SUMMARY

The existing law allows members who remarry after retirement to add their new spouse as a retirement beneficiary if they remarry before age 70 and are in good health. The bill eliminates the age 70 limitation. In addition, the committee amendment eliminated the requirement of good health and added a requirement that the new spouse would not be covered until they had been married for 6 months.

SUMMARY

This bill would have prohibited the Maine State Retirement System from investing in corporations that do business in Northern Ireland if the corporations do not comply with the MacBride Principles. The committee amendment eliminated the principle requiring the employer to protect the safety of employees "while traveling to and from work." It retained the provision for the employer to protect the safety of workers "while at the workplace." The Governor vetoed the bill and submitted an alternative -- see LD 2628.
