AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

H-504

SUMMARY

This bill amends the laws governing inspection of elevators and lifts. It allows the supervising inspector to examine and qualify elevator inspectors who do not work for the State. Examination and licensing fees for elevator inspectors and tramway inspectors are set by the Board of Elevator and Tramway Safety within statutory limits. The bill provides standards for revocation of an elevator inspector's license. Licensed elevator inspectors are allowed to perform periodic inspections with the period of inspection set by the board based on class, size and usage of the elevator. The bill increases the allowable fine for use of a condemned elevator or tramway to a maximum of $500. The bill allows a licensed elevator inspector to perform both initial and periodic inspections and allows the supervising inspector to permit a licensed inspector to retain the inspection fee in accordance with standards to be set by board rules. The bill also modifies the reporting requirements to apply to both licensed tramway and licensed elevator inspectors.

COMMITTEE AMENDMENT "A" (H-504) requires the Board of Elevator and Tramway Safety to adopt by rule the requirements necessary to sit for the elevator inspector exam and the standards for the audit and review of inspections performed by elevator inspectors not employed by the State. The amendment adds a provision allowing an elevator mechanic to inspect elevators if the mechanic has an inspection endorsement to the mechanic's license. The amendment allows the board to file a complaint with the Administrative Court to remove an inspection endorsement from an elevator mechanic's license. The amendment also removes the provision in the bill that would have allowed the initial inspection of an elevator to be made by an elevator inspector not employed by the State. The amendment requires the fees for inspections to be paid to the State and adds a fiscal note to the bill.

S-163

SUMMARY

The federal unemployment compensation amendments of 1993 require states to establish a system of profiling new claimants for unemployment benefits. The purpose of this system is to identify which claimants will be likely to exhaust benefits and need job search assistance services, to refer such claimants to reemployment services and to collect follow-up information relating to these services and the employment outcomes. Part of the requirement in federal law is that state unemployment laws must be modified to make participation in reemployment services a condition of benefit eligibility for individuals profiled as likely to exhaust unemployment benefits and need job search assistance. This bill creates this new benefit eligibility requirement.

COMMITTEE AMENDMENT "A" (S-163) provides that if a person is referred to reemployment services, that person can satisfy the participation requirement through completion of a comparable program. The amendment includes a definition of good cause for the individual's failure to participate. The amendment also adds a fiscal note to the bill.
