COURT MASTER'S PROGRESS REPORT PURSUANT TO PARAGRAPH 299

The following report covers the period from December 1, 2010 to August 1, 2011.

I have extended the usual six-month reporting period in order to include important legislative and administrative developments with respect to the biennial budget.

Introduction

I have previously reported the progress that has been made at Riverview Psychiatric Center over the past several years and have documented the need for additional community mental health services for clients no longer requiring inpatient treatment and awaiting discharge from Riverview to an appropriate community placement. Progress continues at Riverview and the Administration and the Legislature have demonstrated their commitment by funding an adequate remedy for any remaining issues of constitutional or statutory significance at the hospital. Accordingly, in this report I recommend that the Court exercise its supervisory powers under the consent decree and consider withdrawing active supervision of Riverview Psychiatric Center, subject to certain conditions (including the Department's continued quarterly reporting with reference to the hospital and the ability of the Court to reinstate active supervision in the future should circumstances change). Withdrawal of active supervision at Riverview would not terminate the Consent Decree nor Riverview's performance obligations thereunder. The operation of Riverview would remain subject to the continuing jurisdiction of the Court, and the Consent Decree would remain enforceable.

Active supervision of the community-based mental health system, however, should continue at least until the Department demonstrates that core mental health services identified in the approved Consent Decree Plan are reasonably available throughout the geographic areas of the State and that it has the ability to assign caseworkers in a timely fashion to clients in hospitals and in the community..

Background

Because this report recommends that the Court consider the withdrawal of active supervision of the Riverview Psychiatric Center, a brief background is in order. The 1990 Consent Decree and incorporated Settlement Agreement (sometimes, collectively, the Consent Decree) were grounded in allegations that the Department had failed to meet certain constitutional, statutory, and regulatory standards and had thereby deprived AMHI clients of certain fundamental rights, including freedom from restraint, adequate medical care, treatment in the least restrictive setting, and accessible community support services. See, e.g., U.S. Const. amend. XIV; Me. Const. art. I, §§1, 6-A; 34-B M.R.S. §§ 1430, 3003, 3004. I will not relate the twenty-year history of the case here, for that is well-known to the parties and has been thoroughly set forth elsewhere, including in Bates v. Dept. of Behavioral and Developmental Services, 2004 ME 154, 863 A.2d 890. The important milestone in that history for purposes of the Court's supervision today is the most recent comprehensive workplan developed by the Department (in conjunction with stakeholders) and approved in 2006, which described in detail the steps the Department must take to demonstrate substantial compliance with the Consent Decree (“2006 Plan”).

The 2006 Plan is based on the principles of individualized treatment, respect for clients, flexibility, and community-based support set forth in the Consent Decree, but also incorporates “contemporary thinking on the necessary ingredients for reforming mental health services,” including legislative changes. (See 2006 Plan at 2, 6, 42.) The Plan establishes performance and compliance standards tied to the Consent Decree provisions and statutory requirements; these standards provide a means of measuring the Department’s progress towards compliance with the Consent Decree. In very summary form, the standards address the following goals:

Riverview Psychiatric Center

- Consumer-centered, innovative, recovery-focused hospital-based care appropriately integrated with community-based care
(e.g., individualized inpatient treatment plan within seven days of admission; engagement of peer support specialists; minimal use of seclusion and physical restraints; competent and qualified staff; timely responses to client grievances)
- High quality mental health care within the least restrictive and most appropriate setting
(e.g., appropriate admission procedures; coordination with community providers for the timely transition into appropriate community placements (within 7 and no more than 45 days from date of clinical readiness); development of additional community-based resources)
- Professional administration that ensures delivery of appropriate care within available fiscal resources
(e.g., monitor and evaluate hospital functions through consistent and timely reporting; reduce medication errors, client elopements, and client injuries; ensure appropriate administering of antipsychotic medications)

2006 Plan at 83-98.

Community Mental Health System

- Rights, Dignity, and Respect
(e.g., treating clients with respect as individuals; addressing grievances in timely fashion; informing clients of their rights)
- Community Integration/Community Support Services/Individualized Support Planning
(e.g., timely assignment of case managers; consideration of client's physical and psychological needs; services provided by state-licensed agencies)
- Community Resources and Treatment Services
(e.g., adequate and flexible array of residential support services and housing alternatives; housing near community services; effective crisis intervention services 24/7; family support; vocational support; transportation; recreation)
- System Outcomes: Supporting the Recovery of Adults with Mental Illness
(e.g., functional improvements in clients' lives; recovery support; public education programs)

