Dana R. Baggett
State Court Administrator

March 15, 1985

The Honorable Vincent L. McKusick Chief Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court

The Honorable Joseph E. Brennan Governor of Maine

Ladies and Gentlemen of the 112th Legislature

It is my privilege and pleasure to transmit to you the Ninth Annual Report of the Judicial Department.

This report both summarizes and provides a wealth of detail about the work of the four courts within the Judicial Department – the Supreme Judicial Court sitting as the Law Court, Maine's ultimate appellate tribunal; the Superior Court, our trial court of general jurisdiction and the only court affording citizens a trial by a jury of their peers; the District Court, our court of first resort and the busiest court in the state; and the Administrative Court, our most specialized court.

Maine's court system continues to be busy. Our courts disposed of over 230,000 cases in 1984. Well over 300,000 people, a quarter of the state's population, were involved directly in these cases. Many others served as jurors or witnesses. While by its nature this report counts cases as if they had equal weight, each one of these cases – whether a traffic infraction or a small claims case – was of great importance to the persons directly involved. What this report also cannot easily measure is the increasing complexity of many cases, reflecting the increasingly complex nature of our society.

This publication is the result of a collaborative endeavor. It began with the records kept by the clerks of court and their staff at 51 locations around the state. They send in the statistical data that form the body of this report. Once again, Debra Olken of this office served as managing editor, supervising the compilation of the data and the overall publication. She was ably assisted by Yicki Villalobos. Fran Norton keyboarded much of the data and text. Many others also contributed. To all of them, my thanks.

Sincerely,

Dana R. Baggett

State Court Administrator

"THE STATE OF THE JUDICIARY"

A Report to the Joint Convention of the 112th Legislature

By Chief Justice Vincent L. McKusick

February 6, 1985

I count it a high honor to be invited to address this Joint Convention.

At the outset I want to expand on a thought about the Separation of Powers that I expressed to you at your Legislative Banquet in early December. By article III of our Maine Constitution, the powers of government, as Caesar said of all Gaul, are divided into three parts, Legislative, Executive, and Judicial. expressly mandates that each of the three branches stay within its own domain and not intrude upon the responsibilities of the others. Judges must and will be particularly conscious of that constitutional command. The independence of the judiciary depends upon it. But Separation of Powers does not mean judges have to be isolated; nor does it mean judges have to be confrontational. On the contrary - now in my eighth year as head of the Judicial Branch, I have come to believe more and more that there is a governmental principle parallel to the Separation of Powers Doctrine - and that principle teaches us that each of the three branches must practice a policy of comity, communication, and cooperation with the other branches on matters of common concern.

To carry out that Policy of the Three C's - comity, communication, and cooperation - the Chief Justice, by a tradition started in 1977 by my predecessor, Chief Justice Dufresne, has addressed every Legislature early in its first regular session. I regularly report to you so that you legislators may be better able to carry out your heavy responsibilities with regard to the Judicial Branch. Your responsibilities include enactment of the substantive law for both civil and criminal cases; and resolution of questions of court structure and jurisdiction, court facilities, court operating budgets, and the number of judges and their compensation.

Yes, in our relationship with this great body, I believe strongly in the value of communication - two-way communication, incidentally. Also communication not just by talking to you in a formal setting such as today, but also by having our judges and our State Court Administrator provide information at the committee hearings that are the basic fabric of the legislative process. To promote communications with the Legislature, the Judicial Branch has formed a Legislation Committee headed this year by Superior Court Chief Justice Robert W. Clifford. One of its members, State Court Administrator Dana R. Baggett, will be available to you on a priority basis to respond to your inquiries about the courts.

Over the years the Policy of the Three C's has given Maine a court system we can jointly be proud of. I am reinforced in that pride every time I compare notes with my counterparts in the national Conference of Chief Justices. The features of Maine's court system admired by other states include the total statewide unification of four courts; state funding that isolates the courts from direct dependence on local revenues; the creation of career civil service (independent of political affiliation) for the men and women serving our courts; and the use of professional court administrators to manage the business-type functions of the courts, freeing judges for judging.

Cooperation among the three branches has produced fine results for the administration of justice in the past twelve months. To cite a few examples:

First, the Legislature and the Supreme Judicial Court last year cooperated in implementing the recommendations of your legislative Commission on Local Land Use Violations, headed by Senator Richard Trafton. You by statute conferred additional jurisdiction upon the District Court to enforce compliance with zoning and other land use laws by equitable orders of abatement; and our Court by rule prescribed streamlined procedures for such cases in the District Court similar to the procedures used there for civil traffic infractions. By this joint effort the previous crazy-quilt of cumbersome and incomplete enforcement procedures in the Superior and District Courts has been replaced with a uniform, simplified process in the District Court.

Second, collective bargaining for Judicial Department employees has come about by the coordinated action taken by the Legislature and the Supreme Judicial Court, jointly advised by a citizen committee with balanced membership representing both sides of public labor relations. To avoid any problem of separation of powers, the Legislature enacted a statute, and at the same time the Supreme Judicial Court issued an administrative order, establishing in identical parallel fashion the right of judicial employees to bargain collectively. In December our employees, divided into three bargaining units, chose the Maine State Employees Association as their collective bargaining agent.

Third, following the recommendations of your State Compensation Commission, chaired by Donald E. Nicoll, the Legislature addressed on a long-range basis the problem of judicial compensation and pensions. By your action, you established the principle that Maine judges are worthy of being paid comparably with federal judges and should have a modern, funded pension program in which a younger judge can build up a vested interest. That was landmark legislation. With it on the books, there should be less of a financial barrier to Maine's getting the best qualified women and men to accept judicial appointment.

Fourth, last year you took the first steps to meet our documented need for adding three judges to each of our principal trial courts, the Superior Court and the District Court. You authorized one additional judge for each court. We hope you will this year take the second step in a three-year program. The Governor joins me in recommending the addition this year again of one Superior Court judge and one District Court judge. By any measure, Maine has a remarkably small judiciary. Our need to complete our three-year program is plain, if our trial courts are to cope with their heavy caseloads.

Fifth, you of the Legislature last year identified a need for the legal system to do more to protect children caught up in the financial and emotional stress of their parents' divorce proceedings. Last year Maine had about 8,000 divorce cases filed, and I estimate that over half of the divorcing couples have one or more minor children. The Maine courts have had in operation since 1977 a voluntary mediation program for divorces, as well as small claims and other civil cases. The statute that went into effect last July 25th requires court-sponsored mediation of all contested issues in any divorce case where the divorcing couple has minor children. In the six months since July 25th, our mediation service under its director Lincoln Clark has fully implemented the new law; and divorce mediations are now running at close to 400 per month. It is too early to assess the results fully. We can report, however, that the rate of success in mandatory mediation appears to be as high as in mediation pursued voluntarily by the parties. Also, the mandatory mediation is apparently producing fringe benefits. Lawyers now seem to be more successful in getting agreement between their divorce clients even before reaching mediation, so that their cases go directly to the judge uncontested. Furthermore, the advertised availability of mediators at regular times all over the state has led to greater voluntary use of mediation in non-divorce cases. We now have 51 mediators compared to only 16 prior to July 25th. They are an impressive group, representing as broad range of vocational experience. They all share one common quality: the ability to get contesting parties to communicate and negotiate calmly with one another. There are contributing much to a better brand of justice in our Maine courts. The program has drawn acclaim from far beyond Maine's border.

The Legislative and the Judicial Branches can be proud of these tangible results of our mutual Policy of the Three C's. To these accomplishments, Governor Brennan has also contributed much. It is hard to imagine a Chief Executive who by personal nature and professional experience could be more understanding of court needs. It was under his leadership as a State Senator and as Chairman of the Commission bearing his name that our present unified court system was conceived and ultimately adopted in 1975. We are currently discussing with the Governor ways to realize more fully the Brennan Commission's objectives with regard to the internalationships between the Executive and the Judicial Branches. For example, in the important area of budget development, we hope to enhance direct communication between the Judicial Branch and your Joint Appropriations Committee.

Let me now report on each of our courts. This year I want to focus, first and foremost, on our trial courts. I take this opportunity to pay tribute to the trial judges and the other men and women who work diligently, day in and day out, in serving the State of Maine in our very busy trial courts.

The Superior Court, our court of general jurisdiction and only court with a jury, sits at every county seat, and at Caribou as well as Houlton in Aroostook County. The Superior Court handles over 16,000 cases a year - all the most serious civil and criminal cases.

