Section 8, Chapter 12, Revised Statutes, provides that "The board of state assessors shall equalize and adjust the assessment list of each town, by adding to or deducting from it such amount as will make it equal to its just value."

In accordance with this statutory provision, a decided effort to equalize values between towns in the state, has been made by the writer and other members of the Board of Equalization. A meager appropriation and a skeleton organization have greatly hampered us in the work which we have undertaken. Nevertheless, those who have been acquainted with the affairs of the taxation office, over a period of years, seem to be convinced that decided progress has been made toward this very desirable goal.

Actual sales of property carefully checked, over a period of years and comparison of established prices to the assessed valuation of the community in which the transaction has occurred, have been decidedly helpful in arriving at figures for taxation purposes, which in many instances, have shown marked discrepancies. While prices established by sales, under all conditions, cannot be used as a determining factor, yet such prices truly indicate, when compared with assessed values, the trend of assessments in the community under investigation. It is the belief of the writer that when the state has been thoroughly covered by this process, with a further investigation of local conditions, followed by a method of standardization of certain types of property, which may very properly include classification of land, that we will have made a decided contribution to the taxation system of the state. While equalization will probably never reach a point of perfection, yet it seems entirely fitting that we should hold perfect equalization as a goal.

It is highly essential that the wild lands of this state be given serious consideration by those who appropriate the money for the purpose of conducting the revenue producing department of the state. Only by proper cruising of these lands, can we hope to be reasonably sure of our assessment which also assures equalization among owners. This bureau has attempted to set up recently a ledger account, so-called, with each parcel of wild land which, when properly developed, will give the state as near a perpetual inventory as is possible to procure. It is undoubtedly true that the owners of certain tracts of wild land, which this office has only inferior information on, may be escaping their proper share of the tax burden while, by the same token, some other owners may be bearing much more than a just share, because of our inadequate appropriation for determining, by the method of cruising, the exact amount of marketable timber in the area.

It has been the privilege of the state tax assessor to become personally acquainted with the taxing officials in nearly all of the states. Having addressed the National Association on three different occasions and having served as a member of the executive board of the National Association of Assessing Officers, opportunities to obtain information have resulted and would seem to justify the very small expense incurred.

The Technical Director of the National Association addressed the Maine Meeting, October 29, held in the City of Augusta, and an unusually large number were present. A National Officer proved to be a rare treat. This successful meeting coupled with a similar meeting held in the eastern part of the state, under a new arrangement, May 15, 1936, are perhaps the most interesting gatherings of tax officials and municipal officers that have occurred in Maine over a period of years.

Apparently the state is facing a substantial increase in its expenditures. New sources of revenue or increasing of property tax in the state would seem necessary if the present and proposed activities were to be carried on. The State Tax Assessor wishes to go on record as being opposed to any further increase upon the real property. It is undoubtedly true that certain types of personal property are not bearing their just and proper share of the tax burden. Regardless of how we may have felt in the past about broadening our tax base to take in this type of property, we must realize that serious consideration must be given to a more equal distribution of taxation.

In any new taxation activities that may be adopted, cost of administration as compared with possible revenue should be one of the determining factors in creating any revenue producing measure. It is an opinion well-founded that we may properly repeal many of our so-called nuisance taxes and substitute a well-constructed broad base tax structure.

Hon. Delmont Emerson, a member of the Board of Equalization and an extensive lumberman for a long period of years, has rendered invaluable service and, with the cruisers employed by the state, has assisted in determining principles which have guided us in an unusually difficult task.

Mr. Stephen Hegarty, a real estate man of many years experience and a substantial part of his life spent in the banking activities of the state, has been often called into consultation when decisions of unusual importance were about to be rendered. Sound judgment and a splendid spirit of fairness, seem to be the outstanding characteristics of his service as a member of the Board of Equalization.

Men and women less sturdy than our Maine citizens might have yielded to the tremendous pressure of some taxpayers in their attempt, in many instances, to establish depression prices as a basis for taxation. To the group who have had this condition to face, the writer acknowledges his debt and fully realizes that the assessors of the 515 cities, towns and plantations are the backbone of our financial structure and tax fabric. The average assessor in Maine is conscientious and honest. People will always differ in opinion of valuation but after many years of public service, in both the receiving and spending departments of the state, the writer recognizes the great integrity of those who are trusted with municipal affairs. Communities may properly show their appreciation by availing themselves of the services of citizens who have performed, faithfully and well, the duties which have been imposed upon them when they assume public office.

As the public demand greater governmental services, immediately the work of the taxation group grows until we find the activities of this office substantially increased within the last few years. Notwithstanding these conditions, the work of the Bureau of Taxation has gone on, and without any decrease in efficiency, a substantial reduction in expenditures has obtained since the advent of the administration code, under which this bureau was established. No administration can accomplish these results without complete cooperation by those who are truly responsible for the details of the office work and to the employees of this bureau, the writer acknowledges a debt unpaid.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) FRANK H. HOLLEY,

State Tax Assessor.