2006 Plan at 61-79.

In assessing the need to continue active supervision for both Riverview and the community-based health system, I have considered the goals and standards in the 2006 Plan, the Consent Decree, and applicable laws. In this evaluation, I have been guided by the principles enunciated by the United States Supreme Court in Horne v. Flores, 557 U.S. ___, 129 S.Ct. 2579 (2009), and other consent decree cases¹ that have considered the circumstances justifying reduction or termination of court supervision of state programs. While Horne and other decisions have dealt with these issues in the context of federalism concerns and the federal Rule 60(b)(5) standard for relief from judgment – questions not present here – the Horne principle that a court should take a flexible approach when evaluating whether it should continue to monitor a state's compliance with constitutional and statutory obligations is instructive and persuasive, if not controlling. In short, the rationale is that the ordinary processes of democratic governance should be disturbed by ongoing court enforcement of a consent decree only so long as there are ongoing constitutional and statutory violations.² Even though in this Report I do not recommend termination of the Consent Decree, I have followed Horne's flexible approach to evaluate the need for continued active supervision of the Riverview facility, and asked whether the Department has met the objectives, if not the precise letter, of the 1990 Consent Decree and 2006 Plan and whether it has implemented a "durable remedy" to the constitutional and statutory violations these documents sought to cure. Horne, 129 S. Ct. at 2595.

Overview of Conditions

Riverview Psychiatric Center

At the end of 2010, I asked Elizabeth Jones, the former court-appointed receiver of AMHI and an experienced authority on psychiatric hospitals to conduct a site visit to Riverview. After reviewing a number of randomly selected treatment plans and progress notes, Ms. Jones spent two days interviewing clients and staff, including peer support workers and advocates. At the conclusion of her visit, she noted no serious shortcomings or deficiencies and commented that the discharge process at Riverview works extremely well. She made a number of recommendations that have been discussed with the Superintendent and implemented appropriately.

In my last Progress Report as it relates to Riverview, dated December 25, 2010, I observed that although some of the goals in the 1990 Consent Decree remained to be accomplished, considerable progress had been made by the Department in several critical areas, as evidenced by the steps it has taken to implement the 2006 Plan for Riverview to meet the Consent Decree objectives. I outlined the key areas where, at that time, deficiencies identified in the 2006 Plan had been satisfactorily resolved at Riverview: in addition to having the new modern physical facility, it is no longer overpopulated and is even below capacity with no waiting list for admission on either the civil or forensic side (from time to time wait lists are experienced on both sides of the hospital); clients are provided Individualized Support Plans; its elopement, medication error rate and readmissions within 30 days continue to remain below the national mean; restraint and seclusion policies are in place and the hospital performs within one standard deviation of the national mean; an improved monitoring system for the use of prn medications when used coercively for behavior control has been implemented; there has been significant improvement in the completion of employee performance evaluation reports, AIMS³ testing for adverse reactions to psychotropic medications, and the timely filing of institutional reports for forensic clients; the discharge process is managed by a very capable staff; discharge for civil clients is now timely and effective and continues to improve; the discharge process on the forensic side of the hospital is also greatly improved although inhibited by the unavailability of non-MaineCare funding for community services. I recommended that in order to meet the State's obligations assumed under the Consent Decree, Riverview's budget and staffing should continue to be maintained at then current levels.

² The Law Court may have anticipated the ruling in Horne when, in dictum, it questioned the degree to which the department heads and clients of the departments could unilaterally bind the State in the absence of legislative authorization. See Bates v. Dept. at 907. At the very least, it would seem imprudent to seek to continue active court supervision solely on the basis of provisions in the settlement agreement that are unrelated to violations of law.

³ Abnormal Involuntary Movement Scale

Since my last report, progress has continued at Riverview. Although key performance indicators ebb and flow, they are monitored and responded to appropriately. Most importantly, budget and staffing have been maintained. Riverview, with its mix of long- and short-term civil and forensic clients, presents a challenging environment for management. Processes are in place to effectively deal with the inevitable complaints and grievances. For example, the Superintendent holds a forum on a monthly basis, in the absence of staff, with clients and peer service workers and encourages the discussion of any concerns that clients might have with respect to hospital operations. Typically, the Superintendent will report back at the next forum on any matters that were discussed without immediate resolution. I attend most of these sessions and there is a very open and honest discussion of issues that arise, including any complaints regarding disrespect on the part of staff.

The lingering question of constitutional dimension involves the inability of the hospital, on occasion, to release clients to less restrictive community-based programs due to insufficient funding of community services for clients ineligible for MaineCare services. The incidence of clients being stuck in the hospital awaiting community placement, after achieving clinical readiness, has been reduced significantly. For the past several months there have been no more than one or two civil clients at any given point in time whose discharge was delayed beyond forty-five days. Forensic clients often experience more delay, even after satisfying court-imposed restraints, because of funding and placement issues.

