Commission Report
To the 126th Maine State Legislature of the Maine Apportionment Commission

This is the unanimous report of the 2013 Maine Apportionment Commission. The Commission was established pursuant to H3, a Joint Order of the 126th Legislature, and the Constitution of Maine, Article IV, Part Third, Section 1-A. The Commission complied with the United States Supreme Court's one person one vote rule established in Wesberry v. Sanders 376 U.S. 1 (1964), Kirkpatrick v. Preisler 394 U.S. 526 (1969) and Karcher v. Daggett, 462 U.S. 725 (1983).

An examination of the 2010 United States Census data revealed that Maine's House, Senate and County Commission districts are malapportioned. The population of the southern and western portions of the state has grown at a faster rate than the northern and eastern portions. Suburbs have grown relatively faster than urban areas, and inland areas have grown at a greater rate than coastal areas. These population shifts resulted in substantial population deviations that were outside of the generally accepted thresholds.

Over a six month period the Commission met to discuss possible plans and criteria for reapportioning Maine's House, Senate and County Commission districts. In meeting its mandate the Commission gave top priority to the constitutional principle of one person-one vote, but it also considered other criteria.

Under the one person-one vote standard the ideal population for a house district is 8,797, for a senate district is 37,953, and varies by county for a county commission district. While United States Supreme Court cases allow for de minimis deviations from precise mathematical equality, the ideal absolute deviation for the final house map recommended by the Commission is 9.90% for the house map and 9.51% for the senate map.

The Commission also considered compactness, contiguity and the goal of minimizing splits of political subdivisions, as long required by Maine law.¹

The Commission also minimized the displacement of communities and voters from existing districts, to the extent possible.² This was done to minimize disruption, confusion and inconvenience to voters and municipalities. When districts change, lines of accountability and cooperation are changed, new relationships are established, and voter confusion occurs. Continuity of representation is a factor recognized by the courts and a factor that was important to the members of the Commission.

² See IN RE 2003 APPORTIONMENT OF THE STATE SENATE AND UNITED STATES AND UNITED STATES CONGRESSIONAL Districts, 2003 ME 86

The Commission also considered the geographic size of the districts and other travel burdens. The Commission attempted to minimize the travel burdens created by excessively large districts to the extent practicable.

Apportionment Process

Due to the requirements established by Constitution of Maine the deadline for submission of a plan to the Legislature is May 31st, 2013. According to the Constitution of Maine the deadline for Legislative enactment of the plan or plans is June 11th, 2013. If the Legislature fails to enact the submitted plan or plans, or a plan or plans of its own with a 2/3rds vote of both chambers by that time, the Maine Supreme Judicial Court will be required to draw the district lines.³

Redistricting Criteria

The Unanimous Report of the Commission uses the following criteria in recommending the attached apportionment plan.

Equal Population

The population of the electoral districts shall be as nearly equal as practicable (21-A MRSA 1206). The population deviation between electoral districts shall not exceed that deemed permissible by the United States Supreme Court under Article 1 Section 2 of the United States Constitution as established in Wesberry v. Sanders, Kirkpatrick v. Preisler 394 U.S. 526 (1969) and Karcher v. Daggett, 462 U.S. 725 (1983).

Compactness and Contiguity

21-A MRSA 1206 provides that districts shall be formed of contiguous and compact territory. All districts must be of adjoining territory. However, contiguity of legal boundaries by water shall be permissible.

Displacement

Per the criterion laid out in the Report of the 1993 Apportionment Commission and the Maine Supreme Judicial Court's 2003 Apportionment Order the Commission will attempt to avoid displacing voters and municipalities from their historical districts to the extent possible. The avoidance of disruption allows communities to maintain their existing lines of accountability and cooperation and minimizes the disruption to voters.

³ 21-A MRSA 1206

Political Subdivisions

21-A MRSA 1206 requires that electoral districts cross political subdivision lines the least number of times necessary to comply with the requirements of one person-one vote. Due to the state's population demographics and geography, and the important and unique roles of municipalities and counties in the political process, including the administration of elections, the Commission shall use reasonable efforts to protect the integrity of municipal and county boundaries.

Geographic Size and Travel Impediments

Per the criterion laid out in the Maine Supreme Judicial Court's 2003 Apportionment Order the Commission also considered geographic size as a criterion and attempted to minimize the travel burdens created by excessively large districts to the extent practicable.

Terms

The following terms are used in the apportionment plan:

Absolute Deviation: The number by which a given district is higher or lower than the ideal district.

Relative Deviation: The percent by which a given district is higher or lower than the ideal district.

Absolute Mean Deviation: The sum of all absolute deviations (ignoring plus or minus signs) divided by the number of districts.

Ideal District: The total State population divided by the number of districts allowed.

Apportionment Plan for the Maine House of Representatives

In apportioning Maine's 151 House Districts the Commission accepted the population figure of 1,328,361 as the official Federal Census figure for the State of Maine. The ideal district was determined to have a population of 8,797. The districts recommended by the Commission range in size from a low of 8,362 to a high of 9,233. The absolute deviation for the map is 9.90%, and the average deviation is 2.51%.

Note that the House District numbers used here are for presentation purposes only and may not reflect the final numbers assigned to the districts by the Legislature.

The Commission unanimously recommends that the Maine House Districts be as follows:

Apportionment Plan for the Maine Senate

In apportioning Maine's 35 Senate Districts the Commission accepted the population figure of 1,328,361 as the official Federal Census figure for the State of Maine. The ideal district was determined to have a population of 37,953. The districts recommended by the Commission range in size from a low of 36,194 to a high of 39,805. The absolute deviation for the map is 9.51%, and the average deviation is 2.72%. The plan splits only five towns, which is similar to previous maps.

Note that the Senate District numbers used here are for presentation purposes only and may not reflect the final numbers assigned to the districts by the Legislature.

The Commission unanimously recommends that the Maine Senate Districts be as follows:

	Population	% of District

Apportionment Plan for Maine's County Commissions

In apportioning Maine's County Commission Districts the Commission accepted the population figure of 1,328,361 as the official Federal Census figure for the State of Maine. The ideal district number varies from county to county.

Note that the County Commission District numbers used here are for presentation purposes only and may not reflect the final numbers assigned to the districts by the Legislature.

The Commission unanimously recommends that the Maine County Commission Districts be as follows:

	Population	% of District
District ANDRO1	15,796
