SUMMARY
LD 1993 proposed to create a computer services section within the Division of Administrative Services in the Department of Professional and Financial Regulation. The computer services section, by law, would be responsible for processing and issuing original licenses and renewed licenses for the department, its bureaus, and the boards associated or affiliated with the department.

The intent of the bill is to structurally and administratively make the computer services section available to the entire department. The computer services section, which has been located within the Licensing and Enforcement Division, assists the 30 or more professional and occupational licensing boards affiliated with the department.

Of the approximately 60,000 licensees registered with or licensed by the department, roughly 50% are professional and occupational licensees under the Licensing and Enforcement Division. The remaining 50% are licensees regulated by the Bureau of Insurance and the Bureau of Banking. The budgets of the Bureau of Insurance and the Bureau of Banking contain appropriations to fund a portion of the computer services operation.