Although the discharge performance of the hospital generally represents a significant improvement over past history, more exacting adherence to the discharge criteria set forth in the approved 2006 Plan and the underlying legal standard is required. See Olmstead v. L.C., 527 U.S. 581, 587 (1999) (community placement is required “when the State’s treatment professionals have determined that community placement is appropriate, the transfer from institutional care to a less restrictive setting is not opposed by the affected individual; and the placement can be reasonably accommodated, taking into account the resources available to the state and the needs of others with mental disabilities”). The funding described below demonstrates the State’s commitment to obtain full compliance with these discharge standards.

Community Mental Health System

With regard to the community mental health system, my last report identified the primary deficiency as the unavailability of mental health services for the segment of the population that is not eligible for MaineCare. In the last two years, the withdrawal of State funding for clients ineligible for MaineCare has hampered the Department’s ability to expand these services to the level envisioned by the Consent Decree. Indeed, in this area, the Department has lost some of the ground it once held by shifting costs too aggressively to Medicaid, virtually destroying the safety net of services that was previously available for that portion of the low income population ineligible for MaineCare. Thus, in order to address the unmet needs in the community and in clients awaiting discharge from Riverview, I encouraged and endorsed the Department’s request for an additional $4.6 million in the Department’s annual budget for non-MaineCare services, and $1 million for additional rental assistance for both MaineCare and non-MaineCare clients.

A summary of the progress reported by the Department in the community mental health system is set forth in the attached Report on Compliance Plan Standards. It is significant to note all 119 of the system development components set forth in the 2006 Plan are reported as completed or deleted. Although only two of the compliance standards have been certified as completed, there is substantial progress, if not compliance, with respect to a majority of them. The principal areas of continuing concern relate to the Department's inability to assign caseworkers in a timely fashion to either those who are hospitalized or in the community and its inability to reliably measure and address the unmet service needs of persons with severe and persistent mental illness. Both of these problems are in large part a function of funding.

Budget Developments

The regular session of the Maine Legislature recently enacted a budget for FY 2012 and 2013 and it has been signed by the Governor. The budget includes in the first year of the biennium an appropriation of an additional $5,659,250 for both mental health services for individuals not eligible for MaineCare and for housing services "in order to conform to the consent decree." In the second year, only the housing services were included for $995,000. Part XX of the budget document, however, requires the Department to report to the Joint Standing Committee on Appropriations and Financial Affairs and the Joint Standing Committee on Health and Human Services no later than February 1, 2012, regarding the implementation of the additional FY12 funding for mental health services. The report is required to include recommendations from the Court Master with reference to funding for FY13. Although full funding is secured for only one year of services, I am satisfied that both the Administration and the Legislature have expressed a commitment to provide a “durable remedy” and to fund the mental health services that are reasonably required to prevent any ongoing violations of law. In this year of tight resources, the Legislature deferred the full funding of the second year in order to have the benefit of the experience gained during the first half of the first year of the biennium. I am currently working with the Department to allocate the additional funds among the various categories of mental health services and to insure that the funds are prioritized and readily available to address the needs of those awaiting discharge from Riverview. The remaining funds, which should be the major portion, will be used in the community to address the needs of those with severe and persistent mental illness who are assigned to wait lists for mental health services. The report to the legislative committees in February will be crucial in securing adequate funding for the second year of the biennium.

Conclusion

I conclude that we have reached the point where active Court supervision of the Riverview Psychiatric Center is no longer necessary to enforce the terms of the Consent Decree. This conclusion is based on the operational progress that has been made at Riverview over a number of years, the demonstrated commitment of the officials of our State to maintain the staff and budget of the hospital and to fund the community services that are necessary to permit timely discharges to less restrictive community placements, and adequate mechanisms in place to maintain progress and ensure continued compliance.

Progress to date: As described earlier in this Report, Riverview has largely achieved each of the three broad goals in the 2006 Plan although there is a continuing need to reduce the use of seclusion and restraint and to further promote the implementation of recovery principles.

State commitment: The staff and budget of the hospital have been maintained even in a period of declining state revenue. The recently enacted budget includes the full appropriation for both mental health services for individuals not eligible for MaineCare and for housing services for the first full year of FY12 that was requested by the Department, and there is a process in place to secure the appropriation required for the second full year. I am satisfied that the Department and the Administration are committed to maintaining the staff and budget of the hospital and providing the necessary funding to meet their Consent Decree obligations.

Adequate mechanisms: Adequate mechanisms in the form of systems developed by the Department to monitor Riverview's responsiveness to client needs and measure performance in the areas covered by the 2006 Plan, as well as new and pre-existing statutes that protect the rights of hospital clients and provide avenues to pursue prompt remedies, are now in place and will help ensure continued quality of care at Riverview.