The District Court, sitting at 33 locations from Fort Kent to Kittery, is our "people's court" because it typically handles about 230,000 cases a year. It also comes closest to being our "family court," handling all juvenile cases, nearly all divorces and family abuse and neglect matters, and the certification of foster homes for children, and the certification of the mentally ill and the mentally retarded for treatment. Legislative additions to the District Court's responsibilities have brought it close to being a general jurisdiction court on the the civil side – hearing cases up to $30,000, making available its simplified small claims procedures in cases up to $1,400, foreclosing real estate mortgages and mechanics liens – just to name a few of its expanded tasks on the civil side. Under the Single Trial Law, now successfully in effect for three years, all criminal cases tried in the District Court are appealable only on questions of law, the same as criminal cases tried in the Superior Court.

Finally, the third trial court, the Administrative Court, with its two judges, is charged with hearing and deciding petitions for the revocation of most state professional and business licenses.

Those three trial courts are functionally and administratively unified. Under my statutory authority to assign our two Administrative Court judges to the other trial courts, they sat in the District and Superior Courts three judge-weeks out of every month during 1984. Last year I also assigned District Court judges to sit in the Superior Court when needed at various times around the State. Active retired judges, including those of the Supreme Judicial Court, sat by my assignment in the trial courts during 1984 to do the work of the equivalent of more than 3 full-time judges.

A unified trial court administration is provided by the close working together of Chief Justice Clifford of the Superior Court and Chief Judge Bernard M. Devine and his Deputy, Judge Alan Pease, of the District Court. Along with the administrators of both courts and State Court Administrator Baggett, they form a smoothly working team constantly striving to improve trial court operations.

Under Chief Justice Clifford's leadership, the Superior Court is experimenting in four counties with expedited court management of civil cases in order to cut down unwarranted delay and excessive cost to the litigants. The goal is to move a large portion of the civil caseload, the less complex matters, through to final resolution within 6 to 12 months of filing.

Under Chief Judge Devine's leadership, the District Court is starting a program in two counties of using volunteer lay guardians ad litem for children involved in abuse and neglect proceedings. At present when the Department of Human Services files a complaint alleging child abuse or neglect, the court appoints a guardian ad litem for the child, usually a lawyer. The child does have legal rights to be protected, but even more at such a time the child needs the sustained support, in and out of court, of a concerned adult. By this program, which has been tested and proven in other states, dedicated volunteers are recruited and trained to help the child through the court proceedings. A properly selected volunteer will have the time and the interest to investigate the child's circumstances, to monitor the progress of his case, and to help the court reach a decision that serves the best interests of the child. This program taps the same wells of voluntarism that our in-court mediation program has tapped over the past seven and a half years. It holds great promise for improving the way the courts handle these sensitive and most important cases.

On the same general subject, three trial judges served with the Governor's Working Group on Child Abuse and Neglect Legal Proceedings. Some weeks ago you received that Group's report with its 51 recommendations. Commissioner Petit and others of his Working Group recently met with the Supreme Judicial Court and several trial judges, and we have identified a dozen of the recommendations that do not require legislation for implementation by the courts. Here is another fruitful application of the Policy of the Three C's, applied this time between the Executive and the Judicial Branches.

Sensitivity to the needs, concerns, and insights of other public officials and professionals also played a part in our continuing judicial education programs in 1984. The December Sentencing Institute, sponsored by the Judicial Council, in addition to getting trial judges to talk about and compare their sentencing philosophies, brought before our judges a range of professionals with experience in dealing with sex offenders of all types. The State Judicial Conference in September also brought to Maine a nationally recognized expert on the sentencing and treatment of such offenders, and devoted another time slot to a presentation on "Children in the Courts."

I now move to discuss some recommendations for legislative action on behalf of our I have already mentioned the need for taking the second step in adding 3 judges to each of the Superior and District Court. At the same time I recommend two bills to save money. First, I recommend that an experimental investigating unit be set up within the Division of Probation and Parole to screen and audit the financial circumstances of criminal defendants who ask for counsel at State expense. The Maine Constitution mandates that the State provide counsel to an indigent criminal defendant on any charge on which he might be imprisoned. mandated cost bulks large in our Judicial Department budget. A statistical study headed by Justice Wathen has determined that the rates of compensation paid lawyers are relatively low and uniformly applied. However, the study pointed out that the indigency determination has to be made by the judge only upon the statements of the defendant, with no time or no help of staff to check those statements for accuracy. I would be very surprised if the two investigators that are proposed could not save far more than they will cost by slowing the rate of increase in this mandated expense.

Second, the District Court proposes to merge three of its low-volume courts into other locations that are nearby. I am conscious of the extreme reluctance any community automatically feels for losing its District Court, but financial responsibility dictates that we in the courts bring this recommendation to you. One of the three courts handled only 270 cases during all of 1984, only one case per working day, and it is located only 22 miles from another District Court that could easily absorb that small caseload. At least two of these District Courts will require expenditures to make them accessible to the handicapped, if they are not phased out. The decision on this matter is yours to make.

Third, I recommend that the operations of the trial courts be computerized so that they may join the rest of the world of the mid-1980's. The great advantages of computers to give the judge the information he needs at the bench and to help judges and clerks manage their heavy caseloads are so obvious to all of us that I think the only question is how much money you can allocate to this undertaking.

Fourth, the serious facilities problems of our trial courts continue to get worse. I suggest that you simultaneously address those problems in a variety of ways. In the first place, the Cumberland County Commissioners are joining the Judicial Department in filing a bill that will permit a Cumberland County referendum on a county bond issued to build the additional courtrooms and other facilities urgently needed there. I remind you that in Portland the workload of the Superior Court and the District Court represents about 20% of all trial court business in the whole state. Although we were disappointed that voters statewide turned down a state court bond issue in 1983 and again in 1984, we note that Cumberland County voters supported both bond issues. County ownership of court facilities with lease to the Judicial Department is not a new idea. Out of our 33 District Court locations, 15 lease space from counties and 11 from municipalities. Also, at all 17 locations where our state Superior Court sits, it occupies county-owned buildings.

Another way to finance state court improvements is of course by direct appropriation. We have filed a bill that would do just that, in the happy event that you find current funds for capital investment.

Finally, for the longer term we need a more permanent solution to the continuing question of how to finance the construction of state court facilities throughout Maine. Court space needs are most urgent, and are by no means restricted to Cumberland County. We are a large state geographically, and our state trial courts have at each location maintained a lot of their local character. That is good. But we need a way for meeting local facilities needs for State court. We therefore propose, with the Governor's support, the creation of a state court building authority. That authority would be empowered to construct court facilities around the state when and where the need is identified and to lease them to the state Judicial Department. The State of Rhode Island has used this method for financing court facilities, and a similar method of revenue bond financing is familiar to us in Maine in the areas of turnpike construction and industrial development. I commend to you this new approach for meeting our long-term needs for more adequate court facilities.

I have been speaking of the facilities needs of the trial courts. Last year the Supreme Judicial Court concluded that ultimately it ought to be headquartered in Augusta along with the Administrative Office of the Courts and the Chiefs of our principal trial courts. Moving the Judicial Department headquarters here to the seat of State government would advance the Policy of the Three C's among the three branches. Also, the consolidation could well improve the management of the court system, and the move would, at 6 courthouses around the state, free up some space for use by the trial courts. I encourage you to study plans for an appropriate building for the Supreme Judicial Court in Augusta. I personally support that move, provided that the facilities needs of our trial courts are also taken care of. In my judgment, the trial courts must have first priority.

As my last recommendation relative to our trial courts, I transmit to you the proposal of the Maine Judicial Council that the present 16 county-funded probate courts with part-time elected judges be phased out, in the same way as the old part-time municipal courts and trial justices were phased out by the Legislature in the early Sixties. The Judicial Council makes its proposal after receiving the report of a broadly representative committee, chaired by President Cotter of Colby College, on which Senator Richard Trafton and Representative Susan Bell served. The Judicial Council proposes that jurisdiction over estate and trust matters be transferred to the Superior Court; family law matters, to the District Court; and guardianship, conservatorship and other protective proceedings, to both courts concurrently. The registries of probate will stay where they are, to serve as repositories of real estate and like records. Only four additional judges in the Superior and District Courts will be needed when all the present work of 16 probate courts is transferred; and the Cotter Committee estimates that no additional expense to the public will result. In normal course the phase-out would start on January 1, 1987, when the current terms of 7 probate judges elected in 1982 will have expired. This structural change of Maine's court system is similar to that proposed by the Probate Law Revision Commission that drafted our new Probate Code. The Code has now been in effect for 4 years. The time has now come to take the final step in probate reform for the State of Maine.

I have purposely reported to you first on the trial courts. All too often their critical importance in the administration of justice is forgotten, while we on the Supreme Judicial Court get the media attention. The truth is that our trial courts handle about a quarter of a million cases every year, and out of that staggering number only about 500 cases ever reach the Law Court. Over 99 and 44/100% of all cases end in the trial courts. Thus, the quality of justice in Maine depends heavily upon their performance. The quality of that performance is high. In those cases that do reach the Law Court, most of its work can be compared to that of the quality control department in a large manufacturing concern. The Law Court corrects error wherever it finds it has occurred in the trial courts, and also lays down precedent for their future guidance. But when you read the news that the Law Court has reversed a trial court decision, keep that news in perspective: Remember that the Law Court is performing its quality control function in correcting error found in a relative handful of the quarter of a million cases disposed of by trial judges.

