of eighteen years, representing nearly all the nationalities, with the usual percentage of degenerates, mental defectives and incorrigibles; and among them twenty-six convicted of murder; yet a most wonderful system of self government is practiced. The entire business of the institution is handled by the boys; contracts are entered into for material and sales are made of the manufactured products. They elect their officers and make their laws, not in conflict of course, with those of the institution; in fact operate a complete system of government, with jails, prisons and other disciplinary institutions, with those of savings as well. They have athletic organizations with baseball and football teams which travel through the state in their contests with the schools and the small colleges, which willingly make appointments with them. The travelling is done without guards or supervision by the school authorities, and all this with no discredit charges for desertions or misdemeanors.

It is claimed that the plan worked out at the Preston School, at the Winchester Penitentiary, and in part at least, at Sing Sing, and at other large institutions,—with its classification, its novel and interesting program of education to those mentally capable, awakens in them new ideas and a more nearly normal ambition, and can be operated by any penal institution in the country.

It could be seen however, from the discussion of the subject, that the success of self government and the honor system, is especially dependent on the experience and ability of those in authority rather than on the character of the institution; and that without education and training by the prison officials their introduction might well prove hazardous.

The plans and workings of these systems are unquestionably worthy of serious thought and study; it being evident from their advocacy by high prison management, backed by apparently indisputable proofs, that they have in them great possibilities for practical good.

While subjects and questions of advanced criminality were more generally debated and commented on, juvenile delinquency, probation and similar subjects received their share of earnest attention.

It was urged that the study of the child's characteristics should at least begin on his entrance to school; that teachers should be trained to intelligently chart disqualifications, mental and moral defectiveness and deviations, as a basis for classification, and later a possible segregation.

The normal child, it was argued, easily carries out the educational program, but the child handicapped by weakness, mental or otherwise, drops out sooner or later, and following the line of the least resistance may easily become a moral pervert; if to this is added the influence of evil environment the foundation of criminality is deeply laid. The converse, based upon a careful study of the child, means a judicious intervention and guidance that he may be kept interested and instructed in accordance with his capacity and taught the habit of work by means of which to earn a livelihood. If from mental defectiveness or incorrigibility this is impossible he should be so classified, and if deemed necessary a reasonable segregation should follow, that the least possible harm accrue to society.

The importance of well enforced probationary laws was emphasized as providing a way for first offenders if so disposed, to put themselves right with society outside the walls of jail or prison, and thus avoid that most serious of handicaps, the serving of a jail or prison sentence. It appeared that many of the states have probationary laws which apply only to children, and in others where first offenders of adult age are included the laws are so limited and so sparingly enforced that they serve no practicable end. The restraining and reformative influence of probation in the first stages of criminal tendency is nevertheless very generally recognized and an effort is being actively made to standardize juvenile and adult probation and to secure a Federal Probationary Law.

It has been said that probation has brought humanity and the principal of social service into our courts and is a great forward step in the successful treatment of delinquency.

The Indeterminate Sentence of the convicted offender was considered as a conveyance to him of good will and sympathy for the possible influence of heredity, of evil environment and deprivations; with the hope that at the end of his minimum sentence with its riddance of old associations and regeneration of mind and body, the spirit of reformation will have manifested itself, a parole have been earned, and with its granting and the helping hand of "First Friend," a new life will open to him and he will become a law abiding citizen. It was expressed in discussion, that when a judge imposes a specific sentence he is guessing at the number of months, or years, which it will take for adequate punishment and reformation of the man or woman who is to suffer the penalty. It was also said that no physician would send a patient to a hospital for a specific number of days or weeks; but this is done daily by judges who send mentally sick men and women to jail or prison.

In order that parole or pardon, or a full sentence, may be acted upon rationally and to the best advantage, a close study of the prisoner should be carried on during the period of his minimum sentence. It was on this phase of prison life that the most advanced ideas were expressed, and upon which action was urged by those in charge of the largest criminal institutions in the country.

