SUMMARY

This bill replaces the existing law requiring railroad companies to remove flammable materials. This bill establishes minimum standards for the maintenance of rights-of-way and requires railroad companies to meet those standards. The bill clarifies when penalties become effective. The bill also provides for a delayed effective date to give railroads time to plan for and meet the standards.

The committee amendment (H-354) clarifies that the Director of the Bureau of Forestry or a state forest ranger is the final authority in defining a flammable material and a fire hazard. Burning to destroy flammable material is excluded from the definition of "railroad-caused fire". Other technical changes are made to clarify the intent of the bill. The amendment also adds a fiscal note to the bill.