In addition to its appellate functions as the Law Court, the Supreme Judicial Court carries other heavy loads. The Court has many functions. It is the policymaking board of directors of the Judicial Department. The Court is given by statute "general supervisory and administrative authority" over the Department – authority that it exercises by making rules for all the courts and by issuing administrative orders and by giving advice to me as the head of the Department.

The Supreme Judicial Court also has responsibility for admissions to the bar and for lawyer discipline, and, as you are aware from recent events, responsibility for judicial discipline short of the ultimate sanction of impeachment or address by the legislature.

All of us will do well to remind ourselves constantly that you and we alike are charged with high responsibilities for the administration of justice. In 1820 the founders of our State declared as their first goals "to establish justice" and to "insure tranquility," and so on. The Preamble to our State Constitution commences: We the people of Maine, in order to establish justice, insure tranquility." By that fundamental document, you of the Legislature have your assigned role in establishing justice, along with the different assigned roles of the Executive and the Judiciary. Ours is a common task of strengthening the process of justice. It is a a task requiring our constant attention. We can say of justice exactly what Robert H. Jackson of the United States Supreme Court said of liberty:

"There is no such thing as ... achieved (justice); like electricity, there can be no substantial storage and it must be generated as it is enjoyed, or the lights go out."

I am confident that between us, both pursuing the Policy of the Three C's, we will be sure that the lights of justice do not go out, or even dim, in the State of Maine. I thank you very much.

COURT STRUCTURE

HISTORY

Until separation in 1820, Maine was a part of Massachusetts and therefore included in the Massachusetts court system. However, in 1820, Article VI, Section 1, of the new Maine Constitution established the judicial branch of government stating: "The judicial power of the State shall be vested in a Supreme Judicial Court, and such other courts as the Legislature shall from time to time establish". From the start of statehood, the Supreme Judicial Court was both a trial court and an appellate court or "Law Court". The new State of Maine also adopted the same lower court structure as existed in Massachusetts, and the court system remained unchanged until 1852. The Probate Courts were created in 1820 as county-based courts and have remained so to date.

The Court Reorganization Act of 1852 increased the jurisdiction of the Supreme Judicial Court to encompass virtually every type of case, increased the number of justices and authorized the justices to travel in circuits.

The next major change in the system came in 1929, when the Legislature created the statewide Superior Court to relieve the overburdened Supreme Judicial Court. Meanwhile, the lower courts continued to operate much as they always had until 1961 when the municipal courts and the trial justices system was abolished and the new District Court created. The most recent change to the Maine Judicial System occurred in 1978 with the addition of the Administrative Court.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT AND LAW COURT

The Supreme Judicial Court is the governing body of the Judicial Department, and the Law Court is the court of final appeal. The Law Court hears appeals of civil and criminal cases from the Superior Court, appeals from final judgments, orders and decrees of the Probate Court, appeals of decisions of the Public Utilities Commission and the Workers Compensation Commission's Appellate Division, interlocutory criminal appeals and appeals of decisions of a single justice of the Supreme Judicial Court. A justice of the Supreme Judicial Court has jurisdiction to hear, with his consent, non-jury civil actions, except divorce or annulment of marriage, and can be assigned by the chief justice to sit in the Superior Court to hear cases including post-conviction matters and jury trials. In addition, single justices handle both admission to the bar and bar disciplinary proceedings. justices of the Supreme Judicial Court make decisions regarding legislative apportionment and render advisory opinions concerning important questions of law on governor. when requested by the Senate or occasions Representatives. Three members of the Supreme Judicial Court, appointed by the chief justice, serve as the Appellate Division for the review of criminal sentences of one year or more.

By statute, the chief justice is head of the Judicial Department, and the Supreme Judicial Court has general administrative and supervisory authority over the Judicial Department.

The Supreme Judicial Court has seven members: the chief justice and six associate justices. The justices are appointed by the governor for seven year terms, with the consent of the legislature. The Court determines the number, time and place of its terms depending on the volume of cases. The court sits in Portland four times a year and in Bangor twice a year. The terms run from three to six weeks and cover from 50 to 60 cases.

Upon retirement, a Supreme Judicial Court justice may be appointed an active retired justice by the governor for a seven year term, with the consent of the legislature. On assignment by the chief justice, an active retired justice has the same authority as an active justice, and may sit in either the Supreme Judicial Court or in the Superior Court. There were four active retired justices in the Supreme Judicial Court during 1984.

SUPERIOR COURT

The Superior Court was created by the legislature in 1929 as Maine's trial court of general jurisdiction. The court has original jurisdiction over all matters (either exclusively or concurrently with other courts) that are not within the exclusive jurisdiction of the District Court. This is the only court in which civil and criminal jury trials are held. In addition, justices of this court hear appeals on questions of law from the District Court and from the Administrative Court.

There are 15 justices of the Superior Court who hold sessions of the Court in each of the 16 counties. The justices are appointed by the governor for seven year terms, with the consent of the legislature. A single chief justice is the administrative head of the Superior Court.

Upon retirement, a Superior Court Justice may be appointed an active retired justice by the governor for a seven year term, with the consent of the legislature. On assignment by the Superior Court chief justice, an active retired justice has the same authority as an active justice. There was one active retired justice in the Superior Court during 1984.

DISTRICT COURT

The District Court was created by the legislature in 1961 as Maine's court of limited jurisdiction. The Court has original jurisdiction in non-felony criminal cases, traffic infractions and civil violations, can accept guilty pleas in felony cases and conducts probable cause hearings in felony cases. The Court has concurrent jurisdiction with the Superior Court in divorce, termination of parental rights and protection from abuse cases, non-equitable civil cases involving not more than $30,000, and also may grant equitable relief in cases of unfair trade practices and in cases involving local land use violations. The District Court is the small claims court (for cases involving not more than $1400) and the juvenile court. In addition, the Court hears mental health, forcible entry and detainer, quiet title and foreclosure cases. It is the only court available for the enforcement of money judgments.

There are 22 judges in the District Court; the chief judge, who is designated by the chief justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, 7 judges-at-large who serve throughout the state, and 15 resident judges (including the Chief Judge) who sit within the 13 districts of the court. The judges are appointed by the governor for seven year terms, with the consent of the legislature. On assignment by the chief justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, District Court judges may also sit in the Superior Court.

Upon retirement, a District Court judge may be appointed an active retired judge by the governor for a seven year term, with the consent of the legislature. On assignment by the chief judge, an active retired judge has the same authority as an active judge. There were seven active retired judges in the District Court during 1984.

ADMINISTRATIVE COURT

The Administrative Court was created by the legislature in 1973 and became a part of the Judicial Department in 1978. Prior thereto, the Administrative Court had jurisdiction over suspension and revocation of licenses by a specific list of executive agencies. Effective July 1, 1978, the legislature substantially expended the jurisdiction of the Administrative Court. Other than in emergency situations, the Administrative Court was granted exclusive jurisdiction upon complaint of an agency or, if the licensing agency fails or refuses to act within a reasonable time, upon complaint of the Attorney General, to revoke or suspend licenses issued by the agency, and original jurisdiction upon complaint of a licensing agency to determine whether renewal or issuance of a license of that agency may be refused. Effective in 1983, the Administrative Court also has exclusive jurisdiction to hear appeals from disciplinary decisions of the Real Estate Commission.

There are two judges of the Administrative Court; the Administrative Court judge and the Associate Administrative Court judge. The judges must be lawyers and are appointed by the governor for seven year terms, with the consent of the legislature. On assignment by the chief justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, Administrative Court judges may regularly sit in the District Court or in the Superior Court.

COURT CASELOAD

Caseloads throughout Maine's state court system have undergone significant changes during the past several years. There are characteristic differences in 1984 court caseload compared to that of the 1970's, but these changes are difficult to quantify. For instance, statistics cannot demonstrate the degree to which civil litigation has become increasingly complex, a belief shared by judges and attorneys alike. It is often impossible to document the actual impact of new laws affecting court procedures, as well as legislation creating brand new types of cases. The number of Maine attorneys has risen by 65% since 1974, and the number of attorneys in the State Attorney General's and District Attorneys' offices has increased by 131% and 61% respectively since 1973, all of which are evidence of the greater litigiousness of today's society.

Nonetheless, the statistical analyses contained in the appendices to this report should provide one with an understanding of the composition and status of the state court caseload. These statistics are the product of the manual and computerized statistical reporting systems operating in varying levels of detail in each of the four state courts.