It was seen that interest in paroles and pardons was quickened by the war pressure for man power and by the reported restlessness of prisoners eager to enter war service. This led to the discussion of paroling to enter the army or navy, and the pardoning by the governors of the states conditional on military service, and leniency was very generally favored.

A resolution was passed by the Warden's Association asking President Wilson to remove all restrictions in the army or navy with reference to the enlistment of those convicted of offences, but otherwise qualified, who had been duly paroled or discharged.

It was the opinion that a large percentage of the men and boys could under properly adjusted conditions, be withdrawn from prisons and reformatories and made useful in general service, or in war service behind the lines, without disturbance to labor or deterioration of war discipline, but rather with benefit to the public and the prisoner. One of the largest reformatories in Canada has been practically emptied of its population for military service, and the building is being used for a hospital.

From prisoner to patriot is only a step, said Dr. J. T. Gilman of Toronto. We have he said, learned a great deal about prisoners during the time we have been in the war; we have learned that the prisoner's sense of patriotism is not dead because he is behind the bars; that he is just as anxious to serve his country as the man who is not being punished, and if given the opportunity the chances are that he will make a good soldier.

It goes without saying that the stress of the war has very greatly changed conditions; the discharged or paroled prisoner is having much less difficulty in finding employment than in normal times; but even now the disposition of the discharged prisoner is a subject of concern. In the endeavor to overcome this hindrance the Volunteers Prisoner's League was founded by Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth of New York City. This league, which was most favorably referred to, is an incorporated organization based on sound principles and governed and operated by practical laws and experienced methods. It has lent a helping hand to thousands of men and women over whom the shadow of prison walls still lingered and to whom confidence and employment were denied. It is then if ever a friend is needed. No philanthropy so meets his requirements as that inaugurated by Mrs. Booth. In her "Hope Hall" he finds an open door and sympathetic hearts to welcome him. There time is given for worth, if possessed, to assert itself and assist to gain a foothold. The "First Friend," in the present parole plan, is the help and guidance given the prisoner, but the discharged man at the end of a prison term goes out, the chances are, friendless and penniless, his letter of introduction a prison record; why wonder that soon again prison walls surround him and another term of humiliation at public expense begins.

With provision for needed guidance and assistance on the completion of the prison term the state will have discharged all reasonable responsibility on that score. If the league established by Mrs. Booth can assist in this task, and the largest prison managements affirm that it can and does, then it would seem that every state prison should be a member of it to be a step taken for mutual welfare and benefit.

The trend of the addresses and discussions, and the intelligently critical attitude of the assembly, were not those of a body of sentimentalists, with only a superficial knowledge of the principles of the convention, but of men and women who by reason of their ability and practical contact with prison population, were largely holding positions of responsibility and trust; because of their standard of prison education they possessed sound ideas of the causes of criminality, and of the essential influences and treatment for a possible reformation and reconstruction of the "undirected development" of the men placed in their care. To that endeavor is brought the common sense of experience and knowledge and the principles of modern scientific research.

Of this we can only state that it is the view of those most advanced in its study, that persistent criminal activity finds its motive in a perverted judgment and defective moral sense; that these are the result of heredity, of vicious environment and transmitted mal-nutrition, and is largely of a pathological and educational nature, to be overcome if at all, only by an intensive study of the individual supplemented by a scientific mental and physical examination for underlying causes, that the most advantageous plan of procedure may be formed.

That we understand to be an early division or classification, into groups for responsive discipline and education; that time and effort may not be wasted on abnormals or incorrigibles. The completeness and refinements of the systems for the encouragement and assistance of those normal and nearly normal, and the control and management of the abnormals and incorrigibles, with a broad and emphatic base of work for all, are worthy of study with a view to possible installment in part at least, by those entrusted with the management of penal institutions.

