This bill adds an examination to the qualification requirements for dietitians and changes the terminology from registration to licensing. The word licensing would be consistent with the previously referenced study for a regulation program such as the one proposed.

The bill prohibits the practice of dietetics without a license. This is the first time that there has been this prohibition.

Committee Amendment A: This amendment incorporates the changes proposed in the original bill including the prohibiting of practicing dietetics without a license, an examination for becoming licensed, and provisions for temporary licenses, including scope of practice and authorization for the board to adopt rules. An examination is required of all applicants, including those who currently are registered.

In addition, it includes changes proposed at the public hearing, including exemptions for persons giving out general nutrition-related information, persons marketing food products or dietary supplements, weight loss programs and other licensed professionals. It establishes an experience requirement (2 months) and an examination requirement for dietetic technicians, as suggested by the board.

It clarifies that one member of the board shall be a dietetic technician and conforms the licensing language to the statement of purpose currently in the law.

The Committee has determined that the provisions of this bill do not constitute substantially expanding the scope of the Board of Licensing of Dietetic Practice within the meaning of 5 MRSA section 12015 subsection 3.

LD AN ACT TO ADD HARDWARE STORES TO THE LIST OF 489 BUSINESSES ALLOWED TO OPERATE ON SUNDAYS

LVWD

Sponsor: CAHILL, Small, Holt
Committee Report: LVWD

SUMMARY: Places of business are forbidden to be open to the public on the "Lords' Day" except for works of necessity, emergency or charity. Exemptions are given for the period between Thanksgiving and Christmas and for stores employing no more than 5 persons.

Many types of businesses are exempted from this provision. Among these are greenhouses, seasonal stands, boat dealers, sporting goods stores, and real estate brokers. This bill adds hardware stores to the list of exempted businesses.
