An Act To Amend the Laws Affecting the Judicial Branch Regarding Railroad Trespass Civil Violations and Fines for Civil Violations

PUBLIC 329

Sponsor(s)	Committee Report	Amendments Adopted
MOONEN M KEIM L	OTP-AM	H-591

This bill authorizes the Chief Judge of the District Court to establish a schedule of the fines to be imposed on individuals charged with specific civil violations who wish to waive their rights to contest the charges in court and instead admit to committing the violations.

The bill also reclassifies as "traffic infractions" rather than "civil violations" first-, second- and third-offense civil railroad trespasses involving walking or standing on a railroad track or bridge without permission. By reclassifying these offenses, the bill allows these offenses to be processed by the District Court's violations bureau in the same way that traffic infractions are processed.

Committee Amendment "A" (H-591)

This amendment clarifies that when the Chief Judge of the District Court establishes the schedule of fines for civil violations to be imposed on persons charged with civil violations who wish to admit to the violations and waive their rights to contest the charges in court, the fines on the schedule must be within the limits prescribed by law.

Enacted Law Summary

Public Law 2017, chapter 329 authorizes the Chief Judge of the District Court to establish, within the limits prescribed by law, a schedule of the fines to be imposed on individuals charged with specific civil violations who admit to committing the violations and agree to waive their rights to contest the charges in court.

Chapter 329 also reclassifies as "traffic infractions" rather than "civil violations" first-, second- and third-offense civil railroad trespasses involving walking or standing on a railroad track or bridge without permission. Once reclassified, these offenses can be processed by the District Court's violations bureau in the same way that traffic infractions are processed.