Maine appears to be utilizing to the limit of their efficiency, its Probation Law and the Indeterminate Sentence. Paroles and pardons are granted only in conjunction with the most careful investigation. The discipline, employment, maintenance and recreation at the prison, are along reasonable and humane lines. A criticism if permitted, would be that the absorption of attention by the maintenance and business interests of the prison is to an indefinite extent, at the expense of the prisoner and perchance, in an even more indefinable degree to that of the public; but it is the recognition of this condition and its importance, in other institutions, which has induced the installation of the psychological department for classification and research work.

Among the advantages to be derived from a department of this nature may be mentioned the aid which its records would furnish in the investigations incident to paroles and pardons. The expense required for its establishment and maintenance would be slight and the results could not be otherwise than beneficial.

New Orleans through its committee, gave a cordial and generous welcome to the convention. By automobile and steamboat, reception and entertainment, the city with its quaint and historic sections, its parks, residential streets and plantation homes, its water fronts and docks, was placed most agreeably and pleasurably at the command of the members of the convention.

The next meeting place of the convention has been appointed for New York City. If it should be possessed of the interest and attendance of that of New Orleans we believe that the state could well afford a good representation.

Respectfully,

FRANK H. HARGRAVES.

To His Excellency, the Governor, and the Executive Council:

The Board of Prison Commissioners was created by chapter 195 of the Public Laws of 1917, approved and effective April sixth and the members of the Board were appointed and commissioned on the thirteenth of April. This report covers the period from the latter date to the thirtieth day of June, 1918.

The first meeting of the Board was held at Portland on April 16, 1917, at which time Mr. Henry B. MacGunnigle was elected Clerk of the Commission and Mr. Frank J. Ham, of Augusta, who had demonstrated his capacity and qualifications by a previous term of successful service, was unanimously chosen Warden of the State Prison.

Rev. E. V. Allen, having accepted a call to active service in the ministry prior to the first meeting of the Commission, tendered his resignation as chaplain of the prison, which was reluctantly accepted. During his six years of service in this position Mr. Allen had given constant and earnest devotion to the moral and educational welfare of the inmates of the institution and enjoyed their perfect confidence. He was also singularly successful in the direction of the prison school.

Rev. Harrie W. Norton, of Newport, who seemed especially well qualified by reason of his long, successful and varied experience as a minister and in educational work, was chosen to conduct the work of this department.

PRISON BUILDINGS.

Any discussion of the problems of prison management naturally begins with the structure of the prison itself. Attention has frequently been called to the fact that our State Prison at Thomaston is antiquated and poorly adapted to the purposes for which it is used. To supply the State with a proper prison two propositions have been considered by the Legislature during the past few years. The first calls for the complete abandonment of the structure at Thomaston and the erection of a new plant of modern design and equipment at some more central and convenient location where sufficient adjoining land could be obtained for extensive agricultural development. The second proposition provides for the gradual but extensive enlargement and reconstruction of the present buildings at Thomaston. By the construction of the new cell house, for which the Legislature of 1915 made an appropriation of $50,000.00, the State is now definitely committed to the second of these plans. The cells in the new building are larger than the others in use and are equipped with set bowls and flush closets. In many respects, however, this addition has been a disappointment. The cells, in our judgment, should have been of steel instead of concrete construction and they are not of sufficient size. The beds are too short for the comfortable occupancy of a man of more than average height and can not well be lengthened in the cells as now constructed. A new building should be erected to connect this addition with the administration building and provide modern cells with adequate sanitary conveniences for the remaining inmates of the institution.

In order that the present unsatisfactory practice of serving meals in the cells may be discontinued, a dining-hall should be provided. Better hospital facilities for the care and treatment of sick prisoners and suitable quarters for the segregation of those afflicted with tuberculosis and other infectious diseases are also urgently needed. Adequate accommodations for the use of the chaplain and for the prison school are not now available. The blacksmith shop is in a dilapidated condition and should be torn down.

To meet all of these needs it is proposed to erect a new building of fire-proof construction on the location of the present blacksmith shop, containing the kitchen and dining-room at the east end and the blacksmith shop at the west end of the first floor, with the chaplain's quarters, schoolroom, hospital and other departments on the upper floors.