COURT MEDIATION SERVICE

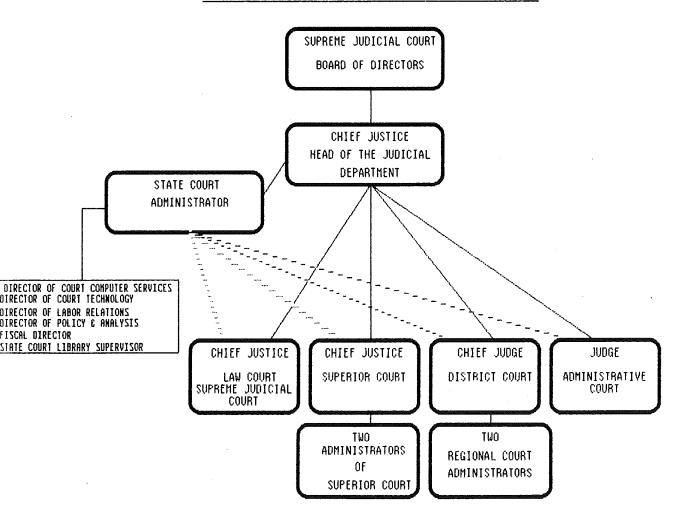

The Court Mediation Service provides an alternative method of resolving disputes by enabling the contesting parties to participate in reaching a settlement. The service was initiated in 1977 as a experiment to accelerate the resolution of small claims cases, but has since been expanded to include landlord-tenant, disclosure and domestic cases. On July 25, 1984, new legislation became effective requiring mandatory mediation of all issues in divorce cases in which minor children are involved, thereby drastically increasing the number of domestic case mediations.

There were 2,744 cases mediated in 1984. This number constitutes a 123% increase over the number of cases mediated in 1983, and includes 1859 domestic relations cases (divorce and child custody) and 855 non-domestic cases. Over 70% of the cases mediated in 1984 were mediated since July. By the end of 1984, there were 47 mediators serving the courts throughout the State, compared to 16 at the beginning of the year. More detailed statistical tables appear in Appendix IV of this report.

COURT ADMINISTRATION

The administrative structure of the Maine Judicial Department may be compared to that of a corporation. The Supreme Judicial Court serves as the Department's "board of directors" and by statute has general administrative and supervisory authority over the Department. This authority is exercised by promulgating rules, issuing administrative orders, establishing policies and procedures, and generally advising the chief justice. The chief justice is designated as head of the Judicial Department and is assisted by the state court administrator. Each of the four operating courts has a single administrative head, responsible to the chief justice, who also heads the Law Court. There is a chief justice of the Superior Court, a chief judge of the District Court and a chief Administrative Court judge. The chiefs in the Superior Court and District Court are each assisted by two court administrators. The entire group of chiefs and administrators meet at least every other month to address administrative and policy issues, although each court's chief meets with his respective administrators on a more frequent basis.

FISCAL

The expenditure and revenue data are presented for the State fiscal year ended June 30th. The Judicial Department operates with State general funds which are appropriated by the legislature. It also administers several grants from public sources.

As shown by Graph F-5, there has been a steady increase since FY'77 (the first year for which comparable data were collected and reported) in both expenditures and revenues for the courts at all levels. Total expenditures for the courts have increased 126.7% from $6,516,431 in FY'77 to $14,769,277 in FY'84. Revenues have increased 94.2% from $5,775,643 in FY'77 to $11,217,394 in FY'84.

Expenditures

Judicial Department expenditures for FY'84 totaled $14,778,147, an increase of 7.8% over the previous year. The following is a summary of expenditures by Department subdivision:

District Court Building Fund

Pursuant to 4 MRSA §163 (3), $3,000 per month is transferred from District Court appropriation to the District Court Building Fund. This fund is "to be used solely for the building, remodeling and furnishing of quarters for the District Court....". Monies in this fund are carried forward from year to year.

The balance forward from fiscal year 1983. was $21,021. The addition of $36,000 for fiscal year 1984 brought the total available funds to $57,021. Of this amount, $10,897 was spent during the year for court renovation and furnishings of Biddeford, Kittery, Portland, Springvale, Brunswick, Augusta and Skowhegan court locations, leaving a yearend balance of $46,124.

COURT FACILITIES

1984 Referendum:

In November of 1984, Maine voters rejected a statewide referendum which would have allocated a total of $6 million to upgrade court facilities in Portland and in the Bath/Brunswick area. The 1984 referendum included a $3.8 million proposal to construct a new Ninth District and Administrative Court facility in Portland as well as remodeling vacated space in the Cumberland County Courthouse for use by the Superior Court. An additional $2.2 million was also included to construct a new court facility in the Bath/Brunswick area to accommodate the needs of the Sixth District Court.

The 1984 referendum failed by a statewide margin of 43% in favor to 57% opposed. However, the referendum was approved in Cumberland County by a 57% to 43% majority, despite opposition in the remaining fifteen counties. Similar statewide referendums for court facilities were also rejected by voters in 1980 and 1983.

In December of 1984, draft legislation was approved by the Cumberland County Commissioners and submitted to the legislature to authorize a countywide referendum in 1985. If authorized by the Legislature, the referendum would again include a $6 million request to upgrade court facilities in Portland and Brunswick, plus an additional $3.5 million to construct a parking garage adjacent to the facilities in Portland to ease critical parking problems. Also, Waldo County officials submitted legislation to authorize a countywide referendum to construct a new District Court facility in Belfast. Similar legislation may also be introduced in early 1985 by Sagadahoc County officials seeking authorization for a countywide referendum to upgrade Superior Court facilities in Bath.

In addition to supporting the concept of a countywide versus a statewide referendum, court officials also plan further study and may seek legislative authorization for the creation of a state bonding authority to finance statewide construction and renovation projects designed to upgrade substandard court facilities.

State Judicial Center

In September of 1984, a preliminary proposal for the construction of a state judicial center in Augusta was submitted to the Bureau of Public Improvements at the request of the Supreme Judicial Court for inclusion in the statewide capital improvement budget. Such a facility conceivably would be located near the State House and would serve to provide facilities for the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Judicial Court, the Chief Justice of the Superior Court, the Chief Judge of the District Court, the Clerk of the Law Court, the State Court Administrator and the staff of the Administrative Office of the Courts.

Unlike the majority of states, Maine's appellate court neither regularly sits nor maintains a visible presence in the state capital. Instead, the Chief Justice maintains chambers in the Cumberland County Courthouse in Portland and the Associate Justices of the Supreme Judicial maintain chambers in various county courthouses throughout the state. The Clerk of the Law Court also maintains an office at the Cumberland County Courthouse in Portland. Terms of court are held in Portland and Bangor throughout the course of the year. Inefficiencies associated with time and distance are often noted under the present arrangement, in addition to problems associated with the critical shortage of space in most county courthouses due to increasing District and Superior caseloads, the need for additional mediation facilities and the expansion of county offices.

Skowhegan District Court:

In January of 1984, the Twelfth District Court, Division of Somerset moved from leased space in the basement of the Somerset County courthouse to newly renovated leased space in downtown Skowhegan. Such a move effectively doubled the amount of space available for public waiting, conference and mediation areas, as well as the addition of a second courtroom. The new court facility was also designed to be fully accessible to handicapped citizens.

Lincoln District Court:

In May of 1984, the Thirteenth District Court, Division of Central Penobscot moved to a renovated facility in Lincoln, thereby solving identified needs for more adequate courtroom conference, mediation and clerical areas, as well as meeting requirements for handicap access and additional public parking. The new facility was renovated by a private developer as part of the community's downtown revitalization program and leased to the District Court.

Handicapped Access:

Various court facility studies conducted in the late 1970's identified many court locations as containing architectural barriers to handicapped persons. Such barriers typically involve long flights of stairs or similar impediments which deny mobility impaired individuals entry to the courthouse or restrict movement within such a facility. The Judicial Department leases all but one District Court facility, the Superior Court continues to occupy space in county-owned courthouses, and prior referendums to upgrade such facilities failed to result in voter approval. As a result, the Department was not in a position to correct such deficiencies and suggested that primary responsibility for compliance should be borne by county government and owners of leased facilities.

Nonetheless, in late 1982 the Maine Association of Handicapped Persons filed suit against the State of Maine in United States District Court seeking access to all state courts by handicapped or mobility impaired person. Conferences commenced in 1983 between various state officials and representatives of the Association. State officials surveyed all court facilities and identified specific alterations that would be required to facilitate handicap accessibility. A plan was prepared by the Bureau of Public Improvements in consultation with the Maine Association of County Commissioners and the Judicial Department for shared funding by state and county government of projects designed to provide access to the courts and other public offices contained in each courthouse. The estimated cost of all projects statewide totaled $1,035,950, with the state share estimated at $720,000. A bond issue was proposed as the means for funding the State share. The lllth Legislature approved the proposal subject to voter approval in a statewide referendum, which was later passed in November of 1983.

