House amendment "A" (H-1158) designates the Department of Marine Resources as the state agency responsible for administering any national seafood inspection program implemented by the federal government and requires that such a program conform to the Maine food law. In order to avoid duplication of inspection, the amendment exempts state facilities enrolled in a national seafood inspection program from licensing under the Maine food law. The amendment also strikes language in the committee amendment pertaining to the authority of the Maine Sardine Council to embargo sardines, kippers or steaks and adds a section that resolves a conflict created by the enactment of 2 Public Laws amending the same subsection. An application clause is also added that gives municipalities until July 1, 1993 to bring shellfish conservation ordinances into compliance with the shellfish license fee changes enacted in the bill.

SUMMARY

The intent of this bill was to provide for the stocking of Maine rivers using commercially raised aquaculture salmon stock. The bill would have required the Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife to adopt rules to carry out the stocking program.

Committee amendment "A" (H-3038) strikes all reference to the Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife and inserts in its place references to the Atlantic Sea Run Salmon Commission. The amendment also changes the language in the bill to permit, rather than to require, the acceptance of salmon stock and requires the Atlantic Sea Run Salmon Commission to report to the joint standing committee of the Legislature having jurisdiction over marine resources matters on those stocking activities by March 1, 1993.

SUMMARY

This bill would have required records to be kept on the sale and possession of American oysters and salmon raised by aquaculture. The bill also would have required the Commissioner of Marine Resources and the aquaculture industry to establish an education program to inform the public and enforcement authorities about the illegality of possessing hatchery-reared American oysters and salmon without proper certification.

Committee amendment "A" (H-1016) replaced the entire bill. The amendment establishes a cultchless American oyster growers license at an annual fee of $10 and makes the possession of a cultchless American oyster prior to the point of retail sale a Class D crime, subject to a penalty of not less than $1,000,