The attention of the next Legislature will be earnestly called to the urgent need of such a building and we are hopeful that its construction during the coming year may be authorized. New boilers have been installed during the present year to replace the old ones, which had become unfit for further use. A temporary boiler house has been erected, but a more substantial and permanent building must soon be provided.

EMPLOYMENT OF PRISONERS.

The prison shops have been operated to their full capacity during the year, with a substantial increase in the gross and net sales. While higher prices have been obtained for manufactured goods, the great increase in the price of all raw materials and in the cost of subsistence has made it very difficult to make a satisfactory financial showing. A detailed financial statement is included in the report of the warden, from which it appears that the income from the prison shops for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, has exceeded the expenditures for subsistence and all other expenses of the prison, with the exception of the salaries of officers, for which a special appropriation is made, by the sum of $23,357.52.

The assets of the prison, excluding the prison plant, are $107,160.76 in excess of its liabilities.

Owing to the frequent changes in the management of the prison in past years and with the apparent object of making more favorable comparative statements between succeeding administrations, different methods of accounting and stock-taking have been followed which have sometimes caused misleading results. Items have been included as assets in some inventories and omitted in others. We have accordingly established a basis for preparing the annual inventory and financial statement which we believe may be followed uniformly each year, making it easy to determine, readily and accurately, the gain or loss in the operation of the prison in different years.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.

The law creating this commission provides that the commission may authorize the employment of able-bodied prisoners, sentenced for any term less than life, in the construction or improvement of highways or on other public works within the state. In order to determine the expediency of providing for such employment arrangements were made with the State Highway Commission to furnish from twenty to twenty-five men in the construction of the state road between Belfast and Camden. The men are transported to and from the prison each day in motor trucks and are furnished with a substantial dinner at noon in a house secured for the purpose near the road under construction. This outdoor employment has been beneficial to the men engaged in the work and their labor has for the most part been satisfactory. As they are scattered over a mile or more of road at a time it has been difficult to secure proper supervision and control and two or three attempts to escape have occurred. Some difficulty has also been experienced in maintaining an observance of the rules of the institution regarding mail privileges and other matters among the prisoners assigned to this work. The value of the experiment from an economic standpoint remains to be determined.

PRISON FARM.

Believing that the inmates of the prison might be profitably and beneficially employed in agricultural pursuits, and not being able to secure suitable or sufficient land for this purpose in the immediate vicinity of the prison, the commission arranged for the purchase of a large and well-equipped farm, of which possession has been taken, about two miles from the prison. A competent and experienced manager has been secured and it is planned to stock and cultivate the farm extensively another season. It is expected that an appropriation for the purchase of this farm by the State will be made by the next Legislature.

EXAMINATION OF PRISONERS.

The commission has undertaken to secure a complete physical and psychopathic examination of all persons committed to the prison and these examinations are now in progress, but the work has been considerably delayed by the inability of the State hospitals at Augusta and Bangor, from one cause and another, to furnish competent specialists to make the mental examinations. Records of these examinations will be kept on file which, it is believed, will be of material assistance, not only in detecting and checking diseases which are in their incipient stages, but also in making the proper classification of prisoners, in providing for their education and in considering applications for pardon and parole.

PAROLES.

Under the terms of the act creating this commission exclusive jurisdiction in the matter of paroles has been conferred upon it. Since assuming office in April, 1917, we have received and acted upon applications for parole from forty-four inmates of the prison. Of this number twenty-six were granted, seventeen denied and one is still under consideration.

Two of the men to whom paroles were extended have violated the conditions of their parole, one of whom has been returned to prison to complete the full term of his maximum sentence in consequence and the other has not yet been located. Of the remaining twenty-four, two have completed their probationary period and received their final discharge, one has died and the other twenty-one are still on parole with satisfactory reports.

Since the Indeterminate Sentence Law became effective in July, 1913, paroles have been granted to two hundred and ten inmates of the prison. Of this number one hundred and fifty-eight have justified the clemency and opportunity extended and the other fifty-two have violated the conditions of their parole. The record of Maine in the matter of paroles agrees with the experience of other states, our information showing that in the country as a whole seventy-five per cent of the prisoners so released make good and twenty-five per cent are violators.

