SUMMARY

Current law allows schools to charge fees which are based on per pupil costs for driver education courses. However, if a fee is charged, the law prohibits schools granting credit for driver education. This bill would have allowed schools to grant credit for such courses.

During committee deliberations, a concern was raised over the constitutionality of granting credit for courses for which a fee is charged in light of the requirement of a free public education in the Maine Constitution. The committee amendment directs the Department of Educational and Cultural Services (with the assistance of the Attorney General) to study the issue of granting credit for fee-based driver education courses and to report to the Legislature in December, 1988.
