The bill provides for search and rescue training of all marine patrol officers, an inventory of potential safety hazards, the identification of landmarks for the identification of rescue locations and the acquisition of necessary rescue equipment.

Funding for expanded responsibilities would be provided by changing the allocation to the Department of Marine Resources of revenues attributable to the gas tax on recreational boating from 20% to 50%.

The Committee amendment granted authority to the Bureau of Marine Patrol to provide search and rescue services and provided for a study commission to review the issue and report back to the 114th Legislature.