In granting paroles the commission has taken into consideration the conduct of the applicant while in prison, his previous record, his domestic relations, his opportunity of securing useful employment and his ability and apparent willingness to lead a proper life and to support himself by honest effort if released.

The Indeterminate Sentence Law under which we are operating was copied from the law of Michigan and is not altogether adapted to conditions in this State. Our experience has suggested many amendments which would be desirable to remove inconsistencies and uncertainties in the present law and to make it more practicable in many details. All of these proposed changes in the law will be brought to the attention of the next Legislature.

PARDONS.

The statute provides that the commission shall be an advisory board of pardons and we have accordingly considered such applications as have been referred to us from time to time by the Governor and have submitted to him, without publicity, a report of the crime for which the applicant was sentenced, his physical and mental condition, his previous history and record, his domestic relations, his conduct while in prison and such other facts and circumstances as would be of help to the pardoning power in passing upon the merits of the application. We have also considered many informal requests for clemency which have been made to us directly by inmates of the institution who were unable to bring their petitions before the Governor and Council in the usual manner.

As every pardon is necessarily a discrimination and also disturbs to an appreciable extent the morale of the other inmates, we have felt that such clemency should only be extended under very unusual and exceptional circumstances and that all other cases should be dealt with under the parole law, which applies to all prisoners sentenced for any term less than life and which is administered impartially upon definite principles and well understood rules.

AMERICAN PRISON ASSOCIATION.

The commission was represented at the annual conference of the American Prison Association held at New Orleans in December and a full report of the discussions and procedure of the conference has been filed by us with the Governor and Council.

The objects of the association are:

. I. The improvement of the laws in relation to public offenses and offenders, and the modes of procedure by which such laws are enforced.

2. The study of the causes of crime, the nature of offenders and their social surroundings, the best methods of dealing with offenders and of preventing crime.

3. The improvement of the penal, correctional and reformatory institutions throughout the country, and of the government, management and discipline thereof, including the appointments of boards of trustees and of other officers.

4. The care of, and providing suitable and remunerative employment for discharged prisoners, and especially such as may have given evidence of reformation.

It is our purpose to have the warden of the State Prison and one or more members of the commission attend the future conferences of this association, which will enable us to keep informed of the progress being made in other states in prison management and of the most advanced thought in the whole field of penology.

CARE AND TREATMENT OF PRISONERS.

We have not been able as yet to undertake a scientific classification of prisoners, but we have endeavored, so far as possible, to ascertain their individual needs, to remove any harmful influences to which any of them might appear to be subject and to furnish them every encouragement and assistance in our power to become useful and self-respecting citizens after their discharge. We have arranged for many of them to enter the military service of the United States and of our allies, believing that the discipline to which they would be subject would be beneficial and that by means of such service they would be able to atone for their past transgressions and be better able, at the close of the war, to re-establish themselves in the communities from which they came.

It is the purpose of the commission to make such improvements in the conditions at the prison, along humanitarian lines, as may be suggested by the best penal experts or prompted by experience and which the facilities at our command will permit. Most of the plans we have already considered must await the reconstruction of the prison buildings, for which we trust the next Legislature will make adequate provision.

We have found the problems of prison management to be intensely practical and in their treatment it is necessary to avoid equally the two extremes of heartless indifference and maudlin sentimentality.

COUNTY JAILS.

The duty of inspecting the county jails at least four times annually, which was formerly performed by the Inspectors of Prisons and Jails, now devolves upon this commission. The management of the jails rests wholly with the county commissioners of the several counties, so that our duties are entirely visitorial. We have no power to require changes in the construction or equipment of the jails or in the care, employment or treatment of the inmates. A similar duty of visiting the jails once in each year is imposed upon the State Board of Charities and Corrections.

