ONE HUNDRED EIGHTEENTH LEGISLATURE FIRST REGULAR AND FIRST SPECIAL SESSIONS

Summary Of Legislation Before The Joint Standing Committees August 1997

We are pleased to provide this summary of bills that were considered by the 15 Joint Standing Committees of the Maine Legislature staffed by this office. The document is a compilation of bill summaries which describe each bill, committee amendments and other relevant amendments, as well as the final action taken on the bill. Also included are statistical summaries of bill activity this Session for the Legislature and each of its joint standing committees.

The document is organized for convenient reference to information on bills handled by the joint standing committees. It is organized alphabetically by committees and within committees by bill (LD) number. The committee report(s), prime sponsor for each bill and the lead co-sponsor(s), if designated, are listed below each bill title. All adopted amendments are listed by paper number. Two indices, a subject index and a numerical index by LD number are provided for easy reference to bills. They are located at the back of the document. A separate publication, History and Final Disposition of Legislative Documents, may also be helpful in providing information on the disposition of bills. These bill summaries also are available at the Law and Legislative Reference Library and on the Internet (www.state.me.us/legis/opla).

David E. Boulter, Director Offices Located in the State House, Rooms 101/107/135 order by reducing the amount of each installment or by allowing more time for the convicted person to make payments or perform services.

The amendment also proposed to establish an enforcement mechanism by requiring a person who defaulted on payment of restitution to return to court.

The amendment would have allowed that execution be levied and other measures authorized for the collection of unpaid civil judgments be taken to collect defaulted restitution. The amendment proposed that persons authorized to disburse an organization's assets could be personally liable for failing to pay the organization's restitution.

The amendment also proposed to add a fiscal note.

Enacted law summary

Public Law 1997, chapter 413 requires the court to consider an offender's present and future ability to pay when imposing restitution and specifies that the burden lies on the offender to prove an incapacity to pay restitution.

Public Law 1997, chapter 413 places an affirmative duty on the offender to seek from the court a modification of the time or method of payment or service before a default occurs. It allows a court to modify its prior order by reducing the amount of each installment or by allowing more time for the convicted person to make payments or perform services. The option of allowing the court to revoke the unpaid portion of the restitution in whole or in part has been removed as an apparent unconstitutional intrusion into the Governor's exclusive postconviction pardon power. See State v. Hunter, 447 A.2d 797 (Me. 1982).

Public Law 1997, chapter 413 also establishes an enforcement mechanism by requiring a person who defaults on payment of restitution to return to court. The attorney for the State or the court may initiate a motion to enforce payment of restitution. The court must find an offender's default unexcused, unless the offender shows by a preponderance of the evidence that the offender did not intentionally or knowingly refuse to obey the court order or fail to make a good-faith effort to obtain the funds required to make payment. An offender whose default is unexcused may be incarcerated for 6 months or for one day for every $5 of unpaid restitution, whichever is shorter.

Execution may be levied and other measures authorized for the collection of unpaid civil judgments may be taken to collect defaulted restitution. Finally, persons authorized to disburse an organization's assets may be personally liable for failing to pay the organization's restitution.

Amendments Adopted

LD 910 proposed to amend the Maine Revised Statutes, Title 15, chapter 505, relating to the detention of juveniles, to provide that in situations when the juvenile was involved in criminal activity, the court could order supplemental supervision. Juveniles found to be in violation of the court order could be taken into custody pending a court hearing and further disposition. Parents who did not comply could be fined up to $100 per each day of noncompliance.