As 1984 came to a close, architectural selection and design was well underway, and three county courthouses had already been considered handicap accessible. Approximately half of Maine's 33 District Courts were also deemed to be accessible by year end. Studies were commissioned to evaluate the feasibility of upgrading and maintaining certain District Court facilities and subsequent negotiations were opened with various building owners to develop accessibility plans for mobility impaired persons. A consent decree was also prepared between the Maine Association of Handicapped Persons and the State of Maine, reaffirming the desire of both parties to strive for barrier free access to state court facilities by August 31, 1986.

PERSONNEL/LABOR RELATIONS

On July 25, 1984, the Supreme Judicial Court issued an "Administrative Order in regard to Judicial Employees Labor Relations". This order, and a simultaneously effective statute, 26 M.R.S.A. ch. 14, afford judicial employees all the rights and obligations of collective bargaining. The positions eligible for representation in the three bargaining units were agreed upon mutually in October, 1984 and the Maine State Employees Association prevailed as a bargaining agent in elections held in December, 1984.

There were two major amendments to the Judicial Salary Schedule in July of 1984. The "banding" of court clerk salaries and assistant clerk salaries from five and four classes, respectively, down to three classes, afforded greater pay and promotional advancement opportunities for employees in those classifications. The implementation of a 1983 pay comparability study raised the classification level of nine of 29 job classifications. As the end of 1984 approached, the entire judicial family, classified and non-classified employees, became eligible for comprehensive dental insurance.

The Director of Labor Relations undertook 17 job re-classification requests and completed eleven of them during 1984. Three Judicial Appeals Board procedures were processed with two appeals being heard and resolved. On December 1, 1984, the new Maine Judicial Retirement System went into effect. Seven justices/judges were appointed or elevated to other courts and four justices/judges retired in 1984.

On December 1, 1984, the first of five successive fiscal year justice and judge salary increases went into effect, recommended by the Maine State Compensation Commission and patterned after the Federal Judicial Salary Schedule. Simultaneously, the Maine Judicial Retirement System came into being which amended the non-contributory judicial retirement plan into a contributory system with major changes in the benefit structure for justices and judges retiring after December 1, 1984.

JUDICIAL RESOURCES

Scheduling

In the District Court, resident judges serve in the district to which they are appointed by the governor, although occasionally they may assist in other districts in emergency instances. There are seven at-large judges who are scheduled by the deputy chief judge on a monthly basis. Six District Court locations require the services of an at-large judge every month, leaving only one judge available to cover special assignments and vacancies due to illness, vacations, and educational conferences, and to assist courts experiencing particular backlog problems.

Superior Court justices are assigned throughout the state on a yearly basis by the chief justice of the Superior Court, although justices serve primarily in a few courts for most of the year. On a monthly or bi-monthly basis, the court administrators, in coordination with justices, clerks, and attorneys, prepare schedules detailing the daily work of justices and court reporters, for approval by the chief justice. During 1984, various experiments were undertaken involving trailing lists, extended lists, and docket calls in an effort to improve case management and expedite case disposition.

Use of Active Retired Justices and Judges

Upon retirement, any justice of the Supreme Judicial Court or Superior Court, or any judge of the District Court, may be appointed by the governor to active retired status. These members of the judiciary render invaluable service by their availability to serve throughout the state assisting overburdened courts. During 1984, the four active retired Supreme Judicial Court justices, one active retired Superior Court justice and seven active retired District Court judges served a total of 841 days, equivalent to the work of 3.8 full-time judges.

JUDICIAL EDUCATION

The Seventh Maine Judicial Conference was held September 23rd to 25th at the Cliff House, York, Maine. Various major issues such as mandatory mediation, children in the Maine courts, and the judicial role in lawyer discipline were examined and discussed by the judiciary. As usual, each court held collegial meetings to confer and discuss matters affecting the administration of their respective courts. In the afternoon of the last conference day, in keeping with a tradition, the conference participants were addressed by Governor Joseph E. Brennan.

Eight justices/judges availed themselves of continuing education opportunities during 1984. Such topics as search and seizure and hearsay evidence seminars were attended by several justices. Other members of the judiciary participated, presented, or attended seminars or professional conferences in various subject areas of professional or contemporary concern.

NON-JUDICIAL EDUCATION

In April, 1984, a group of administrative employees attended a major program in Chicago examining new technology and its application to the courts. Many productive ideas and suggestions were gained from the program, particularly in the area of trial court computerization.

Under a new education policy of the Personnel Manual, five employees received subsidized education at several post secondary institutions. One Court Reporter attended the National Shorthand Reporters Association conference at the annual meeting.

The annual Clerks of Court Conference was held in September at the Judicial Conference. Prior to that date, in May, 1984, a special one-day conference of Court Clerks was held in Augusta and Bangor for Superior and District Court clerks. The common topics discussed at both sessions were legal amendments and recruitment procedures vis-a-vis the Maine Human Rights Act.

During 1984, several courses in library and court technology were attended by administrative staff members from those respective fields.

COURT AUTOMATION

During 1984, the Judicial Department made substantial progress toward the computerization of its administrative office and trial courts with the hiring in August of the Director of Court Computer Services. During the fall, equipment was purchased to automate the Administrative Office of the Courts' word processing functions and some statistical and financial functions. A detailed workplan spanning the next two years was prepared for trial court automation, and by the end of 1984, a Request for Proposals had been prepared and some preliminary programming had been completed. It is anticipated that the criminal caseload in the first District Court location will be automated during 1985, with other District Court and Superior Court locations to follow during the remainder of the year. Criminal caseload automation has been made possible in part by a grant from the federal Highway Traffic Safety Administration through the Maine Bureau of Safety.

COMPUTER ASSISTED LEGAL RESEARCH

During 1984, planning was initiated for the use of Westlaw and Lexis in the Maine courts. Installation of these computer-assisted legal research systems is expected to be completed in seven pilot sites by early 1985, for use by the Supreme Judicial Court, Superior Court and District Court. These systems are being tested for a twelve-month period, during which the Judicial Department is only financially responsible for actual time used on line. A committee of users will evaluate the systems in terms of availability of recent unpublished opinions, thoroughness of searches and time savings in comparison to manual research.

RECORDS MANAGEMENT

In 1984, the Task Force on Records Management and Court Exhibits completed and submitted to the State Court Administrator a recommended retention and disposition schedule for administrative, fiscal and personnel records. The Task Force also completed drafts on retention and disposition schedules for court related records for both Superior and District Court.

LEGISLATIVE AND RULE HIGHLIGHTS

OVERVIEW

During 1984, the Administrative Office of the Courts continued the practice of preparing a weekly status list of all legislation of concern to the Judicial Department. This list is disseminated to the Supreme Judicial Court, the Judicial Department Legislation Committee, the Judicial Council Legislative Committee and all administrative staff. Throughout each legislative session, the Administrative Office of the Courts reviews all proposed legislation which may impact the Judicial Department and prepares fiscal and programmatic impact statements. Such documentation can require weeks of staff time to compile and analyze pertinent information, and to consult with the Judicial Department Legislation Committee and appropriate persons. It is estimated that the equivalent of one full-time position is devoted to responding to these and other legislative requests from January through May of each year. The following listing portrays the legislative and rule highlights of 1984.

COURT JURISDICTION

- --The District Court now has original jurisdiction, concurrent with that of the Superior Court, to grant equitable relief in proceedings involving alleged violations of all local and certain enumerated state land use laws.

MEDIATION

--Mediation is mandatory on all contested issues in any cases of separation, annulment, or divorce where there are minor children. Also, where the parents are living apart and there are minor children, the Court shall refer them to mediation before holding a contested hearing to determine their parental rights and responsibilities. Any agreement reached by the parties through mediation on any issues shall be reduced to writing, signed by the parties, and presented to the Court for approval as a court order. There shall also be mandatory mediation before the modification or termination of any order for parental rights and responsibilities.

SENTENCING

--The sentencing court is required to notify the Commissioner of Corrections that a person has been committed to the Department of Corrections, and the Commissioner is required to advise the sheriff and the sentencing court where the sentenced person is to be incarcerated.

TRANSFER OF VENUE

--A presiding justice of the Superior Court may, in the interests of justice and to secure the speedy trial of an action, or for other good cause, transfer any civil action or proceeding from the Superior Court in one county to another county. Transfer may be by consent of all parties to any civil action or proceeding, provided that the prior approval of the Chief Justice of the Superior Court is obtained.

COURT EMPLOYEES

--The Judicial Employees Labor Relations Act was enacted, conferring and delineating the right of judicial employees to join labor organizations and to be represented by those organizations in collective bargaining for terms and conditions of employment.