In order that suggestions for improvements in the county jails might be made more effective, in the absence of any power to require such improvements to be made, we entered into an arrangement with the State Board of Charities and Corrections by which all criticisms of existing conditions in the jails and all suggestions for their improvement made by one board shall be submitted to the other for its approval and concurrence before being published or presented to the county commissioners interested.

We have made regular inspections of the several jails in compliance with the law, but as a full report upon their condition and needs has been prepared for publication by the State Board of Charities and Corrections in which we concur, no separate report from us will be necessary.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWARD W. WHEELER,
LESLIE BOYNTON,
FRANK H. HARGRAVES,

Board of Prison Commissioners.

CHAPLAIN'S REPORT.

To the Honorable Governor and Council:

GENTLEMEN:—On taking up my duties as chaplain of the Maine State Prison June 26, 1917, I think I realized fully, how much I should need divine leadership if I succeeded in the work to which I had been unexpectedly called. Not being able to take up the work until my predecessor had moved away I was obliged to pick up, little by little, a knowledge of what would be expected of me.

I found a company of officials who were exceedingly courteous and kind to me in helping me get adjusted to my new duties. We have been conscious of our oneness with the country at large in the strange experiences, incident to the world war, in which we are involved; and while in some measure cut off, by action of law, from personal participation the convicts under our care have in some degree shown their devotion to the land we hold so dear by subscribing to the "Liberty Loan" and the work of the Red Cross, and Y. M. C. A.

Our Sunday morning services have been of a helpful character. Under the leadership of the prison orchestra we have encouraged the inmates to help in making the service of song inspirational and devotional. I think it is not too much to say that the standard for the year has been fully up to that of other years; I have been impressed in noting the respect and attention shown by all during the hour of worship. We have tried to make all the exercises on Sunday as helpful as possible, and in order to do this most successfully late in October we purchased a "Columbia Grafonola," and each alternate Sunday P. M. during the winter I have gone into the corridors and for two and a half hours have given the convicts the pleasure of listening to some of the best records I have been able to secure; many of these records have been secured through the kindness of friends who have visited the prison, and having become interested in the work we are trying to do have interested others: Sunday School classes, King's Daughters as well as individuals have sent records or contributed money with which to purchase one or more.

We are indebted to the W. C. T. U. also the Salvation Army as well as several smaller societies, also individuals who through donations of literature and public addresses have helped to give the convicts a greater variety than they otherwise would have had. In this connection I would make special mention of the entertainments given at Christmas and New Years by Rev. Herbert Hutchins pastor of the local Baptist church, and Rev. Melville E. Osborne, pastor of the Methodist Church, Rockland.

The Maine Bible Society deserves our thanks for a generous donation of Bibles and the State Librarian at Augusta for more than two hundred volumes of books from the State library. I have censored more than 22,000 letters and have taken up to the warden's office over $2,000 which has been sent to the convicts by relatives or friends.

Through my encouragement several have made deposits in the savings bank in Thomaston, others are buying Thrift Stamps, and War Saving Stamps.

All convicts who so desire are furnished two books from the prison library, and a magazine each week; there have been fifty copies of the daily papers delivered to the men who pay for the same.

Our library has received a few books given by the inmates of the prison, but no additions have been made except those donated by the state.

The school has been conducted eight months during the past year, beginning Oct., 1917, ending May, 1918, elementary branches have been taught, and in addition some high school work is offered. For the most part we have found the men interested in their studies, and do the best work of which they are capable. I have been greatly assisted by one of the inmates who understands the conditions under which the men are working, and is able to appreciate the mental condition of the men who at times seem unable to fix their attention to the work at hand.

I am confident that great good is being done by the prison school, and shall be glad to see the scope enlarged as much as conditions will allow. The following summarized report is herewith given.

In closing this report I would say that this is a mere outline of what I have tried to do during this my first year as chaplain for the welfare of those to whom I minister, trusting that from the experience of the year I have learned how to accomplish more for the well being of the unfortunates who come to this institution I remain,

Yours respectfully,

H. W. NORTON, Chaplain.
