SUMMARY

Current law requires all licensed private investigators to first pass a firearms proficiency exam unless they had law enforcement firearms training. Licensed private investigators are exempt, under current law, from the concealed firearms permit law. The original bill would eliminate the firearms proficiency requirement for private investigators, and would eliminate the concealed firearms permit exemption for new private investigators.

Committee Amendment "A" (S-316) instead continues the concealed firearms permit exemption for private investigators while in the course of duty. In addition, any private investigator who wishes to carry a firearm in the course of work must pass a firearms proficiency exam or meet its equivalent.

SUMMARY

Current law prohibits landlords from charging "unreasonable or unjust" rents, but the provisions are vague and generally ineffective. The original bill would strengthen the law by defining in specific terms what constitutes unreasonable or unjust rent for mobile home park lots rents.

Committee Amendment "A" (H-668) removes the emergency and creates the Manufactured Housing Commission to study the issue of unreasonable rents and other concerns regarding mobile homes and other manufactured housing. The Commission will report back to the Legislature by December, 1989. See also LD 2147.
