AMENDMENTS ADOPTED
H-131

SUMMARY

This bill establishes an exemption from compliance with the State's workers' compensation laws for a nonresident employee whose employer is also out of state while the employee is temporarily working in Maine if that employer can show that workers' compensation coverage is in place in the other state and the other state's laws are reciprocal to Maine's laws. The benefits provided under the other state's laws are the exclusive remedy for any such employee injured in this State.

COMMITTEE AMENDMENT "A" (H-131) achieves the same objectives as the original bill but limits the applicability of the exemption by restricting it to employment activities that do not exceed 5 consecutive days, 10 days in a 30-day period or 30 days in a 360-day period. The amendment also clarifies that the out-of-state employer and employee must be covered by the workers' compensation laws of the other state while the employee is temporarily working in Maine. The amendment also permits the Workers' Compensation Board to enter into reciprocal agreements with agencies from other states adopting similar legislation and adds a fiscal note to the bill.

SUMMARY

The arbitration procedures under the collective bargaining laws for municipal employees provide that arbitration is not binding on wages, pensions and insurance. This bill would have included those economic issues within the scope of binding arbitration for municipal employees. The bill provided for arbitration through the so-called "issue-by-issue last best offer" method. Under this method, each party submits a list of proposed contract provisions in separate numbered paragraphs before arbitration begins. Arbitration proceeds on only those paragraphs that the parties are unable to agree upon. Each party files a final "last best offer" on each unresolved item along with any necessary cost data relating to that item. The arbitrators must then select one "last best offer" of the parties on each disputed issue; the arbitrators may not choose a resolution of a disputed issue other than as offered by one or the other party. The discretion of arbitrators in making their decisions is limited by 11 specific criteria that must be considered. The bill would have provided that once the arbitrators' decision is
