SUMMARY

This bill, as amended, revises the shoreland property transfer law to allow more time for the implementation of the law along with the development of departmental rules describing the scope of the subsurface wastewater treatment system inspection necessary for the compliance. The amended bill directs the Department of Human Services to report back to the Legislature with any recommendations on implementation that it finds necessary.

The bill also provides protection for all transfers of shoreland property that occurred between September 29, 1987 (the effective date of the original law, P.L. 1987, chap. 381) and the effective date of this bill, October 19, 1987.