TERMINATION OF PARENTAL RIGHTS

- --Appeals of orders terminating parental rights lie directly to the Law Court.
- --Where the Department of Human Services and the parents of a child ordered into the Department's custody cannot agree as to the contents of a rehabilitation and reunification plan, either party may file a motion for judicial review with the District Court.

MOTOR VEHICLE RECORDS AND COMPUTER TRANSCRIPTS

- --A properly certified transcript of a motor vehicle record stored in a computer is admissible whenever a properly certified copy of the official motor vehicle record would be admissible.
- --A clerk or deputy clerk of any District Court may certify a transcript of motor vehicle data from all District Courts; a clerk or deputy clerk of any Superior Court may certify a transcript of motor vehicle data from all Superior Courts; and the Secretary of State may certify a transcript of motor vehicle data from all courts in the State, or any of them.

CRIMINAL EXTRADITION ACCOUNT

--An Extradition Account was established in each prosecutorial district in an amount not to exceed $10,000, to be administered by the district attorney and to be used solely for the purpose of paying the expenses of extraditing persons charged with or convicted of a crime in this State and who are fugitives from justice. The Extradition Account in each prosecutorial district shall be funded by bail forfeited to and recovered by the State. Any bail so forfeited and recovered and not deposited in the Account shall be deposited in the General Fund.

DISTRICT COURT REDISTRICTING

- --The Brunswick division was transferred from District VIII to District VI. As a result, District VI now includes Bath, Brunswick, Rockland and Wiscasset and District VIII includes only Lewiston.
- --The towns of Pownal and Yarmouth were transferred from District VI to District IX.

COMMITTEE STATUS REPORTS

Board of Overseers of the Bar

The Board of Overseers of the Bar was created by order of the Supreme Judicial Court in 1978. The Board consists of nine members selected by the Court, three of whom are lay persons and six of whom are members of the Bar of the State of Maine. The Board supervises and administers the registration of all attorneys admitted to practice in the state; investigates and processes claims and reports of violations by attorneys of the rules of practice set forth in the Maine Bar Rules; provides a procedure for the arbitration of disputes between clients and attorneys with respect to legal fees; maintains limited consulting and advisory services with respect to the interpretation and application of the Code of Professional Responsibility (Rule 3 of the Maine Bar Rules relating to ethical standards); and engages in a continuing review and study of the Bar in relation to the public and the Courts for the purpose of making recommendations to the Supreme Judicial Court with respect to the Maine Bar Rules.

At the end of 1984, there were 2,824 attorneys registered to practice in Maine.

Civil Rules Committee

During 1984, the Civil Rules Committee considered the problem of civil case delay in the Superior Court and conducted an extensive study of case flow management and delay reduction programs in other states. Their study resulted in a recommendation that an experimental procedure be adopted for the management of civil actions in the Superior Courts located in Aroostook, Cumberland, Kennebec and Oxford counties. Upon approval by the Supreme Judicial Court, the project became effective on November 1st.

The procedure, termed the Civil Case Flow Expedition Project, seeks to resolve a large portion of civil actions within six months to one year of filing. Actions which, in the opinion of the Superior Court justice reviewing the case, are not complex are placed on an expedited pretrial list with fixed discovery deadlines and no pretrial memoranda or conference. All other actions proceed normally under the Civil Rules.

Committee on Judicial Responsibility and Disability

By legislative authorization, 4 M.R.S.A. §9-B, the Committee on Judicial Responsibility and Disability was established by order of the Supreme Judicial Court in July 1978 and is empowered to receive and investigate complaints of judicial misconduct and disability. Judicial misconduct is defined by the Code of Judicial Conduct, which has been adopted by the Supreme Judicial Court. By order of the Court, the Code of Judicial Conduct is binding on all state judges, except that only the first three canons apply for judges of probate.

The Committee on Judicial Responsibility and Disability consists of seven members appointed by the Supreme Judicial Court. Two members are either active or active retired justices of the Superior Court, active or active retired judges of the District Court, or active judges of probate. Two members are attorneys at law admitted to practice in the State of Maine, and three members are representatives of the general public of the State of Maine. The public and attorney members are appointed by the Supreme Judicial Court upon the recommendation of the governor.

Proceedings before the Committee are typically begun upon receipt of a complaint concerning the conduct of a judge. If the Committee members decide that the facts stated appear to come within its authority, a copy of the complaint is submitted to the judge involved for his response, followed by an investigation and decision on whether an evidentiary hearing before the Committee is necessary. The Committee cannot itself impose disciplinary sanctions, but it may seek informal correction of any judicial conduct or practice which the Committee determines may create an appearance of judicial misconduct. If the Committee determines that discipline may be in order, it reports its findings and conclusions, together with recommendations, to the Supreme Judicial Court, and thereafter the matter is handled by the Court as a court proceeding.

Criminal Rules Committee

During 1984, the Criminal Rules Advisory Committee began an extensive review of the continued status of secrecy regarding Grand Jury proceedings. The primary issue involved was whether such proceedings should be open, particularly to insure greater involvement by defense counsel. It is anticipated that a total package of recommendations concerning Grand Jury proceedings will be completed during 1985.

Judicial Policy Committee

The Judicial Policy Committee was created by the Chief Justice to address the long-range planning needs of the Judicial Department. During 1984, the bulk of the Committee's activity involved the preparation of the District Court Redistricting Study. This report evaluated the desirability of maintaining several of the smallest District Court locations, and recommended that three court locations be closed and consolidated with adjacent locations. Upon approval by the Supreme Judicial Court, legislation was drafted during December for submission to the 112th Legislature reflecting this recommendation. Toward the end of 1984, the Committee also undertook a study of the state appropriations process as it relates to the Judicial Department. As a result, the Committee supported the submission of legislation to clarify the Executive Department's role in the Judicial Department's budget process prior to submission to the Legislature.

State Court Library Committee

The State Court Library Committee serves as the governing body for Maine's 18 county law libraries. The seven voting members, (two lay-persons, two members of the judiciary and three attorneys), are appointed by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, who also designates the chairman. The State Law Librarian and the State Court Administrator are ex officio, non-voting members.

For the benefit of the judiciary, the bar and the public, the committee is charged with improving access to the law libraries and the materials therein. In 1984, the committee authorized purchase of a reader/printer for micro-form materials for the Tier I libraries in Cumberland and Penobscot counties. It also authorized creation of a part-time librarian position for Penobscot County and requested and received additional monies for maintaining each tier's collections.

General supervision of the libraries' professional functions rests with the State Court Library Supervisor. In 1984 this included periodic visits to each library, meetings with local law library committees, supervision of two volunteer workers and the publication of the first two issues of the Maine County Law Library Bulletin.

MAINE JUDICIAL COUNCIL

As set forth in 4 M.R.S.A. §451, the purpose of the Judicial Council is to "make a continuous study of the organization, rules, and methods of procedures and practices of the judicial system of the State, the work accomplished, and the results produced by that system and its various parts."

The Council consists of the following members: the chief justice of the Supreme Judicial Court (chairman, ex officio), the attorney general, the chief justice of the Superior Court, the chief judge of the District Court, the dean of the University of Maine Law School, together with an active or retired justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, one justice of the Superior Court, one judge of the District Corut, one judge of a Probate Court, one clerk of courts, two lawyers, and six laypersons, the latter to be appointed by the governor for such periods not exceeding four years, as he may determine. The executive secretary, by contract, provides all executive services to the Council.

The Council met on five occasions during 1984. During the year, the Council created a Court Structure Committee to study both the structure of the Probate Court and the reorganization of the family law functions currently residing in the Probate, District and Superior Courts. The Committee met actively during 1984 and planned to report its recommendations to the Council in January, 1985 so that appropriate measures could be introduced in the Legislature.

The Council also continued to participate in the Study of the Future of the Maine Legal Profession, which completed the first phase of its activities during 1984. In addition, the Council sponsored the 1984 Sentencing Institute that was held in Augusta on December 13 and 14.

LAW COURT CASELOAD STATISTICS

This table presents Law Court caseload information, including filings, dispositions and pending caseload since 1976. The "end pending" category includes four distinct sub-groups: cases not yet at issue (awaiting completion of the record on appeal or completion of briefing); cases at issue awaiting oral argument (cases fully briefed as of the end of the previous year); cases orally argued awaiting opinion; and cases remanded to the Superior Court prior to oral argument for correction of procedural defects. The comparison of filings and dispositions on this table indicates the degree to which dispositions have risen to meet the demand of incoming filings. Although filings increased by 90.7% from 1976 to 1984, the number of cases disposed rose by 108.9%.