These mechanisms include:

- Monitoring and reporting systems are in place as set forth in the quarterly reports of the hospital.
- Independent client advocates affiliated with the Disability Rights Center of Maine, peer service workers on hospital staff, and regular client access to counsel for the plaintiffs under the Consent Decree are available.
- The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), enacted at almost the same time as the entry of the Consent Decree, was for that reason not one of the statutes the Department was alleged to have violated, but nonetheless applies to the Department's activities today. Construed by the Supreme Court in Olmstead v. L.C., 527 U.S. 581 (1999), the ADA prevents the Department from discriminating against institutionalized individuals in administering its community-based treatment programs. Id. at 587, 603 n. 14, 607; see also Bates v. Dept. of Behavioral & Developmental Servs., 2004 ME 154 ¶59.

- The Civil Rights of Institutionalized Persons Act (CRIPA), 42 U.S.C. § 1997a et seq., protects the constitutional and federal statutory rights of persons confined in certain institutions owned or operated by, or on behalf of, state or local governments. The Act authorizes the U.S. Attorney General to investigate covered facilities to determine whether there is a pattern or practice of violations of residents' federal rights. Investigations often involve issues such as the adequacy of discharge planning and necessary support services when patients return to the community.
- The Consumer Council System of Maine established by statute in 2007 is specifically charged with providing an effective consumer voice to promote high quality mental health services, and particularly with regard to the Consent Decree. See 34-B M.R.S. § 3611(1) (“The council system exists as an independent public instrumentality of the State to provide guidance and advice from consumers of adult mental health services provided or funded by the State regarding the delivery of effective and appropriate adult mental health services consistent with the State's comprehensive mental health services plan and to comply with the consent decree and incorporated settlement agreement in the case of Paul Bates, et al. v. Robert Glover, et al., Kennebec County Superior Court, Civil Action Docket No. CV-89-88 dated August 2, 1990.”). As an example, one of its assigned duties is “assessment of the quality of services and delivery systems” of the Department. Id. § 3611(3)(B).
- The Joint Commission (TJC, formerly the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations) periodically inspects the hospital unannounced for the purposes of accreditation. The last survey was in November of 2010. Surveys usually occur every three years but may be repeated after 18 months.
- Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) has its own survey procedure that may involve unannounced visits or review and acceptance of TJC survey. The last full federal survey was in November of 2007.
- The hospital is licensed by DHHS as an acute care hospital on an annual basis. The DHHS licensing division responds to complaints from anyone and reports of sentinel events or client abuse by the hospital. With the exception of sentinel events, visits are unannounced and occur on average every two months.
- The ACT team operated by the hospital is also licensed by the State and subject to unannounced review.

I suggest to the Court that these measures, taken together, represent a durable remedy to the constitutional and statutory deficiencies addressed in the Consent Decree and 2006 Plan with regard to the Riverview Psychiatric Center. See Horne, 129 S. Ct. at 2595.⁴ I accordingly recommend that the Court exercise its general supervisory authority pursuant to ¶ 12 of the Consent Decree (Settlement Agreement)⁵ to suspend active supervision of the Riverview Psychiatric Center.

Although improvements have also been made by the Department in the community-based health system, I do not recommend that active supervision of the Court be withdrawn at this point in time. The reliability of the Department's unmet needs reports has not been established and is questionable. Although the needs of clients at Riverview can easily be verified, the unmet needs in the greater community deserve further investigation. In fact, the methodology used to estimate the budget request focused on the number of persons affected by the cuts in non-MaineCare services since FY08 rather than an estimate of current needs. Finally, the rates that are paid for community mental health services have been revised. Thus the Department will have to arrive at a reasonable estimate of needs, allocate the additional funds to meet those needs, and distribute those funds in an efficient manner to achieve maximum benefit. In short, additional work remains in order to effectively measure and address the unmet needs in the community and to assure the timely assignment of case managers.

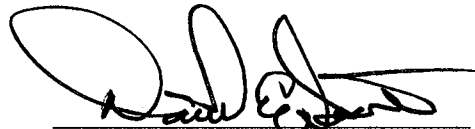

The Consent Decree should remain in effect, however, even with respect to Riverview. This would permit plaintiffs to seek injunctive relief if necessary under ¶ 7 of the Consent Decree and ¶ 303 of the Settlement Agreement, and would allow reimposition of active supervision at Riverview if warranted. The Department should continue to submit quarterly reports of both Riverview (supplemented by weekly civil discharge plan and community standards reports) and community-based services, pursuant to ¶ 280 of the Settlement Agreement, to the Court Master and counsel for the plaintiffs.

⁵ Paragraph 12 provides: "Until the Agreement's termination pursuant to the terms of the Consent Decree, the parties hereby consent to the court's continuing supervision in this matter, until further order of the Court, and to its authority to interpret the provisions of this Agreement, to review and adopt plans necessary to implementation of its terms, to modify its terms as may be needed to effect its purposes, and to take appropriate actions within its equitable powers to ensure its enforcement and the fulfillment of its terms and purposes."