This table details the type and outcome of Law Court dispositions during 1984. Several categories require some explanation. "Other Administrative Proceedings" are cases seeking review of action (or refusal to act) by agencies of the Executive Department governed by the Maine Administrative Procedure Act or by agencies of local government such as Planning Boards. These municipal cases are brought pursuant to M.R.Civ.P.80B. Since the creation of the Appellate Division of the Workers Compensation Division in September 1981, most workers compensation cases are now disposed by denial of petition for appellate review and do not involve full briefing, argument and opinion. "Discretionary Appeals" are requests for certificates of probable cause in post-conviction review (15 M.R.S.A. §2131) and review of extradition (15 M.R.S.A. §210-A) cases. "Change in Results" means a reversal, vacation, or substantive modification of the trial court's judgment.

TABLE LC-3

The average time required from notice of appeal to disposition for cases in which written opinions were issued is presented for 1981, 1982, 1983 and 1984 on Table LC-3. Since most non-opinion disposition cases do not complete all of the steps of an opinion disposition, the inclusion of these cases in this table would skew the results, particularly in the early stages. The four sections correspond to (a) work done primarily by trial court clerks and court reporters; (b) work done by the parties' attorneys; (c) pre-argument study by justices and law clerks and scheduling lag; and (d) the actual decision making process and preparation of the opinion. The fifth section traces the cases through the entire Law Court process, from notice of appeal to final disposition.

TABLE LC-4

More complete timeframe data for only 1984 are included on this table, detailing the actual number of cases during each stage of case processing.

The bulk of the written opinions issued by the Law Court continue to involve civil cases, as evidence by this graph tracing the issuance of opinions since 1976.

TABLE LC-6

This table presents the Appellate Division's caseload statistics for the past five years, itemizing filings, dispositions and pending caseload.

SUPERIOR COURT CASELOAD STATISTICS

The data tables contained in this section are organized into four segments, detailing the composition and flow of Superior Court caseload for the past five years. These data are derived from the Superior Court Statistical Reporting System established in 1977. Statistical sheets for each case are prepared manually by Superior Court clerks; these sheets are subsequently keypunched for computerized editing and updating on a monthly basis. Numerous reporting programs provide caseload information for management purposes throughout the year and serve as the source of the data presented in this Annual Report. Definitions of types of cases and dispositions for civil and criminal cases appear on pages 103 and 143 respectively.

In order to determine trends over a period of time, many tables in this 1984 report include information for the years 1980, 1981, 1982 and 1983. As a result of periodic auditing, however, some of these figures may not match those which appeared in previous Annual Report publications, although the variations in most instances are minimal. All figures are presented by calendar year.

It should also be noted that all figures reflecting filings also include refilings. Refilings are cases which were previously disposed, but have returned to the Superior Court for substantial further action. The specific circumstances under which a civil or criminal action is considered a refiling appear on pages 103 and 143 respectively. Refilings constitute from one to two percent of the total caseload.

Summary

Table SC-2 traces the flow of all cases in each of the 16 Superior Court locations since 1980. 1984 marks the second time in recent history that dispositions have exceeded filings, resulting in an actual decrease in pending caseload. As Table SC-3 demonstrates, criminal cases account for over half of the Superior Court's caseload, with civil and URESA cases comprising 35.1% and 8.7% respectively.

Civil Caseload

Graph SC-4 through Table SC-15 provide detailed information concerning the Superior Court's civil caseload. Statewide, 1984 is the third consecutive year in which civil dispositions exceeded civil filings, which is largely the result of a steady decrease in civil filings. Of the 5,764 dispositions during 1984, over 48% were dismissed upon agreement of the parties (Rule 41(a)) while an additional 12% were dismissed by the court after two years of case inactivity. The 192 civil jury trials accounted for about 3% of all dispositions.

Table SC-12 presents timeframe data for the civil pending caseload. As of the end of 1984, the average civil case had been pending for an average of over 18 months, ranging from less than 17 months in Somerset to over 20 months in Hancock and Washington.

The average time required for a case to reach jury trial is presented on Table SC-13. It took an average of about two and one-half years for a civil case to reach jury trial during 1984. It should be noted, however, that the average number of days from filing to pre-trial memorandum, a period over which the courts have little control, alone consumed about one year (see Table SC-15). Table SC-14 summarizes the average number of days required from filing to disposition for civil cases during the last five years. The statewide average has risen by 41 days since 1980 but dropped slightly during the past year. Every Superior Court location reported that civil dispositions required an average of over one year, ranging from 401 days in Somerset to over 600 days in Androscoggin, Aroostook and Hancock. When reviewing this table for individual courts, the detailed 1984 figures on Table SC-15 should also be consulted, since smaller courts may have had few cases from which to calculate an average.

Five key timeframes are measured on Table SC-15:
Filing to Pre-trial Memorandum
Pre-trial Memorandum to Pre-trial Conference
Pre-trial Conference to Jury Trial
Pre-trial Conference to Non-Jury Trial
Filing to Disposition

Although the first two timeframes occur prior to final disposition, it should be noted that these measures cannot be calculated until the information is entered into the computer at the time the case is actually disposed.

The first timeframe is largely a measure of the time required for attorneys to file a pre-trial memorandum after a case has been filed in the Superior Court. Over 35% of the cases required over a year from filing to pre-trial memorandum, with a statewide average of 363 days. The measure from pre-trial memorandum to pre-trial conference reflects the time required to reach conference after the request has been submitted; statewide, this averages 221 days, although cases in Androscoggin consumed considerably more time to complete this phase of civil case processing. The next two timeframes, conference to jury trial and conference to non-jury trial are significant in that they indicate how quickly the court is able to accommodate the demand for trials. However, it should be noted that courts may employ different scheduling policies which may impact these calculations; for instance, some courts may deliberately not schedule pre-trial conferences until the court's ability to schedule a trial is imminent. Nonetheless, an average of 337 days statewide was required for a case to reach jury trial from pre-trial conference, while non-jury trials were held within 253 days. The last timeframe traces the total time required for civil cases to move from filing to disposition, and reflects the total number of cases disposed during 1984. Of the 5,764 cases disposed, over 33% took in excess of two years to reach disposition.

URESA Caseload (Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act)

The Superior Court's URESA caseload is presented on Table SC-16 through SC-19. The number of URESA filings in 1984 represents a 30% decrease from the 1980 level. With a significant rise in dispositions during the past year, the pending caseload dropped to its lowest point since 1980. Pending caseload is always rather misleading with respect to URESA cases, however, since the bulk of the case activity actually occurs during the months and years subsequent to the judge issuing an order and the clerk reporting the case as statistically "disposed".

Criminal Caseload

Criminal caseload in the Superior Court may be counted by either docket number or defendant number. When counted by docket number, the actual number of cases assigned a docket number is reflected. Some courts report multiple-defendant cases more frequently than others, due to differing District Attorney practices, resulting in docket numbers which contain more than one defendant. From a statewide perspective, the issue is not particularly significant, since caseload measured by number of defendants is only a few percent higher than when calculated by docket number. (See Table SC-27). In this report, the core analysis of filings, dispositions and pending caseloads are counted by docket number, as are the types of cases, such as appeals, transfers, indictments, etc. However, classes of charges are counted by defendant, as are types of dispositions and trials. The latter two items are counted by defendant because of the likelihood for the multiple defendants included in a single docket number to be tried and/or disposed in different manners.

Graph SC-20 through Table SC-36 depict the criminal caseload statewide. The number of criminal filings dropped by less than 2% over the past five years, but experienced a 6% drop from 1983 to 1984. Dispositions also dropped, but to a lesser degree, resulting in a 4% decrease in pending caseload. The composition of the criminal caseload has changed during the past few years, as evidenced by the increase in the number of transfers and the dramatic decrease in appeals from the District Court. (See Table SC-24). This has been largely the result of the implementation during 1982 of the so-called "single trial law" which provided that in Class D and E proceedings, the defendant may waive his right to jury trial and elect to be tried in the District Court, but that an appeal to the Superior Court following trial and conviction in the District Court may be only on questions of law. The rate of transfers varies markedly throughout the state, ranging from under 40% in Androscoggin, Aroostook, Hancock and Penobscot to over 60% of the total caseloads in Franklin, Knox, Lincoln and Somerset. Cases involving murder, Class A, Class B and Class C crimes (generally considered to be felonies) constituted 35.6% of the state's criminal caseload.

Boundovers from the District Court create a difficult situation with regard to the counting of cases for statistical purposes. When a boundover is filed in the Superior Court, it statistically remains a "boundover" type of case even if an indictment results. When a boundover results in an information being filed, however, the District Attorney dismisses the boundover, and a new docket number is assigned for the information. Under such circumstances, the case is actually being counted twice, and the number of District Attorney dismissals is slightly inflated.

Table SC-28 was prepared in order to document the effect of outstanding warrants of arrest upon criminal pending caseload. In general, the assumption has been made that pending caseload serves as an obvious indication of a court's ability or inability to efficiently dispose of cases in relationship to incoming workload. However, in numerous instances, cases may be filed in the Superior Court which cannot be processed because a warrant issued for the defendant is not or cannot be served. Thus, it may be unfair to hold the courts solely responsible for increases in pending caseload which in fact may be beyond their control. Certainly the effect of outstanding warrants upon pending caseload varies considerably throughout the state. Statewide, 31.7% of all criminal pending caseload appears to be a result of outstanding warrants but this varies widely, from less than 15% in Kennebec and Piscataquis to over 40% in Aroostook, Somerset and Waldo.

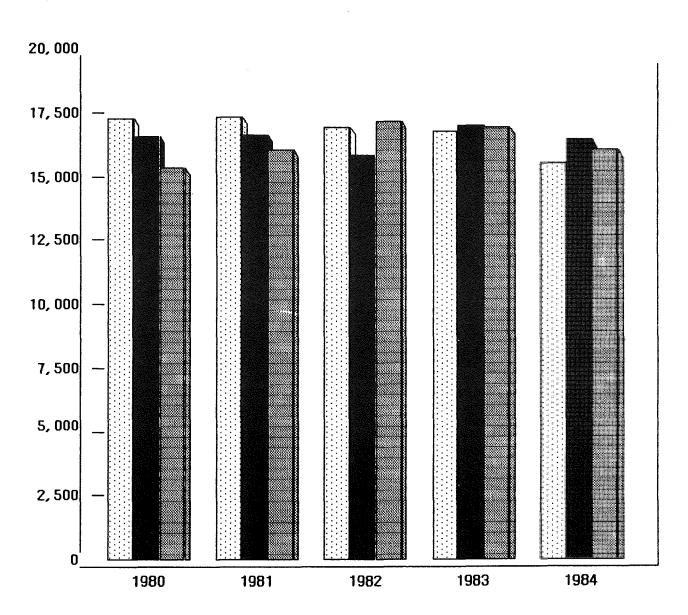

Case disposition data on Tables SC-29 and SC-30 reveal that defendants were convicted in 57.5% of all cases, while dismissals by either the court or the District Attorney accounted for 30% of all dispositions. Of 5,254 convictions, over 90% were by plea of guilty. There were 408 criminal jury trials during 1984 which represents about 4% of all criminal case dispositions. (See Table SC-31).

Table SC-34 portrays the average time required for indictments and transfers to reach a jury trial. Indictments took an average of about six and one-half months to reach a jury trial, 25 days less than in 1983. Table SC-35 includes the average time required to reach final disposition for indictments and transfers. These figures reflect all cases reaching disposition, including those which may have been quickly terminated via dismissal, so the average time is less than for the previous table where all cases culminated in jury trial. When reviewing averages for individual courts, Table SC-36 which refers to the actual numbers of cases should also be consulted, since smaller courts may have had few cases from which to calculate an average.

⁻ Prior to 1984, there were some discrepancies in calculating the number of jury trial days which may have affected the accuracy of these figures. The problem occurred when cases scheduled for trial underwent multiple voir dire (the justice conducted voir dire for several cases on one day, instead of limiting it to the one case facing imminent trial). Since the court clerks were instructed to calculate trial days by rounding to the nearest .5 day, each of four cases voir dired on one day, for example, would have .5 days added to their total trial time, resulting in a total of 2 trial days being reported for only 1 day of actual trial activity.

- 2. When a case appealed to the Law Court returns to the Superior Court for further action.
- 3. When a mistrial occurs and a second trial is required; when a motion for a new trial is granted; or when a case, for any other reason, requires a trial after its original disposition.
- 4. When a motion for relief from judgment is granted, or a case is reinstated on the docket after judgment has been entered (Rule 60(b)).

TYPE OF CASE:

- 1. Damages: An action in which claim for relief is based on physical damage to property or reputation.

- 5. Traffic Infraction Appeals: A Superior Court review of a District Court decision under Title 29.
- 6. Habeas Corpus: The demand of a party to be released from alleged illegal confinement. Pursuant to 15 M.R.S.A. §2129 effective July 1, 1980, petitions for post-conviction relief became criminal proceedings.
- 7. Other Appeals from District Court: A Superior Court review of an action decided in District Court, with the exception of traffic infractions.
- 8. Other: An action which is not included in any of the above categories (e.g., quiet title, legal separation, mechanic's lien, Rule 80B Appeals).

TYPE OF DISPOSITION:

1984 CRIMINAL FILINGS

"Includes "bail review", juvenile appeal", "refiling-probation revocation", "refiling-new trial", and "other".

- * Includes cases filed and refiled
  - Cases counted by docket number
  - Types of cases are defined on page 143 of this report
  - Percentages may not total 100.0 due to rounding
  - Boundovers from the District Court create a difficult situation with regard to the counting of cases for statistical purposes. When a boundover is filed in the Superior Court, it remains a "boundover" type of case even if an indictment results. In 1984, there were actually an additional 163 indictment case dispositions to the 2,634 recorded above. (See Table SC-25 for detail by court location). When a boundover results in an information being filed, the boundover is dismissed and a new docket number is assigned for the information. Under such circumstances, the case is actually being counted twice but it is not believed that this creates a serious statistical problem.

[&]quot; - Counted by docket number

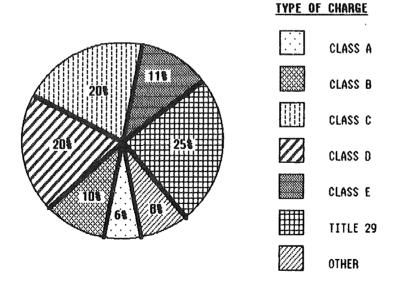

⁻ Counted at the time of case disposition

⁻ Boundovers from the District Court create a difficult situation with regard to the counting of cases for statistical purposes. When a boundover is filed in the Superior Court, it remains a "boundover" type of case even if an indictment results. In 1984, there were actually an additional 163 indictment case dispositions to the 2,634 on Table SC-24. When a boundover results in an information being filed, the boundover is dismissed and a new docket number is assigned for the information. Under such circumstances, the case is actually being counted twice but it is not believed that this creates a serious statistical problem

DISTRICT COURT CASELOAD STATISTICS

The District Court Statistical Reporting System was established in July 1978 to collect information concerning filings, dispositions and various caseload activities by type of case, although the reporting of gross filings and dispositions began in fiscal year 1975. Beginning in 1982, only those statistics relating to filings, dispositions and waivers have been collected. The system is a totally manual operation; monthly statistical forms are completed by each District Court clerk and submitted to the Administrative Office of the Courts for manual compilation and analysis on a quarterly and annual basis. Some discrepancies have arisen during the past several years, primarily due to the enormous volume of cases being manually tallied. While the statistics may be less than 100% accurate, they do nevertheless indicate gross trends since 1980.

It should be noted that much judge and clerk activity occurs after judgment is entered and the case is reported as disposed which is not reflected in these figures. For instance, many divorce cases may require the processing and hearing of numerous motions which are not reported in the caseload statistics. Similarly, when judgment is entered in a small claims case, a disclosure (money judgment) is often filed, requiring a separate filing fee and considerable judge and clerk time. Since the disclosure is filed under the original small claims case docket number, it is never included as a distinct case in the caseload statistics.

The following tables present statistics relating to District Court filings and dispositions for 11 case type categories, waivers and electronic recordings. Footnotes for these tables appear on page 170 of this report. Case type definitions appear on page 171.

Two tables may need clarification. Table DC-3 (Filings, Excluding "Civil Violations and Traffic Infractions") was prepared because civil violations and traffic infractions generally require little judge-time and less than average clerk time than other types of cases. Table DC-6 (Waivers) are disposed cases in which the defendant waives court appearance in favor of paying a fine. The bulk of these waivers are for civil violations and traffic infraction cases, but some sea and shore, and fish and game waivers are also included.

COURT MEDIATION SERVICE CASELOAD STATISTICS

The Court Mediation Service provides an alternative method of resolving disputes by enabling the contesting parties to participate in reaching a settlement. The service was initiated in 1977 as an experiment to accelerate the resolution of small claims cases, but has since been expanded to include landlord-tenant, disclosure and domestic cases. In July, 1984, new legislation was enacted requiring mandatory mediation of contested divorce cases in which minor children are involved, thereby drastically increasing the number of domestic case mediations.

Graph CM-1 displays the number of mediations held statewide during the twelve months of 1984, indicating the dramatic rise in domestic case mediations when the new law became fully operational. Graph CM-2 compares 1984 total caseload with 1983 caseload. Table CM-3 details the number of mediations held in each District Court location by type of disposition, while Table CM-4 includes identical information for the Superior Court.
